Westerly members and friends of Palestine temple, of Providence, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, have been attending during the present week the Shrine circus at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet. The attendance was over seven thousand on the opening night.

Worshipful Master Frank L. Friend of the West Side and Past Grand Master Thomas McKenzie of Westerly, members of Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, F. and A. M., were among the Westerly Masons in attendance at the communication of Brainard lodge, F. and A. M., in New London, Tuesday night when the Master Mason degree was worked in full form.

This (Thursday) afternoon two classes of Westerly High school girls are to hold gymnasium exercise in the Wilcox Memorial and Public Library gymnasium.

No. 35 is a popular call just now on the bell of the Westerly fire department. It was sounded again Wednesday night about 6.50, for a brush fire on the South road near the Hopkinton meeting house bridge, over the Pawcatuck river. Dr. William Thompson, of the Potter Hill road telephoned in the call and R. I. No. 1 truck with Fire Chief Egger, Engineers Fassetti and McKenzie, and eight or ten men went up the Potter Hill road and across to the meeting house bridge. The flames had reached the top of the knoll near the bridge and threatened the shack of Christy McConnell, which was surrounded by pine trees. The firemen succeeded in checking the blaze in that locality and returned home, although the brush continued to burn in the lots to the westward.

A return bridge match was played Wednesday evening in the Westerly Cycle club, between the Cycle club team and the bridge team which came to Westerly from the Winthrop club, New London. Six tables were in play for a total of 32 hands, each with bonus for game and hand. The Westerly Cycle club won by 616 points. The table scores follow:

Winthrop—J. C. Keefe, W. L. Miner 2316; W. L. Douglass 2. P. Smith 2396; H. M. Christianson, John Wilbur 2461; Charles M. Butler, James Morrison 2535; Warren W. Hartwell, Mortimer Beckwith 1850; A. M. Beckwith, G. H. Grout 1398. Total 12564.

Westerly Cycle Club—E. K. Parker, Joseph Law 2448; B. J. Christy, F. E. Saunders 1987; John Law, Thomas McGowan 2887; Seth Mayne, William Phillips 690; C. H. Keolb, Louis Carson 2677; Farquhar Smith, John Payne 2591. Total 13180.

Fishermen who plan to enjoy the sport in Connecticut waters this season would do well to look up the law "before wetting a line." The Connecticut legislature in the 1923 session passed legislation on fish which is somewhat changed from previous laws. Divisional lines between inland and marine waters have been established in accordance with Sec. 63 of the fish and game laws, as enacted by the legislature of 1923 by the Connecticut board of fisheries and game, of which Robert R. [illegible] appell of New London is the Nev. London county game warden. A deputy in Pawcatuck is Albert D. Hill.

Nearby New London county waters have been divided as follows:

Pawcatuck river, town of Stonington, marine district, all waters below a line east and southeast (magnetic) from monument "3 to the R. I. line, inland district, all waters above.

Wequetequock cove, town of Stonington, marine district, all waters below N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Inland district, all waters above.

In Pawcatuck river, fishing is restricted so that no person shall erect or continue any pound or weir upon any flat, or other part of the bottom of the Pawcatuck river eastward or westward of its channel, between the first day of June and this (the twentieth day of March) or shall erect or continue any stationary net or like obstruction to the main channel of said river. No person shall fish with mesh or scoop nets in Pawcatuck river, or any of its branches, between sunset on Friday and sunrise on Monday and this (March 20th) to June 1st; and no person shall use more than one net therein.

MYSTIC

A Hartford paper of March 11 has this to say about the Crandall and Crouch families who are known in this section: "Ralph E. Crandall, his wife, and their children, are on their way back to Connecticut from California in order that they may do as they please in the matter of saluting the American flag, according to information from Los Angeles. Crandall had become involved in difficulties in Santa Ana, Calif., with the school authorities when he refused to permit his four children to join in exercises in the school yard in which the national emblem was saluted. Crandall, according to the information from California, went to the Pacific coast, from Quakertown, Ct. There are two Quaker towns in Connecticut, one near Groton and the other near Ledyard, but information was never received from either that the American flag was not subject to reverence by the school children. J. B. Crouch, said to be a relative of Crandall, is also preparing to leave the sunkist portions of the west because of his opposition to the edict relative to flag saluting. He is said to have instructed his children to sit in their seats at school when other children went outside to pay reverence to the flag. Whether, he, too, is longing for the non-patriotic freedom of the Nutmeg state was not made known in the news dispatches. The difficulties in which Crandall found himself was the result of an edict from the school board of Santa Ana that the permit his children to take part in the school exercises or suffer them to be brought before the juvenile authorities as incorrigibles. Crandall thereupon kept the four children from school entirely, and when this was not acceptable to the authorities, he prepared to move from the state. The attitude of the Crandall and Crouch families during the world war was the subject of investigation when the flag incident was made public."

There is at the present time a Quaker school having a dozen or more pupils in Quakertown and this school is said to be independent of state support so perhaps it is in this school that the Crandall and Crouch families anticipate enjoying that freedom to do as they please for which they are said to be leaving the fair western country.

Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ church, Westerly, will be the preacher at the Friday evening Lenten Service at St. Mark's church.

Mystic Rebekah Lodge is to meet Friday evening.

Mrs. Florine Larkin, who has been staying for several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mabbett, returned Wednesday to her home in Westerly.

Mrs. Albert Haley, who has been staying in Middletown, Conn., is the guest of the Misses Burnet.

Albert Witter of Brooklyn, Conn., was a caller here Tuesday.

Sunday, March 23, has been set as the date for the Every Member Canvass of the Methodist church, under the direction of the Finance Committee of the church this day those who are to participate in the canvass will assemble at the church in the afternoon and proceed to call on all constituents of the church in the interests of the year's budget.

C. Lyston Morgan has returned to Chicago after a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Morgan.

Walter T. Fish has returned to Hartford after a visit at his home here.

Everett Earnshaw is confined to his home by illness.

Mrs. George A. Witter has returned to her home in Brooklyn, Conn., after a visit of several weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn.

Hiram Cliff, 86, died Wednesday morning about four thirty, following an illness of several weeks from pneumonia. He was born March 8, 1838 at the old Denison homestead, now the home of Mrs. N. S. Gates, and was the son of Capt. George Denison and his wife Ann Borodell Denison. When a young man he spent several years in New Jersey but later returned to Mystic, where he was well known for his skill at all kinds of wood work. He was a cabinet maker by trade and for many years he had a shop on Pearl street where he was engaged in this work as well as in the restoration of antique furniture. He was of a quiet, home-loving temperament, and was well liked by those who knew him. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Noyes Cliff.

Carl Thompson of Gales Ferry was a business caller here Monday.

Mrs. Alice Ledwidge of Westerly was a caller here Wednesday.

A delegation of about fifty people from Noank Tuesday evening attended the evangelistic service at the Union Baptist church, conducted by Rev. J. M. Currie. Among those who participated in the service were Rev. C. A. Merrill, of Noank, Rev. George F. Jones, and the pastor, Rev. J. G. Osborne. The singing was under the direction of Byron Hatfield and the new hymn books, entitled "The Pilot," were used for the first time.

George E. Tingley is having his house renovated and painted.

The late Hiram Cliff leaves two nephews, Denison Cliff, scenario writer for a film company at Los Angeles, who has just returned from a trip around the world, and Nathaniel Cliff, also of Los Angeles, and a step-son, Roscoe K. Burrows, manager of a car exchange company in New London.

JEWETT CITY

Friends of Mrs. Annie L. Frost regret to learn that she goes about the middle of April to make her home with her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Bedent on the Poquetanuck road. Mrs. Frost came to Jewett City eighteen years ago, in the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company. For twelve years she has lived in Lisbon. She has been a very successful piano instructor, using the same technique taught by Prof. Frank H. Farrell of Norwich. Professor Farrell was so much pleased with the training of some of Mrs. Frost's pupils, that he asked her to become his assistant, but she could not accept the offer.

Undaunted Lodge, K. of P., won the third degree tonight.—adv.

Ralph Nickerson of College Point, a nephew of the late Dr. S. H. Holmes, has been a guest of Mrs. Holmes.

Lester Blanchard has bought a house owned by James Appley, on North Main street.

R. H. Howard has been ill and confined to his bed for a week.

Mrs. Charles A. Anderson has just received a delicious fruit cake from an aunt in England, the gift coming in perfect condition.

The much talked about crow shoot held by the Ashland sportsmen during the past week at the local rifle range proved more interesting than any local shoot held this season.

A large crowd of spectators was on hand to witness the shooting and encouraged the marksmen in their endeavors to exterminate the crows.

The experience gained will no doubt be a big help to the hunters when the drive is made to reduce the vast number of these black marauders in this locality.

During the three days that the contest was in progress the leading positions were held by several of the marksmen and no decision could be given until the final count was taken at the close of the shoot.

The feature of the contest was in the targets which were made to represent a live crow, a die having been engraved from which the local club printer struck off the targets. A sample target has been sent in and is to be copyrighted.

During the contest 1346 crows were exterminated by actual count by the shooters.

Following were the winners who had a score above 86, the score being figured by the percentage of birds killed: A. Legasse 87.4, W. Benjamin 87.2, R. Peppin 87.1, F. Rajll 86.9, H. Lefevre 86.3, A. Stebbins 86.7, G. Miner 86.5, T. Rajll 86.1, A. Harris 85.8, H. Huston 85.6, M. Burke 85.5, H. Fountain 85.3, M. Sambor 84.9, C. Cornell 84.7, F. Burke 84.2, M. Rajll 83.8, A. Desjardine 83.7, R. Peppin 83.5, F. Stanley 83.3, R. Cheney 82.8, J. Gilbert 81.7, L. Guillotte 80.4.

The horse owned by Clifford Langlais and driven by his brother-in-law, slipped in the icy gutter in front of Finn block, and fell in the road, on Wednesday morning, but was not injured seriously.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Christopher and family are soon to go to New Jersey to live.

Stations of the cross and benediction are being observed Sundays, Wednesdays and Fridays at St. Mary's church. The feast of St. Patrick observed Monday night was attended by probably the largest congregation in years. Rev. William A. Keefe of Norwich, delivered an eloquent discourse. A medley of Irish airs was played on the violin by William Driscoll. The senior and junior choirs sang patriotic music.

LYME

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Jewett attended the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards of Essex, last week Tuesday. Burial was at Willimantic.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beebe has been called to Middletown by the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Rollin Brickman.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee entertained a party of friends last Saturday evening. Six tables of whist were played. Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Reynolds received first prizes, Miss Jennie Stark and Ernest Ely had second honors.

One of the latest transfers of real estate is the Clews place, near Hyde Ferry, to New York parties.

Mrs. J. W. Martin, William Marvin and Hallock Martin were at Deep River last week Thursday to attend the funeral of Mrs. W. H. Beebe.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moran of Montville were callers on Mrs. Oscar Ely recently.

We 23,000 Men

Present you the utmost in fine cars

THERE are 23,000 of us building Studebaker cars. Most of us are partners in the business. Thousands of us are stockholders. All of us, after a certain time, get dividends on wages.

All of us, after two years, get vacations with pay. All of us, after one year, get dividends on wages. After five years, that annual dividend adds 10% to our earnings.

The company spends vast sums on co-operative work with us. When we retire, we get pensions.

So Studebaker cars represent the best that we, in combination, know how to offer you.

* * *

Some of us belong to management. If we do better than expected, we get 10% of the excess.

So every man among us does his best to make Studebaker cars supreme.

Our fine backing

Behind us is an honored name. For 72 years Studebaker has been the leader in quality and class.

We have $90,000,000 of assets. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. So Studebaker cars are built by modern and efficient methods.

We have an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. That to maintain and develop Studebaker standards.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 machine and hand operations are performed in manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is a great opportunity for economies and savings.

We have a $10,000,000 body plant, to maintain the Studebaker standard of coach work. There sons, fathers and grandfathers are working together, to build such bodies as Studebaker always built.

These bodies are finished by many operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

The open bodies are upholstered in real leather. The closed bodies in Chase Mohair. That is made from the silky fleece of Angora goats.

We pay for those extras — and others—out of savings. Building our own bodies saves you on some types up to $300 per car.

We never stint

The rule here is to give the utmost in every part and detail.

We have 35 formulas for steel. Each has been demonstrated best for its purpose. On some of these steels we pay 15% premium to get the formulas exact.

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

We give unusual equipment. On some Big-Six models, for instance, we include two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

How we do this

We give you these extra values through quantity production. We build 150,000 cars per year — more than any other fine-car builder. Our large expenses are divided by that enormous output.

We do it by building our own bodies, our own parts. Thus we save outside profits.

We do it because we have up-to-date plants, with all forms of modern equipment.

* * *

The results are these: Beauty, quality and luxury such as no maker can surpass.

Prices far below the usual. Our Light-Six, built by ordinary methods, would sell for from $200 to $400 more. Our Big-Six can be compared only with the highest-priced cars in the world.

Here are 13 models, from $1,025 to $2,685. Each of them offers scores of advantages over any comparable car. They offer such values that the trend toward Studebakers has become overwhelming.

Go analyze the reasons before you buy a quality car.

See how Studebaker gained top place

145,167 people last year paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The sales have almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker growth in fine cars is the marvel of this industry.

Go see the reasons. See the scores of extra values Studebaker offers.

There are 13 models. Prices start at $1025. They go to the highest price a fine car needs to cost.

Don't buy a car for years to come without knowing how Studebaker gained its amazing popularity.

BEFORE TWINS WERE BORN

Was Very Miserable. Felt Lots Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyoena, Wis.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my twins were born because my sister used it and recommended it to me. I was so ill I could scarcely go about my daily work I was in such misery. But after I began taking the second bottle I was feeling lots better. I took three bottles and a half before I was confined and finished the bottle while I was in bed. I got up feeling fine and have taken care of the twins alone ever since. I recommend the Vegetable Compound highly and will sing its praises in the future."—Mrs. IDA GERRITZ, Wyoena, Wis.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after childbirth, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother both before and after childbirth. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and can be taken in safety by nursing mothers.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c; jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Killingly's adjourned annual town meeting, without discussion Wednesday evening, laid an 18-mill tax and fixed the third Monday in April as the date when the taxes are due. No other business was done except the ruling out of a resolution presented by C. D. Mowry of Dayville providing for an appropriation for the employment of a public accountant to audit the books of all the officers of the town of Killingly. Chairman E. L. Darbie ruled that the resolution was out of order at this particular meeting, as it involved making an appropriation. The resolution provided the appropriation of $1,000 or as much as might be necessary for the purpose of securing a public accountant outside of the town of Killingly and that a committee of two, one from each political party, and outside the legal fraternity, engage such public accountant; and in case they could not agree on such a man they are to select a third man whose decision as to selection should be final. Being ruled out, the resolution was not discussed. Alma Lercier of Goodyear inquired if the tax collector's books were subject to audit by town auditors and First Selectman John A. Gilbert replied that they were.

Frederick A. Jacobs was chairman and Mrs. Ethel Hale, clerk, of the republican caucus held in the town hall Wednesday afternoon, to name Killingly's delegation to the republican state convention that will name Connecticut's delegation to the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland next June. There was a good attendance.

Mr. Ida E. Armington, Henry I. Logue, N. Lorne Greig and James N. Tucker were named delegates.

The caucus again named Attorney Elbert L. Darbie chairman of the republican town committee, other members of which as the committee is constituted following the caucus are: Mrs. Ida E. Armington, Damase Boulais, F. L. Bennett, Arsene Marchessault, William S. Hunter, Louis S. Barstow and Miss Nellie M. Chase.

From Once Wednesday afternoon came information that a new bridge being built by the state highway department to replace the one that collapsed Wednesday afternoon of last week had advanced in construction to the point where pedestrians could make their way across it and that by today it will be possible for light vehicles to cross.

The fast work done by the state highway department is very pleasing to the people of Oneco and all others using the route blocked by the collapse of the bridge. The bridge now being put in is understood to be a temporary one. It is of exceptionally heavy and sturdy construction, nevertheless, and when completed will be capable of sustaining loads up to ten tons, it is understood.

Here is an opportunity for some philanthropic person to do something for the Civic federation, an organization that, on its record, deserves well of everyone. The federation is in need of a half dozen common chairs for use at the health station in the town hall building. Any person willing to contribute one or more such chairs up to a half dozen will do the federation a favor by conferring with Mrs. E. H. Keach, Broad street, about the matter. The health station has been a great boon to many people and great benefits have been derived from the free clinics held there by Dr. Hugh R. Campbell of Norwich, cooperating with the Civic federation.

E. R. Noonan, representing the engineering section of the state department of health, was in Danielson Wednesday inspecting premises where slaughtering is done, with a view to ascertaining whether regulations promulgated by the health department are being observed. Mr. Noonan's visitation in this territory will include inspection of places where slaughtering is done in the town of Brooklyn and Putnam.

His visit closely follows recent publicity here relative to the requirements of the health department as to sanitary provisions at places where slaughtering is done.

A welcome arrival is due here this (Thursday) afternoon at 4.30. Dainty Miss Springtime is scheduled officially to be here at that hour. She will find Killingly in its winter dress, with drifts of snow eight to ten feet in some sections of the town and the stage all set for an ice carnival, should it be desired to hold one.

A consoling prediction, however, is that such bleak months of March as the present one has proved to be are almost certainly followed by an early and fast developing spring in this section of Southern New England.

Someone is always grouching about something! Now come the men and women with high tension nervous systems to declare that the great chorus of whistles that boom out from factories in the borough every morning are disturbers of rest and quiet and serve no essential purpose. They are pointed at as a survival of an age that is past.

These critics will tell you that a theatre doesn't have to have a siren to call in the crowd, nor are such attachments needed to get people to a dance on time. The milkman, among the earliest of early risers, manages to be on the job every morning without being aroused by a soul-disturbing clamor and so do thousands of other workers who have to be abroad early to earn their daily bread. A strong point against the factory whistles is that their far-carrying blasts wake up hundreds of people who are not at all interested in them. And that's that.

For the defense, much may be said. Many plants hold the use of their sirens essential, while regretting that they disturb people not employed in or concerned in any way with the plants. The sirens sound the note of assembly for the workers, as they also do the end of each working period. This establishes uniformity in getting the plant to operating and in closing the labors of the day—and this is held to be an important consideration where large numbers are employed.

Again, the sirens sing the song of prosperity—votes to human kind the call to honest and honorable labor. They may be even a comfort to the disturbed sleeper who is not interested in them, if he but fix in his mind that they call not to him, and indulging himself in this reflection, luxuriously stretch out, roll over and go to snoozing again.

And to all of this there are those who will say: "I think they're a nuisance, just the same!"

There was a case involving a violation of the motor vehicle laws for the town court to consider Wednesday morning, and the accused was fined $2 for operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so.

Hundreds of the members of St. James' parish were at the church at the masses in observance of the feast of St. Joseph, Wednesday morning.

A dance under the auspices of Orient lodge, Knights of Pythias, was given in Pellentt's hall Wednesday evening. Music was by a Plainfield orchestra.

Odd Fellows here are interested in a degree that is to be conferred in the quarters of Protection lodge of Central Village, on the evening of April 5.

Next week will be a recess week for the students at Killingly High school and the period will mark the end of the winter term. The spring term will open March 31, and will extend through to June 20.

Attention of taxpayers on real estate is being called to the fact that personal tax assessments cannot be paid this year in Killingly at the same time property taxes are paid, as has been the rule in the past, because there are two tax collectors this year, one devoting his attention exclusively to the collection of property taxes and the other similarly to the collection of personal taxes.

The mud with which many are now contending on streets in various sections of the borough has brought the voicing of a desire that the street oiling system inaugurated for some streets several years ago be extended. The oiled streets are standing up well during this season of mud.

Extension of the oiling may be brought about on any street if the abutting property owners or tenants are willing to assume the small assessment that goes with the service. The cost is exceptionally moderate considering the benefits derived, and oiled streets not only largely overcome the mud nuisance, but also keep down dust in the summer months.

The driver of a car with a New York registration said Wednesday that he encountered more snow in this immediate vicinity than anywhere in a wide range of Southern New England territory he has covered, during the past week.

A group of winners in a pool tournament at the Bohemian club were entertained at a supper at the Attawaugan hotel by the group that lost out to them, Tuesday evening.

Coroner Arthur G Bill said Wednesday afternoon that the inquest relative to the death of Clarence Gates, state highway department employe who lost his life when a bridge at Oneco collapsed Wednesday afternoon of last week, will begin here this (Thursday) morning at 9 o'clock. The date for the inquest in the case of the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance at Plainfield last Friday evening has not bee set by Coroner Bill.

Not so much enthusiasm is being shown, it may be pointed out, now that spring is near at hand, over getting into Brooklyn jail as was the case during the colder months of the season. Many who went to jail this winter went willingly, that they might be warmly housed and well fed.

All who try to get into or out of East Killingly by highway routes are boosters these days for a better road, especially from the state highway at Elmville and the route in from Dayville four corners to the bridge above the Basigan mill. There is a sea of mud and ruts up in that territory, and the going is bad from the Valley school house to the top of the hill. East Killingly is an important asset to the remainder of the town of Killingly, yet it is the only large community of the town that cannot be reached over a complete improved highway route.

There is to be a meeting of the Roundabout club with Mrs. F. E. Cuneen of Broad street, Friday evening.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

PUTNAM

A very general surprise was the announcement Wednesday that Rev. S. E. Cozad has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Second Congregational church, of this city, after a pastorate of 14 months. Rev. Mr. Cozad's resignation came in the form of a letter addressed to C. Dwight harpe of the official board of the church. The resignation is to be effective July 1. It is understood that the pastor has not received a call to another church and has no definite plans. "Sincerely believing that it is for the welfare of the church, I tender my resignation," Rev. Mr. Cozad's communication to Mr. Sharpe says.

Rev. Mr. Cozad came to Putnam from East Bridgewater, Mass., succeeding Rev. Boynton Merrill, who left Putnam to accept a call to the Old South church, Boston.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening the following officers of the Putnam Country club were elected: President Silas M. Wheelock; first vice president, Charles E. Dean second vice president, William K. Litch; treasurer, Guy L. Baker; secretary, William Earl Hughes; governors for three years, F. P. Russell, George S Bradley, W. F. Rafferty; governor for two years, Thomas H. DeChudres.

The auction sale at the property of the Manhasset company continued during Wednesday, the second day of the sale. It will continue today and Friday, when it will close, in so far as the Putnam holdings of the big corporation are concerned. Next week sale of the corporation's property at Taunton will be undertaken.

It was stated Wednesday that the recommendation of the receivers as to the acceptance of any bid or any series of bids for the property here will not be made in the superior court until next week, although the receivers may, if they wish, make known on Friday of this week, at the close of the sale, what their recommendation will be. There will be a session of the superior court in this city Friday, but in view of the fact that the sale will continue through Friday, no recommendation can be made to the court at that time.

It was indicated Wednesday that Putnam will get a splendid industry, if the interests for which William Muir bid get the property and that there will be no great delay in putting the plant to operating, probably not more than a few weeks. The Muir interests are said to have ample experience and financial backing.

Mill men have pointed out that the Muir interests will have a remarkable economic advantage if they buy the Manhasset property for $475,000, only a fraction of its replacement value. This means a lower overhead than most mills of the Manhasset class can claim and that low overhead is a remarkably good asset.

Of interest to his many friends here was the announcement in New York papers of Wednesday, that Harold S. Corbin of the reportorial staff of the New York Herald, this week purchased by Ogden Reid and consolidated with the Tribune, is one of the few of all the writers of the Herald selected to go on the staff of the Tribune.

Mr. Corbin's home is in this city. He has had a varied and valuable newspaper experience, starting in this city on the staff of the Observer. For a time he was at the city desk of the Worcester Telegram and filled various other positions on that paper. He has been a member of the reviewing staff of the Saturday Evening Post and more recently a special writer for a Hearst paper published at Syracuse. In his New York experience of a little more than a year Mr. Corbin quickly attained a place for himself. Several of his special stories attracted attention and one of them was given a special prize award. Being included in the small group taken from the Herald staff by the Tribune is another evidence of his ability.

Between 50 and 60 men came out for the first meeting of the Windham County Pure Bred Bull campaign, held at Grange hall at South Woodstock, Tuesday evening, and there was well sustained interest. Another meeting in the campaign was held on Wednesday evening at Abington, for today there is an afternoon meeting scheduled for Plainfield and an evening meeting for Windham.

At South Woodstock, 130 lantern slides were shown to illustrate the talks intended to build up sentiment for better dairy herds with the pure bred bull as an important factor in attaining this ideal.

Several addresses were made at South Woodstock. Among those who attended were Harry L. Piper, Boston, of the N. E. Milk Producers' association; R. H. Holden of Peterboro, N. H., A. R. Merrill of Connecticut Agricultural college, H. E. Stephenson of the American Jersey Cattle association of New York, Robert B. Percy of Worcester and Mr. Thorne of Bridgeport. County Agent F. L. Davis, a large factor in the campaign, also attended the meeting.

Following a paralytic shock suffered the day before, Mrs. Martha Louise Torrey Wheelock, 59, wife of Albert Wheelock, died at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, at her home in Hardwick, Mass.

Mrs. Wheelock was born in Woodstock, Sept. 26, 1864, a daughter of Charles D. and Martha Warren Torrey. Her parents moved to Putnam when she was a child and she lived in Putnam until her first marriage, studying in its schools and fitting herself for all the duties of life, and then went to Hardwick to live.

Mrs. Wheelock leaves her husband and three children, all of them living at home—Fred Warren Spencer, a son by her first marriage, and Charles A. and Dorothy Wheelock, children of the second marriage. She also leaves three brothers—Attorney Charles L. Torrey and Olin W. Torrey, all of Putnam.

Winter is officially scheduled to take its departure at 4.20 this (Thursday) afternoon. There may not be much cheering, but the satisfaction will be very general. Gone, but not forgotten may be said without reservation. For winter has left its old garments lying about—ice-covered lakes and streams and more snow than has been on the ground when spring dawned hereabouts for many years past. The winter was a bit tardy in showing its real calibre, but it made up all deficiencies during February and March.

The second in a series of organ recitals is to be given Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Philip's church, with Kenneth Sharpe at the organ; Wallace Smith, soloist. The program: Festival Piece (Stebbins); Pastorale ((Matthews) Mr. Sharpe; Come, Ye Blessed (Scott), Mr. Smith; At Twilight (Frysinger), Vision (Bill), Meditation (Kinder), Mr. Sharpe; Repent Ye (Prindle), Mr. Smith; Toccata Crawford), Mr. Sharpe.

Taking advantage of the mild weather, snow plow crews of the state highway department are engaged in pushing back the snow ridges piled up along state highways throughout in breaking out the roads after the heavy storm of the past week. The original clearing left a space only about wide enough for two cars to pass. The snow has melted and settled since this first clearing was made and the crews are now engaged in widening the traveled way, in places clearing practically the full width of the highways even where heavy drifts were found a week ago.

Members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows will be at Central Village April 5 to witness the conferring of a degree on a class of candidates of Protection lodge. A delegation of local Odd Fellows was at Danielson Tuesday evening to watch the conferring of a degree.

Leon T. Wilson, Jr., student at a technical school in Troy, remains critically ill.

Herbert J. Smith, member of the board of water commissioners of Putnam, was reported Wednesday morning as slightly improved.

F. W. Babbitt, who has been touring the south and who spent much of the winter in Florida, has returned here. His trip to the southland was made in a house on wheels and the experience was an interesting one.

Congregations that filled the church at some of the masses attended services in observance of the feast of St. Joseph at St. Mary's church Wednesday morning.

J. H. Marsh has been elected a delegate from the Methodist church of this city to the annual laymen's conference in Providence March 28, to elect delegates to the general conference that will meet in Springfield in May. Stanley Shaw was named as alternate to Mr. Marsh.

Arthur L. Brown of Beverly Hills, Mass., has taken a lease on the farm on dairy business of R. R. Hurlbut of Woodstock avenue. Mr. Brown was manager of a large farm at Beverly Hills for fourteen years.

For the remainder of the month game wardens will keep careful watch of trout brooks to check the tendency of some to fish before the official opening of the season on April 1.

Putnam High school basketball team lost its second game—and final game—of the season with the Killingly High school team at Danielson on Tuesday evening.

Wednesday, Irving H. Miron, elected town tax collector the past fall, took over the books from Attorney Ernest C. Morse. Attorney Miron's general collections will begin at an early date.

With a small party of guests in attendance, the family of Silas M. Wheelock gave a St. Patrick's night dinner in his honor at the Wheelock home.

In some of the country districts hereabouts strictly fresh eggs at the coops are down to 30 cents per dozen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan of Boston, formerly residents in Putnam, have gone to Seattle to make their home.

STONINGTON

The drive for membership in the Stonington ambulance work has started in the borough and vicinity. The canvassers are Mrs. Joseph DeBragga, Mrs. C. B. Cushman, Mrs. Manuel Victoria, Mrs. J. E. Anderson, Jr., Mrs. T. C. Connell, Mrs. W. F. Wilcox, Miss M. L. Pendleton, Mrs. Lewis E. Hammond, Mrs. E. P. Hyde.

The World's Record

THE Metropolitan is mutually owned by its 21,000,000 policyholders. Its assets belong to the policyholders. They are accumulated to meet policy obligations and for no other purpose. Every policyholder is a capitalist—an investor—and his interest should be recognized by legislators and commissioners. The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

One person in every six in the United States and Canada is a holder of a Metropolitan policy—one of the safest forms of investment.

In 1923 the Metropolitan grew faster than any other life insurance company in the world; grew in income—in assets—and in the effectiveness of its campaign for better health for the whole country.

The Metropolitan sends trained nurses to the homes of thousands of industrial (i. e. weekly premium) policyholders when they are sick. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits.

While the average life span in the general population of the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 11 years ago, the life span of the industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years in the same interval. This greater gain has resulted in large part from the Metropolitan's Health Service.

During 1923 the Metropolitan distributed 33,790,840 booklets and pamphlets dealing with health, general welfare and longer life. The total number of pieces distributed to date amounts to 305,990,507.

The Metropolitan arranges for free periodic health examinations for holders of Ordinary policies. Among those who availed themselves of this privilege, the death rate was found to be 28% lower than was expected for the group.

The Metropolitan cooperates with the companies to which it has issued group insurance for their employees—cooperates not only in giving insurance protection but also to promote better health, better working conditions, better living conditions and happier social conditions.

Life insurance, which cares for the home and family, is born of a deep sense of responsibility. When millions of people join in a mutual sharing of this responsibility the result is the splendid picture shown in the 1923 report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Never before has the world seen such a Business Statement nor had such an opportunity to look into the hearts of men and women, and to find there, —Kindness.

The funeral of Charles Wochmarka took place from his home last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Wachomarka was on his way home when he suddenly became unconscious and remained so until his death. Besides his wife he leaves nine children.

WHY STAY FAT? YOU CAN REDUCE

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of quickness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4613 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long regimes of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.

CHANGING INAUGURAL DATE.

By the action of the senate in approving the amendment to the Constitution which has been proposed for the purpose of changing the date of inauguration for a president, this proposition has been pushed one step nearer to final determination.

Where there is a change in administration from one party to another, it has long been realized that in the months following election and before the new administration takes hold in March opportunity is provided for the enactment of much legislation on the part of the old administration. Such legislation is of course perfectly legal but it represents action, nevertheless, on the part of those in many instances who have been voted out of office by their constituents. They are but completing their four years work, but they are doing so after those they represent have decided that they should be replaced.

In order to bring about a change in the existing arrangement there must of course be a change made in the present constitutional requirements. It is for the purpose of altering the Constitution so that the long time between election and inauguration will be considerably reduced. Under the plan it is sought to have legislation reflect the quicker the expression of the congress that has been elected in November, instead of continuing to be the product of those who have been repudiated. Under the Norris bill congress would assemble the January following the election and the inauguration would take place on the third Monday of January.

Favorable action by the senate only starts the ball rolling. There remains to be seen what the house will do with it, though its defeat there would be less likely than in the senate, and thereafter it must be submitted for the approval of three-fourths of the states. Even after congressional action much will depend upon the interest manifested in the various states as to how soon it could be determined what the verdict is. It is a change of date that is intended for the benefit of legislation rather than giving relief to the inaugural crowd.

PUNY PARTISANSHIP.

While it may not have been necessary, there is reason to believe that most sane thinking people take the position that Senator Pepper did in rebuking Senator Dill for his criticism of the president in connection with the visit of the Oberammergau players to the White house.

The democratic senator from Washington was distorting an unfortunate incident for political effect, but so feeble and so unjust was it that it was lost by its own weakness when he claimed that the president was unwilling to listen to the pleas for the children of Germany.

As for the German children the president has urged public contributions and he had no objection to hearing pleas in their behalf except that they were being made in a manner that was not permissible under the restrictions placed about the president.

Under the purpose of the democratic senator the aim was to embarrass the president for he was criticised for doing just what the situation called for and he would have been criticised had he failed to have done so. It is not to be supposed that the visitors were endeavoring to exercise privileges that were denied others, except through a lack of knowledge. They had not been informed that the president cannot receive addresses from people of other nations except through the usual diplomatic channels, and yet that is what they were attempting to do and why the interruption was necessary.

It is easy to say that many things might be overlooked, but should such a policy be adopted there would be no end to the demands that would be made upon the time of the president by just such procedure. Good and sufficient reasons exist for the rules which govern those who are received by the president and it is not to be expected that such rules will be invoked for some and not for others. Senator Dill made a very poor impression when he took up this matter in the senate of the United States. It was one of those puny partisan efforts that reflects on the instigator.

BERGDOLL AGAIN.

Whatever impression may have been gained by the report that Grover Bergdoll was to return to this country, and that under an agreement he would get favorable terms if he did so, they are completely upset by the statements which have been issued by Bergdoll and by denials from Washington.

That efforts have been made to get Bergdoll to return, outside of what has been done by his mother and by the attempt at kidnapping, seems likely. There are those who would have Bergdoll return and the American Legion seems to have been interested in this latest effort to relieve the embarrassment of this government and to have him serve his term for dodging the draft.

While Bergdoll's contempt for the law of this country is not going to be forgotten, it is certain that there can be no thought of promising to make it easy for him if he will come back. Bergdoll has an unfinished sentence awaiting him in addition to which he can expect to pay the penalty for escaping, but the only thing that he can expect in the way of modification is the time off for good behavior, and that must be based solely upon his conduct.

Just as long as Bergdoll remains out of this country there are reasons to believe that he is inflicting greater punishment upon himself than he is causing embarrassment to Uncle Sam. He is certainly not an individual who is entitled to any leniency and there is no prospect that he will get it.

If Bergdoll comes back there can be no agreement about it. He must return to take his medicine. He decided to show his contempt for the laws of the United States and he must shoulder the effects of that decision, and he will wait a long time if he anticipates that this government will undertake to do business with him under any different proposals. Bergdoll wants his gold which Uncle Sam holds but the country is better off in every way while he remains in Europe.

DR. ELIOT AT 90.

It is not alone for Harvard and its alumni to congratulate Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of the university at Cambridge for 40 years and now president emeritus, as he reaches his 90th birthday anniversary today. Dr. Eliot has been one of the country's leading educators and to be the guiding head of such an institution for so many years means not only a rare distinction on his part but a corresponding benefit to Harvard and to the country. His influence was concentrated upon the institution of which he was the head but it was impossible to keep it there. The example of that seat of learning and the thousands of graduates carried his influence to all quarters.

In the building up and expansion of Harvard he had a vital part. He guided it to greater fields and greater endeavors. He added new departments, broadened the service of this educational plant and was actuated by the conviction that a modern university should offer the broadest fields of study for the students, and that it should expand and vary its academic and practical studies in accordance with the needs of the nation or the community it serves.

Few are permitted to round out 90 years, to say nothing of rendering such distinguished service in the field of education. Harvard is better because of the Eliot influence. His is a career that is a great credit to himself, the university which he heads and to the country in which he has labored. It would be well if more could equal it and the hope is that it may continue to shed its influence for years to come.

TERRITORIAL LIMITS.

Italy it seems is ready to enter into an agreement with the United States concerning the searching of vessels for liquor as part of the enforcement of the prohibition laws of this country, in return for which Italian vessels would be permitted to bring liquor into our ports under seal.

This is in keeping with the agreement which has been entered into between this country and Great Britain. One question is raised by Italy, however. It is disposed to feel that the time has come for changing the three-mile limit to six miles, as defining the territorial limits of a country on the high seas.

In the agreement with Great Britain the three-mile limit was reaffirmed, meaning that it continues as in the past except for the searching of vessels for liquor, the limit for that being now extended to an hour's steaming from shore.

Italy's plan indicates the creation of complications. For the most part the three-mile limit is recognized by nations. Possibly the time has come when with long distance guns the three-mile limit is really a joke, but when a change is made it would be advisable to have it apply to those nations which have up to now been respecting it, instead of setting up different limits for different nations to create greater confusion.

Perhaps Italy is right and the three-mile limit ought to be extended but an endeavor should be made to make it uniform. Clearly this country will not be anxious to have a three-mile limit for vessels of certain countries, a six-mile limit for Italian vessels, a ten-mile limit for a possible third and an hour's steaming distance for those carrying liquor with a view to breaking our laws.

PERPLEXING PEOPLE

"Sorry I'm late," apologized the handsome but matter-of-fact young man to his best girl when at last he arrived. "You see, there was a sort of family scrap on at my brother's and I had to count time. Lilly May was all for packing up and leaving and Edwin was not enthusiastic enough to detain her. It looked for a while as though I was about to lose my happy boarding place!"

"But, Ipswitch," cried the romantic girl in open-eyed horror, "how perfectly dreadful! How can you be so flippant over such a tragic situation! And they have always seemed so happy together!"

"Oh, they're happy enough," the handsome young man told her in some surprise. "Why, Lilly May and Edwin are real happy! You see, she had been sewing all day on embroidery or something and was nervous and Edwin had had a hard day at the office and was grouchy and they just naturally had to fight with somebody. After you are grown up you can't go around picking fights with the public and your friends and you have to fall back on the person you are married to, as he's always handy."

"I never heard anything like the way you talk!" the romantic girl declared in great dismay. "Just as though quarrels came as a matter of course, like grocery bills and taxes. Do you mean to say, Ipswich, that you and I are going to act like that after we are married?"

"Sweet thing!" the handsome but matter-of-fact young man told her earnestly. "No matter how thoroughly you agree with my every thought now, Barcelona, it will not be long after we are married when you will discover how foolish most of my ideas are and you will not have the slightest reluctance in informing me of the fact."

"And," inquired the romantic girl with her chin rather high, "do you mean to say that you are going to say horrid things to me and disagree with me and be bossy and snappy when you feel like it, just the way other husbands act that I've seen?"

"I could get large pay in a museum if I didn't," the handsome young man assured her. "They'd be warranted in expending huge sums advertising their remarkable exhibit. 'Here,' they would point out, 'the the only married man extant who continued to converse as though he were merely engaged and on his good behavior, I'd be a regular gold mine to a manager!' It wouldn't mean that I love you any less when I bawl you out, Barcelona, and you want to get that clear right now!"

"Was Lilly May really going home?"

"Oh, no," soothed the handsome young man cheerfully. "She just hauled out two suitcases and emptied her dresser drawers and packed up all her party dresses and things and rolled up several rugs she particularly wanted and remarked stacia'ee rab wanted and reminded Edwin to mark the milk card or the milkman would leave two bottles instead of one and there was no need of all that waste even if she wouldn't be there and he'd have no expenses beyound those for himself. And she asked me to help the janitor bring up her wardrobe trunk and please phone about trains—just the ordinary procedure you see.

"Of course I suppose sometimes when there is nobody around to step in and take off the curse of making up she has to go through with it and there is another star in the divorce court crown, but when I judged that the moment had arrived when Lily May was all sputtered out and ready to quit, but didn't know how to do it and save her face, I told Edwin he ought to be ashamed to abuse his poor little wife that way and Lilly May said yes indeed, he had, and Edwin removed his cigar from his mouth long enough to agree and mention that he'd like pancakes for breakfast and Lilly May said, Oh all right if he felt that way she wasn't one to hold a grudge and so she put things back in the bureau drawers and I judged it was safe to leave and come on over here!"

"It doesn't sound right some way," the romantic girl said, much perplexed. "Anyhow, I am perfectly positive it is absolutely impossible for us to behave in that manner!"

"Well, that'll be real nice," the handsome but matter-of-fact young man told her politely.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Prohibition With a Party Behind It"

Mr. Editor: Politics is authoritatively defined, as "the science and art of government; the science dealing with the organization, regulation and administration of a state." Evidently, then, appointments to executive offices, and the conduct of such offices, constitute a part of "administration;" that is, of politics, as "the art of government."

The civic magazine called "Good Government" publishes an editorial which in effect suggests that the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, or rather, of the corollary legislation (as the Volstead Act) will not become effective until the appointment of enforcing officers shall be taken out of the hands of the "politicians," and such appointments made, not by political or partisan favor, but for proved fitness, as determined by the well-known "merit system." The position of "Good Government" is absolutely sound—as far as it goes.

But the issue in the premises involves far more than appointments by the merit system, under the civil service rules. I believe that it is warrantable and timely to say that the only way that the liquor issue can be taken out of politics is to raise it to "the dominant issue" in the science and administration of government and to vote out of power the kindred conspirators of "boodlers and bootleggers," who, as an aggressive minority in politics, are now able to make such a travesty of government, not only at Washington, but in several of the states and in some local communities.

The national prohibition party, which was active during the years 1872-1896, and at times represented an appreciable "balance of power," was absolutely right in the contention that the liquor issue must become the determining issue in national politics before it could be settled. As long as this party held true to the main plank in its platform, it was making headway toward "electing the issue"; but when in 1896 it lost its head and split on "the silver issue," it also lost its headway!

Then and thereafter, the method of "non-partisan" prohibition came to the fore, whereby "good citizens" voted prohibition into laws and state constitutions, and finally landed it in the federal constitution—but voting for it chiefly as a sentiment of "moral principle", without adequate support by civic power in official positions; that is, "without a party behind it;" and it is this "non-partisan", irresponsible brand of prohibition which we have today.

The present demand of "good citizens" for the enforcement of law "because it is the law" is an absolutely sound position and in exact accord with the spirit and practice of "representative government." But it is inadequate to the present situation—it lacks substance—it does not meet the real issue and will prove as ineffectual as the former "Law and Order League." It is "the fifth wheel of the coach!"

Said the late ex-Governor John P. St. John, of Kansas, when candidate of the national prohibition party for president in 1884—"Does prohibition prohibit? Does an axe chop? Does a gun shoot? No, it takes a man to do the job." And it will take a party in power for that purpose to solve the liquor question!

The liquor issue represents another phase of "the irrepressible conflict" between the forces of greed and special interest, out of which grew the political maxim, "eternal vigilance is the price of safety" The "politicians," whose slogan is now as always, "what's the constitution or the party between friends?" are still playing the game of keeping the "good citizens" divided against each other in "the old parties," and the "good citizens" are still rallied to "save the good old party"—although not one of them can tell what either of "the old parties" stands for.

The development to power of some great new party on the liquor issue would tend to unite the moral forces of this nation for the just and effective solution of kindred problems also, in accord with the declared purposes of the public, namely, the general welfare, through the fair method of equality before the law. The rise to power of such a party would tend to coordinate in sound underlying principles the present unfortunate and divisive "blocs." Unity and cooperation against the common enemies—"boodlers and bootleggers" would tend to bring together for common advantage the productive energies of capital and labor; would better coordinate production and distribution; check the short-sighted selfish greed which now so often seeks to control natural resources for personal aggrandizement. It would not only "turn the rascals out" but arouse to the necessity of constructive measures for permanent public advantage. It is also increasingly apparent that a policy of right relations of this country with Europe is constantly embarrassed and "mussed up" by the organized conspirators of "booze" and "dope."

New political parties are not created over night. They evolve from public necessity and through public foresight and competent planning. The immediate opportunity is for the men and women of the electorate who realize the present situation, in each town and senatorial and congressional district, to organize for progressive action, fearless and concerted, the needed new political alignment is bound to result. It all comes back to the capacity of a majority of the electorate for "self government," and whether there is among the people a sufficient power of initiate and cooperation to overcome the long-resented domination of the "politicians" whose skilled scheming is already well advanced for the campaign of 1924!

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Halide Edib Hanoum, who has been appointed to formulate the principles which will safeguard women's interests is a "bill of family rights" to be brought before the Turkish national assembly, is Turkey's foremost woman novelist and political writer. She is considered by many to be the most brilliant woman in Turkey, honored and respected by the entire country and frequently consulted by the Government in matters affecting members of her sex. A graduate of the American College for Girls at Constantinople, she became imbued with the spirit and ideals of western civilization. For espousing the cause of Angora and coming out openly against Adbul Hamid, she was condemned to death and fled to Anatolia. With the success of the Turkish Nationalists she returned to Constantinople and became the acknowledged spokesman and leader of the woman suffrage movement in Turkey.

A Little Talk on Thrift

The Damage From Pests

Few of us realize, perhaps, that our nation is today at war with an enemy as relentless as any human foe could be. This condition of warfare costs us $3,000,000,000 annually. Between 10 and 20 per cent. of our crops are destroyed by insects. Each of us pays a tribute of nearly $20 a year to these pests.

And the menace is steadily increasing!

No less an authority than L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology, department of agriculture, frankly states that "damage by insects is growing greater."

What has been called officially a "Hindenburg Line" has been established from Long Island to Canada as part of the effort to check the westward march of the gypsy moth.

Equally vigorous defensive warfare is being carried on in the central states to prevent the corn-borer from reaching the great corn-belt of America. This pest, which came originally from Hungary and southern Russia, has reached the lake borders of Ohio and Michigan. In New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania, the Japanese beetle has laid waste fruit, vegetables and forests in an area of 770 square miles. Rigid state warfare, costing millions of dollars, alone can prevent its spread to other sections.

Since 1892 the south has fought the boll-weevil, but happily the tide of battle has at last been turned against this invader of our cotton fields.

The San Jose scale, Hessian fly, Mediterranean fruit-fly, green bug, chinch bug, cloverseed midge and a hundred other species of destructive insects exist in this country each of which, we are told, causes a damage of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. Moreover, each of these species has become the source of incalculable loss if not held in check through incessant vigilance.

We owe a greater debt to our government and to the entomological bureaus of our various states than we appreciate.

There is a glorious lesson in citizenship to be learned from this situation. Were it not for the solid and orderly organization of government and its attendant scientific activities, these insects would destroy our food supply and force us to fight for life itself.—American Thrift Society.

Stories That Recall Others

The Terrible Truth

Two friends stopped into a restaurant for lunch. The waiter was a merry looking chap—a fellow who will no doubt choose some other vocation than slinging hash.

"We have roast pork, roast beef and chicken," he announced.

"Can't you give me an order without meat on it? I'm so tired of meat," one of the teachers replied.

The waiter with a twinkle in his eye said: "The chicken hasn't any meat on it."

An Annual Permit

Those who issue licenses, including marriage, have some interesting experiences. Recently a prospective bridegroom, without any embarrassment whatever, asked after being handed the marriage certificate whether it was good until January, 1925.

The clerk looked puzzled.

"They're like automobile licenses, aren't they?" asked the young man. "Don't you buy a new one every year?"

A Nicer Way

To clean teeth—It fights film
You owe it to yourself

This is to you who still brush teeth in old ways.

There is a newer, nicer way. It means new safety, new beauty, new delights. Millions now employ it. The whitest teeth seen everywhere show you one of its effects.

Ask your dealer now for this ten-day test and learn what benefits may come to you and yours.

That coat is film

That viscous coat you feel on teeth is film. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. It becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film is the great tooth enemy. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the tooth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Film-caused troubles were, in old days, almost universal.

New ways found

Dental science has in late years found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

That is fast bringing a new dental era. Careful people of some 50 nations use Pepsodent today.

Fights acid too

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies, too, the starch digestant in saliva. Last is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. The use of Pepsodent brings these constant new protections, and they are found to be essential.

No one can doubt

A few days will convince you that Pepsodent is the tooth paste for your home.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be glad you tried it. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

THE SELFISH BOY

"Dear me, it won't be long
Before this story must go to press
So hurry up, Mr. David Cory,
And send us a rabbit story.

Where have you been this sunny day,
Did Henny Penny a white egg lay?
Or Granddaddy Bullfrog catch a fly,
Or Happy Sun wink his golden eye?"
asked the anxious editor of the Rabbitville News.

"Ha, ha!" answered David Cory over the 'phone from his nice cosy room in the Turnip Hotel. "Kind Uncle Lucky took me to a movie. It was all about an enchanted forest where lollypops grew on trees so tall that the tiny fairies hired the Ragged Rabbit Giant to pick the candies off the branches. And, after filling three great immense bags, he threw them over his shoulder and carried them to the Fairy Queen's Castle.

New her little Rabbit Prince was very selfish. He always wanted the best and the most and sometimes all, which made his dear Mother Rabbit Queen very sad.

One day she said to the Ragged Rabbit Giant, "What do you think makes our little Prince so selfish?"

"Let him go with me today," answered the big giant bunny. That was all he said, and the Queen was afraid to ask him why, for he looked so glum and solemn.

Well, pretty soon the giant and the little prince started off for Lollypop Grove. On the way, the Ragged Giant picked a small blue flower.

"Flower, blue as summer sky,
Make this fairy grow on high
As a pine tree on the hill,
Where the wind is never still."

He sang in a low voice. And, would you believe it? No sooner said than done, the prince grew as large as a giant and the giant as small as a fairy.

"Now you fill the three great bags with lollypops," said the giant, only, of course he was now so tall than a fairy.

At once the prince set to work and when he had filled the three bags, picked up his little giant friend and started off for the castle. But, dearest me! The poor queen was most unhappy to see what an enormous man her little prince had become.

"Oh, dear, and Oh my!" she cried, "I've lost my dear little boy."

"Not if he promises to be unselfish," answered the little giant. "I can change him back into his former self." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

FUNERALS

Philip Fechtig.

Funeral services for Philip Fechtig of Hartford, who served in the World war as a private in the Fourteenth company, Fourth Trench Mortar Battalion, were held Wednesday morning from the parlors of Hourigan Bros. Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's church at 10 o'clock, Rev. Myles P. Galvin officiating. At the offertory Mrs. Frank L. Farrell sang De Profundis and as a waiting hymn she sang Nearer, My God to Thee. Mrs. T. J. Healey at the organ rendered The Star Spangled Banner.

The body was placed in the receiving vault at Maplewood cemetery, the following acting as bearers: William Donohue, Charles Sullivan, Austin Furlong, Jr., John P. Corcoran, Bernard Gillis and John Fitzgerald. The committal service was read by Rev. M. H. May.

A delegation from the American Legion attended the services and a firing squad and a bugler of the marines paid final military honors to the veteran.

Clinton O. Christman

Final tribute to Clinton O. Christman, the veteran barber of Norwich, was paid Wednesday afternoon when funeral services were held from the home of his son, Earle H. Christman of 100 Central avenue. Included in the attendance were relatives, friends and business associates, coming from Allentown, Pa., Avenel, N. J., Spring Hill, Ala., New London, Mahonoy City, Pa., Hartford and other places.

The service was in charge of Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. Dr. Pitt read the committal service. The bearers were Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Alexander Sharp, E. F. Messenger, G. Frederick Noyes, Leslie W. Fowler and Charles H. Stapleton.

The floral tributes which nearly filled the room in which the casket lay, bore testimony to the love and esteem in which Mr. Christman was held by many friends. Among the floral pieces were the following: Pillow, from wife; pillow, from children; crescent, from grandchildren; pillow, from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Christman; pillow, from Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spencer; spray of daffodils, from Mr. and Mrs. Howard Christman; wreath, from Mr. and Mrs. George Christman and family; floral cross, Mr. and Mrs. John Vanette; wreath, from Mr. and Mrs. H Frank Christman; basket of hyacinths and daffodils, Mr. and Mrs. A. ### JURY FOR DEFENDANT IN NOTE ENDORSEMENT CASE

After Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning had occupied 50 minutes in charging the jury, the 12 men returned a verdict for the defendants in the suit of the Springfield Coach Works of Springfield, Mass., against Mrs. Mary J. Rogers of New London. The jury was out about 45 minutes.

The Springfield concern had alleged that Mrs. Rogers had in 1923 endorsed a note made out to them by Foster & Co., but that the note had never been paid.

Mrs. Rogers, the defendant claimed, that she had signed for Gordon Foster, head of the Foster Co., a blank piece of paper, with the understanding that she was serving him as a witness in a transaction the nature of which was not made clear to her and that she was incurring no liability whatsoever. She denied knowledge of the existance of the note up until the time she was notified by a New London bank that it had not been paid.

Bright colors are to predominate in women's footwear in Berlin, this spring. Apple leaf green is a new shade for street shoes, while cerise and purple also promise to be popular.

WHAT FASHION PROVIDES IN SMART HEADWEAR

As a reaction following the vogue of close hats during the winter, quite as many large shapes appear in the displays at the Spring openings, although the small hat is still strong in favor.

Designs are shown developed in straw, ribbon and crepe, while as noted Wednesday the hair hat is among the leaders.

Handsome Bengaline hats come in cloche and tricorne shapes. There appears to be strong emphasis on brim trimming, fine French flowers and delicately shaded small fruits being clearly utilized in this mode.

Lacquered foliage is employed by some of the best designers as a garniture for many smart models. Fancy ornaments stand high in favor and there is a prediction that this is to be a big ribbon season.

Sporty ribbon cocards give the finishing touch to some of the most striking of the hat examples. Crepe brims on straw hats, in numerous instances have trimming of flat appliqued flowers. Touches of metallic threaded or soft lace set off other jaunty small hats.

Many wise women have already chosen their hats, not waiting till all the models have been passed upon by curious shoppers. A good rule for every woman, who prefers exclusive styles!

Where the newest hats and those most favorably priced are to be found, is indicated by The Bulletin's advertisers today.

OKIYA CAMP FIRE GIRLS OBSERVED "FAST NIGHT"

The meeting Tuesday evening of Oyika Camp Fire Girls of Park Congregational church, held in the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial, was observed as "Fast Night." There was a short business meeting with the guardian, Mrs. Louis Walden presiding, assisted by Mrs. Benedict C. Fullen, assistant guardian. Tuesday morning Miss Engler left for Philadelphia to be the guest of Miss Emily Mitchell, and later in the week will go to Washington, D. C., to spend the remainder of her vacation with Miss Kathleen Halliday before returning to Boston. Miss Mitchell and Miss Halliday were former classmates and Miss Engler at Simmons College.

NORWICH LEADS STATE IN RELIGIOUS INSTITUTE

Professor M. A. Honline, who is lecturing in Middletown, Waterbury, New London, New Britain and Norwich on Religious Pedagogy and on The Bible reports Norwich in the lead in support and attendance.

The Norwich meetings are held on Thursday evenings at 7.30, at the Central Baptist church. There were 413 present last Thursday night. Enthusiasm over the work of Professor Honline prevails among all who have been in attendance.

This is the second union concerted effort in which the Norwich churches have engaged this winter; the first was the week of Lay Evangelism which was so successful in results. The Robert E. Speer meetings, held in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. will be a third united enterprise. Plans are also being considered for a holy week union service.

RAID AT BOTTLING WORKS ON SIXTH ST.

In a raid between 9 and 10 o'clock Wednesday evening at the bottling works at 96 Sixth street, conducted by Andrew Zowacki, evidence of violation of the liquor law seized and Zowacki was arrested. Later he gave bail in $1,000 for his appearance in court.

The raid was made by Sergeant Thomas Murphy, State Policeman Palmer and Officer P. Murphy. Eight or ten men were in the place when the officers arrived and it was claim that Zowacki dumped liquor from a receptacle. The police seized a milk bottle containing what is alleged to be hootch, a jug of what is said to be cider, a bottle that Zowacki says contains vinegar and a pitcher into which Zowacki is said to have poured water from the faucet.

WATCHED WHILE DOCTOR PERFORMED OPERATION

Everett P. Barnes, health officer of Preston, returned home Tuesday from the Hartford hospital where he has been a patient for six days. A specialist of that city performed an operation on the inner ankle of the right foot and seven pieces of bone were removed, a split bone of the ankle having made Mr. Barnes lame for the past eighteen months.

As local anaesthetics were used, Mr. Barnes had the unique experience of watching what the doctor was doing as he was able to lie in a half reclining position on the operating table and see the operation performed.

Miss Hatton is a talented and ambitious musician.

SODALITAS CAST PRESENTS CLEVER BIT OF COMEDY

An audience of over 100 which nearly filled the auditorium of the Community House enjoyed an evening of laughter Wednesday when The Trials of a Mistress, a comedy in three acts, was ably presented by the Sodalitas of the United Congregational church.

The story of the play was built about Mrs. Montgomery, who as hostess for the day to her club, endeavored by every possible way to drive some sense of duty into the head of a newly arrived immigrant, Bridget O'Flimigin, who had only that day accepted the position of maid in the Montgomery home. What Bridget did during the day and especially at the club meeting, and last of all her imitations of the speakers kept the audience in laughter throughout the play.

The entire production was well played and the members of the cast deserve credit for their work. Miss Elizabeth Pullen as Mrs. Montgomery, the hostess for the day, played the part perfectly, her efforts to drive the proper knowledge into the head of Bridget pleasing everyone. The work of Mrs. Helen Labriskie as Mrs. Gerald de Vaussey, the worried rich woman, and that of Mrs. Joseph French as Mrs. Joe Ferris, the loving but very talkative wife, were carried out in a manner that immediately won over the audience. Mrs. A. C. Freeman as Miss Votine, the prim and hardboiled suffragist, who read a paper on Suffrage and its effect on the price of muellars, had a difficult part to play, which she carried off in a manner most pleasing. Miss Hattie Carter as Miss Acribel, the gloom gatherer of the club, interpreted her part cleverly and her gestures and actions while glooming up the meeting added much to the amusement.

Somewhat different than the rest of the play was the work of Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard as Mrs. Nordica-Schumann-Heinck Warbler, the oil-voiced singer of the club. Her rendition of Joy of the Morning and The Spring Song was in fine voice, even though she exclaimed that Madam Schumann-Heinck Warbler had a cold.

The playing of Miss Edith Boynton as Mrs. Chaminade-Beethoven-Jones was also different from the rest of the play and her two classical numbers were heartily applauded by a delighted audience.

Last but not least we arrive at Bridget O'Flimigin, the maid, played by Miss Marion Beebe, in a manner worthy of praise. Her efforts to please a worried hostess, her social errors while the club was in session and the imitations of the club members after their departure, were given to perfection. Every moment Bridget was on the stage there was a laugh.

The entire production was a credit to the Sodalitas and credit is due to all members of the cast and to the committees in charge of the play. Also to the Elizabeth Street school orchestra, which furnished music between the acts. The stage settings were well arranged and were furnished by Plaut-Cadden company.

The cast was as follows: Mrs. Montgomery, Miss Elizabeth Pullen; Mrs. Gerald de Vaussey, Mrs. Helen Zabriskie; Miss Votine, Mrs. A. C. Freeman; Mrs. Joe Ferris, Mrs. Joseph French; Miss Acribel, Miss Hattie Carter; Mrs. Nordica-Schumann-Heinck Warbler, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard; Mrs. Chaminade-Beethoven-Jones, Miss Edith Boynton; secretary, Miss Mollie Kampf; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Gallup; other members of club, Mrs. Harold Carpenter, Mrs. Chester Hussey, Mrs. N. C. Pierce, Miss Martha Reynolds; Bridget O'Flimigin, Miss Marion Beebe.

The committees for the entertainment were as follows: general, Mrs. Joseph French, Mrs. William Elliott, Miss Marion Beebe and Miss Mollie Kampf; tickets, Miss Vilette Peck; candy table, Mrs. Clarence Spear and Mrs. Harry Sherman, assisted by the girls of the circle.

ST. MARY'S PLAYERS GIVE SECOND SUCCESSFUL SHOW

St. Mary's Players gave the final performance of the comedy, Making Daddy Behave, at the Broadway theatre Wednesday evening before an audience of 900. Both nights of the performance, which was the mid-Lent entertainment of St. Mary's parish for the benefit of St. Mary's Memorial church, were very successful and a good sized sum was realized. The members of the cast again acquitted themselves in a most commendable manner and the comedy went off with a smoothness and finish characteristic of professional performances.

A group of nurses from the W. W. Backus hospital occupied boxes D and E, as the guests of Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's church and business manager of the play. Clergy in attendance Wednesday evening included Rev. Roger J. Guerin, this city; Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, of Taftville; Rev. Arthur Rothier, Putnam; Rev. James A. O'Meara, Montville; Rev. John J. McCabe, Jewett City; Rev. Ludoc Paradis, Voluntown; Rev. W. A. Keefe and Rev. Frederick A. Coholan, this city.

Rev. Father Keefe has expressed his appreciation of the services of the cast and for the fine patronage both nights of the play. The good sized sum realized will be applied to the reduction of the debt of the new St. Mary's Memorial church. The play was staged by special permission of the Walter H. Baker company, Boston, Mass.

In addition to the ticket office force Wednesday evening was Edward J. Sullivan, Officer Peter D. Sullivan was on duty at the theatre Tuesday evening and Officer Matthew J. Delaney Wednesday evening. Noted in the audience both evenings were people from Colchester, Taftville, Jewett City and Voluntown.

Moose in Pinochle.

Following were the scores made on Wednesday evening in the pinochle tournament at the Moose home: Joseph Kirchner 7920, first prize; Marry Bronson 7830, second prize; George Goepfert, 6440, third prize. Kirchner and Bronson cut off the tie and Kirchner won. Friday night at 8 o'clock the big battle between the Moose and Eagles will take place in the Moose club rooms. This is the fourth game of a five game series. The Eagles lead at present by 2,806 points. The Moose say they will put the lead on their side after the game Friday night.

United Lenten Service.

READER TAKES NEW FORM OF IRON—FEELS YEARS YOUNGER

"Two weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how Ostosalts or people over 40 in pills and capsules could have their age restored. I was very tired and run down, had no appetite, no ambition, no pep, could not sleep soundly, had rheumatic pains, was nervous and irritable. I have taken Ostosalts just two weeks; the results are simply astonishing. The rheumatic pains have left my legs and shoulders, I eat like a horse, sleep like a top and feel and look fifteen years younger."

The above is a typical hyperbolical statement of the results that have been obtained by a great many people since they started this satisfaction producing iron tonic. Offer no unmasked free. # MEBS CLINCH TITLE IN NEW LONDON Y. M. C. A. BASEBALL HOUSE LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 19.—The victor of the Y. M. C. A. House league was decided Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. court when the Mebs defeated the Acmy quintet in the initial contest of the evening by a 22 to 8 score. In the second game which was originally scheduled to bring together the Dormats and the Clerks, was forfeited to the latter team. An exhibition game was played and the Dormats strengthened by the addition of two Leather Pushers players, gave that team a 39 to 19 decision.

The Mebs-Acmy game resulted in a hot battle, although the score does not indicate that the game was close. For the first 30 minutes of this game one of the prettiest basketball duels ever seen in the city was in progress. Every move made by a member of either the Mebs or the Acmy five was for some definite purpose. Little time was devoted to slow play, the teams were willing to mix it up and the usual large crowd present appreciated this fact.

The Acmy five exhibited a flashy passing game in the first half that marked this team as an outfit that could gain a victory over the Mebs. While the passing of the Acmy five was accurate and fast during the first half, the play of this team in the last fifteen minutes of play was anything but a resemblance of the team that left the floor at intermission. The passing was inaccurate, the defense flaccid and above all the Acmy players had a tendency to let the ball slip through their hands when an easy score was inevitable.

Whatever showing the Acmy team made in the entire contest towards winning the game was due to the all around work of Kelly at center. Contrary to the belief that a man of a ponderous frame and elongated, would prove himself to be a handicap to a team rather than an asset, Kelly showed the fans present how fast a heavy man can be on the chalked court. He was behind every successful offensive or defensive drive that the Acmy team engineered all night. He loomed up like the Woolworth tower in the pathway of any Mebs' drive that attempted to work the ball down the court within shooting distance.

A fast and furious pace was set from the very beginning, the play fluctuated with the Acmy having the upper hand when it came to passing, but when it came to shooting, their attempt for the basket met with some unusual hard luck and not a single field goal was registered by this team all during the first half. The Mebs had fewer chances for the basket but they made good in their attempts and accounted for three baskets from the field. The score at half time stood 6 to 2 in the Mebs' favor.

With the beginning of the second half the Acmy players went right after the contest. Two baskets, one by Brewer and one by Kelly, tied the score at 6-all. But the defense of the Acmy began to slacken and the Mebs taking advantage of this flaw, piled up a substantial lead and were never headed from that point on.

For the Mebs, Sistare, McDougal and Bratz all did good work towards winning the league championship for this team. For the losers, Browne and F. Brewer played hard.

The teams lined up as follows:

Mebs.

When the time arrived for the second game to take place, the Dormats had but three of their regulars, while the Clerks had their team intact. The Clerks took this game by forfeit and an exhibition game was then played. It was an easy matter for the Dormats to gain a victory for they had two members of the Leather Pushers' team in their lineup. It was a slow and uninteresting game from the very start. It was a loafing match and very few of the fans remained for this contest.

All the Clerks had to do is to gain a victory over the Dormats, either by forfeit or by playing, to go into a tie for fourth place in the league standing. No doubt it would have been an easy matter for the Dormats to gain a victory had their team put in an appearance.

The score at the end of the first half stood 20 to 5 in the favor of the Dormats. The play in the second half stood 20 to 5 in the favor of the Dormats. The play in the second half failed to make it interesting for the few remaining fans and when the contest was over it was not regretted.

Risch and Laskey for the Dormats were the high scorers for the evening with 15 and 12 points respectively.

Kirchoff and MacCraw for the Clerks scored more than half of their team's total.

The lineup and summary:

Dormats.

DEPUTIES REPORT FAVORABLY ON LYNCH AND GOLDSTEIN

New York, March 19.—Putting into operation a new system to forestall repetition of several championship fiascos within the past year, the state Athletic Commission today heard reports of deputies who visited the training camps of Joe Lynch, bantamweights, titleholder, and Abe Goldstein, his challenger in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

These reports satisfied the commission that both Lynch and Goldstein were in good fighting trim and prepared to make the required weight of 118 pounds. Lynch yesterday weighed 120 and Goldstein 119 1-2.

Such investigations were decided upon after the recent flyweight battle between Pancho Villa, world's champion, and Georgie Marks, of California, which was robbed of title aspect when Marks, entered the ring more than four pounds over the 112-pound limit.

The commission probably will effect a working agreement with the newly formed boxing commission in Buenos Aires, capital of the Argentine, as a result of a letter from the head of the Southern American board proposing cooperation between the two organizations. George E. Brower, chairman of the local commission, said this proposal was favored.

BREAKS RECORD FOR HIGH JUMP AT CHICAGO

Chicago, March 19.—Harold Osborne, representing the Illinois Athletic club, competing in the annual Central A. A. U. senior indoor track meet tonight broke his own world's record for the indoor high jump, clearing the bar at six feet six inches. The former record was six feet five and three-quarters inches.

Katherine Lee, Chicago, competing unattached, also broke her own world's record for the indoor and outdoor high jump for women by one-eighth of an inch when she jumped 4 feet 11 inches.

Battery B Seconds Beaten.

In a rough game at the state armory on Wednesday evening the Mystery Five trimmed the Battery B Seconds, 25 to 16. The game was fast but the roughness of the play detracted from the interest.

MARCH'S CHANGEABLE WEATHER

One may expect many changes in March and should be prepared for coughs and colds. The slight cold, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. With the first sign of a cough or cold take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the old reliable family cough remedy, excellent for coughs, colds, hoarseness. John R. Lyons, Prescott, Arizona, states: "I had a bad cough, used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND and it relieved me in a little while."

SEVENTEEN SCHOOLS ENTERED IN SWIMMING MEET

New Haven, March 19.—Seventeen schools have entered the national interscholastic swimming meet which is to be held in Carnegie pool on Saturday under the auspices of Yale university. This is the largest number of schools ever represented in the meet. Last year nine schools were entered. The entries are as follows: Mercersburg, winners a year ago; Dewitt Clinton, of New York; Erasmus Hall, of Brooklyn; Schenectady high; Westminster school of Simsbury Conn; Worcester academy; Poly Prep of Brooklyn; Brooklyn high; Townsend Harris of New York; Lawrenceville; Shattuck, of Faribault, Minn; Manuel training of Brooklyn; New Haven high; Wilmington high; McBurney school of New York; Crosby high of Waterbury, and Devitt, Washington, D. C.

M'CARNEY TO GO THROUGH FIRPO'S CANADIAN TOUR

New York, March 19.—Although he received confirmation today of Luis Angel Firpo's intention to retire from the ring next month, William McCarney, the Argentine Battler's representative here, said tonight he would not yet abandon arrangements for an extensive tour of Canada and the United States by Firpo next summer. Thus, he pointed out, if Firpo changes his mind in response to numerous appeals, the tour can be carried out.

Firpo, it was learned today, contemplated retirement for some time before making an announcement. Observers also saw a possible indication that Tex Rickard was aware of this when promoter signed two new prospects, Erminio Spalla, of Italy, and Quintin Romer Rojas, of Chile, for heavyweight campaigns to fill a gap which Firpo's retirement would leave.

HADDOCK PROTESTS VOTE TO RECEIVE COUNCIL ACTION

Pittsburgh, March 19.—William S. Haddock, treasurer of the United States football association, today protested against a reported mail vote by members of the football council to rescind the action taken last May by which the winner of the national amateur challenge cup competition was designated as the soccer team to represent the United States at the eighth Olympiad at Paris.

Holding that the association had already settled the selection of the Olympic soccer team, Mr. Haddock declared it would be unfair to teams remaining in the cup competition to rescind the action.

MGR. RAYMOND STATES HIS CLAIM TO JUNIOR TITLE

Manager Raymond of the Taftville Celtics wishes to explain to the Army-Navy Seconds how his team claims the junior title. The Celtics were supposed to play the Seconds on Feb. 20th as a preliminary to the Boston Whirlwinds game but the Seconds ran out of the game and signed the Bantams. The Bantams trimmed the Seconds and then the following week the Celtics trimmed the Baltic Bantams. On this the claim for the title is based but if the Seconds really want to play a game can be arranged with Manager Raymond.

COLLEGE WRESTLING TITLE TO BE DECIDED SATURDAY

New Haven, March 19.—Intercollegiate wrestling titles, both team and individual, will be settled Friday and Saturday when Yale, Cornell, Penn State, Columbia, Lehigh, Pennsylvania and Princeton meet in the Yale gymnasium in the annual intercollegiate league matches. Cornell won the team event at Ithaca last year.

Penn State is looked upon as a likely winner this year, but Yale has made an excellent showing in all of her meets and expects to be a close contender for honors.

HOME RUNS FEATURE EXHIBITION GAME

Cleveland, Ohio, March 19.—Nine home runs were made in today's game in which Cleveland defeated Cincinnati 8 to 7 at Orlando.

George Burns, Indians first sacker, led with two, Stephenson, Jamieson, Joe Sewell and Brower each acquiring one. Bressler, Bohne and outfielder Rouch hit homers for the Reds.

Bower's scored two men ahead of him. No one was on base when the others were made.

Luman Elected Eli Captain.

New Haven, March 19.—J. Luman, a junior, of Pinedale, Wyo., was elected captain of the Yale varsity basketball team for next season at a banquet of the team tonight. Luman has played on the team two seasons, playing center on this year's team. He played right end on the football team last fall.

Robert B. Tibbs, a junior, was elected manager, and James B. Davis, a sophomore, assistant manager.

American Bowling Congress.

Chicago, March 19.—H. Vonderhaar, Chicago, counted 722 for third place in the singles of the American Bowling congress today. Games of 255, 269 and 198 gave him his total.

Ostar, Jacksonville, Fla., placed second in the all-events. His score in the main event was 706, with 605 in the doubles and 642 in the singles giving 1,853. Edholm and Sanders of Waukegan, went into fifth place in the doubles standing with 1,267.

High scores for the day were, doubles: Edholm-Sanders, Waukegan, 1,267; Hesley-Kartheizer, Chicago, 1,255; Muno-Llope, Chicago, 1,223.

Broadway Beats Sacred Heart Five

The Broadway basketball team won another victory from the Sacred Heart team Wednesday afternoon at Parish hall in Taftville by a score of 15 to 8. The Broadways completely outclassed the Taftville school boys and were in no danger at any time during the game.

The Broadway five challenges any grammar school team in the city. If this challenge is not answered within a week the Broadway team claims the grammar school title.

SAMMY PITE IS STAR PERFORMER OF COLLEGE BASKETBALL LEAGUE

New York, March 19.—(By The A. P.)—Sammy Pite, brilliant Yale forward, and Cornell have captured the 1924 honors in the Intercollegiate Basketball league, Pite winning the individual scoring honors while Cornell, for the first time since 1914, won the league title.

Pite's winning total of 97 points is 27 more than that of his nearest rival, Strom of Columbia, but it is the lowest since 1918. This is due to the new foul shooting rule, under which the player fouled, instead of a free throw specialist, make the toss from the 20-foot mark.

Measured in field goal scoring ability, however, Pite's performance ranks among the best on record. He caged 38 goals from scrimmage, more than any other rival, a total which has been eclipsed but once by a scoring leader in league history. That was in 1917 when Orson Kinney, of Yale, shot 43.

Cornell's defensive play was a big factor in its victory, only 196 points, the lowest permitted by any team, being scored against the Ithacans. Princeton, whose closing spurt threatened Cornell, led in offensive strength with 284 points. Except for Pite, Yale's quintet failed to come up to its 1923 championship form and finished in a tie for last place.

Final team and the five leading individual scorers follow:

Team Standing.

| | W. | L. | Pts. | Opp. Pts. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cornell | 8 | 3 | 241 | 196 | .800 |
| Princeton | 6 | 4 | 284 | 254 | .600 |
| Columbia | 6 | 4 | 227 | 201 | .600 |
| Dartmouth | 4 | 6 | 213 | 256 | .400 |
| Yale | 3 | 7 | 217 | 241 | .300 |
| Penn | 3 | 7 | 202 | 226 | .300 |

Individual Scoring.

| Player | College | Position | Field Goals | Foul Goals | Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Pite | Yale | F. | 38 | 21 | 97 |
| Strom | Columbia | F. | 20 | 30 | 70 |
| Klaess | Princeton | F. | 24 | 21 | 69 |

JUNIOR BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT ORGANIZED

Representatives of six lightweight basketball teams of Norwich and vicinity met with Physical Director Fritz at the Y. M. C. A. last night and organized a tournament to determine the lightweight basketball championship of this vicinity. After some discussion various regulations were drawn up, covering the various points of the game, among which were the following:

1.—That each team play every other team two games, and that the team having the highest percentage at the close of the tournament will be declared the champions.

2.—That the official basketball rules will govern, with the exception that the double dribble will be permitted.

3.—That each team submit at the time of entering a list of not more than ten players, and in the match games the team must be made up of players whose names have been listed and voted upon by the committee. This rule was introduced to prevent a possible substitution of "ringers."

4.—Each team will be required to pay in a forfeit fee, which will be returned to the teams playing through the series and adhering to the regulations.

5.—That the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium be used for all the games, these to be played Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

6.—The officials to be carefully selected, being men who are agreeable to both teams.

The first games are to be played next Wednesday night when the following schedule will be played:

Taftville Speedboys vs. Taftville Celtics.

Baltic Bantam vs. Y. M. C. A. Juveniles.

Plans are to be appropriate awards to the winners of the tourney, as well as the champion "cagers."

CHAPMAN TECH CLOSES COURT SEASON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 19.—The Chapman Tech basketball team will wind up its season Thursday night when it opposes Stonington High at the Chapman Tech auditorium. This game is expected to be an easy victory for the Red and Black warriors. Stonington was one of the teams entered in the Storrs tourney last week and was easily eliminated by Windham high. On the other hand Chapman Tech won over Windham by a 24 to 23 score. Judging from these figures the Tech outfit should have an easy time of it.

For the past three days Coach E. S. Taylor of the Chapman Tech five has been receiving offers from some of the leading high school teams in the state to engage in a two game series. However, Mr. Taylor thinks the Tech team had had enough basketball for this season, for this team has engaged in nearly thirty games more than was played any other single season.

Besides the Chapman Tech-Stonington High game, a fast preliminary has been scheduled between the Bulkeley Juniors and the Mebs of the Y. M. C. A. House league. The preliminary game will get under way at 7.30, with the main attraction scheduled to start an hour later.

HARVARD GETS FIRST OUTDOOR ROWING PRACTICE

Cambridge, Mass., March 19. — For the first time this year Harvard varsity eights appeared today on the Charles river for rowing practice. Three varsity crews in barges rowed from the boathouse a mile upstream and back again. Shells will not be placed on the river until the ice has gone out, the coaches said.

DOC CAMPBELL'S TEAM ARE VOLLEYBALL CHAMPIONS

The final volleyball games of the men's championship league were played at the "Y" last night, with the Giants proving themselves the champs of the local organization. And winning the Dr. Chamberlain trophy cup. The Giants, who lived up to their name in this contest, were as follows: Dr. E. B. Campbell, A. H. Charentsuk, A. C. Dunbar, J. Greenstein, R. Harris, W. C. Pullen and B. Polaski.

The final score as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Giants | 13 | 3 | .886 |
| Cubs | 11 | 4 | .733 |
| Yankees | 10 | 5 | .666 |
| Braves | 8 | 7 | .533 |
| Senators | 3 | 12 | .250 |
| Pirates | 0 | 15 | .000 |

The Cubs, who finished second, were as follows: A. Finlayson, L. Jacques, W. R. Frisbie, A. Grebe, F. Hollender, W. C. Noyes, R. Perry and Dr. Richards.

STRUNK AND ELSH ARE INJURED IN GAME

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19.—Amos Strunk, right fielder, and Roy Elsh, understudy of Eddie Collins at second base for the Chicago White Sox, were injured today in the game with the Boston Braves, while getting under a high fly knocked by Nixon. The two players came together with terrific force, their heads taking part of the shock. Elsh suffered a broken nose, while Strunk escaped with bruises on the face. Both men were carried from the field. The accident brought in two runs for the Braves, Boston winning, 4 to 0.

VILLA FIGURES IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

San Francisco, March 19.—Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion boxer, narrowly escaped injury yesterday morning near Salinas, when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another machine, it was learned tonight when the champion arrived here.

Seven other persons riding with Villa, including Mrs. Nelia Samson, wife of Villa's manager, and her infant son, were injured in the accident. Villa is to box in Sacramento, Friday night.

EXHIBITION GAMES

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 19.—Boston Nationals 4 8 1.
Chicago Americans 0 5 1.
Genewich, Marquard and O'Neill; Lyons and Schalk.

Orlando, Fla., March 19.—Cleveland American 8 14 1.
Cincinnati Nationals 7 12 0.
Coveleskie, Edwards, Smith and L. Sewell; Benton, Harris, Vines and Hargrave, Wingo.

Bradentown, Fla., March 19.—St. Louis Nationals ..... 4 11 3
New York Nationals ..... 3 5 1
Dodk, Bernhart, Haines, Dyer and Holm; Gearin, Huntsinger, Baldwin and Ainsmith, Snyder.

Tendler-Freedman Bout Postponed

Philadelphia March 19.—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia boxer, announced here today that his bout with Sailor Freedman, in Boston next Tuesday, has been postponed until April 8 because of an injury to his ear.

Topping Wins Again.

Belleaire, Fla., March 19.—Henry J. Topping, Greenwich, defeated D. N. Teliman, Minneapolis, in the second round of match play in the Belleaire amateur golf tournament here today, eigh and six,

Syracuse Bowlers Beaten.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 19. — Although the hitherto undefeated Syracuse university team scored a total of 2,551 against De Pauw's 2,540 in a telegraphic match in the Intercollegiate bowling league, De Pauw won by taking the first two games. Manager De Banks Steward of the Syracuse team announced today.

New London Sport Command.

The individual and team records will be published in The Bulletin of Friday, together with a selection of a first and second All-Industrial league team. The scoring records that will be printed in The Bulletin are official.

Physical Director, Dr. A. R. Dawson of the "Y" has not picked the team that will oppose the Norwich Y. M. C. A. in the semi-finals as yet. However, a selection of the team that New London will use will be made some time today.

Doc Dawson had plenty of material to pick from now that the House league is over. The winner of the New London-Norwich game will oppose the Torrington "Y" at New Haven.

Chapman Tech will begin its preliminary baseball workout directly after the last basketball game is played.

Kelly of the Acmy five, a member of the House league, gave a remarkable exhibition of basketball playing last night. He was all over the court, intercepting or blocking passes.

The second basketball league with-in the past week has completed its schedule. Now the only league in the city is the Military league. This league has another month or so to run, but the winner is already decided, and that is the Headquarters five. The managers of the winning teams of the Industrial, House and Military leagues should get together and draw up a schedule for the purpose of deciding the city champion.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Clifford Coles, a Florida semi-pro, has been signed by the Toledo Club.

John Dowell, of Harrisburg, Ill., has been named manager of the Cairo Club of the Kitty League.

Harry Weaver, a pitcher, taken over by the Columbus Club from Indianapolis, has been sold to Galveston

Jack Gabiness, a semi-pro outfielder will be given a chance by Oklahoma City of the Western League.

Vernon of the Pacific Coast League has signed two more pitchers, Gerald Wear and Frank Kane, for tryouts.

The Bridgeport Club has signed Memitz, a left-handed pitcher, who forme. pitched in the Cotton States League.

The Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago is to be host to the annual indoor swimming relays and water polo championships of the National A. A. U. early in April.

In ancient days athletic sports were taken as a very serious part of national life, and were regarded indeed as being under the direct patronage of the gods.

The next opponent of Ted Moore, the English boxer, will be Lou Bognah, the clever Bridgeport battler. The two are slated to mix it up for ten rounds in Pittsburgh on the night of March 24.

The annual cost of the great Oxford-Cambridge university boat race in England is estimated at about $2,500 a minute. The expenses are spread over a comparatively long period, from the time when the crews begin their first practice, to the last toast at the banquet which follows the great race.

Probably the wealthiest of all baseball players, past or present, is Johnny Kling, once famous as a catcher for the Chicago Cubs, who has broken into the millionaire class since he went into the billiard business in Kansas City, with Bennie Allen, the celebrated professional cue expert, as his partner.

On one occasion Joe Beckett, the noted English heavyweight boxer, was challenged to a three-round fight for five dollars a round. The day before the contest he received a letter from the son of the opponent. "Dere Joe," it ran, "please give dad a good hiding, 'cause he beat me last night for doin' nothin'." Needless to say, Joe did as he was asked.

Jack Hendricks, the new pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, has a record as one of the most successful in the list of minor league managers. His only experience as a manager in big league company was in 1913, when he had charge of the St. Louis Cardinals. For various reasons, some of which were beyond his control, he was not able to boost the Cardinals very high in the column. In his new position, Jack's many friends are confident that he will retrieve himself.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

"Singer Jim McKee," William S. Hart's newest production for Paramount, opened at the Strand theatre today. Clifford Smith directed, and Phyllis Haver, an ex-Mack Sennettite, has the leading woman's role.

The story differs greatly from anything the two-gun star has ever attempted before. He wrote the story himself, with an eye to his own capabilities, and J. G. Hawkes adapted it to the screen. Hart's is the role of a mining prospector of Spanish parentage. With his partner Buck Holden, Singer for three years has driven a tunnel into a mountain only to find there is everything but gold there.

Buck's motherless daughter, Mary, just about old enough to sit up and take notice, can't be toted all over the country with these two rough westerners. Something must be done for her proper upbringing. There is but one way out of the difficulty, and Singer Jim and Holden choose it.

While out for a canter along a mountain trail near their old cabin, Mary finds Singer Jim—and happiness. "Singer Jim McKee" is Hart's best to date.

In the supporting cast of the picture are Gordon Russell, playing Buck Holden, Bert Sprotte, Ruth Miller, Edward Cozen, William Dyer, George Siegmann and Baby Turner.

AT THE PALACE

There will be an entire and complete change of bill at the Palace theatre today for the last three days of the week by Marty Dupree's company of talented entertainers. The new bill will be "Saucy Lady" and will be an entirely new farce that is even funnier than any yet staged by this company. The scenes will be different and the company will be costumed brilliantly in a new display of fashion. The song and dance numbers will be the latest hits of the season and on the whole the show will be entirely different.

The feature picture is "Three Miles Out" featuring Madge Kennedy in the leading feminine role. Miss Kennedy is supported by an exceptionally fine cast. Three Miles Out is a picture that holds the attention throughout. An educational film and comedy complete the bill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE ELSHUCO TRIO

An Italian, a Hollander and an American make up The Elshuco Trio which will be heard in New London at Bulkeley auditorium next Monday night. All are American citizens, but Aurelio Giorni was born in Italy, Willem Willeke in Holland, and William Kroll in the United States. Of the three, Willeke is of course the best known to the public generally.

A feature of the program will be a Willeke's 'cello, a Nicola Amati—one of four known to be in existence, is dated 1647 and was owned at one time by Franz Liest. In the hands of an artist ranked among the half dozen great 'cello players of the world, this historic instrument gives forth a tone of ravishing beauty, one of the loveliest now to be heard.

BREED THEATRE

Lillian Gish does not act, but rather lives the title part in The White Sister, now playing at the Breed theatre. Cast by nature to give an illusion of belonging more to another world than this one, she puts a spiritual quality, an emotion and a tenacity into the part which rises to breath-taking moments of artistry.

No one has kept alive a finer flame than Lillian Gish, a flame that has learned to burn always more brightly, and with a sureness equalled only by the constant admiration of thousands. Here is perhaps the greatest talent among real screen players, and the promise of splendid things given in her old Biograph days is supremely fulfilled in Henry King's production of The White Sister. Her popularity today is as sturdy as in the old days with the added advantage of having grown with each new performance.

Her remarkable characterizations in Broken Blossoms and Way Down East, in which she portrayed young girls at odds with the world, firmly established her as the screen's most appealing actress.

She has outdone anything in which she has hitherto appeared in The White Sister, however. In this, her first independent production, she has a role which permits her to nurse to great emotional heights. In her own opinion, Miss Gish is quite convinced that it offered her opportunities which were in complete harmony with her histrionic tendencies. She has more than justified that opinion.

In The White Sister the captivating star braves a violent storm which accompanies the eruption of a volcano. The White Sister, based on F. Marion Crawford's story, is a Henry King production sponsored by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., of which Charles H. Duell, Jr., is president, and it is released through Metro.

Broadway Theatre

William A. Brady's big musical success, "Up She Goes," will be the attraction at the Broadway for one night, Monday, March 24. It comes here with an enviable record not only in New York, where it ran for a year at the Playhouse, but also in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston where it repeated its New York triumphs.

The engagement here is noteworthy in view of the fact that the Boston company comes here intact; it is not, therefore a road company as playgoers have come to know that term. Indeed with the same superb company that comes here playing in it, this musical delight had a long run in Boston at the Wilbur, Majestic and Shubert theatres, and was unanimously declared by the newspapers to be the best musical offering of the season. The way the public felt about it is evidenced by the length of stay and the crowded houses.

No musical comedy can achieve such success unless it has what the public wants. And what the public demands in a musical comedy are certain essentials: Flaming youth; that touch of romance that has in it some of the feeling beauty of a beautiful sunset; melic, rhythmic music, that can be danced to, sung and whistled; and that touch of sentiment that is perhaps the more enjoyable because it hovers around for a time and disappears.

Broadway Theatre

A program full of surprises and novelties that is bound to please the most discriminate of audiences.

Mercedes is the sensation on the program. He is capably assisted by the marvelous Mlle Stantone. Mercedes transfers in silence and sincerity by telepathic waves to Mlle Stantone any musical selection suggested by the audience—from grand opera to ragtime. The most extraordinary power possessed by man. It has been investigated by the greatest psychologists of the world today and heartily endorsed by them.

The Hostons offer Table Antics, a great novelty.

Joe Ryan and Josey Moore in Full Has Come, is a great comedy offering.

That Irishman, Tom Kelly, is one Irishman who knows how to tell a story, which will keep you in continuous uproar.

Dorothy Doyle and Her Dandies is a company of six in a syncopated treat, showing jazz as it is.

WOMAN TO SPEAK BEFORE EQATH. COUNCIL

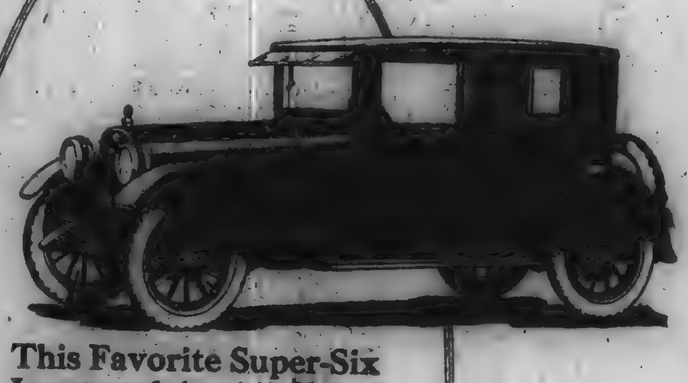
The second of the talks arranged by the educational department of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women is to be given Friday evening. These talks are public and are given in the council room in the Carroll Building, beginning at 7.45 o'clock.

The speaker this week is to be Dr. Hannah G. Roach, of Connecticut College. Dr. Roach is connected with the history department of the college, and has made a most favorable impression in her talks in cities about the state.

Her topic, Friday evening will be "The World Court."

HUDSON



This Favorite Super-Six Improved in All Ways

The attractions of a more beautiful and comfortable body, with the greatest Super-Six chassis ever built are combined in the new Hudson Coach.

Also unmatched price advantage. At $1475 it costs but little more than open models. Yet it provides the wanted comforts, distinction and all-season utility of a fine closed car.

Motordom concedes that no car excels Hudson in performance reliability and long life at low maintenance.

Now, to those famous qualities are added refinements that assure prompt starting in coldest weather, as well as greatly increased gasoline and oil economy.

Is it any wonder that the new coach has met a reception surpassing any Hudson ever built?

SUPERNUMERARY POLICEMEN SHY, THOUGH NEEDED IN NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 19—Former City Manager James H. Barlow, now in the employ of Councilor Lucius E. Whiton, enters into a newspaper discussion with Councilor William C. Fox over the statement the latter made in the council last Monday night to the effect that if the back taxes now being paid were not used for the payment of the city's current debts the taxes would be higher than they are. Mr. Fox is generally regarded as a man who has his facts in hand when he makes such a statement as he made at the council meeting, so that a reply to Mr. Barlow is to be looked for. The fact is a reminder that the citizens of New London are paying more money in taxes than ever before, and that the condition of things is not at all to the liking of the property owners, who were led to believe that their taxes would be lower than ever under the new form of government. It is true that the rate has been decreased, but the assessment of property is at such figures that the cost to operate the city is much greater than in the past. Mr. Fox declared that if the city paid its way as it proceeded and did not issue bonds, the cost of government would be even higher than it is now, to the extent of five mills or more. The claims of the councilor and the former city manager are as antagonistic as they well could be. But there will be no election for members of the city council till next October. The citizens had the opportunity to change the form of government during the year just passed, but they did not take advantage of it after starting in to secure the change. It is said that the current year will give the city all the commission form of government it cares for. Wait and see how near the mark the prophets come!

Miss Eleanor Mercer, of Huntington street and Lloyd Gilligan of West Park street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, returned to their respective homes today.

The funeral of James Sherry, a lifelong resident of Waterford, was held this morning at 10:40 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, New London, services being conducted by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were Francis, Owen and Sylvester Perkins, John Daly, Harold Peters and Paul Cavanaugh. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elias S. Taylor, widow of Edward Taylor, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence in East Lyme. Rev. George W. Fetter, pastor of Niantic Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

The body of Miss Katherine A. Goddard, daughter of the late James E. and Frances F. Goddard, former residents of New London, whose death occurred at Ridgewood, N. J., Sunday, was brought to New London this afternoon at 1 o'clock for burial in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. I. Roney Wanforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ in New York, services had been held at the First Presbyterian church Fifth avenue and 11th street, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

An automobile owned by Isaac Moran, a Truman street butcher and operated by Ralph Bump, struck and injured, though not seriously, a boy named Castagna, aged 4, of 33 Spring street this afternoon on Bank, near Spring street. The boy was taken to Lawrence hospital, where a laceration near the left eye required several stitches to close.

A. H. Nostrand, 3 Huntington St., is seeking to locate his daughter, who is missing from home, having disappeared suddenly last Saturday. Mrs. Nostrand visited the police station Monday and requested advice as to what course to pursue in an endeavor to ascertain the girl's whereabouts. No record of the matter was made at the police station and so far as the police have moved in the matter is to turn the information in their possession over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

It has been ascertained that the girl left home and carried with her two suit-cases and it is believed that she went to Boston or vicinity and it has been reported that a male acquaintance might have accompanied her. The girl is about 18 and had been employed at a local job printing establishment.

A Red Cross class meets weekly at headquarters of the Catholic Diocesan Bureau of Social Service in Jay street to receive instruction in home care of the sick, under the supervision of Mrs. Nora Whiteside. This class heard an instructive and interesting lecture on preventive measures in cases of smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid fever, given by Dr. Philip J. Savage last night.

This was the first in a series of ten lectures to be given before the class by local physicians. The second lecture is scheduled for Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Ockford Hose company was called out by a still alarm this afternoon for a grass fire on a plot adjoining Lawrence hospital that threatened to reach buildings and cause serious damage, for the fire was fanned by a high wind. A quantity of chemicals emptied upon the burning brush and grass caused the flames to be quickly subdued.

Ephrania Felix, 12, of Mitchell court, a patient at Lawrence hospital under treatment for tonsilitis but a day or two, escaped from the institution contagious ward this afternoon, the lad making his escape when the attention of one of the nurses was attracted to another part of the building. As soon as the youth's absence was noted, the police were requested to be on the lookout for him. About two hours later the youngster was picked up by a policeman and returned to the hospital.

Peter Powers, who was taken into custody last night by Sergeants Howard and Babcock, charged with intoxication following Powers being found helpless at the corner of Main and John streets, was not prosecuted in the police court, Powers being discharged after being given some advice that he will do well to heed, as it was the first time he had been arrested in New London.

Miss Minerva Comstock, of Quaker Hill, left today for Southern Pines, N. C., where she will remain two weeks.

Grass fires were the cause of three still alarms being sent to fire headquarters late yesterday afternoon. One of the first was located at 700 Williams street, another at 545 Williams street and a third on Colman street. No damage resulted.

A. W. Holman will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning charged with violation of the automobile laws, having been ordered into court by Traffic Officer William Corcoran. Holman operated his machine to the corner of State and Bank St., where he is alleged to have failed to heed the signal of the officer.

A woman, whose identity was not established, was arrested tonight when she was found drunk in the rear of 591 Main street. Acting Sergeant Babcock and Patrolmen Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrick Sheehan making the arrest. The woman was well dressed and appeared to be a stranger in the neighborhood where she was found.

City Manager William A. Holt is seeking applicants for supernumerary policemen, but it is doubtful if he obtains any responses to his call. The reason for desiring to press supernumerary officers into service is because the regular members of the force will begin their annual vacation of fifteen days the latter part of this month, four officers taking their respite each month. In order to have the boats of the officers on their vacations covered supernumerary officers must be used. The city's list of supernumerary policemen contains but two or three members and it is understood, that these officers will refuse duty because of being unwilling to perform police duty for four or five months and then be out of a job. The supernumerary officers, although performing regular officers' work, do not draw the same salary as a regular officer, being compensated at a considerably lower rate.

One of the new platforms with spring base, used by traffic officers was put out of commission this afternoon when a bus of the Keeney's corner line, ran over it at the station, corner of Bank and Howard streets.

A dangerous hole was discovered in the sidewalk in front of the property at 882 Main street, this evening, when Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh observed the deep depression. A red light was placed at the danger spot to warn pedestrians.

Sergeant of Police Charles Hammond is to be given a hearing on Friday morning, at the office of City Manager William A. Holt, in the municipal building, at 11 o'clock. The time and place of the hearing was announced today by the city manager. It is expected that besides Captain Pitney the other witnesses will be Lieut. Benjamin Beebe, Desk Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman William Babcock and City Physician George P. Cheney.

The bid of $263,500 for the Groton Iron Works which was offered by Herman Shapiro of Baltimore for the land and buildings, has been accepted by the auctioneers, it is understood. The cost to the government was some $4,000,000. The United States district court, Judge Edwin S. Thomas is yet to pass upon the bid, and until he has done that the sale cannot be perfected.

Where have all the coastwise vessels gone to? was asked of a mariner of experience this evening, when the number of vessels that were formerly registered as from this port. He declared that there was so little business for this class of vessels that they are being withdrawn from service and many of them have been lost, or broken up. He cited the passing of the Wyoming last week, wrecked to the eastward, and pointed out that there is but one of the vessels of her class left. Barges are now carrying the bulk of the coal that comes from the ports supplied by the mines and these barges carry as much in many instances as eight big schooners could transport. He also said that a greater number of vessels is being broken up than any one has accurate information about. In some instances the fittings of these vessels are sold for a very small percentage of the cost.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Frances Fisk, widow of Marcus B. Fisk, was held at Grace church, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. John Wilkins officiated. The body was placed in the receiving vault in Stafford Springs cemetery. The bearers were Frances Luce, W. H. Taylor, Arthur Shepherd, Charles H. Newton, John Demiston and David Mitchell. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lane former residents, now residing at Noank called on friends in the borough Wednesday.

Lapel services were held at St. Edward's church Wednesday evening. The Rhode Island Worsted mill which has been quite slack all winter is again operating on a full time schedule.

The public schools will close Friday, March 28th for the spring vacation. The high school seniors will leave Thursday for the annual Washington trip.

GALES FERRY

The fourth annual birthday party of the Village Improvement association was held St. Patrick's day evening at the Country club house, beginning with supper at 6.30 o'clock. The tables were arranged in a hollow square and green ribbons outlined the central decorations the length of the tables, with bouquets of pussy willows and green, interspersed. Grace was said by Rev. Allen S. Bush, the president of the association. The menu was cold boiled ham, escalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, rolls and coffee ice cream, cup cakes with green icing and green candy. After the supper Rev. Mr. Bush, after expressing greetings and congratulations to the association, and their friends on the fourth anniversary of the association and the success it had made, presented Walter T. Clark of Norwich, county agent of farm bureau work, who spoke on the work, holding the attention of all. A song, All Through the Night, sung by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Miss Grace E. Povey, Everett Noyes and D. R. Povey, with Miss Caroline B. Freeman at the piano. Rev. Mr. Bush, then addressed the juniors, commending them on the interest they were showing in their clean-up work of home grounds and streets. Following this he presented H. D. Lamabee of Norwich, general manager of The Eastern Connecticut Power company who spoke interestingly on electricity, and the service the company would give as quickly to Gales Ferry as to a large city.

America was then sung by the assembly preceding the solo, Wearing of the Green, sung by Dudley C. Perkins. The closing feature of the very pleasing party was the huge birthday cake, with its four lighted candles, passed on a salver by D. R. Povey, and afterwards cut and distributed to everyone present.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Latimer was in charge of the supper, among the waitresses were Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Mrs. Joseph DeRitzha, Mrs. Alton Stoddard, Mrs. Mary C. Watrous, Mrs. J. A. Birch, Misses Laura A. Perkins and Julia Chamels. The table decorations were under the direction of Miss Perkins. Gordon Manierre sold supper tickets.

At Sunday morning worship in the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke from Romans 12: 1, the theme being To Serve The Present Age. To the young people, preceding his sermon, the subject of his address was Optimist or Pessimist. At the offertory the anthem, God Be Merciful, was sung by a trio, Miss Grace A. Chapman, D. K. Povey and C. E. Colver. A special offering was asked for Sunday morning, March 23, for the suffering children in Germany. A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society for Friday afternoon was among the church notices.

At the Sunday school session at noon the banner for attendance was awarded Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt's class. The Junior League met in the vestry at 6 o'clock with Mrs. W. D. Woodward leader. At the Sunday evening service, under the auspices of the World Service Series, a stereopticon lecture was given and was illustrated with 76 slides covering various parts of the world, descriptive of church extension and mission work, both home and foreign. Mrs. C. E. Colver read the lecture. Gurdon Manierre and Alfred Erickson operated the slides. Rev. Mr. Woodward read an article on the life of Bishop Asbury in connection with the lecture.

Arthur L. Peale, scoutmaster, with a group of Boy Scouts of Norwich, took a hike to Gales Ferry Saturday afternoon, returning by train.

Those that attended the musical comedy, The Hidden Idol at Norwich, Friday evening, were Nathan A. Gibbs and daughter, Miss Gibbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker.

Mrs. Billings F. S. Crandall of Stoddard's Wharf, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop of Gales Ferry, Mrs. James A. Stoddard of Long Cove, members of Anna Warner Bailey Chapter, D. A. R., of Groton and Stonington attended the March meeting at the Monument house, Groton, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Edwin W. Jones of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and her son, Vincent Jones, of New Haven, were guests over Sunday at the Bowerie, the home of Miss Caroline B. Freeman.

Friends of Mrs. Harriet F. Crandall of Gales Ferry, who with her sister, Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce, has been spending the winter in New York, where Mrs. Crandall has been seriously ill, are pleased to learn that she is making marked improvement, sits up some every day, and has written letters home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt had as their guests Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt and Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, to motor to New London to hear the Scandinavian Bell Ringers at the Mrs. E. church Thursday evening. Dudley C. Perkins also attended.

The meeting of the Boy Scouts was held at the Country club house Friday evening.

ROCKVILLE

Mr. Clede Woodmansee and William H. Browning of Westerly called on relatives here Monday.

Mrs. Bowen Matheweson, 48, who had been a great sufferer for months, died Saturday, March 15. Funeral services were held at Wood River church Wednesday. Besides her husband she leaves a son and several grandchildren.

Thomas J. Clark, of Quonochontaug, was a recent caller in place.

Orrin G. Woodmansee, who has been seriously ill for a week past, remains about the same.

Albert Strlepeck, who has been ill with pneumonia, is reported as improving.

I Offer Girls

My aids to beauty, and to woman youth
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I had a rich, ambitious mother. She searched the world with me to find the supreme beauty helps.

They made me a famous beauty. And now, after 40 years in the limelight, they keep me a beauty still.

Other girls in these same ways, can multiply their beauty. Other women can, to old age, keep their youthful bloom. I want to help them do so. The very helps that France gave me are now at your command.

I am very—very busy on the stage. But I am taking time to tell you the secrets of my beauty and my youth. And I hope the time will come when girls and women by the millions will enjoy what I enjoy.

32 helps in four

I found 32 things that women need to keep them at their best. French experts combined them in four applications. Thus beauty and perennial youth were made very easy for me.

One is my White Youth Clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays so many use today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. Twenty years of scientific study have made it amazingly efficient.

I use White Youth Clay to purge my skin of all that clogs or mars it. It gives me that rosy, baby-like complexion. Blackheads or pimples, oiliness or blemishes are unknown to me.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, keeps the face skin ever like a girl's.

One application of my White Youth Clay brings almost unbelievable results. Many women seem to drop ten years. Continued use does marvels, as it did for me. No girl or woman who once tries this clay will ever go without it. The price is 50 cents and $1.

Two matchless creams

My Youth Cream is a cold cream, based on lemon and strawberry. It is made to embody all the best that science knows to whiten, feed, protect and smooth the skin. I use it after the clay. It is also my night cream, to apply on retiring. Daytimes I use it as a powder base. No one ever found a cold cream to compare with my Youth Cream.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates the skin to the depths. When I wipe it off, all that clogs the skin comes with it. No other method cleans a skin like this.

Luxuriant hair

My hair is thick and lustrous. It grows finer every year. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray.

This is due to my Hair Youth, another French creation. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It takes but a moment, and it does not muss the hair. I can do no greater kindness than to urge you to employ it. It costs 50 cents and $1.

All druggists and toilet counters supply these products which I use. The price is small. Every girl or woman, if she will, can have the benefits I get. Go find them out. My Beauty Book comes with each. Edna Wallace Hopper, 136 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONGER.

New York, March 19.—Stock prices developed stronger resistance in today's market the irregular fluctuations in the general list reflecting the readjustment of speculative accounts. Gains exceeded losses at the close. Operations on the long side while aggressive only in a limited number of issues were aided by the plethora of funds available for stock market purposes. Call money opened at 3 1-2 and then dropped to 3 per cent., the lowest rate since August 18, 1923, with loans obtainable in limited quantities in the "outside market" as low as 2 1-4 per cent.

Continuation of the short covering movement which began in Tuesday's late trading gave opening prices a firm tone. When the shorts discovered, however, that in many cases they were bidding up prices on themselves they renewed their selling pressure concentrating on the motor independent steel and shipping shares several of which broke one to four points to their lowest price of the year.

Studebaker, one of the favorite bear targets was hammered down two and a quarter points to ninety-five and three-quarters, another new 1924 low closing at the bottom. Crucible was depressed nearly four points to 56, a new minimum, and then rallied 1 1-4 points. American International corporation was offered freely on publication of the annual report, showing another large deficit, the stock hitting a new bottom at 17 3-8 and then snapping back one point. Marine preferred yielded in sympathy.

Shorts in American Can apparently were badly punished, that stock soaring 6 1-2 points above yesterday's low to 119 1-8 and then slipping back to 117 3-4 for a net gain of 3 1-4, the day's sales in that issue running well over 100,000 shares. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe was another stock in which shorts had an uncomfortable time covering their commitments, the stock touching 80 3-4 and then easing up to 79 1-2, up four on the day. U. S. Steel common closed 1-4 lower at 100 7-8 and Baldwin showed a net gain of 3-4 at 121 1-2.

Oil stocks were firm on publication of a statement by President Teagle of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, that the supply and demand for oil would meet at the end of this month or early in April instead of May or June as indicated by the government figures of last November. Publication of a report that new business in the General Electric company had exceeded $55,000,000 in the last ten weeks brought fresh buying into that stock, which touched 231, a new high since 1902.

Chief interest in the railroad group centered in the accumulation of Norfolk and Western, which was run up nearly 8 points to 129 5-8, the highest since 1917, on the appointment of a committee of Pennsylvania railroad directors to consider its lease by that road. Marked strength also developed in the Frisco issues, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Wabash common and preferred A and St. Louis Southwestern, most of which sold at their highest prices of the year.

Time money rates softened in sympathy with the lowering of the call rate. Time money for 30 days is four per cent bid and 4 1-4 offered, with trading being done at the higher figure. Two to four months money is 4 1-4 per cent. bid and 4 1-2 offered, with the bulk of the business at 4 1-2 per cent. for 60 days. Commercial paper rates remain unchanged, prime names commanding 4 3-4 per cent.

Except for a brisk rally in Dutch guilders, foreign exchange rates held relatively steady with demand sterling being quoted around $4.29 and French francs around 5.07 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 19.—Stimulated by free offering of money at the lowest price since the summer of 1922, bond prices surged definitely higher in today's active trading. The abundance of funds brought a widening inquiry for all classes of bonds, with a particularly heavy demand for low priced railroad issues and U. S. government obligations, some of which attained new high levels for the year.

Weighing more carefully the possible effects of the measure on securities, bond experts were inclined to regard it as less harmful to bond values than first anticipated. A favorable interpretation was placed upon the change from a cash to an insurance basis, in view of the fact that a bonus payment or some sort already had been discounted.

The most conspicuous feature of today's market was the sharp rally of 6 1-2 points in Norfolk and Western convertible 6s to a new record high price of 128. Announcement that the Pennsylvania railroad had opened negotiations for the lease of the road brought a flood of buying orders and both the company's stock and bonds. Buying of other railroad bonds centered in the Seaboard, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, and St. Paul issues, all of which made substantial gain. Accumulation of local these issues up sharply.

New financing increased in volume. Offerings were made today of $14,000,000 Southern California Edison 6s and $6,600 000 Southern Railway 5s. The request of the Lehigh Valley railroad to issue $10,400,000 five per cent. bonds foreshadowed an early offering, while the New Haven was reported to be considering a new issue for improvement and refunding purposes.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 19.—Indications that much wheat will be delivered on May contracts had a good deal to do today with a price decline which carried the wheat market down to the lowest level since July 30 last. Wheat closed unsettled at 3-4c to 7-8 @ 1c net decline, May $1.04 3-4 to 1.04 7-8 and July 105 7-8, with corn 1-4c to 1.3c off, oats showing 1-8c to 1-2 @ 5-8c loss, and provisions varying from 5c setback to a rise of 2c.

A fresh wave of liquidating sales, which started in the wheat market soon after the opening found values lacking any adequate support until the May delivery had descended to $1.04 1-4, only 3-4 of a cent from the season's bottom figures to date. Talk of bulky deliveries to be witnessed in May grew out of the slowness with which supplies are decreasing and out of the fact that export business is apparently next to impossible at prevailing prices.

Sending of considerable wheat into store here served to emphasize the dearth of demand. In addition, more snow had fallen in the west and southwest, increasing the likelihood of a big yield in those sections. Some caution on the part of the sellers, however, developed near the end of the day, and a moderate rally ensued.

Corn and oats weakened in sympathy with wheat. Before a reaction set in, corn dropped to 77c for May, a new low point since the recent downturn commenced. The break in prices today, though, resulted in less liquidation than most traders had looked for, and the market recovered to a material extent, notwithstanding that Chicago receipts of corn continued to exceed the shipments from here.

Higher quotations on hogs upheld the provision market.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 19.—Strength of the oil shares, based on reports that consumption will soon equal production, was the feature of today's irregularly higher curb market. Prairie Oil and Gas led the rally with an extreme gain of five points, but forfeited all but 2 points of that before the close. Chesebrough Manufacturing Vacuum, Standard Oil of Ohio, and Nebraska, Gulf of Pennsylvania, and Imperial of Canada closed 1 to 3 points higher, while most of the other active shares improved fractionally. Standard Oil of Kentucky was a conspicuous exception, dropping a point. Signs of accumulation again appeared in New Mexico land, which advanced one point.

Dubilier Radio, one of the weak spots yesterday, rallied 3 points today on buying directed against the short interest. Cuba company advanced to a record high price at 40 7-8 in reflection of its good earnings position and improved outlook. Motors again yielded with the reaction in those issues on the "big board." Durant breaking more than 3 points to 21 1-8 and Jordan dropping 1 1-8 to 27, each at new lows for the year.

LIBERTY HILL

Rev. W. S. Woolworth preached a very interesting and forcible sermon Sunday morning in the series of sermons he has planned for the Lenten season, the subject being Jesus and Temptation, founded on the text, "For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted."—Hebrews 2-18.

Repair men of the Southern New England Telephone company were repairing the lines through this section Friday.

The Men's club held the March meeting in the church rooms Tuesday evening, the subject discussed was dairying.

Since the near-blizzard a week ago it has been cold weather with strong northwest winds, the mercury ranging from 18 to 35 degrees. Sap started from maples a very little, Monday.

Colds have been prevalent, especially among the children.

Abraham Lerner has been carrying milk for the Providence Dairy company since the storm with two-horse team until Sunday, when the motor truck resumed the work. Traveling is somewhat improved until the roads thaw up again.

Mrs. John Kinnaird is entertaining her sister, Mrs. William Sheldon of South Salem, N. Y.

Miss Flora Bruce resumed teaching the day school Monday, after a few days' illness.

Mr. Lefenthall has sold what is known as the John Avery farm to a purchaser from New York. The price was about $6,000, including the stock and tools. Mr. Lefenthall is moving into the Lathrop house owned by W. W. Palmer.

Miss Ada Davis, who lives with Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Woolworth is assisting Mrs. H. Martin Hull in New York city during the illness of Mrs. Hull's mother, who is convalescent.

The C. E. society plans to hold a St. Patrick's social at the church rooms.

New Way to Relieve Rheumatic Pain Quickly, Discovered by Famous Italian Physicist

No Medicine to Take. Speedy Relief Guaranteed by Local Druggists

After exhaustive research into the cause and treatment of Rheumatism, science has at last discovered a safe, external treatment which has quickly relieved thousands of chronic sufferers from their torturing pain.

Alessandro Volta, the famous Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named, has discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients that produces a fine powder which, when shaken into the shoes, seems immediately to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet. This is due no doubt to the fact that the soles of the feet contain 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in other parts of the body.

He has called this powder VOLTA.

The use of Volta powder has demonstrated such astonishing results in literally thousands of cases, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta to rheumatic sufferers in their city with an unqualified guarantee to return the full purchase price of the first box in any rare case where the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved.

All who suffer from rheumatic pains, no matter how long-standing their case may be, should take immediate advantage of this liberal offer. You can get Volta powder with this guarantee from: Lee & Osgood Co., George G. Engler, Frank Eggleston.

TOBACCO STAINED TEETH INSTANTLY WHITENED In NEW, SAFE WAY

No need now for yellow, discolored, spotted tobacco-stained teeth. Bleachodent Combination costs just a few cents and removes unsightly stains in three minutes at home. Leaves teeth white, lustrous, clean and flashing. Recommended everywhere as quicker, surer, safer than old-fashioned scouring methods which injured the enamel. Bleachodent Combination contains a marvelous mild liquid to loosen stain coats and a special paste which not only removes them, but, used daily, prevents formation of new stains. Only a safe mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination should be used on soft, sensitive teeth which stain and decay easily. Acts only on stains—not on enamel. Be sure to ask for Bleachodent Combination by its full name. At all good druggists, such as G. G. Engler, H. M. Lerou, Andrew McLaughlin, Lee & Osgood Co.

TAFTVILLE

Notices have been posted at the local postoffice stating that after April 1st, 1924, parcel post packages for Canada, will require a declaration of value of the contents, as is the case with packages going to other foreign countries.

Miss Hortense Caron of North B street is spending a short time in Providence, R. I.

Leslie Manchester of Norwich was a business caller in the village Wednesday.

L. W. Daniels of South Coventry has been a recent visitor in town.

James Trolan, who has been confined to his home on Providence street with a severe attack of influenza, is able to be out.

Joseph Gendron of Norwich was a business caller in town on Thursday.

John Reynolds, while driving a horse along Norwich avenue, was thrown to the ground and dragged some distance, when the horse decided to make a bolt for home, Wednesday afternoon. When Mr. Reynolds finally let go of the reins, the animal galloped to the barns of the Ponemah Company on South Second Avenue.

The funeral of Mrs. John Reeves was held Wednesday morning from her late home on Providence street, with a requiem high mass at Sacred Heart church, the celebrant being Rev. U. O. Bellerose, the deacon, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault and the sub deacon, Rev. Henri F. Chagnon. The bearers were Archie Molleur, Archie Molleur, Jr., Moise Durocher, Fred Roy, Desire Dufresne and William Roy. There were many beautiful flowers. A delegation was present from the Ladies of St. Anne of which the deceased was a member. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery on the Canterbury turnpike. Undertaker George G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the Taftville Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors. After the business session which was presided over by the president, Miss Gertrude M. Young, refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Castle Perilous, No. 3747, K. O. K. A. met Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. Committees were appointed to make plans for the Feast of Pentecost which is the next open conclave and festival of the order.

In the account of the play "The Bells of Shannon" presented at Parish hall last Sunday by the Sacred Heart Dramatic club, it should have been stated that some of the furniture for the stage was loaned by the Army and Navy club.

NORWICH TOWN

A birthday party held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Mayers 159 West Town street, was attended by about twelve people. During the afternoon, potato salad, salmon salad, cold meats, deviled eggs, rolls, fancy wafers, ice cream, cake and cocoa were served. Vocal music Victrola selections and games were enjoyed. Mrs. Cleveland Burdick won the prize in the cake guessing contest; Mrs. Potter of Willimantic was awarded the prize at Mah Jong, while Mrs. La Bont won first prize in pinning the tail on Spark Plug, and the consolation award was given Mrs. Thomas Doyle.

Much enthusiasm is being manifested in regard to the meeting of the Norwich Town Men's League, to be held in the First Congregational chapel, Friday evening, when it is expected there will be several speakers. The principal subject of discussion will be Schools and School Houses. John H. Sherman of Norwich is also to address the league on Bee Keeping.

Miss Clementine Bacheler of Dobbs Ferry on the Hudson, is expected to arrive the latter part of this week to visit for ten days at her home on East Town street.

Small Damage to Wagon

Judea Libo of Lisbon reported to the police Wednesday that his wagon had been run into in Greeneville and damaged to some extent by an automobile of the New London poster Co., registration number 33-446. The damage was not great.

PRESTON COURT NOLLES CHARGES AGAINST THOMAS J. KEELEY

Charges of robbery and assault preferred against Thomas J. Keeley of 13 Hickory street, this city, were nolled Wednesday morning when he was given a hearing before a justice's court at Poquetanuck, Preston, with Justice Appleton Main presiding.

Keeley was arrested in this city on Feb. 15, three days after the death of Julius Mattern, of Preston at the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium, and was charged with having robbed Mattern of $10 and given him a bad beating in company wh Arnold Beran of New London on the road near the Mattern place in the early morning hours of Oct. 25. It was claimed that the alleged assault and robbery had taken place after Keeley and Beran had been at the Mattern place drinking and there was an argument about getting some gasoline for Keeley's automobile.

The hearing Wednesday was a continuance from a week ago. In the absence of grand juror William Mitchell, who was ill, county detective William Lewis of New London, who made the arrest, presented the case for the state, Attorney John H. Barnes was counsel for Keeley.

Witnesses for the state were George Mattern, a borther of Julius, Mrs. George Mattern, and the father and the sister of Julius Mattern. Dr. J. W. Callahan testified as to the injuries which he saw the man had received when he was called to treat him.

Attorney Barnes introduced no Witnesses for the defense but argued for a nolle on the ground that all the evidence was hearsay and there was no direct testimony to make probable cause for a binding over. The Justice took this view and directed that a nolle be entered on both charges.

It is understood that Beran is now in France, having gone across in a tanker. At the first hearing in the case Keeley testified that the last he had seen of him was at the railroad station in New London some time in last November.

W. G. HENDERSON NOW AT ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

Norwich friends of W. G. Henderson, former superintendant of the Falls mills, will be pleased to learn that he is now living in St. Petersburg, Fla., having sold his cotton mills in Mobile, Ala., some time ago. Word that Mr. Henderson was enjoying fine health was sent to friends in this city by Charles B. Lee of Williams street who is spending the winter months in The Sunshine City, as St. Petersburg is known in Florida.

Speaking of St. Petersburg and its remakable growth in the past year Mr. Lee writes that churches in that city count their congregations in the thousands and that everyone is interested in the welfare of the churches. Only recently, he writes, a drive for $300,000 was started by a Congregational church, the sum to be raised in one week. In four days the sum of $285,000 had been raised. Other churches having similar campaigns also raised money easily and beautiful edifices are being constructed.

With the letter several copies of The Evening Independent (The Sunshine Paper) were mailed to the Norwich friend. An interesting feature is the slogan of the paper printed on the front page offering the entire circulation of the paper free of charge every day the sun does not shine on St. Petersburg. A record of but 74 time issues in 13 1-2 years indicates the type of weather experienced there.

Other items showing the vast changes in the city in the last 12 months tell of an outlay of $3,000,000 for boulevards and the erection of two big hotels. Huge advertisements telling of the growth of Pasadena, St. Petersburg's $50,000,000 gulf front development, and items about raising trees and shrubs for boulevard development are of interest. One improvement in Pasadena calls for 46 miles of wide boulevards, eighty miles of sidewalks. The plans call for 176 trees to every mile or 14,080 trees and as many groups of floral shrubbery for the boulevards.

Nearby is Clearwater where baseball at present forms the main subject for conversation. Club houses, golf courses, hotels and business blocks continue to grow almost over night.

The whole scale of things seems almost beyond belief but an illustration of the rapid changes may be shown by the story of a taxpayer who erected a one story building on his land and in less than a year sold it for a profit of 250 per cent., the sale price being $200,000. Many such houses remain in the city but are rapidly being sold.

A novel feature of the city is the open air postoffice, the only one of its kind. Beautiful in design the office is locked at night only by the use of iron doors. In the busy season thousands of letters are handled daily and as everyone of the 100,000 people in the city, most of them visitors, have their home city papers sent to them, the work is vast and it is not to be wondered at that papers go astray.

In reading the paper one notices that St. Petersburg, like every other city has its trouble, especially in the newspaper field. Papers have been stolen from porches but a standing offer of $10 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties has aided greatly in relieving the subscribers of this type of vandalism.

New Norwich Corporation

The Norwich Building Corporation of Norwich has filed a certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state in Hartford. Authorized capital $30,000. To begin with $3,600. Incorporators, Joseph Christian, Jerry Ferrel and Harry J. Schatz, all of Norwich.

Keeping Millions Free From Colds and La Grippe

W. H. HILL'S LIFE WORK

Colds cause more illness than any other human ailment. Realizing this 50 years ago, W. H. Hill determined to develop a quick-acting scientifically correct cold and la grippe remedy.

Years of research brought success. Mr. Hill discovered a most remarkable formula. He backed it with energy, faith, integrity and a name that meant "satisfaction or money back."

Today more than 4,000,000 families—one-fifth of America's population—use and recommend Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine.

The formula has never been changed in a quarter century. What Hill's has done for millions, it can do for you. Demand red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait. All druggists, 30 cents.

LORETTA HIGGINS SANG AT HER FATHER'S HOME

Of a concert recently given in Terryville by Loretta Higgins of the Opera Comique, Paris, the Bristol Press said:

Loretta Higgins came back to the old home of her father and grandfather last night and met with a royal welcome. She deserved it all. Some artists receive applause and much acclaim from their friends—when critical opinion differs with them, but not so with Loretta Higgins. She has a rich, strong voice, well trained, and back of that voice lies a keen intelligence which adds much to her music. Her interpretation of all the songs was most effective and pleasing. She is a real artist and her vivacious personality is thrown into all her singing. To see her is to like her. Her singing brought tears and laughter to the eyes of many. When she returns to this country after her coming European trip if she is not too famous as an artist to visit so small a town, we hope she will sing for us again.

In an editorial under the caption "Loretta Higgins, Artist, Woman," the same paper says:

Loretta Higgins impressed her audience last night as being different from any artist of high degree that they had ever seen or heard. She has a wonderful voice, well trained and without a flaw in it, sweet to hear whether she is reaching the very high notes or the very low ones. There is no question as to her future. She will go high on the roll of prima donnas. She will do this because she is a genuine woman first of all. One cannot conceive of her as being temperamental, as so many artists are. That she will do her best at all times is certain. That she never will be the despair of managers because of a sudden attack of nerves is also certain. She is natural and genuine and in love with her work. She sings from the heart to the hearts of those who hear her. She loves flowers and caresses and fusses over them just as any woman of your acquaintance always does.

Terryville people can well be proud of the fact that her father was of the good old stock and was born and spent his youthful days on the farm on Town Hill and that the talented young singer has spent many happy days in this village. The article telling about her success last night says that all hope to hear her again in Terryville, but while the writer is very loyal to Terryville, he has to tell his people that when Loretta Higgins comes again in this direction it will be to Bristol to the Community theatre where 1,200 people can be accommodated, and that Terryville people will have to get busy as soon as tickets are on sale if they want to secure seats.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM WIFE IN NORTH CAROLINA

On the ground of desertion, since Nov. 14, 1918, Jonathan Starr of Groton has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Alice C. Mabry Starr, formerly of New London, now of Albermarle, N. C. They were married at Washington, D. C., Nov. 2, 1911 and have no minor children. The suit is returnable in April.

TECH SHOW BROUGHT TO ROTARY CLUB FUND

At the monday meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel Dr. Clarence A. Spear, treasurer of the club, reported that with all expenses paid the club had netted $927 on the Tech Show which was given last Friday evening under the auspices of the Rotary club. This money will be turned in to the Dr. John S. Blackmar Boys' Work Fund which brings the fund well over the $2,000 mark. It was also announced that checks had been received from Mrs. Blackmar and her brother for substantial sums in remembrance of the late Dr. Blackmar's birthday which occurred this month.

At the business session at which President Charles A. Saxton presided two amendments to the constitution and by-laws were presented for discussion and by the vote of the club one was rejected and the other approved. Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth in reporting on the attendance of the club for the month of February said that the Norwich club led all other clubs of equal membership in the district and was second high among all the clubs. The Norwich club leads the Meriden club by four points in the attendance contest between these two.

An invitation from the Westport club to attend the Charter Night was read by the secretary. Secretary Weymouth also announced that the Norwich club would send some article or articles to the New Britain conference next month that were manufactured in Norwich. A nickled bronze door-knocker made in Norwich and packed in a Norwich-made box will be one of the articles and the other will probably be a Thermos kit.

F. Russell Smith in speaking on "Current Topics" spoke in favor of the deepening of the Thames river channel and the need of concerted action on the part of Norwich people in urging the matter to a successful conclusion. Improvement of the Thames will benefit not only Norwich, he said, but the whole of eastern Connecticut and must interest manufacturers clear to Putnam as a help in reducing freight rates. For building up walls and other needed work Norwich may be asked to vote some money as well as the government. The army colonel in charge is believed to be opposed to the Thames project, but Senator Brandegee and Congressman Freeman are heartily in favor of it. A final report has not yet been made by the army board of engineers.

Mr. Smith also referred briefly to the soldiers' bonus as one of the principal topics of the day.

Grosvenor Ely was the song leader and there were a number of vocal selections by the various club members among which was a delightful solo by Henry J. LaFontaine.

Columbia Republican Caucus.

In Columbia the republican town caucus was held Tuesday night. Representative Edward P. Lyman and former Representative Henry B. Hutchins, were chosen as delegates to the republican state convention and the congressional district convention to be held in Hartford April 2 and 3. Mr. Lyman was also elected chairman of the republican town committee and Mrs. Henry B. Hutchins, vice chairman, J. H. Lafleur, Lucius W. Robinson and Mrs. Howard A. Rice were elected as the other members of the town committee.

MERCHANTS UNITE FOR SPRING OPENING DAYS

Through the cooperation of the Retail Merchants Bureau of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, Norwich merchants dealing in millinery and women's apparel have arranged to have their spring opening on the same days, namely, Friday and Saturday, March 21 and 22.

Movements of this kind serve a great public good. These seasonal openings have an exceptional interest for all women who desire to keep in touch with the changing fashions and a large number make it a point to attend all the important openings. This often necessitates several trips down town as the practice has sometimes been to hold these openings at a time that best suited the convenience of the individual merchant.

In arranging for this joint opening the merchants had in mind the convenience of the shopping public. With the majority of the millinery and apparel shops holding their openings on the same days it will be possible for every woman who desires to learn the tendency of the spring fashions to come down town on either of the two days selected for the joint opening and to visit all the openings that interest her, in one trip.

Moreover, in selecting Saturday as one of the opening days the merchants had in mind the convenience of the out-of-town woman, who makes Norwich her shopping headquarters, as many of these women find it very inconvenient to visit the city on any other day than Saturday. It is expected that a great many out-of-town shoppers will take advantage of the opportunity to get their first glimpse of the spring styles on Saturday.

Elmer R. Pierson, Norwich employer, and James Davis, employe, while working kicked by horse, at rate of $11.37.

Communicable Disease Report

For the week ending March 15th, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health one case of diphtheria and one case of scarlet fever were reported from Norwich. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut were as follows:

Diptheria: Norwich 1; Preston 2; Ellington 2; Pomfret 1.

Scarlet fever—Groton, 1; Lebanon, 1; Norwich 1; Eastford, 2; Pomfret, 1; Putnam, 2.

Typhoid fever—Stonington 1.

LEBANON REPUBLICANS INCREASE TOWN COMMITTEE

The republican caucus of the town of Lebanon was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the town hall with Charles A. Perkins, moderator. There was a good attendance at the meeting and the work was speedily done.

The following were elected delegates to the state convention to be held April 2 and 3 at Hartford: C. Henry Briggs, Elmer N. Geer, Charles A. Perkins and Edward H. McCall.

When the vote for the republican town committee was taken up it was decided to increase the members by three, the following being elected: C. J. Abell, chairman, John Clark, Chas. S. Bishop, Fred N. Taylor, Charles A. Perkins, Mrs. Nellie McCall and Mrs. E. C. Payson.

New London Incorporation.

A certificate of incorporation of the Oak Grove Beach, Inc., of New London, has been filed in the office of the secretary of the state. Authorized capital is $50,000 and the company will begin business with $24,000. Incorporators are John B. Bailey, George M. Chapin, George E. Fisher, John B. Pendleton, George Goss and William Z. White of New London and Frederick L. Goss of Waterford.

POETRY

The Greatest Thrill of All

'The trails of Maine are tempting and I like th' pine-sweet air,
I love th' scent of tamarack and fir-breath everywhere.
Superior, in Summer, th' wild Canadian side,
And shores where trout as shrewd as men—and more so mebbe—bide,
I've thrilled while out and at 'em—I've known my pulse to leap
As widely as a rainbow's plume where mountain torrents sweep.
But Grub's my lord and master, and Grub's my greater thrill.
When bacon strips are frying on that fire beneath the hill!

Lake country—black bass biting, and a pickerel or two,
The white cent under elders and th' sky a matchless blue.
Or moose and deer and danger, in th' place of trackless snows,
A guide whose eyes are meaner than th' wolf his trap-line knows.
Adventure—wild duck shootin', down Carolina way,
Th' dawns of waist-deep water, and th' clouds o' sullen gray.
But—Grub and me are partners—no thrill is half so great,
As trout in butter fryin', as a hungry feller's bait!

Or maybe it's th' Southland—'way South—to tropic bliss,
Th' tarpon headed sunward as th' reel an' waters hiss!
A sailfish, bright as Heaven—a barracuda's gleam,
A shark so big it seems to be some demon from a dream.
Th' Everglades and 'gators—O, all th' world is sport,
When you have head to understand and heart to be that sort.
But Grub's my lord and master, my thrills my appetite,
With possum spitted on th' fire on some dark Southern night!

—W. Livingstone Larned, in the Sportsman's Digest.

Nancy Waite; Her Sampler

We found it in the garret, just as bright
As if she only left it yesterday,
This little sampler, life some bud of May Kept fresh between the years, where "Nancy White"
Set, stitch by stitch, an urchin with a kite,
A dog, a duck, a prim blue alphabet,
A flower-filled urn, a ship, a parroquet,
A mincing lady and a perky knight.

I wonder, if she had some tender thought,
Some wistful fancy, only she might know,
For each device her busy fingers wrought—
This little maiden dead so long ago;
And, if she wove into its threads, per-chance,
All that she dreamed of beauty and ro-

In hot weather the human body makes an extraordinary effort to adapt itself to conditions and meet the strain placed upon it. Violent overbearing or great physical effort for a few hours causes the body to throw off some four liters of fluid. In other words, the perspiration secreted in a brief while is greater than the entire blood supply of the body.

A few hours later he entered the office of a physician and asked him where a dog's tonsils were located. His first search in vain for them, he informed the doctor, and, being unable to find them, he simply cut off the dog's tail.

PINCHOT SAYS DAUGHERTY IS FAILURE IN THE CABINET

Declares the Attorney General Has the Wrong Conception of the Obligations of Public Office—Asserts That the Oil Scandals Are Merely the Symptoms of a Greater Evil — Agrees With Senator Pepper That Daugherty "Has No Proper Place in the Cabinet."

Lewisburg, Pa., March 19.—The department of justice, under Harry M. Daugherty, as attorney general, has failed in its task of defending the public domain, and Mr. Daugherty "has no proper place in the cabinet," declared Governor Pinchot in an address here tonight. Speaking at an open meeting of the Shields Memorial Bible class of the Lewisburg Presbyterian church, the governor said that "the president himself found it necessary to take the oil scandal prosecutions away from the department of justice to which they rightly belong."

"I have no personal quarrel with Mr. Daugherty," Governor Pinchot said. "On more than one occasion he has helped me in my effort to enforce the law in Pennsylvania. I think of him not as an individual, but as the symbol of a wrong conception of the obligations of public office, and of the failure to live up to his duties. A man does not belong in the cabinet merely because he has not been convicted of crime. I agree with Senator Pepper and Senator Borah, that, having lost the confidence of the president and the people, Daugherty has no proper place in the cabinet."

Declaring the Roosevelt conservation policy is in danger today "from a most reckless and shameless assault," Governor Pinchot said it was his duty "as a veteran in the conservation war," "as the chief executive of a great industrial and agricultural commonwealth whose security and prosperity depend not only upon its own natural resources but almost equally upon those of other states" and "as a being of the greatest republican state," loyal republican, governor for the time to call the attention of the people to the present attack.

"There is nothing in American political history to compare with the oil scandal in," he declared. "Yet bad as they are, they are merely the symptoms of a greater evil. They are nothing but the most recent examples of the unremitting effort of corrupt combinations of personal interests to grab for themselves, the natural resources which belong by every right to all the people."

Asserting that "like common bandits, the grabbers care nothing for the harm they do," the governor said, "Fall and his kind were willing to sacrifice the chances of our navy in battle for the sake of their own personal gain. In wartime that would be treason. In peace time it is at least betrayal. But there must come out of it all more than the punishment of the thieves. The navy's oil must be returned and the solid assurance must be secured that the conservation policy is permanently safe. We have had enough of grafting and grubbing. It is time to stop."

After expressing his attitude toward the department of justice and the attorney general, he declared the republican party "does not stand for Daugherty either as an official or as a symbol."

"The immediate need," he concluded, "is to get back the navy's oil. Next and most important, is to see that the conservation policy, the great guarantee of prosperity for the people of the United States is protected from its enemies, and that the forests, the coal, the water powers, the oil, now dedicated to the people, shall be made and kept permanently safe."

TEX RICKARD'S VERSION OF FIGHT FILM "DEAL"

Washington, March 20.—More reels of the famous fight film "deal" were run off today before the Daugherty investigating committee by Tex Rickard, the promoter, and Thomas C. Spellacy, a former department of justice agent.

Their testimony partly corroborated and partly conflicted with previous stories told the committee. In his nightly statement summing up the day's developments, Attorney General Daugherty declared that Tex Rickard had "exonerated" him from failure to prosecute film exhibitions, and that Spellacy's testimony mainly was "hearsay."

Rickard, in two lively hours on the stand, told of his part in the contract for widespread exhibition of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films in 1921, but said he had been "bunked" by his associates, had made little money, and had been twice fined for his part in the exhibition.

Spellacy confirmed generally the statement of Gerald O. Holdridge, another former department of justice agent, regarding the story told them by Jap Muma and its involvement of Mr. Daugherty, Edward B. McLean, the Washington publisher and others. He quoted Muma as saying Daugherty suggested that Muma should get a "cut" in the profits of the exhibitions, but disclaimed Holdridge's version that the attorney general suggested a 50 per cent. "cut."

Muma became an even more interesting figure tonight through the efforts of the committee to locate him, although Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in charge of the testimony, said Muma's lawyer had promised his appearance. Process servers now are on a fresh hunt for him, and Senator Wheeler expects him before the committee shortly.

Rickard said that Muma, telling of "influence," in Washington, suggested exhibition of the fight films upon assurances that a law would be passed forthwith making their display legal. This action could be secured in two weeks, Rickard said he was assured, but said that on this as well as other promises he was "bunked."

"I got bunked that's all," was his only explanation of the promises of legislation when senators expressed amazement that he considered them seriously.

They did not do anything for us," he said, regarding Muma and his associates. "We got no protection and no filing and they got their money without doing anything."

Rickard said he had nothing to do, after receiving his share of the profits with the film exhibitions outside New York and Illinois, where he was fined, $1,000 and $500 respectively. He denied any "conspiracy," in the agreement, but presented two contracts corroborating the agreement previously testified to. He and Fred C. Quimby, New York film producer, were the parties on one side, with Muma, Ike M. Martin, and Will A. Orr, on the other, each group receiving 50 per cent. of the proceeds.

Supoenas recalling Orr and Quimby were issued tonight, but Quimby was reported to be sick. Who will go on the stand tomorrow was uncertain. James G. Darden, the oil promoter who appeared yesterday before the oil committee, was present today in response to a subpoena but was excused for the time being. It previously has been testified that he received $2,400 each from Daugherty and Jess Smith in an oil deal. Mrs. G. B. Tulidge, of Philadelphia, mother-in-law of Elias Mortimer, star witness in the Veteran's Bureau investigation, also answered a subpoena today but was excused temporarily. Other witnesses from Ohio regarding bank, brokerage and other affairs of Daugherty and Smith are waiting for their turn on the stand.

Rickard easily was the feature of the day's proceedings. Although repeatedly under hard pounding by senators, his face never once changed its passive mold, while his brown eyes kept a sharp play on the inquisitors. His voice was seldom raised, but he spoke clearly and in most cases without hesitation.

Senators manifest most interest in the promoter's statement that he went into the film exhibition upon representations from Muma that through influence in Washington, he could get legislation within two weeks that would make the exhibitions legal.

Muma told him, Rickard said, that "they could get propaganda and advertising or publicity and get a bill passed; that they had some weight."

"You do not want us to understand, do you, that with all the experience you have had, you fell for any bunk of that nature?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"I told you what they said," Rickard replied, "I would never have gone into it—into any scheme of breaking the laws."

"After you had talked to Muma, then you concluded you would take it outside of New Jersey?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"No; it was after we got by in New York easily. It looked easy in the rest of the country and we went on."

Muma came to him and broached the exhibition proposal about June 15, 1921, or more than two weeks before the fight took place, the witness said. The contract between Rickard, Muma, and Martin, a copy of which was presented, was dated, June 30. A supplemental contract between Rickard and Quimby, dated July 13, provided for bringing Orr in as a partner of Muma and Martin, and for receipt by Orr of twenty per cent. of the profits with Muma and Martin each receiving 15 per cbent.

The entire picture netted only $36,-656, Rickard declared, challenging the testimony of Quimby that the profits were $135,000 and that $65,000 was paid to Orr, Martin and Muma. Presenting an auditor's statement, Rickard said Orr received $4,509.02.

COSGRAVE TO BECOME MINISTER OF DEFENSE

Dublin, March 20.—(By the A. P.)—President Cosgrave will assume the office of minister of defense, from which Richard Mulcahy resigned yesterday. The Dail Eireann tonight after an exciting debate adopted without division the motion of Kevin O'Higgins, minister of home affairs, that the president be appointed to the post. Mr. O'Higgins added that during Mr. Cosgrave's illness he himself would act for him as defense minister.

A striking feature of the debate was the testimony of Major Bryan Cooper, who was British press censor in Ireland during the war, that the rank and file of the army has been absolutely true to their oath, and that the insubordination had been limited to officers. Demobilization had nearly provoked a mutiny in the British army in 1919 but in Ireland he asserted, the men had stood firm.

The army council had put themselves indefensively in the wrong. Remarking that Ireland was not yet out of the woods, Major Cooper appealed for unity and the banishment of personal considerations.

BRITISH SAILOR KILLED; BLUEJACKET WOUNDED

Villefranche, France, March 20 (By the A. P.)—A sailor from the British warship Thunderer was killed and an American bluejacket from the flotilla of the destroyers McCormick, Simpson and Parrot, was severely wounded during a clash last night in which revolvers were used.

The wounded American sailor was one of the crew of the McCormick. His name was given variously as Granville Duware and Alexander Duware, whose family lives at 298 Grand street, Lockport, N. Y.

The wounded American explained that when visiting Villefranche last night with a British sailor the two asked a stranger to guide them to a certain address, but that instead of doing so the man led them to a deserted spot. Becoming distrustful the sailors tried to shake off their guide, but he pulled out a revolver and shot and killed the British bluejacket and wounded the American.

SALVATION ARMY M'Y DEAL IN WASTE PAPER BUSINESS

New York, March 20.—Attorney General Carl Sherman made public today a ruling that the Salvation army is entitled to operate a waste paper business because doing so provides labor for persons dependent upon its charity despite the fact that it is a profit making.

The ruling summarily denied the application of Charles McBride, for vacation of the Salvation Army's charter on his contention that it violated the grant by carrying on a mercantile business in competition with private corporations.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Tribesmen to Fight Spanish

Melilla, Morocco, March 20—Abed El Krim, the rebel chief, has decided to fight on rather than negotiate a peace pact with the Spaniards, according to natives arriving here today.

Martial Law Proclaimed

Buenos Aires, March 20—A despatch received here from Rio Janeiro says President Bernardes of Brazil has issued a decree placing the state of Bahia under martial law for thirty days. The step was taken because of political disputes in the state.

BOBBED HAIR BLONDE ARRESTED AS BANDIT

New York, March 20.—A woman with blonde bobbed hair, who answered the description of Brooklyn's girl bandit, was arrested tonight after an alleged attempt to hold up a Washington Heights tailor shop in Manhattan. Her male companion escaped but an expensive automobile in which they rode to the store, was seized by police.

Methods used by the girl and her companion were different, however, from those used by the Brooklyn bandit. The pair entered the store and while talking with the proprietor's wife the man tried to walk away with a bolt of expensive cloth. The proprietor's wife screamed and the man fled as her husband entered the store. He left an overcoat, in the pocket of which police found a burglar's "jimmy."

The engine of the automobile was left running when they entered the shop.

After more than an hour of questioning the girl told police her name was Betty Santos and gave her address as an apartment house on Riverside drive. At the house, however, detectives could find no one who knew a Miss Santos or anyone who resembled her. When told of this the girl refused to answer any more questions.

Identification of a bobbed hair young woman who was arrested after an alleged attempt to hold up a Manhattan tailor shop tonight as the wife of Albert Guimares, friend of Dorothy Keenan, who was murdered about a year ago, was announced by the police tonight.

The woman was arrested after a man companion had escaped. Guimares is serving a three-year sentence in federal prison at Atlanta for using the mails to defraud. She denied she knew the man who entered the store with her and who escaped after a tussle with Charles Bernstein, the proprietor, leaving his overcoat behind in the pocket of which a burglar's "jimmy" was found.

ARCHBISHOP IN PRIVATE AUDIENCE WITH POPE

Rome, March 20.—(By the A. P.)—Archbishop Hayes was received in private audience by Pope Pius this evening. The new cardinal, who spent an hour in the presence of His Holiness said afterwards that he was greatly impressed with the pope's magnetic personality, combining in a most charming manner high intellectually and gracious qualities. The archbishop made the following statement to a few American correspondents:

"It was the first time I ever saw the pontiff; I came away with the most extraordinary impression of my life I had been hearing of his magnetic personality from others, but tonight I received the full reaction of this extraordinary and gifted man of God.

"Little wonder that he had appealed to the intellectual world and to that of the plain people. It is not often that men in high places bear with them such a rare mixture and emphatic qualities of mind and heart as to win favor alike with the learned and humble people of the world.

"The pontiff impressed me as loving all humanity with the heart of a great man sanctified and consecrated by his exalted and holy office. Surely he is a leader for the world in the solution of its unsolved and apparently unsolvable problems from a human point of view. Pope Pius XII stands out as the symbol of salvation for human society."

LATEST RETURNS FROM NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARIES

Fargo, N. D., March 20—Heavy La Follette strongholds in several counties reporting late today added to the vote of the Wisconsin senator and trimmed another 1,000 votes from the plurality of President Coolidge.

La Follette jumped 3,000 votes ahead of Senator Johnson, the count is 1,-515 of the state's 2,038 precincts give.

Coolidge 43,133; La Follette 29,147, and Johnson 25,801.

Most of the unreported precincts are small.

State managers of the Johnson campaign, conceding Coolidge had won the republican preference by a "minority vote," charged the defeat of the Californian to the entry of La Follette through a sticker campaign in the last days before the election.

L. B. Hanna, state manager of the Coolidge campaign, placed the president's plurality at 15,000 and in a statement declared his workers had sought "to advance the president's cause without antagonism.

The president's victory assures him of North Dakota's thirteen votes in the republican national convention as the primary indorsement is binding.

BODY FOUND IN CLOSED AUTO AT BOTTOM OF LAKE

Lakeville, Conn., March 20.—The body of Lawrence Travis, 30, of Salisbury, who has been missing since February 16, was found today in a closed automobile at the bottom of Lake Wononscopomus here.

It is believed that Travis, who had been cutting ice on the lake, left his overcoat behind and driving his car back across the ice after it, broke through where ice had been cut that day and the water had frozen over again.

Today men at work on the lake saw oil on the water and getting a derrick and grappling irons pulled up the car. Travis was found huddled in the back seat. Medical Examiner Dr. Bissell gave a verdict of accidental drowning. He is survived by his father and brothers.

MISSING CUBAN MINISTER ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

Life of Charles Wm. Eliot One of Welfare

Widespread Recognition of the Worth of President Emeritus of Harvard on His 90th Birthday.

Cambridge, Mass., March 20—"In their service to their country in peace as well as war lies the duty of educated men, said Charles William Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard universiyt, who received in Sanders Theatre here today the salutations of the American people on his 90th birthday. Chief Justice William H. Taft, present as the personal representative of President Coolidge, bore the message of "love, gratitude, and respect for one whose long life has been full of constant and eminent usefulness in promoting the welfare of his countrymen."

Bishop William Lawrence, of Boston, announced that friends of Dr. Eliot had made gifts amounting to $1,350,000 for the better support of certain departments of the university, the gift being given, Bishop said, "in recognition of your illustrious life." Judge Edward T. Sanford, of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the Harvard Alumni association, announced the creation by the association of the "Charles William Eliot book fund"

TO GIVE BONUS PRIORITY OVER REVENUE MEASURE

Washington, March 20.—Republican members of the senate finance committee indicated today that they would seek to give priority to the soldier bonus bill over the revenue measure for immediate consideration by the committee. Action to this effect was generally predicted.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, a republican member of the committee, said such a move probably would be made this week and Chairman Smoot has said he believed it would be acted upon favorably. Both pointed out that it would be necessary for the committee to know what expenses the government would have to bear before deciding on the rate schedules of the revenue bill.

While democrats have taken no stand on the programme of the committee in its consideration of the two bills, no opposition has been voiced to the proposal to give the bonus measure priority.

Chirman Smoot, who yesterday introduced a proposed amendment to the bonus bill as passed by the house, providing for life insurance policies payable only at death instead of 20 year endowment policies today asked for estimates on policies of slightly lower value than he at first suggested.

The amendment called for policies based on 4 1-2 per cent. interest compounded annually on the sum of adjusted service credit due each veteran. Such a scheme would cost approximately $5,000,000 it was estimated, and Mr. Smoot has asked for the cost of an insurance plan with a rate of four per cent. the same as provided by the house, which would cost somewhat less.

NEGRO SUSPECTED OF SLAYING ZOE WILLIAMS

Kansas City, Mo., March 20.—Police tonight were weaving a net of circumstantial evidence in an attempt to connect Dillard Davies, negro furnace worker and an ex-convict, with the mysterious slaying of Dr. Zoe Wilkins, divorcee of the late Thomas W. Cunningham, wealthy Joplin, Mo., banker.

The chief of detectives announced he had obtained new information indicating Dr. Wilkins, an osteopath, was slain Saturday night, and said a woman had been found who declared she saw Davies near the Wilkins home that night.

Grilled again tonight, Davies denied he ever had seen a rusty, blood stained pocket knife found beside the body.

A junk yard employe had identified the knife as one he had seen the negro use at the yard cutting sacks.

Davies said Dr. Wilkins owed him money for tending her furnace. He said he quit her employment two weeks ago when he was arrested in a liquor raid.

INCOME OF THE RADIO CORPORATION OF AMERICA

Two Explosions in A New York Garage

One Man Killed — Thirteen Persons Injured, Including a Patrolman and Seven Firemen.

New York, March 20—One man was killed and 13 persons were injured when two explosions occurred in an uptown garage late today. The injured included a patrolman and seven firemen.

William Healy, 50 years old, proprietor of the garage, was the man killed. His body was found in the ruins of the building after a fire that followed the explosions had been extinguished. His son, William Healy, Jr., was among the injured.

The first explosion was believed to have been caused by the ignition of gasoline on the sidewalk. The second was in a gasoline tank in the basement and came as firemen were leaving the building after they thought the fire caused by the first blast had been extinguished.

Fire Lieutenants John Scanlon and Alexander Stapleton and five of their men were knocked to the floor, their uniforms masses of flames. The seven firemen were dragged to the street and rushed to a hospital a block away.

TESTIMONY AT PROBE OF INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU

Washington, March 20—Testimony regarding a $33,000,000 tentative additional tax assessment against the Standard Oil company which was later reduced by $16,000,000 came out today during the examination by the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau of E. C. Rossmore, former section chief in the bureau and now a tax accountant practicing before the bureau with the company among his clients.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, brought the matter up when he called Rossmore to the stand. first mentioning $5,000 as the amount to which the assessment was reduced. Subsequently, however, he said the reduction had amounted to $18,000,000.

Mr. Rossmore testified that on registration from the bureau in 1919 he began private practice as an accountant and had some cases before the bureau.

"Is the Standard Oil Company one of your clients?" asked Senator Couzens.

"Yes, sir."

"Did you deal with Standard Oil cases while in the bureau?"

"No sir."

The witness said that as a bureau official he had received $5,000 a year; and that the Standard Oil company alone now paid him $10,000 a year.

Senator Couzens asked what his total income had been since he left the bureau position, and he replied:

"I have averaged $75,000 a year for the last four years," Rossmore said.

Senator Couzens brought out the fact that Rossmore was under charges before the bureau that he had handled tax cases privately after his resignation of which he gained knowledge in the bureau. Rossmore said he had denied knowledge in the bureau. Rossmore said he had denied the charges to the bureau committee and preferred not to go further on that point before the senate committee.

PROGRESS OF ROUND THE WORLD FLYERS

Seattle, Wash., March 20—Major Frederick L. Martin, commanding, and three other officers, flying four planes arrived here today, an dtonight had settled down to 12 days of preparation on Sand Point aviation field for the hardest test expected in the attempt of the U. S. army to circumnavigate the glove through the air.

Three of the flyers, Major Martin and Lieutenants Lowell H. Smith and Leigh Wade, travelled today from Vancouver, Wash., to Sand Point, 193 miles, in two hours and a half. They were joined later by Lieut. Erik H. Nelson, who came from Eugene, Ore., today.

The flight was halted here for adjustments to meet difficulties of driving the machines from the United States to Japan. This, reckoned the most severe part of the course, led to the decision to equip the machines with pontoons.

On the journey from the United States to Japan, 4,168 miles as mapped out along the coast of British Columbia, Alaska and through the Aleutian Islands to the Kurile Islands of Japan, the machines are to rest tied to mooring buoys and will not touch land.

SENATOR BRUCE ENJOYED "GOOD VIRGINIA LIQUOR"

Washington, March 20. — Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, admitted readily in the senate today that he recently enjoyed an offer of "some good Virginia liquor," and hoped to repeat the experience.

The statement was made as an interlude to the debate on the latest proposal for a constitutional amendment.

"I am reminded," said Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, "that in the interesting address delivered by the senator a few days ago, he referred to the fact that during a recent visit to the state of Virginia he was hospitably offered some of the good liquor of that state."

"Indeed I was," replied Senator Bruce, "and I enjoyed it to the very highest degree, and hope to repeat the experience just as soon as possible."

The laughter which greeted the statement was repeated when Senator Walsh remarked that he also had recently visited Virginia to address the State Bar association but was not offered anything to drink.

"What sort of a bar association was that?" asked Senator Bruce.

Mrs. Hart is separated from her husband.

MARINES ARE TO REMAIN IN THE HONDURAN CAPITAL

Are to Disregard De Facto Government's Warning That It "Will Accept No Responsibility For Eventualities"— Navy Department Has Ordered the Landing of a Sufficient Force to Assure Adequate Protection of American Lives and Property.

Washington, March 20.—The de facto government of Honduras has informed Franklin Morales, the American minister, that it "will accept no responsibility for eventualities," if the landing force of American sailors remains at Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital.

The force of 107 men and nine officers sent to protect American lives and property at Tegucigalpa from the cruiser Milwaukee at Ampala should be returned to the cruiser at once, the minister has been told.

Minister Morales replied that the landing force would remain until the Honduran authorities were able to give adequate protection for American lives and property, including the legation and consulate, and that he would not accept responsibility for the consequences if the detachment were attacked.

Upon receiving the report the navy department sent instructions by wireless to Captain W. C. Asserson, commanding the Milwaukee, to protect American lives and property in Tegucigalpa and maintain there a sufficient force to assure adequate protection.

Dispatches to the navy department today from Tegucigalpa in addition to conveying this information stated that the landing force under Commander L. D. Causey, executive officer of the Milwaukee, was fired upon yesterday by government troops while passing through the lines outside the city. The fire was not returned.

The de facto officials apologized to Mr. Morales for the incident, and Commander Causey explained that he was satisfied the firing was a "mistake."

The navy department acted after it had discussed the situation with the state department.

Demand by the de facto authorities for the immediate withdrawal of the American forces was said to have been based on the ground that the numbers of the landing force were in excess of that agreed upon.

In rejecting the demand for the withdrawal, Minister Morales said the forces, while remaining in Tegucigalpa, would not interfere with the local authorities, and would, in fact, keep within the confines of the legation and consulate unless attacked.

TAX RATES CONSIDERED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, March 20—Interest in the senate finance committee's consideration of the revenue bill turned again today to the approaching fight on the income tax rates after the committee had agreed to some further treasury provisions on technical and administrative details in the bill approved by the house.

Democrats drew up some prospective rates today and submitted them to fiscal experts to determine their probable revenue yield while republicans continued apparently to hold to a plan to stand by the Mellon rates, adopted by the house ways and means committee, but displaced by the house for the Longworth compromise.

Meanwhile, attention was centered on estimates as to the probable amount of revenue to be required by the government next year.

A report submitted to the committee by Under Secretary Winston of the treasury showed the treasury in its estimates as to the probable revenue which would be collected next year, and on which it figured the surplus available for tax reduction, had used the lower figures of two different estimates.

If the maximum estimates had been used it showed that $88,416,000 more would be collected in the fiscal year 1924 and $248,416,000 more in the fiscal year 1925 than under the figures accepted by the treasury. The treasury had figured on the basis of the lower estimates that a surplus of $329,000,000 would be available in the fiscal year 1924 and $395,000,000 in the following year, the first in which the new revenue law would apply.

FEUD BETWEEN TAXICAB CHAUFFEURS OF HARLEM

New York, March 20.—What the police described as the opening battle in a feud between taxicab chauffeurs of Harlem, took place tonight when six men, all armed, fired several fusillades at a group of the Merry Rounders' club, wounding one man, Abraham Patocsky, in the right leg. The six gunmen escaped in a touring car.

At a hospital Patocsky, who is a chauffeur, insisted to the police that the shooting was the aftermath of feeling engendered Tuesday night at a boxing bout between Charles "Phil" Rosenberg and Gaylor "Kid" Lewis, of Hartford, Conn., his faction being for one boxer and the men who did the shooting tonight favoring his opponent.

After the fight, Patocsky said, the faction favoring Lewis carried out threats made during the progress of the bout to invade the Merry Rounders' club house but were repulsed.

When defeated these men warned the club members they would return, Potocksy went on and this they did tonight. He said they leaped from their automobile, mounted to the entrance of the club room and opened fire on the few members idling there.

Except himself, all the club members dropped to the floor, Potockey related, and he hurried across the room to turn a switch extinguishing the electric lights. As the lights went out a bullet struck his leg. He said at least two dozen shots were fired.

WILL H. HAYS SUBPOENAED FOR SENATE OIL PROBE

Washington, March 20.—A succession of thrills is looked for tomorrow by the oil committee with the appearance before it of Harry F. Sinclair, upon whom a subpoena was served today at New York.

The senate investigators are prepared to question Sinclair on a wide range of subjects, some of which have gone into rather exhaustively through other witnesses and others of which have not yet been touched upon.

Among the new phases is a story that the New York oil magnate turned over a large batch of securities to Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty to wipe out the deficit of the republican national committee incurred in the 1920 campaign.

The committee had hoped to go into this rumor today, but G. D. Wahlberg, former private secretary to Sinclair, who was to be questioned about it failed to respond when his name was called. Later committeemen learned that he had been ordered to Havana, Cuba, by his physician because of ill health.

A subpoena for Will H. Hays was issued by the committee and he is expected to be here Saturday. Carmi A. Thompson, of Cleveland, Ohio, also is summoned for that day to tell what he knows if anything, about rumors of "oil deals," at the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Plans for a naval base at Alameda, Calif., were disapproved by the house naval committee.

Harry F. Sinclair was summoned to appear tomorrow before the senate oil committee which held only a brief session today.

A resolution calling upon Secretary Weeks for full information about sale of farms to Mexico, was adopted by the senate.

Charges of dishonesty in the internal revenue bureau were inquired into by the senate committee investigating the bureau.

President Coolidge made plans to confer with house republican leaders tomorrow night in his drive to speed up legislation.

Representatives of western states concluded their argument before the interstate commerce commission for lower rates in freight rates.

The senate adopted a resolution asking the shipping board whether it was a member of the North Atlantic and United Kingdom Steamship conference.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, a member of the finance committee, predicted the soldier bonus bill would be given priority over the tax measure.

The senate finance committee approved changes in the revenue law advocated by treasury officials to tighten provisions for tax collections on gains from sales and exchanges by corporations.

The navy department sent instructions for an adequate force off sailors to be kept in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, to protect American lives and property after the de facto government had demanded that American blue jackets return to the cruiser Milwaukee and the American minister refused.

Tex Rickard told the Daugherty investigating committee he had been "bunked" when he arranged with Jap Muma, Will A. Orr, and "Ike" Martin to exhibit motion pictures of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight with immunity from prosecution. Thomas Spellacy was called to verify some of the testimony of G. O. Holdridge, former department of justice agent.

HOUSE TO VOTE MONDAY ON GERMAN RELIEF FUND

Washington, March 20—The fish resolution which would authorize a $10,000,000 appropriation for the relief of German women and children will be put to a vote in the house Monday.

This was determined upon today by republican leaders as they planned their program preliminary to a conference on the legislative situation with President Coolidge at the white house tomorrow night. Speaker Gillett, Representative Longworth, the party leader, Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee and members of the republican steering committee in the house have been asked to participate in the discussion.

The German relief resolution, introduced by Representative Fish, republican, New York, and reported by the foreign affairs committee will be brought up under a rule limiting debate to one day, insuring a vote on Monday. Leaders believe the naval appropriation bill will be disposed of this week, and plan to take up the army bill Tuesday. It will be followed in turn by the independent offices appropriation bill, which is considered one of the controversial supply measures, by the Johnson immigration bill, and by the other appropriation bills.

DECISION RESERVED IN CASE OF FORTUNE TELLER

New York, March 20.—Decision was reserved by Magistrate Ryttenberg in municipal court today after hearing charges of fortune telling against Miss Eugenie Dennis, 18-year-old school girl of Atchison, Kan., reputed to possess a psychic gift. The complainant was Mrs. Mary W. Foley of Astoria, N. Y., who charged that the girl demanded $35 for giving what proved to be wrong information concerning the whereabouts of Mrs. Foley's missing 16-year-old son.

Psychology students crowded the court room and one of the principal witnesses for Miss Dennis was Dr. Hereward Carrington, head of the American Phychic Institute and Laboratory and author of numerous books on psychology.

Miss Dennis denied that she had demanded $25 from Mrs. Foley.

Dr. Carrington said the American Psychic Institute and Laboratory was paying Miss Dennis' expenses because they wanted to experiment with her strange psychic powers.

Robert Edwards, 21, of Columbia has been arrested under a charge of being a deserter from the United States army. Edwards joined the army February 6 but left his post some fifteen days later with a convicted man, who claimed that he had a fine job awaiting Edwards in the Slim City. Edwards had his military uniform stolen and he finally drifted back to his native heath, the town of Columbia.

Deputy Sheriff Allison Frink received a card Wednesday afternoon which contained a description of Edwards, with information that a reward of $40 awaited the sheriff of anybody else who delivered the deserter to the Connecticut Coast Artillery headquarters, at Fort Wright, N. Y.

The deputy sheriff put his telephone to good use and within a few minutes he had a clue that Edwards was on a wood chopping job in Columbia. One hour later Edwards was in custody and in another half hour he was locked up at the local police station where he recited his tale of woe, telling how he had enlisted, had been enticed by a "gentleman darky" and other incidents leading up to his arrest. Deputy Frink took Edwards from the local station to New London early Thursday morning where he made connections with the boat leaving Thursday for Fort Wright.

Mrs. Martha Brunell Hurteau, 45, wife of Clement Hurteau of the Hurteau-Bosse Corp., Windham street, died at 5:30 o'clock, Thursday morning at her home, 219 Valley street, following a long period of suffering. Mrs. Hurteau had a host of friends in this vicinity. She won the love and esteem of all with whom she was associated, through her amiable disposition, courtesy and disregard for self in the service of others.

Mrs. Hurteau, a kind and devoted mother and a model housewife, also she was of valuable assistance to her husband in his business connections. She was born in Manchaug, near Grosvenordale, Conn., May 2, 1888, a daughter of Paul and Celestine Giard Brunell. Besides her husband, she leaves a daughter, Adele Leona Hurteau and three sisters, Mrs. Alfred LeClair of Grosvenordale, Mrs. Adelaide Morin of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Delphis Bertrand of Hartford. She was a devout member of St. Mary's parish and of the Ladies' of St. Anne Society and Conseil St. Cecile, L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret P. Marks were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her home in Colchester. Rev. Mr. Berkman officiated. Burial was in Colchester cemetery. The bearers were Albert Marks, Fred Marks, William Kramer, George Marks, Arthur Kramer and Richard Fisher. The services were largely attended and many beautiful floral forms were in evidence. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp. were in charge of the arrangements.

Russell M. Webster, a junior at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Webster of 440 Pleasant street was recently re-elected business manager of the Tech News, the official publication of the college. The sum of $1000 was appropriated by the News for the new alumni fund, the gift representing a part of the profits of several years and being made possible through the efficient managership of the local young man. Mr. Webster is also manager and treasurer of The Masque, the dramatic organization of the college.

Miss Margaret Black of the state department was in charge of the second in a series of county meetings for public health nurses, held in the local association headquarters in the Opera House block, Thursday afternoon.

About fifteen nurses from Windham and Tolland counties were present. Some of the subjects discussed were: "How Can the Public Health Nurse Interest the Community in Her Work?", "Nutrition as a Part of the Public Health Nurse's Program," and "What Service the Nurse Can Secure From the Connecticut State Department of Health." A collation was served by the local nurses, Miss Sara A. Keevers and Miss Alice Alford.

The Mid-Lent Old-Fashioned concert and dance, under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps, was held at the town hall Thursday evening, with music by Osterhoudt's orchestra. Wilbur G. Stevens of North Windham was prompter. The hall was effectively decorated and refreshments were served at intermission. About seventy-five couples were in attendance.

At the last meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held in the G. A. R. rooms the reports of committees and officers were read and approved. Mrs. Margaret McArthur was in charge. Three department officers have accepted invitations to attend the first meeting in April and other visiting officers are expected. Members of Francis E. Long Post, No. 84, will be invited to the meeting. An invitation was accepted from the N. C. W. C. to attend a lecture to be given by Mrs. Mary Wells of Newington, April 1. Mrs. Wells is a speaker of ability and will have for her subject "Equal Rights."

The stupendous splendor of the Valley of the Kings, in the vicinity of Luxor, Egypt, and Karbala, is described in a letter received Thursday morning by Leonard Porter from his cousin, Mrs. Charles Douglas who, with her husband, Dr. Charles Douglas of Boston is touring the Orient. Mention is made of the splendid temples built 3,000 years, B. C., now in ruins but still display remarkable beauty. One temple, or arena, at Karnak formerly covered 200 acres. Dr. and Mrs. Douglas also saw King Tut's tomb but were unable to enter it. Mrs. Douglas is the daughter of Horace Porter of Hebron. Mrs. Douglas formerly resided in this city.

Caucuses held in various nearby towns, Wednesday evening, resulted as follows:

Willington—Delegates, William H. Bradshaw, Hans Hansen, Arthur L. Spicer, Wilbert C. Ruby. Town committee, Albert L. Spicer, chairman; Mrs. Rose O. Hall, vice chairman; The chairman and vice-chairman were empowered to appoint the balance of the committee.

Coventry—North and 1st second district: Delegates, Arthur J. Vinton and William B. Hawkins. Town committee: William B. Hawkins, chairman and Mrs. Agnes Hall, vice chairman. First district: Delegates, Lewis A. Kingsbury and Mrs. Louis A. Kingsbury. Town committee, Albert E. Harmon, chairman and Mrs. F. O. Boynton, vice-chairman.

Andover—Delegates, Luther H. Randall and Miss Gertrude Wilde. Town committee, L. B. Whitcomb, Chairman, Mrs. A. H. Benton, vice chairman, August Lindbolm, Mrs. Thomas Lewis and R. W. Bass.

Chaplin—Delegates, James Lewis, Frank W. Landom. Town committee, Charles B. Buss, chairman, James Lewis and Ellsworth M. Russell.

Ashford—Delegates, Henry R. Woodward, Fred M. Wright, Henry C. Barlow, Benson B. Tift. Town committee, Henry R. Woodward, chairman, Mrs. Addie M. Balch, vice-chairman.

Mansfield—Delegates, Mrs. Annie E. Vinton, Lewellyn J. Storrs, Leonard Smith and Henry E. Knowlton. Town committee, Lewellyn J. Storrs, chairman; Mrs. Annie E. Vinton, vice-chairman.

Scotland—Delegates, Fred B. Willoughby, James H. Johnson. Town committee, Clarence H. Perry, chairman, Mrs. Susan Willis, vice-chairman, James H. Johnson.

Hampton—Delegates, John G. Lewis, Chester B. Jewett. Town committee, Clinton C. Oliver, chairman, Mrs. Alice C. Burchnall, vice chairman, George Huling, Carl Jewett.

Hebron—Delegates, J. Banks Jones Fred R. Post, Roger F. Porter and Mrs. Lydia Way. Town committee, Clark Bailey, chairman, Caroline M. Burnham, vice chairman, John N. Hewitt, Clifford R. Perry.

After Saturday, March 22, all those who have failed to pay their personal tax assessments will find that their names have been turned over to the proper authorities and warrants will be made out for their arrest to show cause why the tax has not been paid. Over 90 per cent. of the men and women on the list have settled. A number of the other ten per cent cannot be located and others who have not been working or are in financial straits have been given a chance to pay up later.

Physical Director Leroy Dissinger of the local Y. M. C. A., is to organize a junior and senior team in swimming, so that he will be able to accept some of the invitations which have been pouring in at his office to participate in swimming meets. The new physical director is an expert swimmer and an able teacher and he feels confident that he has good material with which to develop fast teams in each class.

The plant of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company was visited Wednesday afternoon by fifty students of the junior and senior classes of Windham High school, who are taking chemistry courses. The students were in charge of their instructor, Vice-Principal William O. Brooks and were guided about the gas plant by Foreman John A. Wadsworth. The various phases of gas making were thoroughly inspected and discussed with Mr. Wadsworth, an expert in his line.

Matthew H. Garvey, assistant instructor in military work at Connecticut Agricultural college and Miss Lillian Crouse, a nurse of New York City were married Tuesday evening at the home of Edward A. Zimmerman of South Coventry by Justice of the Peace William B. Hawkins. Mr. and Mrs. Garvey will make their home in Coventry.

State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks was at the local police station Thursday to meet applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses. A long line of applicants appeared in the afternoon.

The electors of the Windham Center district are to meet in the new schoolhouse Saturday evening, March 29.

There were no cases of contagious and communicable diseases in Willimantic during the week ending on March 15, according to the morbidity report of the state department of health for that period. Seven cases were reported from other sections in Windham county.

Six children appeared before Archibald W. Buchanan, Jr., of Mansfield Center, agent for the state board of education, Thursday forenoon, to take the required examinations for employment certificates.

ACCIDENT SHOWS MAN DRIVING WITHOUT LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 20.—A young boy who said his last name was Gladdue was struck and knocked down on Union street, between Jackson and Clark streets this evening by an Essex cab driven by Walter A. Howlett of Eastford and owned by his wife, Mrs. Madeline F. Howlett, also of that place. Mr. Howlett was traveling slowly and when the child ran out directly in front of the machine he brought the car to a sudden stop. Young Geradino was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where it was found that he suffered from only slight scratches. He returned to his home within a few minutes. Howlett came to the police station to report the accident and when asked for his driver's license by Captain Grady, he was amazed to find that he had overlooked the matter of securing a 1924 license. He was told to appear in police court this (Friday) morning to answer to a technical charge of operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

Michael Welch of this city was arrested this forenoon on a charge of intoxication by Officer Grant Bombria. He will be arraigned in police court Friday morning.

A small band of gypsies that invaded the west end of this city early Thursday evening brought on the feeling that the spring was indeed near at hand. The roamers wandered about the stores of upper Main street for a short while and left again for other parts.

Arnold Hanna, 17, son of Mrs. Richard Hanna of Hebron, died at 6 o'clock Thursday morning in Richmond, Vt., where he had been sent a few months ago for his health. He had been a student at Windham High school and was very popular with his classmates. Besides his mother he leaves one brother, Alfred Hanna, of Hebron, and two sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter, of Valley street, this city, and Mrs. Forrest Ackley of Mansfield. The body is to be conveyed to the late home in Hebron.

PLANS FOR WEEKLY LABOR PAPER IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, March 20.—Plans for the establishment of a weekly labor paper were announced today by the central trades and labor council representing 750,000 organized workers in this city.

Publication probably will not be in until next January, John F. Coughlin, the council secretary said. Meanwhile $50,000 is to be raised to insure the paper's support.

"The ultimate object is the establishment of a powerful daily," Mr. Coughlin added.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Porter—"Dis am only a quarter-rush." Mr. Kloss—"That's all right; when I tip a man I never do it by "halves."—Exchange.

Waiter—"Did ——— take your order, sir?" Patient Diner—I'm afraid so. I've been here an hour and nothing has showed up yet.—Twice Told Tales.

"At any rate, Mrs. Murphy, no one can say I'm two-faced." "Faith, nb, Mrs. Jones. Sure, an' if yer were you'd leave that 'un you got at home."—Melbourne Punch.

"We need more mutual understanding." "Yep," replied Farmer Corntossel. "We're workin' along that way. The bankers think they know all about farming and the farmers think they know all about banking."—Washington Star.

Blinks—I see you have bought two books. What are they?

Jinks—One is a volume of home brew recipes and the other is a copy of "What To Do Until the Doctor Comes."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sam—"How come I don't see you mixin' round socially no mo'?"

Rastus—"S far as I is concerned sassiety is through. I'se done oyster-cised it."—Buffalo Commercial.

The nervous passenger approached the captain timidly.

"What would happen, sir," he asked "if we struck a large iceberg?"

"The iceberg would pass along as if nothing had happened," replied the captain.

And the old lady was very much relieved.—Boy's Life.

The friend from elsewhere was sitting in the office of an ultra-Bostonian friend, when a beggar stumped in and stumped out.

After the mendicant's departure, the friend from elsewhere remarked:

"Pretty badly crippled, isn't he?"

"Indeed so," replied the ultra-Bostonian. "He appears to be wearing a synthetic limb."—Farm Life.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The first real picture painted by Michael Angelo was the one on the subject of the temptation of St. Anthony.

The proportion of males of all ages to females in the population of the United States as a whole is now 104 to 100.

There are a little more than 1,000,000 Russians and 1,446,690 Germans in America, according to the census of 1920.

Bubonic plague is a disease of hot climates and has never in modern times been a serious sanitary problem in cold countries.

There are 600 varieties of sea weed in Japan, most of which are used for food or in the manufacture of commercial articles, such as glue, isinglass and iodine.

In Palestine the swallows are allowed the freedom not only of the houses and living rooms, but of the mosques and sacred tombs, where they build their nests and rear their young.

Only three women can lay claim to being rulers in their own right. They are Wilhelmina, queen of the Netherlands; Charlotte, grand duchess of Luxemburg, and Waizero Zauditu, empress of Abyssinia.

WOMEN A BUNDLE OF NERVES

"Everything irritates me.—I am a bundle of nerves, I ache all over and cannot sleep and am so despondent." This extract from a letter written from one woman to another describes the condition of many women who suffer from feminine ailments. Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. For fifty years it has been restoring sick and ailing women of America to health and strength.

A. BUTLEMAN'S FAVORED WITH RAPID GROWTH

A. Butleman, proprietor of Butleman's Ladies' Suits and Gown shop at 790 Main street came to Willimantic in 1907 from New York City and set up a tailoring business on Jackson street. Within one year this business had grown to such dimensions that Mr. Butleman employed six other tailors to give better service to his increasing trade. His excellent tailoring soon gained a wide reputation in this vicinity and in 1914 he removed his establishment to 790 Main street, continuing in this until two years later.

At this time ready made apparel became popular and was more in demand than the tailor made clothes. Mr. Butleman then made extensive alterations at his store and purchased a large stock of ladies' garments, including coats, suits, dresses, gowns, sweaters, hosiery, waists, bags and millinery. Having gained the confidence of the public while engaged as a tailor he met with the same remarkable success in this new field until he has become one of the leading retail merchants of Willimantic.

In reference to his present standing in this city Mr. Butleman lays the secret of his success to having every article perfectly fitted before it is taken from the store by a customer. He has been able to give absolute satisfaction through his long experience in tailoring.

Mr. Butleman personally purchases all his goods direct from the business houses in New York City. By this method he secures the best material and the very latest in styles which can be disposed of at comparatively low figures.

THE MARTINEAU-BACON CO. INC. FIRM OF HIGH CALIBRE

Aime J. Martineau, now president and manager of The Martineau-Bacon Co. Inc., entered upon his business career on July 1, 1922, when he received his license as an embalmer in the states of Connecticut and New York, and established an undertaking business on Union street, the present location of the firm, and where he established a furniture store.

The business grew periodically and within a few years had increased to such an extent that extensive alterations were made and a short time later two additional stories were built on the building and placed into immediate use. In 1920 Mr. Martineau purchased the three story building known as the Shea Block adjoining the furniture store and the lower floor of the block was connected with the furniture store and fully equipped for a funeral parlor.

On October 1922 the business had grown to such a degree that Mr. Martineau decided to incorporate, taking into the business his four brothers-in-law who are now active in carrying on the firm's affairs.

The name of The Martineau-Bacon Co., Inc., was adopted and the following are the officers: Aime J. Martineau, president and manager; Adelard Bacon, secretary. The other members of the firm are Edmond Bacon, Parmelm LaBelle and Walter Goettlick.

The firm conducts its business on a large scale. Included in its modern stock of household supplies are the famous Crawford Ranges, Simmons beds, Stearns & Foster mattresses and Sellers kitchen cabinets. The extensive floor space occupied by the concern enabled the owners to build large show windows which are a constant source of attraction and outclass any in this city in both beauty and size. Adelard Bacon is also a licensed embalmer and assists Mr. Martineau in this field of the business.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

It is indicated that the matter of better street lighting arrangements in the business section, from Water and Main streets north to Davis park, through that section of Reynolds street between Main and Broad and in the vicinity of Davis park, will again come up for the attention of the electors at the annual borough meeting to be held in April. This project, or one similar to it, was defeated by a margin of about half a dozen votes at a well attended special borough meeting in the late fall of last year.

In the meantime there has been discussion of the matter and recently two lights such as it is proposed replace the present small candle power street lights have been placed as demonstrators in one part of the business section and two other such lights in another part of the section that included in the improved lighting zone.

As was the case last fall, the Chamber of Commerce will appeal to the citizens to support this better lighting movement, in the general interest of the whole community.

Lest it be forgotten, attention may be called to the services the Chamber of Commerce made up largely of business men, has done the community as a whole. Paramount among its achievements has been its efforts for industrial advancement in Danielson. It is largely responsible for the formation of the Danielson Development association, whose members for the most part are members of the Chamber of Commerce and who pledged thousands of dollars of their own money to bring the Face Manufacturing company to Danielson. This concern has been so successful that it is about to take over the Main street plant of the Connecticut Mills company and within a few months will be giving employment to between 450 and 500 people.

It is such work as this that establishes the value of a business men's organization and, seemingly, when such an organization backs such a step forward as a better street lighting system it should deserve the support of all who benefit by what the organization is doing to build up Danielson as a worth while community for everyone living in it.

Writing from Oneco C. B. Montgomery says:

By a peculiar coincidence March 19, the day the last issue of The New York Herald was printed was the 52nd anniversary of the first article ever printed in that paper from C. B. Montgomery, of this town. Since that time he has been a continuous contributor in some manner to that great paper.

During the Cuban-Spanish revolution he sent stories of the rebellion from Matanzas, Santiago, Havana, Cuba and Key West, Florida.

He reported the sinking of the Maine from Key West, Florida. During the Spanish war, sent weekly stories from army camps in South Carolina, Georgia and Pennsylvania, and has acted as space correspondent for that paper in nearly every state in the Union; during the 1896 Bryan-McKinley campaign, sent telegrams to The Herald from nearly every state in the Union, attended both republican and democratic national conventions that year, writing stories to The Herald.

Being in Houston, Texas, during the Galveston storm, he wired stories to various New York papers including The Herald. He interviewed Don Cameron and Mat Quay at Jacksonville, Florida, for The Herald, also reported the trip to Cuba of Senator Proctor of Vermont, who was a special agent of President McKinley, after the destruction of the Maine.

Now that The Herald becomes the property of The Tribune, he recalls the fact that when Edward Payson Weston made his first trip from Portland, Maine, to Chicago, 56 years ago, his grandfather, Thomas Montgomery, reported the Plainfield meeting with Weston while he, a boy of 6, was with him.

Just 40 years from that time the Oneco man himself met Weston in the identical place his grandfather had, 40 years before, also reported the passing through of Weston to the same paper.

He says the bye bye of The Herald seems to him like the passing of an old relative, but being on The New York Tribune force of space correspondents eases matters up a little.

Men who were on the trucks that plunged through the bridge at Oneco a week ago Wednesday, when Clarence Gates, of Moosup, lost his life were questioned here Thursday at an inquest conducted by Coroner Arthur G. Bill. No new or unusual fact concerning the sad affair was developed through the inquest, Coroner Bill said late Thursday afternoon.

Following a prayer service for Edwin Appley, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Frissell, in Attawaugan, Thursday at 12.30, Rev. J. W. Carter officiating, the body was taken to Packer, where a service was held at the chapel, the clergymen being Rev. Mr. Carter and Rev. Mr. Higgins of that place. Burial was in Packer cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Delegates elected Wednesday at various republican caucuses in towns in the Twenty-Eighth senatorial district will meet in Putnam tomorrow (Saturday) to name delegates-at-large to the republican state convention. The towns of the district are Killingly, Putnam, Woodstock, Thompson, and Eastford.

Rev. Avery Gates of Hampton was the speaker and Mrs. G. Alton Frost sang, Thursday evening at the March meeting of the officers and teachers of the Baptist Sunday school. Rev. ## PUTNAM

Although the peak of public interest in the auction sale of the properties of the Manhasset company in this city was touched Tuesday, the opening day of the sale, when a bid of $475,000 for the entire Putnam holdings was submitted by William Muir of Providence, the sale has continued during the past two days and will come to a close today (Friday) when offers will be asked on the tenement house property and building sites.

As was forecasted Wednesday in this column, the bids for the property by lots and parcels has not nearly approached the bid of Mr. Muir for the entire property as a unit. Splendid machinery, such as cards, for instance, have brought bids so low as to be almost ridiculous. Numerous shrewd buyers that have regularly attended the sale apparently have been shut out of any clean-up such as they shared in, when bidding in the equipment of the Powhattan mill of the Nightingale-Morse company here a few months ago. Every evidence on this, the last day of the sale, is the property will be preserved intact for the interests that are back of the $475,000 bid of the Muir interests.

The receivers, at the close of the sale today, likely will make known what they will recommend to the court, as to accepting the unit bid, or the aggregate of bids made by lots and parcels.

Next week the matter will be entered on the calendar of the superior court for the short calendar session of that period, and authorization of the transfer of the property, according to whatever recommendation is made, may be looked for not later than a week from today.

Following the authorization, complete information may be expected by the public as to the interests that are to acquire the property and as to the uses it is intended to put it.

Behold a new type of hunter and hunter's equipment! Adolph (Jockey) Jarvis, brother of Captain William Jarvis of the police department, has set a new style in fox hunting. He chases reynard with a two ton buck—and gets him.

Being a fox, with all the traditional craftiness and alertness, didn't mean much to one particular animal of that breed, when Jockey started to chase him with the big truck. The fox was run down, knocked kicking, but still alive and struggling to bite his captors was picked up and brought into this city. His pelt is now stretched on a board and nailed to the garage door, and when another cold weather season rolls around will have been prepared to adorn a garment of some fair one.

The end of things for Mr. Fox occurred on the state highway, between Putnam and Woodstock. The animal dashed out into the highway, evidently on the run before dogs, and directly into the path of the oncoming truck. The big machine hit him and sent him sprawling and he was picked up by the truck crew in short order.

So far as could be learned during Friday, the running down of a fox by a motor truck has been noted here for the first time. Deer have been hit any number of times, some people have reported hitting and killing racoons, pheasants and various other varieties of wild life, but Mr. Jarvis seems to have had the initial experience hereabouts in getting a fox. This particular fox was a red one and the pelt is worth money.

Major Thomas Seaver, divisional commander of the Salvation Army in Connecticut, and Vermont, will conduct a special meeting in the chapel of the Congregational church in this city, Tuesday evening of next week. Members of his divisional staff will accompany Major Seaver to Putnam. At the meeting he will give an illustrated lecture on the Salvation Army in Action.

With the opening of the trout fishing season only ten days in the forefront, fishermen have been begun to wonder how they are going to get bait. More than a foot of frost remain in the ground at this late date in March and there is plenty of snow and ice all through this territory. Worms are not readily available under such conditions.

But the fishermen are not so easily beaten. One might hear Thursday of a man who dug four solid quarts of worms here last fall and has carefully kept them in a box of dirt, changed occassionally during the entire winter season, that his bait problem for April 1 might be a simple one. There is also a group that has cleared away all the snow from a sunny spot where worms usually are to be found in abundance, in the early spring. And there are other men who will have worms sent in, in case of necessity, from points a few miles to the south, where there is little if any snow and where the frost has almost entirely disappeared.

Engineers of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, owners of the Putnam Light and Power company and of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company, are giving their attention to the problems involved in the project of laying a gas main over the distance of nine miles between this city and Danielson, that gas for the borough and intervening villages may be made available from the big gas plant in this city. This project has been under consideration for some time and may become a reality during the present year.

Supt. John W. Titcomb, of the state fish and game organization, came here Thursday evening to attend the annual meeting and banquet of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club, which has done so much since its organization, about a year ago, to stock brooks and replenish the supply of wild game birds in this and surrounding towns. The banquet was held at Putnam inn and was followed by the showing of several reels of film brought to Putnam by Commissioner Titcomb and dealing with subjects pertaining to his department. The showing of films was at the Bradley theatre.

This week is marked by an advanced position of the telephone company in restoring outside equipment ruined or damaged by the heavy storm of the early part of last week. Between this city and Dayville many new poles have been placed in position, fitted with cross arms and strung with new wire. At many other points in the division repair work has been accomplished and the public, again enjoying the accustomed prompt service, already has forgotten the handicaps it experienced in doing business when the telephone company was so hard hit such a brief time ago.

Evidence of the prosperity and success of an institution that soon is to be installed in its new home is the declaration of an extra dividend of one-quarter of one per cent. by the Putnam Savings bank, this in addition to the regular semi-annual dividend at the rate of four per cent. per annum. These announced dividends are payable at the usual time during April.

FRENCH FRANCS AT NEW HIGH PRICE FOR YEAR

New York, March 20.—Selling as high as 5.15 cents, the French franc today established a new high price for 1924. An overnight advance of five points was extended to it following publication of another favorable statement by the Bank of France. The closing rate eased off fractionally from the top quotation.

Friends of the franc welcomed the contradiction in the spread between spot quotations and futures to 12 points a month. Yesterday's spread amounted to 16 points a month. Bankers with French connections today estimated that the European short interest in Paris exchange totalled approximately 500,000,00 francs.

NO FISHING.

Some time ago a demand was made upon the American Tobacco company for records and books concerning business operations within a certain state by the federal trade commission. The company believed that the commission was asking more than it had a right to and that it was justified in refusing to comply. Though it has not instigated for such a purpose so it has resulted in a test case, the supreme court having rendered its decision this week.

By that finding, which received no objection from any of the justices, the point is made that congress did not undertake to give the commission the authority which it believed it held and which it tried to exercise. Justice Holmes in his opinion says: "Any one who respects the spirit as well as the letter of the fourth amendment would be loath to believe that congress intended to authorize one of its subordinate agencies to sweep all our traditions into the fire and to direct fishing expeditions into private papers on the possibility that they may disclose evidence of crime."

It is pointed out by this decision that when the commission calls for papers as it did in this case it must have some foundation for such action and it must not be based upon the hope of finding something that will furnish ground for prosecution. It is a decision which should have its good effect upon that disposition to meddle in business for the purpose of seeing what can be found.

The supreme court has not taken the position that the federal trade commission cannot henceforth ask for records and books from business houses. They have been given authority to do so by congress, but it has now been determined that such authority does not permit fishing excursions. It should mean the ending of a great amount of trouble to which the business public in the past may have been subjected, but certainly it secures them protection against it in the future. The American Tobacco company has rendered a service of distinct value to business in general.

A FILIPINO OFFER.

Now there are those among the Filipinos who are willing to offer inducements to the United States if they will give the islands the independence they have been seeking. They are not endeavoring to bring the islands up to the point where there will be no ground for failing to set them free; they are not offering the cooperation that ought to be expected in the government of the islands; they are not demonstrating their fitness for taking over sole control of their affairs. They are holding up as an attraction the offer of a naval base in the islands and the attainment of favorable trade conditions between the islands and this country.

As to the trade conditions it is to be realized that the islands have products to sell which this country needs and that this country has goods which the islands are in the market for, but when it comes to a naval base this country has no interest in that part of the world after it throws the Philippines overboard. It would not be there now except that it is administering a trust for the Filipinos.

Establishing a naval base in the Philippines would make it very convenient for the islands in case of trouble with others, which may be anticipated by the thought of such a thing, but when Uncle Sam cuts the islands loose he will do so with no thought of going back again. When he gives them independence he will not be making provisions for giving them military and naval support. It is his purpose to put them in condition to take care of themselves. There is no desire to go back there and do the job all over again. That, in fact, is just what it is sought to avoid.

The offer of a naval base doesn't arouse the least bit of interest. The fact is that the thought of such a thing may create suspicion in the minds of other nations as to the meaning of an establishment of that kind in that part of the world under such conditions as the Filipinos propose.

Uncle Sam doesn't want and isn't asking the Filipinos to purchase their independence in any such manner.

REACTING TO A TEST.

The head of a mortgage company in Cleveland makes the claim that four out of five are honest, but he reaches his decision after a most unusual test for determining such a thing.

Interested in the construction of a new tuberculosis sanatorium on the Pacific coast he hit upon the idea of sending $1,000 in one dollar bills to 1,000 names picked at random from the city directory, enclosing therewith an explanatory letter which read:

"You can keep this dollar if you want to, but we hope you won't. We hope you'll spend it and another one to me as your subscription to the fund. We believe everyone is kind and generous. We are investing $4,000 to prove that belief. Have we made a good investment? What is your answer?"

He succeeded in awakening much interest in his new scheme and there were 600 who did as he requested. There were 200 who returned the dollar sent and 400 who kept the dollar bill. As the result of such a test the claim is made that four out of five are honest, when as a matter of fact it doesn't appear that honesty was really at stake inasmuch as the letter had stated, "You can keep this dollar if you want to, but we hope you won't."

What the test really discloses is the attitude toward such a plan displayed by the 1000 persons addressed. Three-fifths of them were ready to match the dollar put forth by the gentleman interested in raising the sanatorium fund, 200 turned it down but returned the money received, while 200 held the writer to his statement and decided they wanted to keep it.

To a great many there is nothing more distasteful than to receive a proposition framed in such a manner. It doesn't set well and immediately dries up any chance of generosity. Two-fifths of those to whom the appeal was sent were not inspired by it and of those who failed to return the dollar it is probable that they did not include all who regard such a method as a rank nuisance. It wasn't honesty but the form of appeal that was under test.

SPRING IS HERE.

Spring is here! Even if all of the winter's snow has not gone, for some sections were more liberally supplied than others, we have reached that point where the sun has crossed the line and that settles it. Spring is here, a late afternoon arrival Thursday, but whether winter has gone is another question.

In southeastern Connecticut the winter has been an unusually mild one. There has been little snow and only by short spells has there been any very cold weather. The past three months have been most considerate for the man who has to buy fuel, and the coming of spring under such conditions, without something to pay for the mild periods in out of the ordinary.

While spring this year comes on the 20th of March instead of the 21st, which many consider a fixed date, concern is manifested as to whether it will impose a penalty for the mild winter. The conditions under which the sun crossed the line were most favorable, however, for a mild day, springlike and with no indication of a March disposition, augurs well for the weather during the next several months. Those who watched the weather vane to get a hint as to the prevailing quarter for the wind found it fickle but inclined to the north, and little of it.

The coming of spring means the reawakening of nature and the resumption of that great amount of outdoor activity that is always curtailed during the winter months. Spring always receives a joyous welcome and in spite of a mild winter there is certain to be in this latitude a feeling of satisfaction that it has come and a disposition to make the most of it.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

Perhaps soviet Russia was no more surprised to learn of the hitch in the deal which it was apparently pressing upon China, than were some of the nations in ascertaining that such a thing was underway.

Soviet Russia is endeavoring to bring about the restoration of the predominant Russian influence in Manchuria and northern China, and apparently it believed that it had all but accomplished its purpose. By the ultimatum which it has delivered to China it gives the impression that it can yet force China to carry out the agreement.

Just what had nearly been carried out has been receiving the opposition of those nations which have done so much for the establishment of the open door in China, and it is not to be supposed that they will be backward in letting China know how they feel about this proposed agreement which has been virtually repudiated by the Chinese government through its refusal to accept the work of its representatives. No time has been lost in giving China the courage that it may need in sticking by its action and refusing to yield to the ultimatum.

Whatever may have been the situation as to the Russian influence in northern China and Manchuria under the czar and before the clash between Russia and Japan, it is quite evident that there is no desire among nations much concerned in China for a return of such under soviet control. The Chinese government has apparently recognized the wisdom of refraining from entrance into any such diplomatic understanding, and having refused should be disposed to stick to it.

The man on the corner says: Bigger crowds have been out to welcome spring.

With Atlantic City reporting mermaids dipporting in the surf spring cannot be far away.

It will not be long now before those in Florida can let up in their complaints about cold weather.

If all the big liners are bringing in liquor and narcotics are they going to be treated as was the Orduna?

Some of these witnesses in Washington seem to be having a hard time trying to tell a better story than the others.

If and when the reduction of 25 per cent in the income taxes just paid is made will the rebate have to be included under income for the present year?

There's no news in the report that LaFollette is flirting with a third party nomination. He's always ready for most anything no one else would listen to.

It is a bit exasperating when those to whom leniency is shown persist in violating the law, but that's the trouble with leniency, it's too often regarded as a license.

It would be an impossibility for congress to comply with a presidential request for quick action but it can suspend the rules when it wants to spend much of the country's money for vote getting purposes.

GETTING A LIFT

"It almost never pays to take a lift," sighed Loretta, as she sank into a chair. "Since our car has been laid up I have accepted lifts from a number of persons and not one of them paid me."

"I didn't know you expected to get paid," said her brother in mock amazement. "I should think the ride was enough without expecting any cash in addition. Since when did they give chauffeurs with drives?"

"Don't be silly!" cried Loretta peevishly. "You know what I mean well enough. For instance, Mrs. Lewis stopped her car at the curb when I was waiting for the bus, and asked me whether I wanted to drive downtown. I was going to decline, but she insisted on taking me and I had to go in order not to obstruct traffic or be rude. She said she'd drop me at my corner but she let me out where I had to walk four blocks to my destination and the bus would have taken me exactly where I wanted to go."

"I had a worse time than that," said her brother, dolefully. "I was coming out of the club the other evening after bowling a game and I was late the Lathrops. John insisted that I must let them drive me home and I was perfectly willing to be persuaded. Minna and John were coming home from some movie and they had to tell me all about some of the settlement work. To make a long story short, I was just ill poorer when I got out than when I got into that automobile."

"A hold-up never reported to the police!" laughed Loretta. "You were lucky to get off so easily. I had a lift the other day that cost me a cake and a freezer of cream for the orphans in just the same way. And the one that I got today was from Mrs. Davis just as I was starting out to go to Louise Proctor's wedding."

"Not the Louise Proctor I used to know?" cried her brother. "Why on earth wasn't I asked?"

"Probably because you have neglected her lately," said Loretta. "She has no doubt forgotten I have a brother. But let me tell you. When I came out of the house I thought I'd take a bus to go down in. I heard some one calling me——"

"Just like the song," agreed her brother.

"I won't finish if you don't keep still," Loretta said, sharply. "I turned around and saw Mrs. Davis waving to me and calling out to know whether I was going to the wedding. I said I was, so she opened the car door and we drove off.

"As soon as she started she began telling me about some work she is interested in and asking me to contribute to it. When she finished that subject she started off on the bazaar her church had and said they are going to have what they call an auxiliary sale of the leftovers and she wants me to come over and buy.

"Mrs. Davis' monologue lasted until we reached the church, when as it was really very dark, we had a hard time finding a place to park. The girls that are getting married nowadays seem to belong to such out-of-the-way churches that it is quite hard to get to them, not having seen the buildings before."

"For that reason you ought to be thankful for the lift," said her brother reprovingly. "Tell me how the bride looked."

"We were a little late getting in," Loretta went on, "so we had to sit toward the back. I was disappointed at first, but when I saw the bride I didn't mind."

"Was she so homely as that?" cried her brother. "Louise Proctor used to be a good-looking girl."

"There were lots of people there that I knew," said Loretta. "So I was very much interested in the whole affair but I am certainly glad that the bride didn't see me."

"And why not?" queried her brother. "Was your face sooty?"

"My face was all right, that is no worse than usual," said Loretta. "But Mrs. Davis had not said what wedding she was going to, and I was sitting among the invited guests. But it was Jessie Haynes's wedding and not Louise's. And I had not been invited."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

This is the sixtieth birthday of Dr. George E. Vincent, a noted educator who is now serving as head of the Rockefeller Foundation. Dr. Vincent is a son of Bishop Vincent, the founder of the Chatauqua Circle movement, and a leader in liberalizing the standards of religious instruction of young people in the United States. The son was educated at Yale University. For many years he was active in editing the publications of the Chatauqua press. While in college he specialized in sociology, and, when called to the University of Chicago, as an assistant, in 1894, he turned to work in this field. But his rare executive abilities soon attracted attention, and in the course of time he became dean of the faculties of art, literature and science. In 1911 he was called to the presidency of the University of Minnesota, which position he continued to fill until 1916, when he was selected to succeed John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as executive head of the great Rockefeller Foundation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Reply to Mr. Underwood.

Mr. Editor: I think Joseph Underwood's letter requires a reply and this question can be answered in a few words. The alien has full protection of the flag of the United States anyway, but if he is not satisfied with that then become an American citizen.

C. B. MONTGOMERY.
Oneco, March 19, 1924.

Whatever is, is Right.

Mr. Editor: It is not to be taken that the title above is the sentiment of this writer. He only employs it as a topic that shows in four words what some man may have said in his haste, and with the slightest thought that it would become the creed of the great men of the twentieth century; superseding all other creeds.

Attention is here directed to an interview given to Rabbi Wise, by the New York Times so recently as last Sunday, covering a half page of the Times, including his picture, and giving a resume view of the moral and political condition of the world at large.

It would delight us to discuss many of the epigrammic statements of the great liberal teacher," religious wise, did time or place admit, so we must be satisfied with a general attack on the whole spirit and trend of the interview as given by the reporter, and who heads it in big type like this: "Rabbi Wise Sees Religion Surely Gaining," and includes the rabbi's views of the oil scandal as one of the many signs of a great moral awakening.

We view it as one of the many signs, uncovering the great moral turpitude lying at the very base of the social order and mounting up to its pinnacle with a shamelessness that is really overcoming.

It seems to be the curse of the times to see good in everything. It is in the nature of depravity, when a man is comfortable himself, to think the outside world is all right too. Even Ramsay McDonald takes a more complacent view of conditions since he became premier of the first kingdom of the world.

There were prophets in the olden times who said "Peace, Peace" when there was no "peace," but it is to the credit of their time, as compared with ours, that it did not establish their reputation as seers.

This, seeing good in evil; reminds us of the story of a clergyman crossing the Atlantic in a storm. Anyone who has experienced a storm on shipboard will appreciate the minister's alarm, when in a state of terror he left his bunk to interview the captain as to the outcome of the night. Having found the captain, he took him by the hand and asked if the ship was in real danger. "Come with me," said the master, and, making their way as best they could, buffeted by wind and wave, he was led to the fore part of the ship where between decks is the forecastle, pronounced at sea as "folk-sil," the quarters of the men who ship before the mast."

Having gained the hatchway the captain said, "Put your ear down there and tell me what you hear?" Having obeyed, he replied, "I hear loud talking and swearing."

"All right," said the captain, "As long as you hear that the ship is safe. When those men begin to pray then you may conclude that there is danger ahead."

Satisfied, the minister returned to his bed, but instead of abating, the storm gained in intensity. Losing faith in security he concluded to crawl back to the forecastle and make a test. Kneeling at the hatchway he beat his ear again and soon rising to his feet, he exclaimed. "Thank God! They are still swearing."

The usual limit of space reached it may be well to allow the reader to apply the moral.

JOHN TROLAND.
Norwich, March 19, 1924.

Stories That Recall Others

Wide Road Needed.

A resident of the rural districts is fond of telling his friends this joke: "A certain old man for years had traveled a narrow dirt road. At last he came to the conclusion that the road should be turned into a pike. So he was one of the most influential men in getting signers for the petition, his chief argument being: 'The road hain't wide enough for two wagons to meet.'"

Remembrance.

There is no telling how your best friends are going to remember you. At least that is the opinion of one who has been sick. The other day this patient was nursing his pains when the parcel post wagon drew up in front of the house and the driver alighted with a cumbersome package. Immediately the patient sprucued up and had visions of several different gifts that would be suitable for a sick man. After much deliberate untying of string and after much more wading through tissue paper the patient became both impatient and suspicious. More tissue paper and no results. Finally becoming disgusted he threw the contents of the box on the floor and out rolled a small onion. Attached to the odorful vegetable was a highly decorative card saying: "Hope this gives you strength."

CHILD TRAINING

THE DIFFICULT PARENT

By Helen Greg Greye

We read and hear of the difficult husband, the difficult wife, and children that are difficult, but who ever heard of a difficult parent being discussed? Still there are plenty of them. A child is a human being, even as you and I, although we sometimes impose upon children simply because we can.

I was invited to dine with a young attorney and his wife not long ago. Jim phoned, asking us not to wait dinner for him; he had been in court and would be late.

As we finished dinner, he sauntered in, looking tired and glum. He threw his hat on the davenport, giving his wife and six-year-old son a perfunctory kiss.

He ate hurriedly; then joined us.

As he entered the room, his eyes turned towards his son, playing on the davenport. Suddenly he blustered, "James, Jr., you're sitting on my hat!" In a moment he completely lost his self-control, his temper flared, and Jimmy, Jr. received a severe scolding.

The child turned white, and tears started down his little cheeks.

"Daddy, I'm sorry. I——"

"There, none of your tears and excuses, young man. You're a fine specimen of carelessness!" Again the unjust anger of the father was heaped upon his child, all because he'd lost his case in court that day.

Jimmy's mother hurried the trembling child off to bed, while I, troubled by incident, started home.

My first room-mate at college, who now has two small daughters, one seven, one nine, is another example of such a parent. She is high-strung and fussy, allowing and encouraging trifles to worry and irritate her.

Her children pay the price for these moods.

Naturally they, too, are developing a first-class set of "nerves."

One day I met them skipping home from school. "Oh see, Aunt Cassie, we do hope mother is in a good humor. She's such a dear when she's happy," announced the older child.

"Yes," hesitatingly, "but I tell you, she's awful unreasonable, when—when she's awful cross," offered little Midge. "And, do you know, she gets cross at us over the funniest things!" The little brows puckered.

Strange, isn't it, that parents fail to realize the danger of alienating their children's affections when indulging in these difficult and unreasonable moods?

How we all love the person who understands our feelings and dislike the one with whom we must always be guarded! In time he becomes a bore. And, after all, children are a lot like us. I think they must feel the same way, don't you?

The King Snake's Dinner.

A "Companion boy" who lived in Missouri, and who has been reading the paper since he was a little shaver, writes to tell us what he knows about the cannibalistic habits of snakes. As my brothers and I were cocking hay in a clover field, he writes, we found a king snake basking in the July sun; he was too lazy and full to move. Being curious to know what he had devoured, we cut him open. To our astonishment we found that he contained a black snake 28 inches long, more than one inch longer than himself; and inside the black snake we found a mouse and a grasshopper. The head and neck of the black snake were purple and indicated that the king snake had killed it.—Youth's Companion.

Bravolette.

A new material, bravolette, is used by a German inventor in the manufacture of safety razors. It looks like ivory, tortoise shell or marble, depending on the manner in which it is manufactured. The advantage of this material lies in the fact that the apparatus cannot rust. There is no need to dry the razor after use, it is sufficient to rinse it. Another advantage is that it is cheaper than razors made of metal.

During 1923 approximately $15,000,000 was spent throughout the nation for physical education in schools.

HEARING DEFENSE EVIDENCE IN SHOOTING CASE

Evidence for the defense was presented in the superior court at New London Thursday before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury in the trial of the suit for damages of $10,000 brought against Lester C. Fowler and William H. Taylor, by John Kelley, all of New London. Fowler and Taylor were on the stand all Thursday morning and most of the afternoon, and described the events that led up to the shooting of Kelley on the night of Aug. 30, 1920, with which they are charged. The personal injuries incurred by Kelley as a result of being shot twice, by Fowler and Taylor, according to his allegations, form the basis for the suit. The plaintiff rested at 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Several witnesses are yet to be heard, and it is not expected that the case will go to the jury before next Tuesday as there is only short calendar business for the court Friday and there are no court sessions Saturday or Monday.

The committee of arrangements of the republican national committee will meet in Cleveland, Ohio, March 25.

SAYS CHURCH MUST REACH WORLD BY POWER OF SPIRITUAL FORCES

Rev. John H. Deming, rector of St. George's church, Newport, R. I., was the preacher at the united Lenten service in Trinity church, Thursday evening. The service was led by Rev. J. Edred Brown, rector of the church. The first Scripture lesson was read by Rev. Mr. Brown from the 33nd chapter of Ezekiel and the second lesson from the 11th chapter of St. Luke.

Rev. Mr. Deming took as his text the words of St. Paul, "For me to live is Christ." It is not always possible to sum up a life in one word. However, it is possible sometimes, he said. Lincoln never thought of himself. His soul was summed up by a speaker in one word, selflessness. What did St. Paul mean when he said, "For me to live is Christ?"

The preacher went on to speak of the revelation of the program of Christ. St. Paul regarded it his duty to carry out and make clear to the world the programme of Christ. What was the programme of Christ? It was the conquest of the world by divine and spiritual power. I wonder what would happen if Jesus were to come here today and a few of our wise men attracted His attention. In order to carry out His programme they would probably suggest that He get some of the prominent men back of him, bankers and editors. Then they would suggest a gigantic financial campaign and secure a professional campaign leader to raise the money. Ten millions of dollars would probably be raised throughout the country to start the movement and there would be advertising in the newspapers. That would be the way the wise men of today would try to carry out the programme.

How did Jesus go about His programme? He had no conferences. He had no money. His followers had but little money. His method was just a quiet method of planting the truth in the hearts of men. That was all. The method of Jesus is the seed; not the sword. That religion has revolutionized the world. How do you and I attempted to teach the programme of Jesus Christ? The results that can be accomplished for God to depend on the spiritual forces rather than the material forces.

To illustrate his point the preacher chose one of the movements of the present day, the Boy Scout movement. The Boy Scout movement, he said, is like a great many other movements. Everyone who knows the movement knows that the Boy Scout movement does not accomplish what we expect of it unless we have proper leaders for the boys. The machine provides something to hold the boys. Unless the ideals of the leader can be transplanted in the boys you haven't accomplished much.

You can advertise and get people out. But what are you going to do with the people who have met expecting something? If the church of today has not something of the Living God to give the people you simply go through the services, run organizations, etc., and the lives of the people remain about the same. St. Paul felt that there must be something in his religion to give him power over the material things in life.

If your ideals are just as material as those of the persons who do not believe in Christ, then they feel that religion hasn't meant much to you or there would be a change in your life. St. Paul felt that he wanted something in his life that would show the reality of his religion. He said, "For me to live is Christ." Can you sum up your life in one word. What is it? Some men, if they told the truth, would say business. Some, if they told the truth, would say the movies. See if you can finish the sentence as St. Paul did.

Next Thursday night Christ and Trinity churches will join in the United Congregational church under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

POINTS OUT PLACE OF GEOGRAPHY IN HISTORY

Nearly five hundred people attended the Thursday evening service at the Central Baptist church and heard another fine lecture by Professor M. A. Honline of Pasadena, Cal. His subject for the evening was The Importance of Geography in Determining History. In his lecture, Prof. Honline outlined the strategic position Palestine held in the old days and holds today, and how in every conflict armies of nations have tried to hold that country, the avenue or main artery between Asia, Europe and Africa. The entire lecture like those preceding, was given in a manner that held the closest attention of his entire audience and another large congregation is assured Prof. Honline when he lectures again at the Central church. His next subject will be The Place of the Child in Religious Education.

INJURED HARTFORD WOMAN HAS FIGHTING CHANCE

Miss Irene Liebowitz, the Hartford young woman who was seriously injured in an automobile accident last Sunday afternoon when she was thrown out of the machine and against a pole, is now given a fighting chance for her life by physicians attending the case, it is understood, and has so far shown remarkable improvement. She has been gaining in strength daily.

She has seven small fractures in a small area of her skull above the temple, but the brain does not seem to have been much affected and she is conscious and rational. As she continues to gain in strength the hopes of her physicians for her ultimate recovery will increase.

Chimney Fire on Smith Avenue.

The fire department was called out Thursday morning at 8.55 o'clock for a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Helen McMillan at No. 94 Smith avenue. The fire was quickly extinguished, six gallons of chemical being used. The house is owned by William McClimon.

CONFERENCE AT HARTFORD ON EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

A public hearing on matters pertaining to general educational matters was held Thursday in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol at Hartford, by the educational commission created by the last general assembly. The hearing was for the purpose of obtaining the sentiment throughout the state relative to general educational needs.

The commission plans to codify and revise the laws of the state, making recommendations for new laws to the general assembly. Many meetings have been held by the commission, but as there are so many small town educational problems, the hearing Thursday was considered a necessity.

Senator C. M. Bakewell of New Haven is chairman of the commission and the Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic, George R. Sturgis of Woodbury, N. H. Holbrook of Thomaston, Mrs. Helen E. Lewis of Stratford, who are house members; Senator Harmon J. Gibbs of Norwich and Dean Warren of the Sheffield Scientific School. Judge Albert C. Baldwin of Derby is secretary.

Senator Bakewell said in opening the meeting was called without having any definite subjects in mind but the meeting was open for general discussion of all questions. If the meeting is successful more hearings will be held when specific matters will be taken up.

Asks License System

Secretary Davis of the New Haven council of social agencies thought serious consideration should be given this matter. Investigation recently made showed conditions in the smaller cities. He thought a system of licensing whereby boys under 12 could be kept from the street corners but could, perhaps have regular routes.

Clarence King of the Bridgeport charities council told of the difficulties of police regulations in this respect. Even young girls have been selling papers as late as 11 p. m. He did not think police regulation effective.

J. White of Newtown believed newspaper selling necessary to give a boy initiative and spunk. However, he believed boys are sometimes exploited. He thought the superintendent of schools the proper person to take up the cause of the boys and get results. He thought state action necessary because many newspaper men are "hard boiled" and local ordinances would have no effect.

Mrs. James Howell of Salisbury believed mothers could more readily be heard by school heads than by local government heads.

D. J. Lyman of Columbia, who said he had come in contact with boys all his life, and he rather thought selling newspapers gave boys a certain element of push and development and worked to their advantage. He believed statistics should be given showing where boys have gone to the bad because of selling papers.

Mr. Davis said it would be difficult to say newspaper selling was the sole cause, but investigations showed it was a contributory cause.

Mr. Coyle of New Haven, a teacher of manual training in the Boardman school, sought revision of Rule 66, which did not recognize practical experience in permitting candidates to take examinations for state certificates. He had not served the required year in a manual training school, and while it might be possible to attend summer schools at Columbia, one of the teachers there was one he himself had taught. He asked the commission to consider the question of recognizing practical experience.

Mr. Lyman of Wethersfield regretted the passing of teachings the three R's in the schools of today.

Selling Milk and Banking

The increasing tendency to have such matters as selling milk or banking made a part of the school work, he believed, took much valuable time of the pupils and teachers from their work and which did much towards creating the general impression in his town that something is wrong with the schools; that money is being paid in increasing amounts for which there seemed to be no adequate return. He objected to the clerical work imposed on the teachers for the preparation of statistical tables principally for the state board of education and which seemingly is of no value. He objected to the amount of home work required of children, much of it because of the time taken from the children in school by physical training and gymnastics.

STATE CONFERENCE BY DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION

By invitation of Mary Clapp Wooster chapter, the thirty-first annual state conference of the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution will be held in Center church, New Haven, Thursday and Friday, March 27 and 28. The conference will be called to order promptly at 2 o'clock, March 27, and will continue through the following day. Luncheon will be served on March 28, at the Hotel Taft. Supper will be served in Center church house on the evening of March 27, after which five episodes from a pageant called Glimpses of Our Country's History, will be presented by the foreign born adult classes of the New Haven night schools.

GOSHEN

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Spaulding of East Norwalk were remembered with letters of congratulations and good wishes by a large circle of friends of this place on their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday March 18th. Mr. and Mrs. Saulding were born in Lebanon, having lived here and in Colchester for many years, before moving to their present home. They have two children, Mrs. Edward B. Robertson of East Norwalk and Frank E. Spaulding of West Haven. There are two grandchildren, Dwight Spaulding has two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Williams and Mrs. F. G. Stark residing in Lebanon. Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding are enjoying good health in a wonderful degree and are conscience of the guiding hand of Providence in the passing years, of over three score and ten. The former is with one of the prominent business firms of South NNorwalk. He has unusual talent and during leisure hours with brush and colors he has put on canvas many beautiful landscapes and marine scenes. His early years were spent on Hillside farm, and it is interesting to hear him relate reminiscences of the home town, Lebanon and events during a half century.

Calvin McCall who has been attending the automobile school in Detroit, Michigan, returned early this week.

Seventeen years ago now the ground was all settled and it is remembered some farmers had their oats sowed.

During the last snowstorm a bank five feet deep was reported on North street and there are some steep banks remaining yet.

William T. Curry of Springfield, Mass., was at the home of his father, W. T. Curry, Wednesday.

The pleasant moonlight evening brought out a full attendance at the meeting of the Goshen Community club Wednesday evening. The program committee was Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones. A very pleasant evening of entertainment was devoted to singing, a tableau and several games, to music over the club radio, and to refreshments. E. H. McCall, Jr., and A. J. Randall are the committee for the next meeting to be held April 2nd.

A lumberman is soon to move his steam saw mill to cut the big timber in the north woods at Walnut Grove farm.

The first consignment of early chickens were received here Wednesday. One poultryman who keeps 800 head of foul, is getting 150 eggs a day.

CHAPMAN TECH CLOSES SEASON WITH EASY VICTORY OVER STONINGTON HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 20.—Chapman Technical high closed its basketball season in a most successful manner when they easily defeated Stonington high at the Chapman Tech auditorium Thursday night, by a 39 to 14 score. In the preliminary game between the Mebs, winners of the Y. M. C. A. House league, and the Bulkeley Juniors, the Mebs, by making a good finish, were declared the winners by a 33 to 28 score.

Chapman Tech easily outclassed Stonington in every department of play. The Tech superiority asserted itself from the very start and even with second and third string substitutes, Stonington could do very little in the way of scoring.

From the opening whistle the Tech forwards, Andrews and Linkletter, and Hewitt, at center, exhibited such a fast and accurate passing game that the Stonington team was dazzled. It was easy for the Tech forwards to find an opening in the ranks of Brown and White. Very few long range shots for the basket were tried by the home team, and almost every basket that was hung up came directly after some short and snappy passing. The Red and Black were never in better form and the large crowd that was present to see the champions of Eastern Connecticut in their last game were rewarded with a fine exhibition of good basketball playing.

The Stonington five were at a loss for the first eight minutes of play and it was an easy matter for the winners to drop in basket after basket. With the beginning of the second quarter the defense of the visiting team was a little stronger and the Tech team had a much harder time in working the ball down the court to get in a position to shoot.

The visitors failed to make an impression on the fans as a fast traveling team. They were slow to take advantage of opportunities to score and had a poor defense.

Hewitt for Chapman Tech led that team in the matter of scoring, with 12 baskets from the field. Both Linkletter and Andrews were his chief scorers. The former accounted for nine field baskets, while the latter found the netting for ten field goals.

McCaffery for the Stonington five was the best shot for that team.

The lineup and summary:

Mebs Beat Bulkeley Juniors.

The preliminary game which brought the Mebs and the Bulkeley Juniors together furnished plenty of good playing to make up for the main attraction between Chapman Tech and Stonington. Throughout the forty minutes of play there was something doing every minute of the time. The four times to tie up the game, although Bulkeley Juniors came from behind they never gained the lead at any one time.

The champions of the House league found the high school boys a persistent lot and only a last minute finish gave them a five point margin.

For the winners, MacMahon at center, accounted for 17 points himself and he was largely responsible for the Mebs' victory. McDougal at right forward, shot some good baskets from difficult angles.

For the Bulkeley Juniors, Taylor was the best performer. He accounted for ten points. Lonergan, with eight, was close behind.

Chance Recovering Nicely

Chicago, March 20—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago White Sox, who is recovering from bronchial infection at a California resort, advised Johnny Evers, acting manager of the club, today that he would join the team at Jacksonville, Fla., April 1 or in Augusta, Ga., the next day.

MYSTERY CONCERNING BIG OFFER TO DEMPSEY

New York, March 20—(By the A. P.)—The pugilistic atmosphere, which has been thick with syndicates and half-million dollar fight offers for several months, had another "mystery" tossed into it today by Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey.

Kearns announced he was considering an offer for the champion's services from California interests, but except to describe it as "the biggest proposition ever put to him," he declined to disclose any details. Pressed further, he refused to say whether the offer referred to a motion picture contract he has had in view or a new bid for a title match, possibly with Harry Wills.

"I expect to leave next Sunday or Monday for os Angeles," said Kearns. "Upon my arrival there I will have a final conference with promoters and make a definite announcement of our entire program, for this year."

It was recalled that sometime ago, James J. Coffroth, promoter who now conducts a racing plant at Tia Juana, proposed a match there between Wills and Dempsey, but it could not be learned whether Kearns' statement had any connection with this. Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, asserted he had not been approached with any new offer for a title match but reiterated his assertion that the big negro is ready to meet Dempsey at any time.

CONRAD AND WILCOX DROP OUT OF BOWLING LEAGUE

Following close on the heels of the announcement that Frankie Barber of Danielson had entered the Eastern Connecticut bowling championship comes word that Conrad of Willimantic and Wilcox of Jewett City had withdrawn their entries for the tournament. Whether any significance can be attached to two announcements is speculative and the public can draw its own inference as to just how chilly the climate has become in Willimantic and Jewett City during the past few days. Up to the time Barber made his decision about coming into the league Willimantic and Jewett City were certain to be represented.

Of course every bowling fan in the eastern part of the state knows that Barber is head and shoulders above the large majority of duck-pin men in this section. However, there remain four bowlers besides Barber in the league and they are willing to take a chance against Barber's prowess. These four are Roy Fillmore of Norwich, Chip Dugas of Taftville, Mike Morin of Taftville and McKenzie of Moosup. Besides being willing to put up their entrance fee each bowler has a strong following and there will be plenty of money to back their opinions.

The league opens on next Monday evening the first matches of ten strings each will be rolled at Taftville and Norwich.

NEW JERSEY LAYS DOWN NEW BOXING CODE

Trenton, N. J., Mar. 20.—Boxers appearing in the final bout of a show will not be permitted to engage in more than one exhibition within a period of five days, or 120 hours, instead of three days as provided in the past. This amendment to the rules and regulations of the State Athletic Commission was announced by Commissioner Newton A. K. Bugbee today and will apply equally to boxers from other states coming into New Jersey to engage in contests.

Mr. Bugbee said that the amendment is made necessary because of the situation growing out of the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney bout in Madison Square Garden on March 14, when Delaney knocked out in the fourth round. Berlenbach had signed a contract to box at the broad A. C., in Newark with Jackie Clark on March 17, and prior to the latter date he also signed an agreement to box at the Garden on March 14. Because Berlenbach was knocked out the broad club felt this condition would interfere with the number of admissions and substituted Delaney for Berlenbach to fight Clark.

PENN MAY PLAY ON COAST NEXT SEASON

Philadelphia, March 20—A football game between the University of Pennsylvania and the University of California, next New Year's day, at Berkeley, Calif., has been tentatively arranged by the athletic authorities of the two institutions and will be played if approved by the president of the Pacific coast university, Pennsylvania has sanctioned the game, it was made known today.

Basketball Games Tonight.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 20. — A good basketball card of three games is scheduled for the Military league Friday night. The first game will bring two guardsmen companies together, the 65th Brigade Headquarters and Battery A. The Tabs will try to take a fall out of the New London Ship and Engine in the second game. The third and last contest of the evening will give the J. N. Lapointe five a chance to get revenge for the last defeat the New London Independents administered to them.

Northfield, Vt., MAR. 20.—Notification that Norwich university had won the northeast intercollegiate league rifle championship was received today from Washington, D. C. According to the announcement Pennsylvania was second, Columbia, third, and Penn. State, fourth in the final standing. The league including nine teams. Norwich had previously won the first corps area title competing against New England colleges.

Norwich also holds the honor of turning in the highest team score in a league match, 1953. Penn. State's high mark was 1930, Pennsylvania shot 1926 and Columbia 1921. Norwich defeated Syracuse 1918 to 1827 in the final match.

FIRPO'S TOUR WOULD NET NEARLY HALF MILLION

New York, March 20—Details of the exhibition program arranged this summer for Luis Angel Firpo and which must be discarded if the Argentine fulfills his present intention to retire were made public tonight by William McCarney, Firpo's American business representative. It includes dates in sixteen cities of this country and Canada, which according to McCarney, would net Firpo close to a half million dollars.

According to McCarpey, the offer of James J. Johnston for a bout with Harry Wills here, on July 12, or 26, still stands, in addition to a prospective match with Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight.

SEVERAL GOOD BOXING CARDS BEING ARRANGED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 20.—Several unusually good bouts are in store for Connecticut fans within the next two weeks. The first boxing match will come off on Friday, March 21, at Norwalk, where Mickey Travers will swap blows with Mickey Cooney in the star bout of the evening at 130 pounds. The Norwalk Sporting club which is putting on this boxing match have included three other good bouts to precede the star attraction.

On Monday evening, March 24, the Nutmeg A. C., will have Kid Lewis of Hartford and Sparkplug Russel of New Jersey furnish the excitement for the fans in the star bout at 118 pounds. The following night the Atlas A. C. of Hartford have arranged an attractive card, with the main attraction announced as Mike Morley of Hartford and Allentown Joe Gans of Allentown, Pa.

There are several more bouts that have not been definitely scheduled to take place. On April 1, Jack Delaney, conqueror of Berlenbach, will battle with Fay Kaiser of Meriden. This match is in the making and arrangements have not as yet been completed. The Casino A. A. of Danielson is also arranging a show.

LAST VOLLEYBALL GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 20.—The last games of the Business and Professional Men's Volleyball league are scheduled for Friday night. Four games are scheduled which will wind up the playing for the first round. It is expected that another round in this league will not be played. A meeting for the purpose of deciding this matter will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night after the games are played.

The games that are scheduled to be played are as follows: At 6.15, the Merchants will oppose the Lions club; the Rotary club and the Harbour club will play each other on court No. 2; at 6.45, the Bankers and the Manufacturers on court No. 1, and the Thames club and the Professional Men on court No. 2 will wind up the evening's activities.

DANIELSON BATTERY PLAYS NEW LONDON CHAMPS

Tonight at the State Armory in Danielson, the service battery will entertain Headquarters battery, champions of the New London Military League, in what should be one of the best games of the season. Both teams have a long string of victories and will fight hard to win this contest which will have an important bearing on the National Guard Championship of this section, if not the entire state. The Danielson outfit will present a strong lineup with Keech of Killingly High, Gale, formerly a member of the Wesleyan squad, Armington of Putnam Trade, Burton, Poirier and Godreau. The Battery seconds will again meet the Jolly Five who defeated the soldiers last week in an overtime session.

BABE RUTH GETS HIS FIRST HOMER OF SEASON

New Orleans, March 20—Babe Ruth tallied his first circuit drive of the spring exhibition series in a game today between the New York Americans and the New Orleans Southern Association team, which the Yankees won, 14 to 4. Witt was on base when Ruth smashed the ball over the right field fence.

ZBYSZKO BOLTS MEETING OF ATHETIC COMMISSION

Chicago, March 20—Stanislaus Zbyszko, Polish wrestler, who lost to Champion Ed "Strangler" Lewis a month ago, when Lewis struck him on the chin, the match ending in a disturbance with Lewis being conveyed in a police wagon to his hotel, bolted a meeting of the city athletic commission today, declaring:

"This is like Russia!"

The grapplers are matched to meet again next Tuesday and the commission called the meeting to agree on rules. The Pole wanted an agreement that when the wrestlers reach the end of the mat they should be called to the center of the ring and the man on top be allowed to resume his position of advantage. Lewis insisted on resuming in a standing position and with some indication that the commission would decide in favor of Lewis, Zbyszko rushed from the room.

The commission will meet again tomorrow.

JUNIOR HEXATHLON AT "Y" GYM FRIDAY

An interesting athletic meet is scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. gym for Friday afternoon and evening when the junior hexathlon, which is a national meet in which many different Y. M. C. A.'s all over America enter, is a contest between the association's for the purpose of determining the leading athletic assopiations of America. The contest is an annual affair, and each association conducts the work on its own floor at a given time, adhering closely to the official rules and afterwards submitting the best records to national headquarters at New York from where the winners are announced.

The events are as follows: long and short potash races, fence vault, bar snap, running high jump, standing broad jump, target throw and shot put. In order that every competitor will stand a chance in the competition the boys are classified into weight classes.

The local "Y'ers" made a good score in last season's contest and are out to better their last year's record. The high point men last year were as follows: 60-80 pound class, Harry Ogrudnick; 95 pound class, Otis Fellows; 100 pound class, Arthur Armstrong; 125 pound class, Randall Williams; unlimited class, Phil McNamara.

To stimulate local competition Friday a fine trophy cup is being awarded to the individual athlete making the highest score, and medals to the high point men in each weight class.

KAPLAN FIGHTS TO DRAW WITH GARCIA

Waterbury Mar. 20.—Louis "Kid" Kaplan, of Meriden, and Bobby Garcia of Baltimore, Md., fought a 121 round draw here tonight. Willie Shrugrue, of Waterbury knocked out Joe Flynn, of Hartford in the first round, the fight going only one minute.

Comiskey Reported Better

Chicago, March 20—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, tonight was reported resting easily after an operation today for removal of gallstones. The "Old Roman" who in past 65 years of age, withstood the shock of the operation successfully despite his failing health.

Topping Wins Another

Bellesir, Fla., March 20—Henry J. Topping, of Greenwich, defeated H. S. Hanger, Richmond, Ky., by four and two in the semi-finals of the Bellesair amateur golf championship tournament here today. The other finalist is Robert A. Stranahan, of Inverness, who defeated George Morse of Rutland, two and one.

John D. Sinks Long Putt

Ormand Beach, Fla., Mar. 20.—John D. Rockefeller sank a twenty-one foot putt on the 17th hole on the Ormand Beach golf links today for a par three while playing despite a heavy rain and motion picture cameras.

Mr. Rockefeller was elated over the putt, and went to finish his regular eight holes.

Soccer Games

London, March 20—Blackburn defeated Cardiff, 3 to 1, in a game played in the first division of the English football association here today.

Glasgow, March 20—Airdrieonians defeated Ayr United, 1 to 0, in a replayed game of the Scottish football association series at Ibrox Park today.

EXHIBITION GAMES

New Orleans, March 20—

New York Americans 14, 16, 1.

New Orleans Southern 4, 11, 5.

Ruetteger, Shields and Hofmann, Bengough; Thomas, Ragan, Marston and C. Moore, T. Moore.

Manager Burelle Has His Say.

Manager "Red" Burelle of the Army-Navy Seconds wishes the public and the Taftville Celtics to know that the Seconds did not play the Baltic Bantams on Feb. 20th, but that it was a picked up team playing under the name of the Baltic All-Stars. There were a few Bantam players in the lineup and several from Norwich but it was not the regular Bantam team. Mr. Raymond can arrange a game at any time by calling on Manager Burelle.

Lee (Red) Page, an infielder from Ironton, Mich., has been taken on by the Toledo Club of the American Association.

NEW LONDON ALL-INDUSTRIAL FIVE PICKED BY BULLETIN SPORT WRITER

New London, March 21.—With the Industrial league officially over, a question that seems prevalent in New London is "what is your selection of a first All-Industrial league team?" The Bulletin's representative, who has been covering the games of this popular league, has been asked to pick his selection of a good first and second team. In picking the first and second All-Industrial league team, no favoritism is shown any one player, the players are picked for the position as they performed all year. There is bound to be some fans who will disagree with this selection.

The right forward position could be given easily to Risch. His playing all season was good and he was considered one of the best shots in the league. The fact that he led the league in the matter of points scored has also some bearing on the matter. Hutchinson, a member of the Connecticut Power quintet, is selected for left forward. Hutchinson is runner-up to Risch in the individual scoring and is a deadly shot from any angle. His floor work was also good.

It is not believed that many will disagree with the selection of MacMahon of the J. N. Lapointe five, at center. MacMahon, during the last two rounds of play has been showing good all around play. He is also a good shot. The fact that MacMahon is picked for the pivot position can be easily explained, there is not another center in the league that can even be mentioned to hold down this important position.

In picking the guards, their ability to shoot baskets as well as turn in a good guarding game makes these two positions hard to pick. However, after considering the playing of both Rankin of the Connecticut Power, and Craig of the league-winning Ship and Engine team, the selection of these two players was made to do the guard duty of the All-Industrial team. Rankin and Craig are both good shots and and sink a few baskets when the occasion demands. Rankin is the better can be depended to slip down the court guard of the two, while Craig is a much better roving type of guard.

With the selection of the first team, the real reason of the selection of the second team is mainly because some of the players, while not deserving a berth on the first team, are good enough for the second. In one or two instances only a small margin separated a player between the first and second team.

For the forwards, Prince of the Connecticut Power, has first choice for right forward. To pick a running mate for Prince is a difficult thing to do. Frew and McGowan are both good men for that position. But here is where the individual scoring bears a little weight in making a selection. Frew leads McGowan by 16 points and accordingly gets the selection.

The center position goes to D'Avignor of the Ship and Engine. There was a scarcity of first class center men in the "Dusty" league and D'Avignon gets the call over all other players because he played in that position almost steadily.

For the guards, Belknap of the Lapointes is the best for right guard. The only reason Belknap was not picked for the first team is that he failed to make an appearance for the last game with the Ship and Engine where his playing in that game would win him a place on the first team selection. In picking the left guard for the second team selection, P. Maryeski of the Palmer Bros. is the choice. His playing all season was good.

In the individual scoring, Risch of the Ship and Engine, by dropping in 20 field baskets recently in a single contest was able to take the place at the lead. Hutchinson of the Connecticut Power was but a single point behind Risch. Hutchinson had a good chance to go into the lead in Saturday night's game against Palmer Brothers. Had he scored six instead of five field goals, he would have topped Risch by a single point. Risch remained idle Saturday but had enough points to carry him over.

MacMahon of the Lapointes was leading the league up until the last contest of the year, when the Lapointes failed to show up in their contest with the Ship and Engine. As it was MacMahon was but two field baskets behind the leader.

Prince, with ten foul goals, led the league. Three other men were second with seven free throws each.

The records printed are official and exclusive to The Bulletin.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Festival of St. Benedict, founder of the Order of Benedictines.

Alabama will devote the week beginning today to a campaign against illiteracy.

Mexicans today celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Benito Juarez, often referred to as the Lincoln of Mexico.

Atlanta is to be the meeting place today of the biennial convention of the National Alumni Association of Princeton university.

Student orators of the Missouri valley colleges meet at Washington University, St. Louis, this evening for their annual contest.

The desirability of limiting the number of university students is to furnish the subject for a triangular debate this evening between student teams of Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

The diversion of water of the Great Lakes involved in the new drainage project of the Chicago sanitary commission is to be the subject for a triangular debate tonight among representatives of the state universities of Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

BREED THEATRE

Vesuvius in eruption, the gates of a reservoir burst open by the on rushing volume of burning lava, the inhabitants of the valley towns fleeing in terror from the twin horrors of fire and water.

How many times has this tragedy of nature been enacted in real life?

The screen never actually caught such scenes until last spring, when Henry King and Lillian Gish set forth to Italy to film E. Marion Crawford's world-renowned novel, The White Sister, the Inspiration picture released by Metro.

The eruption of Vesuvius is but the thrilling climax of The White Sister, which is a powerful love story based on an eternal theme, which is shown at the Breed theatre all this week.

Coming to Broadway Theatre.

A forceful story by Sir Hall Caine, and an all-star cast which includes Conrad Nogel, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth, Patsy Ruth Miller and Creighton Hale, combine to make noteworthy Victor Seastrom's first American production, Name the Man! which comes Sunday to the Broadway theatre.

Name the Man! is from the celebrated English novelist's recent best seller, The Master of Man. It tells the striking story of a young judge whose first act of office is to pass judgment on a girl he himself wronged.

Mae Busch plays the part of the wronged girl—her second leading part in Hall Caine stories, with Conrad Nagel playing the part of the judge.

A brilliant cast, with gigantic settings picturing the ancient prison and castle on the Isle of Man, and superb photography add to the perfection of the distinguished European director's first Goldwyn production. It will make his name familiar to every picture fan in the country and help the films to come into their own as an art as well as an entertainment.

This super-feature will be seen at the Broadway Sunday night and then will be at the Strand for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Broadway Theatre.

A truly fine selection of Keith standard vaudeville entirely suited the large audience at the Broadway theatre yesterday.

Opening the vaudeville program were The Hostens in Table Antics, presenting a series of difficult feats with a comedy flavor.

Joe Ryan and Josey Moore in Fall Has Come, offered a bright comedy skit.

Mercedes proved to be all that the advance reports stated. Ably assisted by Mlle. Stantone, the marvelous mystic, he transferred in silence and sincerity by telepathic wave to Mlle. Stantone any musical selection suggested by the audience from grand opera to ragtime. This act must be seen to be appreciated.

Tom Kelly, that Irishman, has the gift of telling stories with the kind of humor that keep you in roars of laughter.

Dorothy Doyle and Her Dandies consisted of a company of six stellar performers who offered a syncopated treat.

The feature picture, Sinner or Saint, with a star cast, proved to be a delightful comedy drama.

The Broadway Has "Up She Goes" Monday, March 24.

William A. Brady's musical comedy, Up She Goes, will be the attraction at the Broadway, Monday, March 24, coming here direct from its triumphant run in Boston, and, before that, from a season at The Playhouse, New York. No musical comedy this season has been more liked nor more popular, consequently, than this delightful piece.

It comes here with not only an excellent cast but with a record of success that is perhaps the more notable because it has been obtained simply on its own merits as a clean, appealing musical comedy should rely on: genuine comedy; an excellent book that is nonetheless amusing because it has a real story to tell and tells this story with flashes of philosophy, wit and satire; and fine rhythmic music that is good, not only for dancing and whistling, but just to listen to.

The reason Up She Goes has three positive virtues is because the three men who collaborated on it—they know what they're doing and how to do it better than anybody else—wanted to prove, and proved easily, that a musical comedy could be clean and yet be more entertaining and have more laughs than those who are, so to speak, no better as musical comedies than they should be.

Strand Theatre.

Bill Hart again.

Wild Bill Hickok sure was an ideal comeback vehicle for William S. Hart, but to have followed it up with a picture like Singer Jim McKee, which was shown for the first time yesterday at the Strand theatre, is a real achievement, for Bill not only stars in the picture but wrote the story himself and produced the picture himself for Paramount.

Of course it's a western—Bill's out of his element in anything else. The same staff that made all of the previous Hart pictures made this one. Clifford Smith directing, J. G. Hawks making the adaptation and Dwight Warren behind the camera.

Phyllis Haver, at one time a favored Sennett sea-side siren, plays opposite the star. You remember her in The Christian? But she was never before so charming and attractive as in Singer Jim. Gordon Russell plays Buck Holden, the principal masculine supporting role. Others include Bert Sprotte, Edward Gomez and William Dyer.

If you don't see Singer Jim McKee you'll never see the real Bill Hart.

Short subjects included a comedy and news weekly.

Balloon Tire Confusion Clearing.

The illustrations, supplied by the General Tire & Rubber Co., show very clearly the difference between standard size and balloon tires. The smaller is the air chamber of a 33x5 standard size tire inflated with 60 pounds of air. The larger is the air chamber of a 34x7 balloon tire for the same car, 91 per cent. larger than the standard tire shown on page 4 and intended to be used at 30 pounds of air, by Williams Tire & Supply Company, general tire distributor.

Balloon tires continue to grow as the main topic of discussion among car owners this year. When four-wheel brakes were announced it was expected that they would be the real feature in the automobile world this year. BMut judging from our experience there is more interest in the larger tireha than in any other item of discussion among those owning automobiles.

Since we offered to be headquarters for balloon tire information in Norwich we have been subject to a regular barrage of telephone calls and inquiries and our sales of General Tires have been consistently mounting.

Tire manufacturers bombarded the public with balloon tire announcements rather suddenly and it is not unnatural that there has been a good deal of confusion in the public mind about this sensational tire development. Balloon tires are simply larger, thinner, more flexible tire, but the principal idea they develop is lower air pressure and greater cushioning. The word "balloon" has been attached to them by happy chance. General has been developing low pressure larger cross section tires since 1916, so we are not strangers to this latest atyle in tires and are equipped to give just the information the public wants.

Victor Talking Machine Co.

Hon. Reed Smoot, Chairman Senate Finance Committee, U. S. Senate, Washington, D. C.

I started the business that is now the Victor Talking Machine company in 1894 on my own small capital. I have reinvested 56 per cent of the earnings in expansion. I have distributed as much of the stock as is advisable; there are now five hundred stockholders and ten thousand employes all receiving high wages and many receive large salaries. My taxes, income tax and computed inheritance taxes amount to 105 per cent of my income since 1917, and if the house bill becomes the law these taxes will amount to 128 per cent of my income since 1917. The gift tax, the stock dividend tax and inheritance taxes are all capital taxes, in truth veiled confiscation. There can be no economy in low income taxes if capital taxes are to be raised. These taxes are not only cruel but they are foolish; they will injure everyone eventually and I firmly believe slowly develop a serious national disaster.

ELDRIDGE R. JOHNSON.

At the Palace.

The program of song hits, dances and comedy sketches given by Marty Dupree's company of entertainers at the Palace theatre the last half of the week is one that is even better than during the first half. Bennie Drohan is even funnier than ever before—if such a thing is possible. The wit is bright and snappy and the humorous situations are extremely laughable. The whole bill is one that was thoroughly appreciated at both performances on Thursday. One of the features of the program was the quartette numbers by the male quartette, the singers responding to many curtain calls.

The feature picture is Three Miles Out, a thrilling drama of modern bootlegging times. There is plenty of action and some exceptionally good acting. An educational film and a real funny comedy feature complete the bill.

PROMOTION OF MOTORCYCLE COP AT NEW LONDON CAUSES ILL FEELING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 20. — When Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney appointed Patrolman William Babcock acting sergeant following the suspension, Sunday night, of Sergeant Charles Hammond on charges of drinking while in the performance of duty, he started someting, for hardly had the appointment of Babcock been made than there appeared a feeling of discontent and dissatisfaction among other members of the department. That feeling became more apparent today when it became known that Patrolman John J. Cavanaugh, Babcock's partner in performing motorcycle duty during the summer, was the man most aggrieved and was seeking the apointment. It became known that not only had Cavanaugh interviewed members of the city council in an effort to secure the appointment of sergeant, in the event of Hammond being dismissed or dropped to the ranks of patrolman, but he had also interviewed taxpayers whom, he believes could use their influence in obtaining the appointment for him. Cavanaugh, however, did not interview Captain Pinney on the matter until this afternoon when he was closeted with his superior officer for over an hour. What the interview developed is not known, but it is believed that it will not have any weight should Hammond's position be left vacant, for it is known that Captain Pinney favors Babcock for the office. Babcock has served about three years as a member of the force while Cavanaugh has served about seven years. That it is intended to retain Babcock as sergeant is further evidenced by the fact that Captain Pinney has caused Patrolman George Labowe to learn to operate a motorcicle, so that Labowe will be able to perform that duty next month, when the motorcycle officers are assigned to duty.

Hammond's hearing will take place tomorrow morning in the office of City Manager Holt.

It developed this evening that Patrolman George Perkins is also seeking the appointment of street sergeant, that officer having made a visit to members of the city council and to his friends, in an endeavor to secure support.

An automobile truck owned by the American Railway Express company and operated by Richard E. Deas of 14 Cottage street and a commercial car, owned by Felliman, the florist, and driven by M. Zimmer, of Main street, were in collision, late this afternoon, corner of Union and Masonic streets. The express company's car was but slightly damaged, but the florist's machine did not fare so well.

Charles Pierce of Homestead, R. I., was arrested this afternoon by Special Agent Fink of the Central Vermont railroad, when he was found loitering on property of the railroad. Pierce will be in the police court tomorrow morning, charged with being a trespasser upon railroad property.

The platform used by the traffic officers at the corner of Howard and Bank streets, damaged this week when struck by a bus being operated from New London to Keeney's corner, Waterford, was replaced by a new stand this afternoon by the driver of the bus.

Members of New London Aerie of Eagles are anticipating a great time next August when the grand aerie is assembled in convention. There are to be several thousand Eagles on Roger Williams plantation during the days of the meeting and prizes are to be awarded for the largest membership, in any aerie attending, for the best band, the best appearing aerie and for many other desirable requisites in the visiting organizations.

The police of this city declare that the sellers of liquor in New London have been driven from business and that there are practically no offenders in that direction in the city. There certainly have been no prosecutions of late for the offense so the statements made by the police seem to be borne out by facts.

Edward Murray, who has been in the Panama Canal zone for several weeks, is on his way home and is in Miami for a few days prior to returning to this city to resume business affairs. There is a considerable colony of New Londoners in Florida now, though some who have been there are on the way home or about to start. Mrs. Selden B. Manwarring returned yesterday and Mrs. Robert Horton came back from the south Wednesday also.

No agreement has been reached by Joseph Gentilella and the Gulf Refining company for the acquisition of the property at the corner of Bank and Truman streets, where it is proposed to establish a gasoline station. The company has an option on the property, but the sale is contingent upon whether the refining company can obtain permission to erect a gasoline station there. Revaluation has been held up by the city council inasmuch as the new business may interfere with the provisions of a section of the building code that will be adopted by the council the coming week perhaps.

It is understood that some of the coal dealers in this city claim that the successful bidders for a contract to supply the city with fifty tons of bituminous coal cannot supply the best quality of coal, at the price called for in the contract. But the city has a stipulated price based upon for coal that will analyze in quality certain percentages of heating ingredients and that that sort of coal will be the only kind that will satisfy the purchaser. In previous years there have been serious differences as to the coal furnished the city, and the dealers who represent that the coal the city has agreed upon with the sellers will not be furnished when the time comes for the delivery.

The Scott company is now breaking up marine craft bought for the purpose of re-sale, and it is claimed that the material taken out of the craft, could a customer be found for it intact, would net a handsome profit for the sellers. The brass and copper taken from the steam craft is sent to Hartford and sold.

A. W. Holman, of Groton, was fined $5 in the police court today for failing to heed the signal of Traffic Officer John Courtney, at the corner of Bank and State streets. Mr. Holman was absent-minded and thus made the mistake that he had to pay for making. He stopped when signalled to do so, but didn't wait for a signal to go ahead and drove mighty close to pedestrians who were using the crossing. He frightened them and they objected.

Mrs. William Bushnell and infant daughter, of Waterford, Miss Celia Dean of 79 Garfield avenue and James Reilly of 57 Blinman street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Charles R. Hill, 76, died at his home, near Baker's Creek, Eastern Point, last night, after an illness of but three days. Mr. Hill was born in Groton and had resided there all his life. He was a fisherman by occupation and is survived by his wife and a son, Clarence Hill.

Mrs. Georgianna I. Stover, wife of Horace G. Watrous, died this morning at her home at the Navy Yard, Groton. Mrs. Watrous is survived, besides her husband by two sons, Melville Watrous of Westerly and Kenneth Watrous of Groton, and a daughter, Miss Aida Watrous of Boston. A brother, Walter E. Stover of Brooklyn, N. Y., also survives. Mrs. Watrous was born in Kittery, Me., but had resided in Groton the greater part of her life.

Two men unknown to the police, but evidently employed in East New London, were taken into custody this noon by Sergeant Frank Howard and Patrolman Edward Daniels, charged with drunkenness. Complaint was made at the police station that the men were close to the railroad tracks of the Central Vermont railroad and in danger of sustaining serious for possibly fatal injuries. When the officers arrived near the Winthrop street crossing the two men were tangled up in a pile of lumber near the railroad carpenter shop.

William B. Sloan of 92 Union street, has gone to Williamsport, Pa., to attend the funeral of his brother, Bruce Sloan, a former resident of New London, which occurred this week at Rochester, N. Y.

Two more dangerous hatchways were reported today to the highway department that repairs could be made before pedestrians were injured. Patrolman Manice in making his rounds on State street early this morning discovered the opening to the cellar of the building at 104 State street unsafe, a condition in which the hatchway has been for two or three weeks. This afternoon, Joseph Smith reported to the police that the hatchway in front of the Crown theatre was in a condition that made users of the walk liable to injury by tripping and falling. The latter hatchway has dropped about two inches below the surface of the walk.

Mrs. Frank A. Phillips of Station 8, Waterford, reported to the police this afternoon that a youth, John Saunders, had entered her home and had stole $30. Mrs. Phillips, who requested that Saunders be arrested if he came to New London, described the youth as being 19, about five feet, six inches in height, weighing about 200 pounds. Saunders has black hair and black eyes and wore black trousers and blue overcoat and a black and white cap.

A commercial automobile, owned by William S. Hills, of 337 Vauxhall street, was in collision this morning with an unidentified pleasure machine, on State street, near the corner of Huntington street. The collision caused the truck to back on the State street grade and collide with a car owned by the Soltz company, which automobile sustained the most damage.

The funeral of Mrs. Frances Marooney, widow of James Marooney, late of Cohanzie, was held this morning at 9.30 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were William Redden, Arthur Leary, John Riordan and Robert D. Burns, the last named of Saybrook. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie E. Rose, wife of John Rose, of 15 Clement street, Waterford, was held this morning at 9 o'clock, at St. Joseph's church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fox, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Groton, a large number of relatives and friends attending the services. The bearers were Manuel Sousa, Antone Joseph, John Perry, Joseph Mendoza, Joseph Veale and Manuel Perry. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

An automobile owned and operated by Leon De Lillo, of 20 Pratt street, struck and killed a dog, owner unknown, on Broad street this morning.

An automobile owned and driven by C. Hutchings, of 361 Bank street and a machine owned and operated by Richard W. Tripp, of Hartford, were in collision early this morning, corner of Green and Pearl streets. Neither car was seriously damaged.

Dr. Stuart J. Lawson has purchased the residence occupied by him on Federal street from Abraham J. Agranovitch. The price paid was $9,000. The residence was formerly owned by the late William B. Colt.

John H. Carr and Mary R. Carr have sold to Agnes Carr Reilly a building lot on Colman street.

Mantley B. Mumford has sold to Morton M. Jeffers a house and lot on Belden street.

The Winthrop Trust company, executors of the estate of Byron M. O'Brien, formerly of Groton, has sold a small parcel of land on Grove street.

Lucy A. Maynard has sold a house and lot on Linden street to Jane B. Pelton.

Miss Kate Huntley of Huntington street, Master Eugene Cushman, Colman street, Herman Johnson, Plainfield and Miss Marguerite Taganin of Uncasville, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

NORWICH TOWN

Funeral services for James Shahan were held Thursday morning at 8.15 from his home, 192 West Town street. At 9 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church a solemn high requiem mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, from St. Patrick's church being deacon and Rev. Myles P. Galvin sub-deacon.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Malone was in charge of the musical part of the mass, during which the choir sang At the offertory Miss Mary Buckley sang Pie Jesu, and for a waiting hymn Consolation.

As the body was borne from the church, the choir sang Nearer, My God, to Thee.

There were beautiful floral pieces. The bearers were Thomas Filburn, John Connell, James McNally, John Lynch, Timothy O'Hearn, all of Norwich Town, and William Symonds, of Hartford. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Brennan.

Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Included in the very large attendance were relatives and friends from Providence and Pawtucket, R. I., Hartford and Stamford, also a delegation from White Cross Council, K. of C., of Norwich.

A fully attended meeting of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters was held at Miss Hyde's Wednesday evening. It being George F. Hyde's birthday, the members celebrated in his honor by serving refreshments. During the day and evening twenty friends congratulated Mr. Hyde. Flowers, cards and other gifts were received.

Allison C. Rogers, of Boston, was a recent guest at his former home on Washington.

Mrs. George A. Peck of Otrobando avenue and Mrs. William A. White, of Leffingwell were guests Wednesday of Mrs. Harriet Rathbun of Salem, having made the trip by autobus by way of Colchester.

Mrs. Minnie Edmiston Fuller moved Saturday from W. H. Tagne's house on McClellan avenue, where she had resided for sixteen years, to her new home on Huntington avenue, which she purchased from Mrs. Margaret Corrigeux of Laurel Hill, during the month of December.

Having sold her property on McClellan avenue to Teodel Ethier of West Town street, Mrs. Johanna Blacker, with her son John and daughter, Miss Mary Blacker, moved Saturday to the Polowsky house on Otrobando avenue, after 20 years residence at their former home. Mr. Ethier is making several improvements to his new property.

"The Bravest Battle That Ever Was Fought."

The bravest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battle-shot,
With sword or nobler pen;
Nay, not with eloquent word or thought,
From mouths of wonderful men.

But deep in a walled-up woman's heart—
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part—
Lo! There is that battlefield!

No marshaling troop, no bivouac song;
No banners to gleam and wave!
But, Oh! These battles they last so long—
From babyhood to the grave.

Yet faithful still as a bridge of stars,
She fights in her walled-up town—
Fights, on, and on, in the endless wars,
Then silent, unseen goes down.

Oh! Ye with banners and battle-shot
And soldier to shout and praise,
I tell you the kingliest victories fought
Are fought in these silent ways!

Oh! Spotless woman in a world of shame,
With splendid and silent scorn,
Go back to God as white as you came,
The kingliest warrior born.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Partial to Uncle David

Goodness me! The good dog editor of the Reidsville News kept the printer man waiting so long that he had scarcely a minute to print Uncle Dave Cory's story in time for the rabbit newsboys to sell their papers.

The newsboy is a noisy kid:
He has to be, I guess.
He'd never sell a paper
If he hollored any less.

Well, I'm sure you are all wondering what became of the selfish little rabbit prince and the big Ragged Rabbit Giant. Why, they just changed places again. The prince grew smaller and smaller as soon as the Ragged Giant touched him with the Magic Blue Flower. And the giant bunny, instead of remaining a little teeny weeny giant, became once more a great big giant.

"Oh joy and a million cents!" cried the little rabbit.

"I'll never again be selfish," cried the little rabbit prince, hugging his fairy queen mother. "I have learned a lesson." And from that time till the end of his days, he was a good bunny boy and later, a kind rabbit fairy king.

Well, that certainly was a fine movie show. Maybe some day all you little boys and girls who read this story will go to see it. Who knows? But, listen to what Uncle Dave Cory is saying to Little Jack Rabbit who happened just then to hop into the Turnip Hotel.

"I'll be at the Lettuce Opera House tomorrow to talk to the bunny boys and girls in Turnip City."

"Oh joy and a million cents!" cried the little rabbit.

All of a sudden, the telephone girl began to sing:

"I've listened to the story
Just told by David Cory,
Believe me, little bunny,
It was very, very funny.

Why don't you ask the rabbit paper
To let you write a daily caper?
Why, all the bunny business men
Might give to you a fountain pen!"

And that pretty sweet telephone rabbit lady laughed a silvery tinkle and opened her vanity bag to powder her nose.

"No, sireeman. Nobody will write about me except David Cory. Uncle Dave knows all about Rabbit Land. He's the friend of all the furry and feathered folk."

Just then Lady Love called on the phone:

"Oh, where is my little bunny son.
It's nearly time for tea.
I'm worried for fear old Danny Fox
Has tickled him on the knee."

"I'm all right, mother dear," answered Little Jack Rabbit. "I'm coming home right away," and saying goodbye to Uncle Dave, the little bunny hopped back to the dear Old Bramble Patch where Lady Love stood waiting for him at the little gate in the white picket fence.

PLAINFIELD

Rev. W. C. Prentiss and Cecil L. Butler were in Brooklyn, Tuesday evening attending a meeting of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. committee. At 6.30 o'clock a delicious chicken pie dinner was served to twenty-five members of this committee, by members of the Brooklyn grange. Following supper the business meeting was called to order by G. Harold Gilpatric of Putnam, John H. Corbett being secretary. Many items of important business were taken up and disposed of. Announcement was made that the County Older Boys' Conference is to be held at Plainfield, in the Congregational Church, Saturday, April 19th.

Mrs. Victor Davidson is expected soon to visit her mother, Mrs. Mary Hudson, after which she plans to sail for England on the twelfth of April, going to London where Mr. Davidson is at present.

The Ladies' bowling league has improved much since the early fall. The high singles this week go to Mrs. Connell, president of the Go-Get-Ems, who rolled 123.

The teams, reorganized, stand as follows for two weeks:

| | |
|---|---|
| Spark Plugs | 1958 |
| Go-Get-Ems | 1945 |
| Wildfires | 1847 |
| Runaways | 1800 |

The supper will be two weeks from next Tuesday, April first.

There was a large attendance at the cottage service at Mrs. Thomas Coopers, Wednesday evening. A solo "Into Thy Hand", by Lumaan Woolsey, was sung by Mrs. Irving Flagg.

Mrs. Henry Truesdale, 57, who for a long time has been an invalid, died Wednesday at Packer.

The postponed swimming meet between Norwich and Plainfield, will be held this (Friday) evening at the Community House. The regular team consisting of Greene, E. Vincent, Leo Vincent, Lamothe, and Peterson will represent Plainfield. Norwich took the honors at the meet recently held between the two teams at Norwich, and the Plainfield boys are determined to even up the score.

The annual inter-class games are being held this week and next at Plainfield High. The class teams compete for a loving cup. A team winning the series three years in succession has the cup presented to it. On Thursday afternoon, the Class of 1924 met the Class of 1926, the game resulting in a win for 1924, the tally being 38-8. This (Friday) afternoon, the Class of 1925 will meet the 1927. Tuesday of next week, the finals will be played, for the championship. The Class of 1924 has already won the tournament two years in succession, and by winning this year, would become owner of the cup.

At the High school building Wednesday evening, Miss Grace Sage, noted reader of plays presented one of her best programs. Pupils of the High school lent their assistance in the program, and it was a source of great disappointment to the faculty of the school that a larger audience was not present. Miss Sage was at her best, and her program was so well arranged that it furnished entertainment for everyone.

Following was the program:

Selection — High School Orchestra
Reading "The First Year", Miss Sage
Vocal Solo "The Magic of Your Eyes" — Alfred Hopkins
Scene from "Romeo and Juliet" — Miss Sage
Piano Solo "Hungarian Concert Polka", Alfeldy, — Miss Agnes Allard
Comic Sketches and stories, Miss Sage
Selection — High School Orchestra

ENCOURAGING JUVENILES FOR FUTURE OF DAIRYING

The special meeting of the executive committee of the New London County Agricultural society held on Thursday morning at the office of Secretary E. V. Ross proved of great interest. An interesting discussion was led by A. J. Brundage of the extension service of Connecticut Agricultural college, relative to building up calf clubs among the boys and girls of New London county.

In the absence of President Elmer R. Pierson the meeting was in charge of Vice President George Avery.

In outlining the work among boys and girls of the county, Professor Brundage said that the idea was to encourage the younger generation in dairy work in order that this industry which is now at low ebb in Connecticut may be restored to its former importance. Among the suggestions offered by Mr. Brundage was the following premium list and contest, a plan by adoption of which, the New London society will pay more attention to club work than to individual, unorganized work.

Suggested prizes for Junior Dairy clubs at the county fair follow:

Milch cows—1st, $8; 2d, $7; 3d, $6; 4th, $5; 5th, $4; 6th, $3; 7th, $2.

Fifty points will be allowed for production and fifty points for individuality of animals in making these awards.

Young Stock—To include heifers which have not freshened, and bulls under two years old:

Holstein heifers and calves: $5, $4, $3, $2.

Jersey heifers and calves: $5, $4, $3, $2.

Guernsey heifers and calves: $5, $4, $3, $2.

Ayrshire heifers and calves: $5, $4, $3, $2.

Young bulls under 2 years: $5, $4, $3, $2.

Junior dairy club judging contest, six free trips to state fair.

This last class is open to all junior dairy club members in New London county who are enrolled by July 1, 1924. The six making the highest scores will be eligible for a free trip to the state fair at Hartford, where they may compete in the judging contest for a trip to the National Dairy show at Milwaukee, Wis.

In further conjunction with this work the state will transport and board at Hartford, the eight boys and girls who show the best under two-year bulls and calves; and six others, who show the best cattle above these classes, i. e., cows who are milking and bulls over 2 years old.

It was announced that Robert E. Johnson of Norwich, now attached to the Connecticut Agricultural college, has agreed to judge cattle, swine and sheep in the juvenile clubs.

By action of the executives the Bay State Circuit will be allowed the use of the grounds of the society for their annual meet, in consideration of the net profits of the meet.

The resolution submitted by Norwich Grange No. 178, P. of H. relative to doing away with fakirs at the annual fair, had to be laid upon the table until the next meeting.

Adjournment was at 1 o'clock and a vote of thanks was given Mr. Brundage for his helpful suggestions. Present at the meeting were Vice President Avery, Gilbert S. Raymond, L. L. Chapman, Charles D. Greenman, George Kahn, George G. Grant, A. J. Bailey and Secretary Ross.

A Feminine Charm That Lingers

IT makes little difference how long a man has been married, he still is impressed by those feminine charms of his wife which first attracted him. One such attraction which impresses most men is the soft, smooth loveliness of a woman's hands.

In compliment to a majority of the most intelligent modern housewives, it should be said that they know how to retain this important feminine charm. They know that red, rough and coarse looking hands result from the use of a poor grade household soap which irritates the skin.

Realizing this, they select their household soap as carefully as they do their toilet soap. And this sort of care has led thousands of thinking housewives always to insist upon Kirkman's Soap.

* * *

KIRKMAN'S Soap is as harmless to the hands as is the most exquisite toilet soap. Being free from irritating lye, it will not harm the skin or injure the most delicate fabrics. Only the finest materials are used in making Kirkman's Soap.

For the sake of your hands insist upon Kirkman's.

YOUR HANDS WILL BE GRATEFUL

WESTERLY

"Monument 3" mentioned in Thursday morning's Bulletin as the boundary line marker for the dividing the marine district and inland district waters for Connecticut fishing in the Pawcatuck river, town of Stonington, is located on the west bank of the Pawcatuck river across from the upriver end of Avondale in Rhode Island. The marker is a federal government one and opposite Ram Point on the Rhode Island side is located between the red buoy channel markers "S4" and "S6."

A brush fire on Thursday morning burned over the land to the eastward of Tower street and between the Columbia Granite works and the top of Quarry hill. In some places the residents of that section had to beat back the flames to prevent the burning of fences, sheds and outbuildings. The absence of snow hereabout makes the dried leaves and brush ready fuel, when carelessness on the part of anyone in guarding fires of all kinds starts the burning of bbush and leaves. The absence of high winds for the past two days has made the spread of local fires slow.

Mrs. Leonard L. Hiscox, Mrs. Herbert W. Rathbun, Mrs. Farquhar Smith and Mrs. Walter C. Hiscox have returned to their homes in Westerly from an automobile trip during which they visited Hartford, Springfield, Holyoke and Pittsfield.

Mrs. C. Byron Cottrell has been at her home in Westerly from New York, where she has passed the winter, coming here to inspect the improvements being made in her Elm street home, before her return for the summer, about May 1st.

Miss Abby H. Denison returned to Westerly Thursday noon from Boston, a graduate nurse, having been a student nurse for the past few years at the Massachusetts General hospital in that city.

William C. Smith spent Thursday on a business trip to New York.

Judge Michael J. Turano will hold a regular session of the Third district court in the court rooms on Union street this (Friday) morning at 9 o'clock. Cases continued a week ago will be heard.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Cheever were visitors in Springfield, Mass., Thursday, making the trip by automobile.

Henry W. Butten, son of Henry M. Butten of the West Side, has been the guest during the past week of relatives in Lynn, Mass.

Osmas D. Ballert of Providence on Thursday sold to C. Edward Grinnell of Mystic a tract or parcel of land on the west side of East avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Browne have moved from their home on West Broad street, Pawcatuck to New York to make their home with their daughter.

A Waterbury newspaper reports Jimmy Nelson, a noted trainer of boxers and a former manager of many ristic artists, well known in Westerly where he has passed numerous summers, as so far recovered from an operation at the Bristol hospital, that he was able to attend Tuesday night, in Meriden, the bout between Bobby Garcia of Baltimore and Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of the silver city.

A meeting of the committee to make arrangements for the annual banquet of the South County Rod and Gun club, which will probably be set for the first week in April, was held Thursday night. The members of the committee are Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, Charles A. Morgan, George A. Dolan, Farquhar Smith and H. Russell Burdick. This will be the seventh annual banquet of the Rod and Gun club.

To the Second Rhode Island Congressional district republican convention, which is to be held in Infantry hall, Providence, Monday, April 7, for the purpose of electing delegates to attend the national republican convention in Cleveland, O., the Westerly republican town committee has chosen the following delegates: Senator Abraham P. Datson, Representative Michael J. Turano, Representative Samuel H. Davis, Mrs. C. Palmer Chapman, Mrs. Lewis Stanton and Dr. John M. O'Connell.

A motion picture program for Westerly Masonic club was given in the Masonic hall, Thursday night by Thomas McKenzie. The picture subject, He Who Best Can Serve, is the third program of the Masonic Educational service of the Grand lodge of New York. There were in attendance more than 150 Masons, including visitors from surrounding towns. The picture showed the Bolshevistic tendencies of the present day. Glimpses of Masonic activities overseas were portrayed in motion pictures through the courtesy of Secretary Sidney Morse. Charles N. Baxter, secretary of the Connecticut Masonic Service association, and a member of Widows' lodge, No. 86, of Branford librarian, gave a short complimentary talk on his visits in Westerly and the work of the association.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Westerly Dental association was held Thursday night. The officers were reelected: President, Edwin Whitford; vice president, J. Hobart Chapman; secretary, Harold F. Doyle; treasurer, John M. O'Connell, chairman of the executive committee, Robert H. Farnham. A talk was given by Dr. Whitford on the subject of the Extraction of Impacted Teeth. At the next regular dental meeting, the first Thursday in May, Dr. Albert H. Spicer, will give a talk on his recent trip to Iceland.

A good sized house Thursday evening in the Westerly High school witnessed Holly troop, Westerly (Girl Scouts' presentation of The Taming of Horrors, under the direction of Mrs. William C. Clarke.

The scene represented Horrors' room mess in Miss Lewis' school for girls. Act I—The beginning of the school year. Act II—One week later. Act III—End of second school month. Act IV—Graduation week in June. Selections were rendered by the male quartette between the acts. Preceding the final act Mrs. William C. Clarke was presented a bouquet of roses from the Girl Scout troop, in appreciation of her services.

Thursday evening's game resulted: Westerly Masonic club 13,264; Mistuxet club, Stonington, 11,600, the Masonic club winning by 1664 points.

At Mystic, Thursday night, the Hook and Ladder bridge team defeated the Westerly Cycle club players by 1400 points.

ALLEGES DESERTION AFTER FOURTEEN YEARS MARRIED

Mattie Taylor Bell of New London has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Carter A. Bell, now of parts unknown. They were married June 6, 1905, and she alleges that he deserted her March 30, 1919. The suit is returnable in April.

NUMBER FIVE

to purchase for the Harvard university library books in such fields as President Eliot shall designate.

The greetings of the people of Canada were expressed through a letter from Premier W. L. Mackenzie King.

In responding to the many tributes to his life and qualities Dr. Eliot selected "joy in work" as the source of a very large part of his life.

"Consider now the sources of my career as a teacher," he said. "The sources were, in the times, in that wonderful period of human history in which my whole career was laid, think of it, when I was going on as a teacher in Harvard, the great prophets and exponents of experimental science were taking possession of that great field. Think how the philosophers of the world were preaching attention to the individual—preaching the immense variety of human nature."

"All that came when I was a teacher in Harvard, and out of the times, the extraordinary period, have come the ideals and the lessons which I have pursued all through my activity," Dr. Eliot continued. "Then as the years went by and the period of combat and persistent effort against opposition passed and the new structure of Harvard university began to take effect, think how it gave me the opportunity to see where modern education was going and where it ought to go.

Now and hen I could help their labors, especially in the medical faculty, but it was the strength of the Harvard faculties themselves which filled me with strength and what is called leadership. I gave expression to their hopes, aspirations and devotions and great was the privilege of so doing. You must therefor attribute the successes which I have been privileged to win to the very fortunate circumstances of my life, to the extraordinary leadership of philosophers and scientists of my time."

Repeating the words of his inaugural address in 1869, which conclude, "the future of the university will not be unworthy of its past," Dr. Eliot said:

"How the young Harvard men have demonstrated in the world war that that last line is true. But let me finally emphasize the duty of Harvard men, of all educated men, to serve their country in peace as well as in war."

"It is not fulsome to say that he has wielded greater power with the intelligent democracy of this country than any other official citizen of his time," Chief Justice Taft said in tendering to Dr. Eliot "on behalf of the American people, their profound congratulations on his long life of usefulness and honor, and their deep and grateful appreciation of the work he has done for them as their untitled champion for more than half a century."

"In no kind of government is independent and courageous non-partisan leadership in economic, social and political discussion so vital as in a democracy," the chief justice said. "Such leadership does not count numbers in its following. * * * Its concern is with its facts, its logic, its clearness of vision, its own disinterestedness, its freedom from prejudice, its concert for the common welfare its power of reasoned statement. Its real prophetic faculty. With this it seeks no census, convention or primary. It tells the truth to the electors, however unpalatable.

"Dr. Eliot is a leader and prophet of the people in this true sense. His primacy in all educational reform, his interest in adjusting the equities of the laborer and the capitalist and the useful candor in which he points out the shortcomings of each, his abiding enthusiasm for the promotion of municipal governments in which the welfare of the citizen is most intimately bound up, his yearning for the enlargement of the lungs of congested cities in parks and playgrounds, his activity in the husbanding and preservation of the national resources, his patient, persistent and consistent advocacy of the reform of the civil service, his earnest labor in the cause of international peace, have prompted his lay sermons and have made men hearken to him."

Hailing Dr. Eliot as the "apostle of responsible freedom," in education, President Angell of Yale said that perhaps the most significant of his achievements for education had been his "constant and intimate interest in all which makes for sound citizenship, political purity and the welfare of the commonwealth."

"In your person the 'scholar in politics' has conveyed no invidious innuendo," President Angell said. "It has meant that thorough knowledge, clear thinking, fearless courage and tenacious purpose have been put at the service of the public by one totally devoid of selfish interest and above the lure of political preferment.

"Your example has not only brought Harvard and other colleges into close contact with urgent issues of contemporary life, it has also given the public a new and illuminating insight into the resources of personality contained in our universities, a fresh appreciation of the contributions to human progress which they may make. You have thus brought closer together the spirit of learning and the spirit of democracy, in whose union lies our fairest hope for the future.

FORMATION OF A SUPER-POWER ELECTRIC SYSTEM

New York, March 20.—A long stride toward the nation embracing super-power electric system advocated by Secretary Hoover was taken by 11 companies serving Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, in the formation of co-operative coal field super-group.

Representing an invested cap... of $318,000,000 and producing 2,...0 000 horsepower for industrial and domestic use in the heart of the coal and steel industries, the mutual combination, while retaining the independence of its members, plans "to furnish more power, ultimately reduce the price at which power can be sold, and therefore increase the demand, which will have a tendency to further decrease the cost."

Cities which will be hooked up with the system, not including the scores of towns and villages served by the net work of electric lines, are, Cleveland, Akron, Canton, and Warren, Ohio; Erie, Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, Connellsville, Butler, Washington, Greensburg, McKeesport and Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Charleston, Wheeling, Fairmont, Clarksburg, and Parkersburg, W. Va.; Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick, Md., and Winchester, Va.

Six of the group's biggest power plants comply with requirements of the Hoover plan in that they are located over the coal beds, where they are assured from 50 to 75 years' supply of fuel, and where the need for importing fuel is eliminated.

Virtually all the stations are steam plants. Members of the group declared, however, that they had 1,000,000 more of hydro-electric horsepower under development or in prospect of the Cheat, Youghiogheny and Clarion rivers.

"Not the least of the advantages resulting from the coal field superpower group, is the solution of a most serious problem in national defense," declared E. S. Thompson of the American Water Works & Electric company.

"During the world war when the Pittsburgh-Cleveland district was called upon for large amounts of military supplies, trouble immediately arose because of the lack of power. There was imminent danger lest the whould break down. The street car overloaded systems of the district schedule of Pittsburgh said to be reduced far below the city's needs in order to permit power to be used in the manufacture of war supplies.

"The companies serving this district now have more than ample power and more could be quickly added in case of national emergency. Not only could existing industries operate at full capacity on war supplies, but many more could be established, thus making it possible to remove the capital work from the militarily weak Atlantic coast and locating it behind the barrier of the Allegheny Mountains."

REVIVED AFTER HEART ACTION CEASED HALF HOUR

Sunbury, Pa., March 20.—Revived after her heart action and respiration had ceased for a half hour, Miss Mary Marcolitz, 20, of Kulpmont, is on the fair way to recovery at the Shamokin state hospital, Dr. George W. Reese, chief surgeon said tonight. The girl was undergoing an operation for goitre when she apparently died. Dr. Reese made an incision in her breast and with his hands massaged her heart. He also applied artificial respiration. The heart action resumed feebly at first, but finally grew strong and breathing was resumed.

THE WHITE FLOUR BOOMERANG

(Written Specially For The Bulletin.)

This life is much like a boomerang. The boomerang, as you'll remember, is an Australian weapon which comes back to the thrower. Fling it from you with all your strength: it will go a hundred feet or so, then begin to wabble, nose-dive or tail-spin, and presently come swooping back to you. It may fall at your feet; it may compel you to dodge lest it hit you on the head. But it will come back.

It's just about so with life.

What you refuse generally comes back to perch on your shoulder: what you deny comes back to laugh in your face: what you throw away comes back to trip you up or hit you on the nose.

Especially when, as happens, alas! too often, you make a bloomin' ass of yourself, the results of your asininity come back in swarms and floods and deluges. They envelope you: they hamper you; they threaten to smother you. Whereupon, if you're an average person, you begin to yelp and whimper and denounce somebody else for the trouble you have, yourself originated and sponsored.

For instance:

The other day I picked up the announcement of a new cow feed. Never mind its name or brand. That doesn't in the least matter for our present purpose. The especially noticeable thing about it was the stress the advertisers laid on its vitamin content. —Vitamins, as you all know as mysterious substances developed in various meats, grains and vegetables and found by repeated experiments to be essential to health and life. Without an adequate supply of them life droops and eventually perishes. With an adequate supply, it blooms and bourgeons into its highest possible development. The advertisement said, among other things: "Vitamins are an indispensable part of a dairy cow's ration. Blank's dairy ration, containing as it does the wheat germ or embryo, the life-giving element of wheat, has an especially high vitamin content. . . . These vitamins and the natural soluble mineral salts of wheat germ or embryo promote healthy growth, vigor, etc., etc."

Now, I haven't one word to say in derogation or criticism of that claim, I do not suggest even a doubt of its truth. I accept it just as it stands, for just what it says. If I were dairying, I should certainly be strongly tempted to give it a try-out. "The Great Life-giving Vitamin Feed," it is called in one place.

From the fact that repeated stress is laid on the statement that one major portion of its make-up is the germ of the wheat-berry, there is small reason to doubt that the claims as to its vitamin content are well-grounded.

This new cow-feed is out on the market by a flour-milling concern. The claims of merit made for it and the assertions of its ability to "promote healthy growth, vigor," etc., are sponsored by this milling company. That company has the means of knowing the exact truth about this matter, both as to the content of the feed and its nutritive value. I have no grounds, anywhere, for questioning the accuracy of its knowledge or the truth of its statements.

The wheat germ is the very center and heart of the grain. It contains the element of life which, leads to the sprouting of a new crop. All the rest of the kernel is mainly temporary food for it, till it shall gained strength enough to forage in the soil for itself. When it is ground up, with the rest of the kernel, it becomes about the nearest to a complete food of anything which grows out of the dirt.

In view of which facts, the question arises: Why on earth don't the millers grind up the whole wheat kernels, and give the human race the benefit of this unequalled food, with its wealth of protein and carbohydrates and soluble fats and mineral salts, and vitamins, and all the rest?

If it's so almighty good for dairy cows, why isn't it good for men and women, boys and girls? Which is more important for the future of the race, that human beings should have the best grain-food God ever devised, or that it should be dumped in the mangers of dairy cows as a milk ration? Why do the millers sift out the very best part of the ground wheat, separate it from the inferior remainder, and then sell that remainder to folks and keep the best part for cow-feed?

Well, I don't know all the motives of all the millers in the world, but I've talked with a good many flour dealers, and I think I can answer that question.

It's because the great American buyer demands "white flour" and not "wheat flour." The millers don't want to emasculate and devitalize their product. They'd rather make flour of the highest food quality. Moreover, it costs them something for machinery to take out the vitamin-bearing portion. They aren't buying that expensive machinery for fun. They're buying it and using it, not because they want to, but because they can't sell their goods unless they do.

Right here is where the boomerang gets in its work. Friend Husband wants what he wants because he likes it. Friend Wife has to bear this in mind continually in preparing his food. Moreover and also, Friend Wife wants her bread to be as light and white and look as well as her neighbor's. In fact, she wants it to look just a leetle better. And she can't make snow-white bread if the vitamin-bearing, life-giving, health promoting, vigor-producing germ of the wheat kernel is included in the flour.

For that gives both flour and bread a slightly yellowish tinge. Therefore it must be taken out, steamed out, sifted out, bleached out,—I don't profess to know how the trick is turned, —but it must be whitened out, somehow. Because what the great American buyer wants first of all, is not good bread, but good-looking bread.

It may be chippy, unsubstantial, almost tasteless. It may get dry and hard as it grows stale. It may not be worth more than sawdust pudding as food. But,—it looks fine. It can be set before guests without any apology for its yellowness. It may not have any appreciable nutritive value, but, —it makes a better appearance on the table.

Also, you can buy the vitamin-bearing part for the cow. She will appreciate it.

Furthermore, when Friend Husband complains that he feels all run down and hasn't any git-up-and-git left, and when Friend Wife is out of sorts, and when the youngsters are always hungry and all the bread you can slice off doesn't seem to fill 'em up, why then, you can send for the doctor and take a few bottles of "tonic." That'll be the thing for you. Bossy Cow, up in the barn, won't kick so long as you keep on giving her the health-promoting, vigor-producing heart of the wheat. She won't mind even if it does look a trifle yellow. And she'll be all the better for it, just as you might have been had you put substance above show and value above appearances.

Incidentally, isn't it a trifle queer about that yellow tinge? You don't want it in flour, you won't have it there, you'll send the flour back if it isn't white and doesn't make snow-white bread. But when it comes to butter, you've got to have it. You're just as ashamed of the butter if it isn't yellow, as you are of the bread if it is. You compel the butter-maker to put color into his butter, if it isn't there, naturally, just as you compel the miller to take the same color out of his flour when it is there naturally. This, though the golden tint is just exactly as essential and inherent in true wheat as it is in Jersey butter.

Why this discrimination between Tweedledum and Tweedledee?

I once sat at dinner with an eminent clergyman at a farmer's table. The farmer had grown some wheat, that year, and had taken it to the local miller. That miller, not having installed a modern flour-bleaching plant, ground the grain between old-fashioned millstones, sifted out the bran and middlings with an old fashioned "bolt," and sent back some old-fashioned flour, including, it is needless to say, that made from the wheat germ. Of course, this made bread with a markedly yellow color. The good wife apologised humbly, as she passed the bread-plate to the reverend gentleman, for the looks of her bread, and started to explain. The doctor took one good bite, as he listened. Then he took another. Then he broke in: "Mrs. Farmer, don't waste one more word of apology for your bread. It's the sweetest and nuttiest I've eaten since I was a small boy." But the next time she had company that good wife had some snow-white bread, though she had to borrow a batch of flour to make it. She simply could not understand that one might prefer good-tasting bread to good-looking bread. She wouldn't believe even a D. D., but assumed that he was mendaciously trying to soothe her ruffled pride.

I'm myself sufficiently old-fashioned to feel a little bit irritated when I find that I am asked to eat a devitalised food out of which the best part has been stolen to make better rations for cows. I've always thought of human beings as somewhat more important than even dairy cattle. It still seems to me that they ought to sit at the first table. It does not strike me as fair that they should be stuffed with wheat dust, while the real heart and soul of the wheat kernel should be turned over to horned cattle.

Yet it is perfectly true and will always remain true that the sort of flour which millers make and dealers sell will be the sort which is most demanded. It is we consumers who make the terms. The others make goods to fit them. What we want, they'll supply, if they can do so at a profit. What we don't want, they'll soon give up producing.

The boomerang will come back to its thrower. If it hits him in the eye or plumps into his stomach and doubles him up, is the boomerang to be blamed? It goes and comes according to its nature and the sort of impetus given it.

We are not compelled to play with boomerangs. There are other missiles to be had, missiles that will not come back at us.

But this white flour boomerang is such a fad, now-a-days, that I suppose one might as well imitate Mrs. Partington and try to sweep back the Atlantic ocean, as attempt to talk sense about it.

Like all fads, it will run its course and finally run into the ground. The regrettable thing is that it will in the mean time run a lot of its votaries into the ground before their time.

But it's nuts for Old Brindle, as long as it lasts. She naturally would prefer that you should throw a bran-sprang which will come back to roost on your own pate, rather than a stone which might dent her ribs.

She may be a dumb beast. But she isn't a goose. Geese are two-legged.

One Thin Woman Gained 10 Pounds in 22 Days

SKINNY MEN CAN DO THE SAME

All weak men and women.
All nervous men and women.
All skinny men and women.

Can grow stronger, healthier and take on weight in 30 days by just taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets four times a day—as easy to take as candy.

And what a hit these flesh-producing tablets have made—every druggist is selling more and more of them every day.

Everybody knows that nasty-tasting, evil-smelling Cod Liver Oil is chock full of vitamines and is a wonderful flesh producer and strength creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—are just as good and so easy to take.

A box of 40 tablets for 40 cents and if any thin man or woman does not gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your money back. Ask Lee A. Osgood Co. or any good druggist anywhere.

I Use a Cream

Which France perfected—the finest ever known
By Edna Wallace Hopper

France gave to me, many years ago, the finest cold cream in existence. It helped to make me a famous beauty—the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years as a stage star, it keeps me a beauty still.

Many young girls envy my complexion. And my youthful bloom at my age is the marvel of millions of women. Now I have arranged to supply to all the very helps which made me what I am.

A fruity cream

My Youth Cream contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, feed and smooth the skin.

No woman I know has ever found anything to so foster the fine texture of the skin. Whatever cream you have used before, my Youth Cream will amaze you.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price, 60c per jar. It comes in two types—the Cold Cream type and the Vanishing type. Be sure to get the type you want. Both have the same essential constituents. Neither grows hair on the face. Also my Facial Youth—a famous liquid cleanser. Also my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Now every girl and woman may enjoy the benefits I got. The multiplied beauty, the perennial youth. The greatest beauty helps that science knows are at your call. Let my Youth Cream show you how much they mean to you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 30 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill.

NORWICH-HADLYME TURNPIKE TO COST AT LEAST $354,080

Bids from 19 contractors for the construction of 15 miles of new roads in Connecticut at a cost of approximately $1,500,000 have been received by the state highway department. The work called for in thirteen separate parts, including the construction of a bridge in Westbrook.

The projected work includes the road past Gardner lake, through the towns of Montville, Salem and East Haddam, the so-called Norwich-Hadlyme road which is an improvement that this section has long worked and hoped for. It is between 10 and 11 miles long and will cost according to the lowest bids given here at least $354,000.

This is one of the largest groups of bids that the state has ever received. Contracts will be awarded in a few days. Following is a list of bids submitted for the various jobs.

COMMITTEES FOR LIONS ARE TO BE NAMED

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Norwich Lions club held Thursday noon at the Wauregan Hotel. President George A. Finn was in the chair and the singing for the day was led by Lion George Fullerton. Business was discussed and President Finn announced that he would appoint all members of club committees at the next regular session. The club voted to give a sum of money to a needy family in Norwich.

The members talked over plans for the attendance meet which begins the first meeting in April. All local Lions have pledged themselves to keep Norwich among the leaders in the attendance contest.

Lion Charles Frink was called upon to speak about his experiences with the Lost Batallion. His story of what took place during those trying days was listened to with interest by his brother Lions. After several lively song numbers, Lion Fred Watson was announced as song leader for the meeting next week.

The meeting closed in the usual form with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

MOTOR VEHICLE DRIVERS APPEAR FOR HEARINGS

Cornelius Walker of New London in whose car William A. Bray of that city was killed in an accident at the foot of Fort Hill, Groton, on the night of Oct. 26, 1923, had his operator's license returned at a hearing on Wednesday afternoon, before Deputy Commissioner Snow of the motor vehicle department.

Harry L. Eaton of New London convicted, on Oct. 4, of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, whose case also came up before the deputy, will not receive his license again until six months after the expiration of his six months suspended sentence.

Other cases before the deputy were Joseph A. Gladue of Taftville, license returned; Donald Chapman, Hartford, license returned; John P. Sullivan, Norwich, license returned; Augustus Gagne, Plainfield, license not returned; Ivan Kempton, Putnam, license returned; Moses J. Sullivan, Norwich license returned.

MUST HAVE TANGIBLE EVIDENCE TO JUSTIFY SEARCHING AUTOMOBILES

Unless prohibition enforcement agents have visible or tangible evidence that a vehicle traveling on a highway of the state is transporting liquor, such vehicle may not be stopped without a search warrant, according to a decision handed down by Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the United States district court at New Haven Wednesday.

Due to the confusion caused by conflicting reports of the decision Judge Thomas was communicated with at his home in South Norwalk and asked to give a statement which would solve the problem caused by the contradictory reports.

"It was just to avoid any such confusion," Judge Thomas stated, "that I went to the trouble of filing an opinion with the clerk. I fail to see how there can be any trouble in comprehending the finding."

The case in which the opinion is arrived at, Judge Thomas explained, is the application of Samuel Matzkin, of Waterbury, for return of evidence alleged to have been taken from the defendant's automobile. The seizure took place Feb. 12, 1923, in Waterbury, when the police of that city and federal agents suspecting that Matzkin was transporting liquor, searched his car and uncovered a five-gallon can of liquor. The finding orders the evidence returned to Matzkin.

Judge Thomas, in his opinion, which covers several typewritten pages, goes exhaustively into the subject and finds that the practice of federal agents in stopping and searching automobiles without a warrant is a direct violation of the fifth amendment to the federal constitution, and quotes decision after decision in which courts have held that a person is secure from illegal search of his home or personal belongings.

The opinion in part is as follows:

"It would be unconscionable to hold that any citizen peaceably and lawfully driving an automobile along a street might at any time be subject to the annoyance and humiliation of being stopped and searched and his property taken without justification even though it ultimately developed that he was in fact violating the law. From the face of the pleadings it seems clear that the defendant did intend to commit a crime but the question of law involved is of greater importance than that this defendant may or may not escape the consequences of punishment for the commission of a crime. The foundation of the government is built upon the right of the people to be secure in their homes and personal effects and all through the history of judicial decisions affecting the matter, the courts, irrespective of the consequences of the particular case, have invariably held sacred the right of freedom from illegal, unlawful or unreasonable search.

"There is enough latitude permitted in the matter of searches so that there is no danger of the enforcement of the prohibition act being greatly obstructed by refusing to permit unjustified action of this sort.

"I appreciate thoroughly the difficulty with which enforcement agents may be confronted if they are required to get a search warrant for an automobile moving along at the speed at which they travel, and I intend in this case to lay down no general rule that search warrants are necessary in every case involving the transportation of liquor."

TROUT FISHERMEN WILL HAVE TO HAVE LICENSES

In just twelve days the season for brook trout will be open. With the weather of the past week disciples of Isaac Walton are apt to forget this all important fact, but the calendar says that April 1 is just twelve days off and the season for all trout except lake trout opens on that day. The season continues through the last day of June. For lake trout the open season is from May 1 to August 31.

As this is the first year that fishing licenses are required, everybody proposing to use hook and line should read the new laws carefully. Licenses cost $1, with a fee of 25 cents for registering for residents. For non-residents and aliens the fee is $2, with a 25 cent registration fee, unless the non-resident or alien owns land in the state, in which case the fee is the same as that for a resident. Every male 16 or more years old, must have a license. These may be obtained from any town clerk's office, are good for one calendar year, are not transferable and must be shown on demand to any commissioner, superintendent, warden or other officer or owner or lessee of land. Boys less than 16 years old and women may fish without a license.

The money received by the state for these fishing licenses is used to stock streams and ponds with game fish and for the propagation of fish.

Ten pounds of trout per day, or 20 trout of any or all species, is the limit for any one person. No trout less than six inches long may be caught.

In anticipation of the season the state department of fisheries and game issued the following information yesterday:

"Licenses do not confer any special privileges, such as trespassing on posted land. In all cases the angler should appreciate that, whether the land is posted or not, he is the guest of the owner or the lessee of the land upon which he is fishing.

"Every sportsman knows that he should wet his hands before he touches a small trout in throwing it back into the water, because the young fish die if they are touched by dry hands, which disturb the mucous covering of the scales. Every fisherman should get a copy of the fish and game laws for 1923, issued by the state board of fisheries and game to be sure that he is up on all the details of the new angling law."

Miss Goodenough Writes Story

In the Intercollegiate Monthly, which will appear at the different colleges during the third week in March, there will be five contributions by Smith girls. One of these is a story —The Marquis of the Mountains, by Frieda Goodenough of Norwich.

FEAST OF ST. JOSEPH AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

Hyacinths, tulips, sweet peas and other spring flowers adorned the altar to St. Joseph in St. Patrick's church Wednesday, the feast day of the foster-father of the Saviour. Although mid-Lent, the vestments and altar hangings were white and gold, symbolical of the purity of spirit of the man especially chosen by God as Guardian of the Christ-Child.

The mass at 8 o'clock was read by the rector, Rev. M. H. May, the congregation being of good proportions. In all the feasts of the patronage of St. Joseph the Scriptural passages quoted in the prayers and lessons refer to the humble carpenter of Nazareth, who nevertheless was of the house of David, as foreshadowed in Genesis, 49:22-26; also the positive statement of Luke 3:21-23, "And Jesus Himself was about the age of thirty years, being (as it was supposed) the son of Joseph." The teaching of the Catholic church is further emphasized as regarding the veneration due Joseph by the communion, from Matthew 1, "But Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, Who is called Christ."

St. Joseph is revered as the protector of the woman and the child, the model head of the Christian home, exemplar of chaste manhood, patron of the laborer, honored by God Himself as custodian of the secret of the stupendous mystery of the Incarnation, in his humility permitted to know the Almighty's plan for man's redemption, hidden from the great ones of the earth.

Niantic Motor Line Dissolved.

A final certificate of dissolution has been filed by the New London-Niantic Motor Transportation Co., Inc. of New London. All claims were paid and the remaining assets have been distributed as follows: To Rosario Giordano, $6,000; to Toni Bisconti, $7,000. The certificate is signed by the two foregoing directors, acting as trustees.

MARKET WAS WEAK

New York, March 20—Stock prices continued to crumble today under the weight of professional short selling despite the continuance of unusually low money rates. Selling pressure was most effective in the steel, rubber, chemical and equipment issues, but weak spots also developed in practically all other sections of the list. Rail stocks, however, continued to show marked firmness with moderate strength developing in the issues in which favorable dividend or other developments are believed to be pending.

Wall street, which invariably finds some excuse outside the market to explain price movements within generally attributed today's reaction to speculative uneasiness and uncertainty regarding the possible effects of bonus legislation and the fate of the tax reduction bill.

Chief speculative interest in today's market centered in the attack on U. S. Steel common which was hammered down more than 2 points to 98 5-8 a new low on the current movement. It rallied feebly at the close. Republic Steel suffered a net loss of 3 1-4 points; Gulf states 2 1-2 and Bethlehem 1 1-2, selling of the last named being influenced in part by unconfirmed reports of new financing.

Weakness of the steel shares was used as a screen to hide short covering operations in other stocks, particularly in the motor group which has been under pressure for several days. Studebaker closed unchanged at 98 3-4 after having sold as high as 97 1-2. Chandler and most of the accessory issues showed net losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points although Fisher Body jumped nearly 9 points to 216, a new high record.

Short covering in the motor group was prompted, in part, by the publication of a statement by President Sloan of General Motors setting forth that the cars in the hands of the company totalled only about 10 days' production, that the increase in the hands of dealers this year over last year was to enable them to make prompt spring delivery and that the present situation in the industry entirely was satisfactory. Recent selling of the motors has been based on unconfirmed reports of greatly reduced sales and a prospective curtailment of production. Leathers also recorded good gains on short covering.

Royal Dutch jumped four points on rumors of an increased dividend and reports that stockholders would be given the right to subscribe for additional stock. Most of the other oils were reactionary, Houston dropping 2 5-8. Superior was active and firm on reports of a strong cash position. General Electric again featured the specialty list, touching another new 1924 top at 2.31 1-2.

Norfolk & Western continued to feature the rail group, establishing another new high at 122 and then dropping back to 120 7-8. Atlantic Coast Line jumped more than five points to 124 and then slipped back to 119 while Louisville & Nashville closed a point higher at 89 3-4 after selling as high as 92. Buying of these two issues being in anticipation of higher dividends.

Foreign exchange continued firm. French francs touched a new top at 5.15 cents and Sterling ruled about a cent higher around 4.30, Spanish and Canadian Exchange was heavy.

Call money held at 3 per cent. all day, the renewal rate at that figure being the lowest since July 15, 1922. Outside loans were reported as low as 2 per cent. with a brisk business being done at 2 1-4. Time funds are available up to 60 days for 4 1-4 with the longer dates commanding 4 1-2 to 4 3-4. Commercial paper showed an easier tone. Prime names appearing at 4 1-2 per cent. as against 4 3-4 earlier in the week, some business being done at the higher figure.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 20—Bond prices ruled higher today under the impetus of heavy buying by institutions, which diverted their plethora of surplus money into the investment market. With funds quoted as low as two per cent on the "outside" market and ruling on the stock exchange at 3 per cent, banks threw large orders for high grade securities into the market.

In the most active trading session since early in January, when the reinvestment demand was at its height, all four issues of the Liberty 4 1-4s attained new peak prices for the year. Railroad issues scored substantial gains, with an unusually active inquiry for the high grade obligations.

Speculative interest in the Norfolk & Western convertible sixes, as a result of the prospective lease to the Pennsylvania railroad, continued unabated and the price of the bonds ran up another four points to a new high level at 132, 26 points above the year's low. Another upward movement took place in the St. Paul obligations, based partly on reports that net income for February would be double that of a year ago.

High prices for the year were established by the 4s of 1925, as well as by the seaboard 6s.

Refunding operations by the New Haven, it was reported, would follow plans previously found successful. Bondholders will be given opportunity to exchange maturing obligations partly for cash and partly for new securities. New railroad financing has been held back pending careful studies by both roads and bankers of the interstate commerce commission's innovation of competitive bidding.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 20—Export business in corn served to bring about higher prices today both for corn and wheat. Strength was developed independently by oats. Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 a 3-4c. Higher, May 104 7-8 to 1.05 and July 1.06 to 1.06 3-8, with corn 3-8c to 3-4c up, oats showing 1-4 a 3-8 to 3-4c. Gain and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 10c.

Before it became known that corn was being bought for export shipment the corn market had a downward trend in sympathy with wheat values. The temporary depressing of wheat appeared to be due to lack of aggressive buying and snow falls likely to enlarge the winter wheat yield

FRONT DOOR BURGLARY AT DRUG STORE IN GREENEVILLE

Burglars, who were apparently boys, according to the police theory in the case, got into the drug store of Pitcher and Service at 287 Central Avenue this week and secured between $9 and $10.

The break was discovered in the morning when a piece of glass was found broken out of the front door and the money was gone. Nothing was left behind to furnish any clues, but the police have learned that a person living upstairs in the building heard glass broken about 3 o'clock in the morning and looked out but could see no one in the street.

The glass was broken from the outside, as it fell into the store and rattled on the tiled floor, making the sound that was heard at time at which it is believed the burglars were operating. It was a nervy piece of work as the street is well lighted, and the hole through which the intruders had to crawl was a small one that gave them little chance to get in or out if they had been at all hurried in their work.

So far the police investigations have not resulted in any arrests.

APRIL NUMBER PLATES NOW BEING ISSUED

Announcement was made at the state motor vehicle department Thursday that motor vehicle registration certificates as of April 1 are now being issued at the main office in the Capitol and at the branch offices in Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury and New London. The fee for such registration is 75 per cent. of the annual charge.

In order to eliminate as much congestion as possible, number plates are being issued to applicants with the registration certificates effective April 1, but the department made it plain that any one driving a motor vehicle on the strength of such registration prior to the first of next month will do so at his or her own risk, subject to prosecution, if discovered, for operating with illegal registration. Moreover, it was pointed out, while enforcement officers cannot distinguish the April plates from those issued earlier in the year, the automobilist who uses his car with such plates will be in a serious predicament in the event of an accident, from the standpoint of civil as well as criminal action.

Under the state law, April 1 is the beginning of the period during which motor vehicles may be registered at reduced rates. From that date owners are "entitled to a pro rata reduction in the fee for registration calculated to the first day of the month in which such registration is to take effect," but the minimum fee accepted is $3.

While in recent years, since motor vehicles have come to be regarded as necessitting rather than merely pleasure vehicles, especially with the greater popularity of closed cars, the number of motor vehicles operated throughout the winter has greatly increased, yet the number of owners who wait until April 1 to take out their machines, to get the benefit of the reduced rate, is still large. Over 70,000 of the 118,225 motor vehicles registered in Connecticut last year were registered after March 31.

FRANKLIN WOMEN HEAR NURSE SPECIALIST SPEAK

At the home of Mrs. George Kahn in Franklin Tuesday, there was an interested class of women to hear, Miss McDonald, nurse specialist of the Farm Bureau Extensive work, give a talk on headaches, their symptoms, preventives and their cure, nerves and their control. Miss McDonald is very efficient in the work, and the company enjoyed listening to her talk and hopes to have her with them again in the early summer.

At noon the hostess with her assistant, Mrs. Fred Levine served a delicious dinner of scalloped potatoes, beef loaf, boiled ham, corn, custard, sandwiches, individual fruit salads, pies, cake and coffee. Covers were laid for 16.

FREEMAN CAST VOTE AGAINST BONUS BILL

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of this district was one of the 54 who voted against the bonus bill as it passed the house Tuesday. Congressman Patrick E. O'Sullivan, fifth district, democrat, was the only Connecticut representative to favor the bill. Representatives Schuyler Merritt fourth district, E. Hart Fenn, first district, and John Q. Tilson, third district, voting with Congressman Freeman.

The New London congressman had repeatedly stated that he would oppose any bonus that carried a cash or borrowing feature.

MADE STATE INSPECTION OF SWIMMING POOLS

To gain some information about the sanitary control of swimming pools in Connecticut an inspection was made by the state health department during the months of September and October, some 29 pools were inspected, five in Hartford, seven in Waterbury, four in New Haven, two in New Britain, two in Middletown and one each in Greenwich, Stamford, Bridgeport, South Manchester, Winsted, Lakeville, Willimantic, New London and Norwich. Y. M. C. A. pools predominated, with school pools running a close second. Some of the best pools were found in schools and colleges, while the poorest ones were at private baths run for commercial purposes.

City water is used in 86 per cent of the pools and well water in 14 per cent. All pools add fresh water from one to six times a week. The gravity method of filling is used in 76 per cent. of the pools and 24 per cent pump their water. All have circulating pumps.

The condition of the water supply was carefully investigated. It was found that 93 per cent were equipped with filters, 86 per cent. with alum as a coagulant, 90 per cent. used some disinfectant, 33 per cent. used chlorine and chlorinator, 45 per cent. chloride of lime and 7 per cent. violet ray apparatus. 69 per cent. of the pools are cleaned daily—other pools are cleaned from one to three times a week. For the purpose of cleaning 31 per cent. have pool vacuum cleaners. Others use a long handled brush.

All require a bath to be taken preliminary to swimming in the pools.

For the most part the pools were well managed and fairly sanitary, although in a few instances the sanitary condition could be greatly improved. Samples of water in 15 pools were taken for examination and sent to the State Laboratory for analysis. Five of these samples contained b. coli in 1 c. c. or less. As the presence of b. coli indicates pollution, the managers of these pools were notified that conditions must be improved at once to safeguard the health of their patrons. In Hartford and Waterbury, analysis of water for bacteria are made periodically by the City Health Departments, and tests of water in the Y. M. C. A. pool in Greenwich are made by the Greenwich Hospital.

In some instances insanitary conditions were pointed out and advice given as to their improvement: in one Y. M. C. A. pool the water was maintained at 83 degrees F.—in a pool in a Boys' club corrosion of the pipes caused rusty water—in another instance turbid water was found to be polluted.

In two pools no disinfectant or filters were used, the water being supplied from a driven well. In one of these pools the water was emptied daily—in the other, once a week.

The average weekly load for the pools included in this survey was 606 persons. At the two high schools in Waterbury 2,000 pupils use the pool weekly. With the increase in number, and use, of indoor swimming pools in the State, the danger to health will be correspondingly greater.

While most of the pools are well designed and intelligently operated, there still remains room for considerable improvement. During the busy season weekly inspections should be made, preferably, by local health departments, who should furnish the State Department with copies of their reports and recommendations.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints

Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at all druggist everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

NIANTIC BLEACHERY HAS REPAIRED EXPLOSION DAMAGE

The Thames Bleaching and Dyeing Company plant at Niantic resumed operations this week when repairs were completed on the damage done by the explosion of one of the huge kiers, or vats, three weeks ago. The roof which was lifted off and wrecked by the cover of the kier has been replaced and other repairs have been completed. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

The explosion was caused by a defective reducing or safety valve to the kier, in which cloth is boiled for bleaching. The valve is supposed to work at 15 pounds pressure of steam, but because of the defect, close to 100 pounds of steam went into the kier. The cover, weighing nearly one ton, was blown to a height of 35 feet, crashing through the roof.

In its upward flight the cover went through one foot thick beams as though they were so much kindling wood and bent a 12-inch steel I-beam on which is run an electric hoist.

Insurance adjusters have been adjusting the damage during the past few days. Because of the unusual nature of the accident, photographs were taken of the building and the damage by insurance officials.

ST. PATRICK'S ADDRESS AND CONCERT AT ST. MARY'S

Sunday evening, March 23, at 7.30 o'clock, the annual St. Patrick's day address and concert will be given in St. Mary's Memorial Church. The fine solo and ensemble work of St. Mary's choir is well known and an unusual musical treat is promised, the program embracing the old folk songs of Ireland, and some new benediction music.

The choir will be assisted by a concert orchestra of well known musicians, who will give several numbers prior to the choral work.

Rev. William A. Kennedy of South Coventry, former curate of the parish, will deliver an appropriate sermon, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The music is under the direction of the organist, Henry La Fontaine.

STARTING $350,000 CAMPAIGN FOR SUFFIELD SCHOOL

Chairmen for the Suffield school $350,000 campaign in Eastern Connecticut will gather at their first divisional conference this evening (Friday) at a dinner at the Wauregan hotel in Norwich.

The conference will be attended by Harry B Reynolds of Essex, Eastern Connecticut divisional chairman; John G. Loomis of New Britain, chairman of the national campaign executive committee; John Stanton, Norwich local chairman; Harold Schroeder, Mystic local chairman; and Dr. Herbert G. Truesdell, headmaster of the Suffield school.

This conference is one of a series of divisional conferences being held in various sections of the country. Last Monday evening the Central Connecticut Divisional conference, attended by forty alumni of the school who will take part in the campaign, was held at the Hotel Bond in Hartford.

BEGIN NEW BUILDINGS AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

Ground was broken by the contractor Thursday at the Norwich State hospital for a new ward building for women and the new nurses' home. By next Monday there will be a large gang of men at work and the construction will be pushed along, but it is not expected that either building will be ready for occupancy inside of a year.

The new ward will have accommodation for about 125 women and the nurses' home is designed to accommodate 55 of the nursing staff.

PLAINTIFF MOVES TO SET ASIDE VERDICT

A motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial has been filed by the plaintiff in the superior court in the suit of Springfield Coach Works of Springfield, Mass., against Mrs. Mary Rogers of New London. The jury gave a verdict for the defendant this week in the suit in which she was sued as endorser of note for $1,250 which she claimed she had no knowledge of endorsing when it was presented to her by Gordon Foster of the firm of Foster & Co.

Death of Antonio Dimeolo.

DESCRIBED SUBMARINE TO PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSO.

The March meeting of the Laurel Hill Parent-Teachers' association was held this week in the kindergarten room at the school. In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Frank I. Dodge presided. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. After a short business meeting a pleasing program was given, including duets by Henry Ladd, violin and John Diachyshyn, piano. This was followed by vocal solos by Mrs. Howard Sterry in clear and pleasing voice, accompanied by Miss Marjory Merry at the piano.

A highly interesting and instructive talk by Lieutenant Farmer of the submarine base was much appreciated by the audience. A cleverly drawn sketch by Mr. Farmer of a lengthwise section of a submarine showing various apartments and their uses was explained by him and aided greatly in understanding the subject.

A rising vote of thanks was given Lieut. Farmer, who loves and is vitally interested in naval work, and who so generously gave his time to give the association this talk.

ALLEGED PARTNER ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAID CASE

Leopold Liscavitch, alleged to be the partner of Andrew Zowacki in the bathing business at 26 Sixth street where the police made a raid Wednesday night, was arrested Thursday by Officer John O'Neil and both men were before the city court on the charge of violation of the liquor law. Their cases were continued until next Monday.

City Court Cases

In the city court Thursday morning, one man was fined $10 and given a suspended sentence of six months on the charge of breach of the peace for making trouble in his family. Another went to jail to work out a fine of $6 and costs, $16.76 in all, on an intoxication charge, and another was before the court in the charge of breach of the peace on complaint of his family. Judge Libby made the sentence 30 days in jail from which the accused will take an appeal if he can arrange the necessary bonds.

W. F. BOGUE, NORWICH, BUYS STAFFORD SPRINGS HOTEL

Have You Piles?

There You Have Something in Common

Thousands who have piles have not to do the same for you.

learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and in weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent., and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

$200,000 WHISKEY DEAL ENTERS DAUGHERTY PROBE

Testimony Does Not Involve the Attorney General But Leads to the Late Jess W. Smith, "Bumper Friend" of Mr. Daughterty—Story was Told by John Goroni, Vice President of the Alps Drug Company of New York—Tilt Between Senator Wheeler and Counsel for Daugherty.

Washington, March 21.—A $200,000 whiskey deal—the biggest yet—was uncorked today by the Daugherty investigating committee.

John Goroni, vice president of the Alps Drug Company, told a story of howe he, the late Jess W. Smith, "bumper and friend" of Attorney General Daugherty, and Howard H. Mannington, one of the occupants of the "Little Green House on K street," had he said, shared in the "split" which accompanied the withdrawal from federal warehouses for sale to bootleggers.

As with previous testimony of the sort it was brought no nearer to Attorney General Daugherty himself than these two friends.

Goroni told the committee some of the things, which, he said, did not come out when he was tried and acquitted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in New York. Attorney General Daugherty in his nightly comment on today's testimony pointed out that he himself was in no way "embarassed or implicated" in it.

Goroni's whiskey "deal" story splashed from the witness stand in a hectic day marked by passing of the "lie" to Mr. Daugherty's counsel by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, managing the inquiry. The latter charged that there was continual "besmirching" of committee witnesses and that the committee was being denied evidence from the Ohio bank of which Mr. Daugherty's brother, Mal. is president, while Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, said Howard Mannington, mentioned in Goroni's story and now reported in Paris, had been "spirited away." Mr. Daugherty's counsel after a bitter scene in which the audience applauded Senator Wheeler, promised their "best efforts" to produce Mannington.

More $1,000 bills figured in Goroni's story of the whiskey transaction. He testified that he had paid $50,000 in bills of that denomination to W. A. Orr, of New York, previously connected with the Dempsey-Carpentier fight film "deal", and also $150,000 to Owen B. Murphy, another New York politician. The payments, Goroni said, were at the rate of $15 a case for permits obtained to get whiskey into bootleggers' hands. About 50,000 or 60,000 cases "went through" Goroni said, although he told of paying only $200,000.

Orr told him, Goroni said, that Mannington received a fee of $2 a case, some of which went to Jess Smith, ato whom he said he was introduced by Orr, as he was a friend of Mr. Daugherty's. Mannington had paid back about $40,000 or $50,000, Goroni said he was told, for failing to procure liquor withdrawals contracted for.

The division of the whiskey fee of $15 a case, according to Goron was $2 to Mannington, $1 to the druggist, $1 to myself, $4 to the prohibition director, 50 cents to a lawyer named L'Esperance and the balance divided between Orr and Murphy.

Harold L. Hart was identified as the prohibition director for New York then in office, in 1921, and he was one of the defendants subsequently acquitted with Goroni in conspiracy prosecutions. L'Esperance was identified as a friend of United States District Attorney Hayward and now a special assistant to Attorney General Daugherty in New York.

Goroni said that he was told Mannington had to divide his $2 portion of the fee "three ways," with one portion going to Smith.

In the conspiracy trial, Goroni said, and his lawyer, George B. Hayes, of New York, later on the stand confirmed, that he was not allowed to testify. Hayes said this was because he thought the government had not made out a case.

Goroni said he entered the whiskey withdrawal affair when approached by Orr after he, Goroni, had a permit application turned down by former Director Hart. Orr told him, he said, that Mannington and Jess Smith belonged to the "Columbus crowd," and had influence at Washington to "get through" the permits.

Asked how much of the $200,000 he said he had paid, was for liquor, Goroni said:

"No liquor at all; that was just for the permits," Goroni testified he acted for four or five drug companies and obtained signatures to their applications for withdrawal permits which could be used afterward by anyone to procure whiskey from warehouses.

Attorney General Daugherty tonight issued his comment on the day's developments.

"The testimony failed again to identify or connect the attorney general with any of the matters which were considered by that committee," said Mr. Daugherty.

"The bootlegging situation in New York city, and then prosecutions thereunder were aired by one of the gentlemen who was the principal witness and demonstrated beyond question that he was guilty of violations of the law, but his testimony merely showed that the district attorney's office in New York city arrested and prosecuted the whole crowd although they were unsuccessful in securing convictions in a few cases.

"So far as the liquor transactions were concerned and the permits that were traded in by these New York city bootleggers the whole matter was before the prohibition division, which operates under the treasury department and is not under the jurisdiction of the department of justice. In no way did the testimony embarass or implicate in any way the attorney general in any matter that could properly be the subject of any criticism of his department."

SINCLAIR MUST APPEAR BEFORE OIL COMMITTEE

Washing, March 21.—Ah Harry F. Sinclair, through his counsel, was waging an inconclusive, but apparently losing battle to keep off the oil committee witness stand today. Will H. Hays came to Washington to be questioned about a story that Sinclair donated a large batch of securities to wipe out the $1,600,000 deficit of the republican national committee after the 1920 campaign.

The oil investigators will decide the issue wiht Sinclair tomorrow and indications tonight were that they would direct the New York oil magnate to take the stand.

After he leaves hte witness chair, the committee will call Hays, former chairman of the republican national committee and the first postmaster general in the Harding administration.

After his arrival here Hays remained in seclusion but Chairman Adams of the republican national committee, declared there had been no contribution of oil stock in wiping out the deficit.

"The story that 75,000 shares of oil stock were used to pay off the deficit of the republican national committee, is of course ridiculous," Mr Adams said. "About 10,000 or more contributors from every state in the Union made up the amount.

"It took three long years of strenuous work by our financial organization to wipe out this indebtedness and there was no contribution of oil stock or easy money of any kind."

GIRL BANDIT RESUMES WORK IN MANHATTAN

New York, March 21—Brooklyn's boo-haired girl bandit called on Manhattan again today.

Her visit convinced the police that Mrs. Alfred Guimares, alias "Betty Santos of Riverside Drive" whom they arrested last night in a tailor shop robbery, was not the girl with the trimmed Titian tresses, the pistol and the tall dark companion they have sought for months.

A demure-looking young lady, with reddish hair, bobbed, asked for round steak in the Trieste Meat market on Ninth avenue near Thirty-fourth St. "I think you've a nice piece in the ice box," she said. The clerk entered the box to look and the customer promptly locked him in. Then she drew a pistol from beneath her coatly fur garment and commanded the remaining clerk to "punch that cash register for all that's in it."

Instead, the clerk dropped, frightened into unconsciousness, so Miss Bandit punched the "no sale" key. She got $15.

As she slipped outside and off into the stream of pedestrians, a tall dark man clicked the padlock on the door, imprisoning the clerks. The unconscious one came to, freed the one in the ice box and together they clambered through a transom to spread the larm. But police were unable to find anyone on the street who had seen the girl bandit or her partner.

Mrs. Guimares, whose husband was a "close friend of Dorothy "King" Kennan, the model whose murder a year ago remains unsolved, was in the meantime held in $7,000 bail, charged with attempted robbery of a St. Nicholas avenue tailor shop last night, and of being in possession of a costly limousine that had been stolen.

Police were looking tonight for the "tall dark man" who escaped while Mrs. Guimares struggled in the arms of the tailor's wife. Detectives were in possession of Mrs. Guimares' $7,000 fur coat, seeking to establish whether it also might have been stolen.

Guimares is serving three years at Atlanta penitentiary for conducting stock selling frauds through the mails. He is alleged to have confessed he promoted such schemes to get money with which to entertain "Dot. King."

Mark Hanna's Granddaughter To Wed In May

Miss Elizabeth Hanna, daughter of the late Dan Hanna, and granddaughter of the "kingmaker," Mark Hanna, who will be married early in May to Richard Porter Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Davidson, of Washington. Miss Hanna is one of the leading members of Washington's younger set and the wedding will be one of the most brilliant of the post-Lenten social events in the Capital. She is a niece of Senator and Mrs. Medill McCormick, of Chicago.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Irvin B. Laughlin, of Pittsburgh, was nominated to be minister to Greece.

The state department was advised that comparative order had been restored at Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

President Coolidge discussed the legislative situation at a White House dinner conference with house republican leaders.

Members of the senate finance committee discussed revenue legislation with President Coolidge without conclusions being reached.

Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair and the oil committee argued without result whether Sinclair should be excused from further examination.

The house adopted an amendment to the naval appropriation bill which wounld request the president to initiate a move for another naval limitation conference.

Tax allowances and refunds for "Mellon companies," came in for attention both in the senate and in the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau.

Acknowledging the result of the North Dakota, presidential primary, President Coolidge promised to do his utmost to give sound economic relief where it is needed.

The Daugherty committee went into a maze of charges having to do with illicit liquor withdrawals in 1921 and payments and "splits," alleged to have been made.

Chairman Hall of the interstate commerce commission wrote to congress on the question of unnecessary conflict with usages of inland transportation in enforcing Section 28 of the merchant marine act.

The house rules committee recommended an investigation of charges of duplication in government bonds while in investigation of prohibition enforcement was proposed in a resolution by Representative Kindred, democrat, New York.

PROGRAM COMPLETED FOR THE PUBLIC CONSISTORY

Rome, March 21—(By the A. P.)—The program has practically been completed for the secret consistory Monday, when Pope Pius will officially create two American cardinals, Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelien, of Chicago. The two prelates are directing their entire attention toward conforming with the time-honored custom attendant upon such a solemn function. This will be carried out with much formality although with nothing like the pomp and pageantry that will mark the actual bestowal of the red hats at the public consistory on Thursday next.

Promptly at nine o'clock in the evening his holiness will convoke the members of the college of cardinals now in Rome in secret conclave in the famous hall of the consistory. He will read the official nomination of the two cardinals, and will then await the formal approval of each prelate present, after which special special emissaries from the pontiff, clad in priestly robes, will proceed from the vatican in a leveried coach drawn by two coal black horses to the places selected by the cardinals designate to receive notification.

Both the archbishops will have with them a few friends. The emissaries will be Monsignor Gervasi, secretary to Cardinal Gasparri, Monsignor Tani, master of ceremonies for Cardinal Gasparri, and Chevalier Riggi, notary of the apostolic chancellory.

After delivery of the documents the cardinals designate will make short addresses in reply, the text of which will be taken back to the pontiff by the emissaries.

From the moment the notification is actually delivered the prelate is henceforward known as a cardinal. Up to that moment the pope has power to withhold the nomination but not afterwards.

KILLED BY PIECE OF AN AIRPLANE PROPELLER

New Haven, March 21.—John Fingo, 23, a chauffeur employed by a baking company of this city, was almost instantly killed this afternoon when a piece of an airplane propeller broke off, flew through a window and struck him in the face.

Fingo with Arthur Johnson were standing in the chauffeur's room in the Holcomb garage, 105 Goffe street, and were looking out through a window watching Ralph Pride, owner of the airplane motor, and Leroy Thompson, a mechanic, testing the machine. The motor tipped suddenly and the blade of the propeller struck the ground, broke off and went through a window, striking Fingo.

An ambulance was summoned and on its arrival it was found he was dead. Johnson, who was standing with Fingo, was cut over the eye by flying glass.

Medical Examiner Dr. V. Joslyn stated that Fingo had died from loss of blood as several arteries in his head had been cut.

Coroner Mix started an investigation into the accident but as yet no one is held.

RUSSIA TO RELEASE AND BANISH ARCHBISHOP SEPLIAK

Moscow, March 21.—(By the A. P.)—The central executive committee has decided to release from prison Archbishop Sepliak, head of the Roman Catholic church in Russia, convicted and once condemned to death for resistance to the soviet government. Archbishop Zepliak will be banished.

The central committee will also drop the case against Ooctor Tikhan, former patriarch of all Russia and metropolitan of Moscow and the three prelates who were on trial with him.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES TO INCREASE TAXATION

Paris, March 21.—The chamber of deputies by a vote of 374 to 175, this afternoon again passed the government's increased taxation and fiscal reform bill, before it for the second time after having been slightly amended by the senate. The chamber itself today made a few slight alterations in the text of the measure as passed by the senate, so that the bill will again have to go to the upper house.

Former Train Robber Tells a Wild Story

Al. Jennings Says Nomination of Late President Harding Was Bought With $1,000,000.

Long Beach, Calif., March 21.—Al Jennings, former train robber, now a politician and evangelist, who departed last night to testify before the senate oil investigation committee, left behind a statement published today in which he said he planned to "rock the country" with the story of a $1,000,000 payment that he said bought the nomination of the late President Harding as the republican candidate in 1920.

Jennings, who said he was a close personal friend of the late Jake Hamon, republican leader in Oklahoma, said he would unfold to the committee the details of Hamon's negotiations to swing the 1920 presidential nomination and "what Hamon expected to get out of it."

He declared the deal was engineered by one of the national republican leaders who is an "ex-senator and an easterner."

The $1,000,000, Jennings stated, came from oil interests but from which ones he refused to say until he appeared before the senate investigators.

Jennings a few days ago went to Captain of Detectives J. B. Worley with his story. The latter communicated with Washington and the former train robber was subpoenaed to appear before the committee. He left here last night for Los Angeles and planned to continue his journey to Washington Saturday.

TROUBLES OF ENFORCING MERCHANT MARINE ACT

Washington, March 21.—The interstate commerce commission today added another phase to the national and international controversy pending over the enforcement of Section 28 of the merchant marine act.

Chairman Hall of the commission wrote Chairman Smith, of the senate interstate commerce committee that the law did not permit the commission to pass upon the policy, good or bad, of enforcing the law, and pointed out that the commission previously has sought legislation on Section 28 to obviate unnecessary conflict with the needs and usages of inland transportation."

Enforcement of the section, Chairman Hall said for the commission, might be expected to forge business away from Atlantic ports other than those of New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk, which he classed as "congested" parts. It would further, under the shipping board's certification by which the section has been ordered into effect, he said, tend to hamper American millers in selling flour and other grain products in competition with foreign millers.

New Minister To Belgium

William Phillips, under Secretary of State, who has been appointed United States Minister to Belgium. Mr. Phillips has served in the diplomatic corps since 1903, when he became private secretary to Honorable J. H. Choate, then U. S. Ambassador at London. He was stationed in China for some time and more recently, was Minister to the Netherlands.

Candor and Courage of Calvin Coolidge

Praised in Telegram Acknowledging Result of North Dakota Presidential Primary.

Washington, March 21—Promise made by President Coolidge today in acknowledging the result of the North Dakota presidential primary, "to advocate legislation, use all the administrative forces of the government and organize private enterprise to give sound economic relief where it is needed."

The president acknowledged by telegram a message received from L. B. Hanna, of Fargo, former governor of North Dakota, and manager of the Coolidge campaign in that state, announcing the result of the North Dakota primary in which the president was voted the preference of the state for the republican presidential nomination.

Mr. Coolidge's telegram said:

"Your telegram announcing the result in North Dakota is to me much more than personal satisfaction. It indicates a continuing faith of the American people in their government, and a determination to support what I believe are sound and wholesome policies of administration.

"I wish to assure you as one who has taken a courageous stand in the defense of the principles which I am attempting to uphold that I intend to execute the law for the protection of every public interest.

"I intend to advocate legislation, use all the administrative forces of the government and organize private enterprise to give sound economic relief where it is needed. It is an encouraging sign to find that the people wish to support that kind of action. I am exceedingly grateful to you for your active and energetic leadership. I wish you would transmit my deep appreciation to all those who are associated with you."

COOLIDGE REQUESTS FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION

Washington, March 21.—President Coolidge at a conference tonight with republican house leaders expressed the desire to have some form of farm relief legislation enacted before the close of the present session of congress.

The legislative situation generally was discussed and Mr. Coolidge's callers said they were convinced that congress could adjourn before the June conventions.

The president was told that the house would rush action on appropriation bills, dispose of the Johnson immigration bill, and before the end of the session take up a measure providing for a readjustment of salaries of postal employes.

COOLIDGE ENDORSED BY NEW MEXICO REPUBLICANS

Santa Fe, N. M., March 21.—New Mexico republicans in state convention here today indorsed President Coolidge for the republican nomination for president. Delegates to the national convention, however, were not instructed.

FIRE DESTROYED ORIENTAL HOTEL, NEAR HAVANA, CUBA

Havana, Cuba, March 21—(By the A. P.)—The Oriental Hotel and several ladjoining buildings at Marianao, located just outside the gates of the race track, were destroyed by fire today.

For a time the flames threatened the Oriental race track park, about six miles from the city. The burned buildings, however, were outside the precincts of the park, and the track employes formed bucket brigades and prevented the further spread of the flames.

The fire broke out while the races were in progress.

NEW HAVEN JAIL BREAKER ARRESTED IN DETROIT

New Haven, March 21.—Word was received by local police today from Detroit authorities of the arrest of Pasquale Rossi, of this city. Rossi, who was serving a term for burglary, ere escaped from the local jail September18 last by hiding in the factory and opening skylight on the roof and sliding down a rope. He is said to have been picked up in Detroit in connection with an attempt holdup.

AUTOMOBILE TOURISTS MAROONED IN SNOW

Topeka, Kansas, Mar. 21.—One hundred and thirty automobile tourists, including women and children, are marooned in the snow at Kendall, a village on the Santa Fe trail in the sand hills of western Kansas and a number are ill and without medical attention.

Do You Find Shopping a Pleasure?

Some folks do. They're the modern shoppers—the ones who know just what they want—how much to pay—exactly where they will find the right goods at the right prices.

They're the ones who realize the value—to them—of advertising. They make a practice of reading the advertisements in The Bulletin. Sitting at ease in their homes, they formulate their shopping programmes. They note the things that interest them particularly and plan to cut out waste motion, unnecessary steps and lost time.

Planned in this fashion, shopping loses its terrors. It no longer leaves you jazzy and jaded. It starts you off with a definite objective and brings you home with a feeling of something accomplished.

If you haven't been reading the advertisemnets, try out the method. It's a good one.

Bulletin advertisements are your friends. Cultivate them.

VAGUE CHARGES OF GRAFT IN REVENUE BUREAU PROBE

Charges are Made by Men Who Had Been Dismissed From the Bureau—"Mellon Companies" Come in for Particular Attention in Allegations of "Unfair" Methods of Making Tax Refunds.

Washington, March 21—Sweeping but unspecific charges of graft in the internal revenue bureau by former employes before the senate investigating committee used for attention today with allegations on the senate floor of "unfair," methods of making tax refunds, the names of "Mellon companies," coming in for particular attention in both places.

The committee witnesses, both engineers formerly assigned to field work in connection with war plant amortization allowances, had been dismissed from the bureau, the testimony disclosed. One of them, J. F. Adams, of Washington, declared that "there are some of the worst cases being put through in that department (the bureau) I ever heard of."

Pressed by Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, committee chairman, to say whether he had personal knowledge of any specific case of graft by bureau officials, Adams answered that he had not, adding:

"But if you will take my evidence there is no doubt under the sun."

Senator King, democrat, Utah, a member of the investigating committee, brought the tax refund question up in the senate after consulting his committee colleagues and being advised by Senator Watson that he must use his own judgment.

The Utah senator attacked an item of $105,000,000 for tax refunds, submitted in the deficiency bill pending in the senate. On the ground that the finance committee had been advised that only $25,000,000 in pending refund claims had been decided, Senator King said that the hundred million dollar item was just "no guess as to probable refunds." His action to cut the item to $30,000,000 was defeated without a division.

Evidence before the finance and investigating committees, Senator King declared, was sufficient to prove that present methods of determining refunds were "unscientific and unfair to the government," which lost heavily. It was safe to assume also, he added, that tax payers had been unjustly loaded with additional assessments.

Before the investigating committee, Adams named companies which he said, had been involved in amortization allowance disputes with the bureau, adding that investigation would show that these had been solved to the advantage of the companies as compared with treatment given "ordinary companies, like the Ford company."

Among the companies he named there were the Standard Steel Car Company, The Aluminum Company of America, The United States Steel Corporation, Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing company, the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, and The Great Lakes Shipping company.

Adams assented to a statement that first two named were "Mellon companies." He urged that the committee undertake a comparative examination of amortisation allowances in these concerns.

"And if you don't wake up, Senator," he said.

Adams told of having seen in the bureau a letter regarding special treatment to be given what he described as a "Mellon company," but could not recall who wrote it. Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who brought about the investigation, indicated that he would seek to obtain this letter for later presentation to committee.

J. P. Moore, a former associate of Adams as a bureau engineer on field work, described the cases of the Berwind-White Coal Company, of Philadelphia and the E. H. Smith company of Pittsburgh, a dental supply house. Original claims of allowances by these companies had been disapproved by the field engineers but later reassigned for more liberal treatment by other engineers, he testified stating that in the Smith Company case, the reassignment followed a letter to Secretary Mellon from the company. Moore did not appear to know finally had become of these cases.

In the senate, Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, asked Senator King to call committee attention to the list of tax refunds for 1921 and 1922 he had previously placed in the record. He said it was "alarming," that as much as $2,300,000 should be required to be returned to a single tax payer.

"The committee has heard of three four and even nine millions being refunded," Senator King said.

"The Gulf Refining Company, in which Secretary Mellon is heavily interested, received a refund of $3,300,000," Senator McKellar said.

Senator [illegible] understood this [illegible] fourteen such refunds [illegible] special tax [illegible] up to [illegible] totaling [illegible] additional [illegible] without [illegible] approved the [illegible] the tribunal [illegible] the treasury [illegible] to which [illegible] Republican senator [illegible] refunds [illegible] tenths of the refunds [illegible] under the government.

Senator Wadsworth, republican, of New York, [illegible] any examinations [illegible] refunds. He said that [illegible] refunds had been less than one per cent. of collections.

RETAIL TRADE IN NEW ENGLAND ABOVE AVERAGE

Boston, March 21.—Retail trade in New England during February was above the average for this time of year, according to a report made public today by the federal reserve bank of Boston. Department store net sales in Boston increased ten per cent. over those in February, 1923, and those in cities outside of Boston seven per cent.

"Stocks of merchandise on hand at the close of February, 1924, in the average New England department store were quite low," the report says, "in view of the large volume of sales."

BRITISH TROOPS FIRED UPON IN QUEENSTOWN

Queenstown, Ireland, March 21—A detachment of British troops landing here on leave today was fired on by a machine gun set in a motor car, which it is said was operated by four soldiers of the Free State army. There were twelve casualties in killed or wounded, among the British soldiers.

British Diplomat To Wed Miss Vanderbilt

Hon. John Francis Amhers Cecil, First Secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, whose engagement to Miss Cornelia Van derbilt, daughter of the late George W. Vanderbilt, of New York, has just been reported. The Hon. John is a son of Lord William Cecil Gentleman Usher to the King. His mother, who died in 1919, was Baroness Amherst of Hackney in her own right.

PUZZLED FOR MOTIVE OF MAN WHO SHOT WIFE AND SELF

Arlington, N. J., March 21.—With few definite clues rewarding their efforts, police tonight were endeavoring to formulate a theory as to the reasons which led Roy W. Wingate, socially prominent business man of this place, to shoot his wife as she lay asleep early today and to kill himself a few moments later with the same revolver. Mrs. Wingate, a bullet in her chest, tonight was reported in a grave condition at her home and unable to explain her husband's act.

Mr. Wingate, who was 45 years old, was a member of the Cauldwell-Wingate company, contractors of 261 Fourth avenue, New York city, where it was declared that he had no business worries of any consequence. Letters and papers, both at his home and his office will be examined in an effort to find a cause for the tragedy.

The Wingates, who were generally regarded as unusually happy, had entertained Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Terry, relatives by marriage, last evening and had played whist until shortly before midnight. Mr. Wingate, it is said, appeared in high spirits during the game. A half hour after the Terrys had gone, Mr. Wingate went to the library to smoke and Mrs. Wingate retired. Soon after, she told police, she was awakened by a sharp pain in the chest. Unable to move, she felt her husband stretch himself on the bed and a moment later shoot himself through the head.

MEXICAN WARSHIP SAILS UNDER SEALED ORDERS

New Orleans, La., March 21.—The gunboat Bravo, crack ship of the Mexican navy on the eastern coast of the republic, was on its way southward from New Orleans tonight under sealed orders which Mexican officials here say direct her to attack ports and vessels still held by the rebels.

The Bravo came to New Orleans in September for overhauling and when she steamed shortly before daybreak today it was the first move she had made since Adolfo de la Huerta launched his revolution in December.

Commanded by Otho Blanco, admiral of the Mexican navy, the ship is expected to confine her efforts for the time being to driving revolutionists out of the states on the Yucatan Peninsula, de la Huerta's present stronghold. Progreso, principal port of Yucatan and the point from which large quantities of sisal are shipped, is believed to be the object of her first attack. The revolutionists have obtained millions of dollars in revenue from operation of the port and Mexican officials here believed it will be taken with ease by the small force of marines and sailors aboard the gunboat, as the rebels have not more than 400 troops in the entire state of Yucatan, and the Progreso garrison is composed of only a handful of men.

OBITUARY.

In the absence of the regular court officials, Deputy Judge Curtis Dean and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton had charge of the disposal of three cases in the police court, Friday morning.

Walter A. Howlett of Eastford, charged with driving an automobile with a 1923 driver's license, pleaded guilty, was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $10.15 which he paid.

Michael Welch was committed to the county jail for fifteen days on a suspended sentence, which put into effect when he was found guilty of intoxication. Welch asked for another chance, which was refused by the court.

Andrew Gowlik of Milk street was charged with intoxication and through an interpreter, Isadore (Jake) Heller pleaded guilty. Mrs. Gowlik appeared against her husband, testifying that he was a loafer and that she worked to support him. She often gave him money to buy food, but instead he would fill himself with liquor. In return for this kindness she said that her husband often beat her up. Judge Dean imposed a jail sentence of thirty days.

"Daddy-Long Legs", a four act play, was ably presented Thursday evening, in the High school auditorium, by the Romians, a dramatic organization of the school. Miss Ethel W. Moore of the faculty coached the players. The parts were cleverly portrayed. The plot concerns an orphan, Judy Abbott (Elizabeth Everest) who is taken from a home and given a college education through the philanthropy of Jervis Pendleton (Dudley Burr) known to her as Mr. Smith. She later falls in love with her benefactor and so the story ends in a romantic climax. As the stars of the play, Mr. Burr and Miss Everest displayed remarkable ability, Miss Everest being presented a bouquet by her friends during the last act.

Several members of the faculty assisted Miss Moore in the rehearsals and the preliminary work. Mervyn Little was stage manager and the property managers were, Margaret Dawson, Phyllis Moran, Annie Nicol and Lillian Ottenheimer.

The school orchestra made its first appearance of the year, playing before and after the play and between the acts. Charles H. Caswell is director.

Those in the cast were Dudley Burr, Elizabeth Everest, Nathan Getchell, Mildred Johnson, Madelyn Wheeler, Eileen Murphy, Frances Crane, Carolyn Cummings, Jaska Manning, Bertram Wright, Philip Dodge, Margaret Rose, Grace Iskiyan, Hazel Jones, Margaret Persons, Virginia Case, Royal Woodward, Bertram Wright, Helen Moffit and Dorothy Pearl.

"The Significance of Brotherhoods" was the subject of an address delivered in a forceful manner by Rev. James Romeyn Danforth, of New London, Thursday evening before a gathering of members of the Brotherhood of the First Congregational church with guests, in the church house.

Harry W. Standish, the president, was in charge of the affair, which was preceded by an excellent supper served by the Ladies' Society with Mrs. George F. Taylor and Mrs. E. A. Winter as co-operating chairman. The hall was artistically decorated. The Brotherhood is to act as official sponsors for the Boy Scout troops of the parish, this action being taken after an explanation of the present situation had been made by Scoutmaster R. C. Rose. The expired charter will be renewed. For this purpose a committee consisting of Robert O. Branch, William A. Dawson and H. B. Hanna was appointed by President Standish. The meeting adjourned at 9.30 o'clock.

Frank P. Fenton, chairman of the town committee, is to issue a call for the democratic caucus to be held April 8. The purpose of the caucus is to select seven delegates to the state convention, May 7 and 8 in New Haven.

An appreciative and sizable audience witnessed the presentation of "The Purim Bear" a play by Tunkler, in the hall of the Bank street syngague this week by a group of Talmud-Torah pupils. The play is one of the few Jewish children pieces and was the first attempted by local amateurs

Rosen was clever in the role of Rebetzin; Scheinman in displayed remarkable conception in bringing out the type of old European rabbi. Kruz in Josele's role was strong. Kanell was well cast in a gypsy role and Woda showed ability as the Bear. Master Leonard Davis, the local child pianist, played several selections before the conclusion of the program.

Seventy-two tables of whist were in play at a successful whist given recently in St. Mary's hall by the members of the parish boys' choir. An entertainment preceded the whist, with interpretative dance numbers, recitations, musical selections etc., under the direction of Miss Emma L'Heureaux. Anatole Baillargeon recited in French. Master Leonard Davis pleased with violin selections, one number, "Night" a Greek dance being interpreted by Eleanor Connors. Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau was pianist, assisted by Miss Maybelle Taft.

First prize for whist was awarded Miss Helen Hinchey and Donat Garceau second, awards were made to Yvonne Baillargeon and Gerard St. Lawrence. Consolation awards went to Mrs. Wilfred Lariviere and Reuben Gluskin. The affair was repeated Friday evening with the same success.

Mrs. William Hassig of Winsted, a patient at Litchfield County hospital, suffering from injuries received when struck by an auto owned and driven by Mrs. Josephine Marino, of Willimantic, shows a decided improvement, according to hospital attendants. An X-ray examination disclosed that Mrs. Hassig had received two broken ribs.

Co-eds at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, will have an opportunity to learn practical housekeeping now that the small building located in the rear of the Valentine house has been remodeled and repainted. The first group of girls entered the house last week and will remain there for a six weeks' period, during which time the students will do all the work of the house, each one being responsible for a certain section for a definite period. The outline for the course includes the use of the budget system.

Another group will enter for a six weeks' period after Easter. The building which is being used has eight rooms, four of which are new, a large veranda, and a furnace which is not connected with the college heating plant. The first group of senior girls to enter the practice house consists of Miss Helen Townsend, Miss Marion Eggleston, Miss Sarah Fuller, Miss Louise Ferris, and their instructress, Miss Marie Lundberg. The group which will enter after Easter includes Miss Isabella Meddell, Miss Margaret Hall, Miss Florence Teeter, Miss Hazel Palmer and Miss Elizabeth Hamilton.

Delegates chosen by the republican electors of the fifteen towns comprising Windham county at the various caucuses Wednesday will meet in caucus Saturday noon in Putnam and this city for the purpose of electing two delegates-at-large to the republican state convention in Hartford April 2 and 3.

The caucus of the Twenty-ninth district, comprising Brooklyn, Canterbury, Chaplin, Hampton, Plainfield, Pomfret, Scotland, Sterling and Windham with a total of twenty-four delegates, is to be held in this city. The call has been issued by Charles A. Gates of Windham and Mrs. Lillian M. B. Frink of Canterbury, the members of the state central committee from the 29th district.

The Odell M. Chapman Continental Drum Corps, which concluded two years of open competition with other corps last fall, has, within the time established, an enviable record of which the people of Willimantic are proud. Never dreaming that so large a number of trophies had been collected during the two-year period the members of the corps were amazed when it was suddenly counted up that sixty-four cups and medals crowd a glass case at headquarters as evidence of the proficiency of the corps.

Fullerton says that it's tough to be in a crowd of radio and Mah Jong fans when you understand only English.

Mrs. Fred Miner died Thursday night at her home in Exeter. Burial is to be in Colchester.

From next Friday evening to Tuesday morning, the local plant of the American Thread company will be closed for inventory. Under this arrangement the plant will be closed only one day and half of actual running time. As far as is known the local plant will remain under the present schedule upon the resumption of activities. Inventory is an annual affair, the closing time being of shorter duration this year than in previous spring. At present the manufacturing department is on a three day schedule and the finishing department is operating more nearly on a full time schedule.

The operator's license held by Jack Oguschewitz, of 736 Main street, has been returned to him, dating from March 10, according to a notification received by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur. Oguschewitz's license was suspended following an accident July 16, 1923, when an automobile which he was driving, knocked down Thomas F. Shea, proprietor of the Elite restaurant, causing severe injuries. The state motor vehicle department also sent notice that the operator's license of John Whyte, of Scotland, has been renewed, dating from March 21. Whyte's offense was operating a Ford truck this past winter without possessing a driver's license.

To be here Saturday evening as the guests of the Odell M. Chapman Continental Drum Corps at the big mid-Lent dance are; Shanley Fife and Drum Corps of Southington, St. Anne's Fife, Drum and Bugle corps, Waterbury, the T. M. Russell Flute and Drum corps, Middletown and the Manchester Kiltie band of South Manchester. The visitors will give a short parade en route from headquarters on Church street to the state armory.

Miss Rosa Hall of South Willington has made arrangements with Edwin F. Cross to give the Old Folks' Concert in the new school building of that place in April. The school has a large stage and seating capacity.

The name of the present incumbent —Roderick Lussier—has been presented by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur for the appointment of dog warden.

Another in the series of whists for the benefit of the Jubilee fund for St. Joseph's church took place last evening in the church hall with fifty-one tables in play. Prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. M. J. Dennahy; second, Miss Dorothy Miller; third, Mrs. George Hanks; men's, first, Edmund R. Portelance; second, Jeremiah Healy; third, J. Telladge. The consolation awards went to Miss Margaret G. Grady and William Hess. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. George Donnelly, Mrs. John J. Hoey, Mrs. William A. Smith and Misses Lena Fogarty and Kathryn Hoey.

Mrs. A. D. Williams of East Hampton is spending the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Hills of The Ridge.

Mrs. Frank Mott of North Windham entertained recently in honor of the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Myron Knapp, who received many beautiful gifts. Dancing and music were enjoyed. Those present were: Mrs. Burt Green and two children of Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. John Wadsworth of The Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mott and children, Arthur and Susan of Pleasant Valley; Robert Myles, Carl Hughes, Percy Segar, Porter Knapp and Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Potter of this city, Beatrice Shallac of Jewett City, Mrs. Campbell, Eugene Campbell, Joseph and Grace Larrow, Mrs. Whitney, Mr. Richardson, Mrs. Champlain, of North Windham.

WEAK, RUN DOWN AFTER SICKNESS

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Mrs. Dube Well and Strong

E. Hartford, Conn.—"After a severe sickness I was so weak that I could not do my housework, so my mother told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me so much that I took six more bottles and felt fine. I have just given birth to a nice baby girl and am feeling strong and well. So different from the way I felt before. I am taking the Vegetable Compound right along while nursing. The baby seems to be in good health, and my friends say they see a big change for the better in me."—Mrs. EUGENE DUBE, 59 Woodbridge St., E. Hartford, Connecticut.

The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine to bring back health and strength. Many mothers have found this true, as did Mrs. Dube. There are women everywhere who know by experience the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

WESTERLY

The fifth lesson of the Westerly Teachers' Training class was held on Thursday evening in the church school rooms of Christ Episcopal church. Vernon S. Rice and Mrs. Murdock of Providence, Mrs. Ernest J. Morrill and Rev. G. Edgar Tobin were the instructors. There are two more sessions scheduled for instruction, on the third week following this Thursday night session an examination for credits for work done will be given by the instructors. The course in mission study plan is to produce a pageant some time early in April, probably to be presented at Grace Methodist church, as a culmination of the course, with each church school taking some part in the play.

At the Crown farm auction on the Stonington road, the past week, William A. Wilcox of the West Side obtained an old leather-bound book six by eight inches, of 288 pages, in good state of preservation, which bore the title: "The Constitution of the ancient and honorable fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, containing the History, charges, addresses, etc., collected and digested from their old records, faithful traditions and lodge books, for the Use of Masons, to which the added the History of Masonry in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the Constitution, Laws and Regulations of this Grand Lodge, together with a large collection of Song, Epilogue, Etc., Printed in Worcester, Massachusetts, by Brother Isaiah Thomas in the Christian era 1792, in the year of light VMDCCXCII."

It was prefaced: "In Behalf of the Committee (signed by) John Warren, Chairman, Boston, May 1st, Anno Lucis 5792. Sanction. At a special meeting of the grand lodge on the second day of April 5792, appointed a committee to Consider and compile. Given under the seal of the Grand Lodge of Boston on the 10th day of May, John Cutler, Grand Master, Thomas Farrington, Grand Secretary."

The book is dedicated to George Washington as follows:

"In testimony of his exalted merit, and of Our Inalienable Regard, this Work is inscribed and dedicated to our Illustrious Brother, George Washington: The Friend of Masonry, of his Country and of Man."

Two civil cases were tried at the Friday morning session of the Third district court, one before Judge Michael J. Turano, and the second before acting Judge M. Walter Flynn, Judge Turano being unable to hear the second case by reason of his desire to take the 10.37 train to Providence.

Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the docket as follows:

New Writs—Frederick E. Brown vs. Harry E. Taylor. A case of trespass and ejectment. Continued two weeks.

G. P. Tuscano vs. Frank Capalbo. Trespass and ejectment. Continued two weeks.

Civil Docket—C. W. Willard Hardware company vs. Charles M. Saunders. Case defaulted and judgment entered for the plaintiff in the sum of $15.18 with interest and costs amounting to $19.68.

Whittin Machine Co. vs. William McKenzie. Continued to April 4th.

Granite Street garage vs. William F. Louden. Continued to March 28th.

Westerly Furniture Co. vs. Frank Chimento. Continued to March 28th.

Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch. Continued to April 4th.

Mary Noyes Rogers vs. Harry Deutch. Continued to April 4th.

Edna M. Gregory vs. Joseph Stedman. Ready.

Ledyard S. Anthony vs. LeRoy B. Talbot. Ready.

Judge Turano came in at 9.25 and announced his desire to not have a case before him which would prevent his taking the Providence express. The case of Anthony vs. Talbot was taken up first. This was an action in assumpsit, a demurrer having been sustained in a plea in abatement, in which the sum of $88.50 is sought by Anthony for a cow sold to Talbot on June 26, 1922.

Ledyard S. Anthony, the plaintiff, called by his attorney, A. T. L. Ledwidge, testified to knowing the defendant and having sold him a cow for $80 which he had delivered from his farm located on the state line, part in Connecticut and part in Rhode Island, near the village of Ashaway. His book of accounts was produced in court showing the transaction. Payment, it was testified, was to be made as soon as the purchaser could. Payment had not been made, but at one time a check of Mr. Doughty for $175 was presented if the balance was returned in money but the transaction was not desired. On cross examination by Attorney John F. Gallagher for the defendant, the plaintiff said he had heard the cow was killed some months after its delivery. Mr. Anthony said his residence was in Connecticut although his pasture land where the cow had been kept was given 14 quarts of milk a day. Attorney Gallagher claimed that there was fraud shown in the transaction, and that the contract was void, it being in violation of the Rhode Island statutes in that a cow was brought into Rhode Island without a permit. Judge Turano said he would consider the question later.

Henry J. Burdick, employed by Mr. Anthony, testified that he had milked the cow when it had given 13 and 14 quarts, that it was kept on Mr. Anthony's farm about a mile from Ashaway, and that the cow was a brown and white one. Here the plaintiff rested.

Attorney Gallagher then moved for a dismissal on grounds that the contract was illegal, saying that the statutes clearly stated that all parties must produce certificates, which was not done. Judge Turano said it was premature and he would deny the motion.

LeRoy B. Talbot of 313 High street said that he saw the cow in the barn in Connecticut before buying it, that the first time it was milked five quarts were given, then three and finally the cow had to be killed, as he knew it had tuberculosis. Cross-examination by Attorney Ledwidge brought out that the cow was killed Jan. 20 after Talbot had the cow for six months. He knew the cow had tuberculosis because of its cough. He acknowledged that he had agreed to pay Mr. Anthony.

Mr. Anthony, again placed on the stand, said that the state line went down the middle of his cow pasture to the river, that the cow was born in Rhode Island and during the winter months was one of ten that he kept on his farm in Hope Valley. It was 10.25 when Attorney Ledwidge stated that he would put his argument in black and white and that it would be in the hands of the court by Wednesday.

Judge Turano held the case. A recess was declared. When court resumed Clerk M. Walter Flynn was on the bench and the case of Gregory vs. Stedman was called.

Edna M. Gregory, the plaintiff, whose attorney was Clarence E. Roche, testified that the defendant owed her for labor and overtime work, a balance of $60 for work in 1921 on which $10 had been paid, leaving $50 due for 1921 and amounts later of $32 and $16, making in all $98. The witness detailed the nature of her work, hours and payment.

The defendant, Joseph Stedman, was placed on the stand by his attorney, John Dunn, and testimony was given to the effect that when everything was taken into account he did not owe the plaintiff anything. To substantiate his statement he had but a few cancelled checks in court, saying that sufficient time had not been given him to have them ready. Acting Judge Flynn directed the defendant to have his books and papers in court next week. The case was continued one week, for the defendant to put in further evidence.

Court adjourned at 11.45.

PENDLETON HILL

Regular church services were omitted Sunday, owing to the condition of the roads. They were so badly drifted by the recent snow storm as to be almost impassable and for several days the mail carrier was unable to cover his entire route.

Mrs. Phoebe White and daughter Hattie and Eli King were guests on Sunday at the Chapman homestead.

A number from here attended the auction at Browne's stable in Westerly Saturday.

Residents on the top of Pendleton Hill could plainly see the brush fires burning recently on the Post road in Westerly.

Amelia Palmer, recently ill with conalitis, has returned to her school duties in Westerly.

Apolin North, familiarly known as Billie, is ill with scarlet fever at her home in Montclair, N. J.

MYSTIC

Sunday sees the closing of the conference year in the Methodist church, and the end of the first year of the pastorate of Rev. J. Garfield Sallis under whose able leadership the church has made splendid progress. This day is also known as "Ingathering Day" and there will be a reception of new members at the service Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the every member canvass will take place and the supporters of the church will be called on in the interest of next year's budget.

The Monday club is to meet with Mrs. Charles H. Davis Monday afternoon.

Funeral services for Hiram Clift were held Friday afternoon at his home on Broadway and were private. The service was conducted by Rev. F. B. Sanford of Stonington. Burial was in Elm Grove Cemetery.

The attendance at the evangelistic services being held in the Baptist Church this week by Evangelist Currie has been excellent and the consecration services have met with a splendid response and have been very impressive. This evening the subject of the sermon will be, "The Cause of Infidelity," and the children's chorus under the direction of Byron M. Hatfield will sing.

The Baptist team and the First Congregational team are to bowl at the Community House Monday afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Phillips entertained the Round Table Club Thursday at her home on Library Street. There were nine present and the usual good cheer and sociability that always prevails characterized the gathering. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Captain and Mrs. Elmer Rathbun of Point Judith were callers here on Thursday.

Mrs. Herbert W. Rathbun and Mrs. Farquhar Smith of Westerly were guests Thursday of Mrs. Moses W. Wilcox.

Walter Clark has returned from Boston.

It was difficult to tell just which way the wind was Thursday at the hour when spring was supposed to commence, for changing air currents kept the weather vanes moving. It was a fine day nevertheless with a good clear air and bright sunshine, but the wind most of the day was from the northwest.

WILLINGTON

Rev. Mr. Palmer from Hartford, who is to preach Sunday, will be entertained by Mrs. Ida Brown.

Mrs. Ida Brown, Miss Catherine Ricketts and Miss Doris Amidon attended the W. C. T. U. supper and entertainment at South Willington, Wednesday night.

Frank Pelliken has returned to work carpentering, for Joseph Straus. They are now working for Anton Dvroaky.

Miss Clara Mann now superintendent of South Coventry schools, will leave today (Saturday) for a ten days' trip to Washington, D. C., with other teachers. The members of her graduating class are making their own graduating dresses, as a part of their sewing lessons.

Traveling is so bad on the mail route that the carrier cannot reach the post office in time for out-going mail, the same day mail is collected.

Lyman Squire, father of Elmer Squire, the Hollow storekeeper, has passed his eighty-seventh birthday. Mrs. Maria Hughes is taking care of Mrs. Squire, who is very feeble.

There was a St. Patrick's social on Friday evening in the church, with games and music. Those who liked to kiss the blarney stone received a souvenir. A general good time, followed by refreshments, resulted.

Miss Frances Mersereau and Robert M. Preston have gone to Atlantic City for two weeks.

John Bligh, brother of Howard and Norman Bligh, arrived Monday from Nashville, Tenn., and is staying at the latter house. Mr. Bligh is a railroad man. He reports the Tennessee climate mild and delightful.

James Carlupenter recently employed as janitor in Willimantic, sustained a shock at his home in Moore Meadow (Willington).

Edwin Lyon has been engaged as foreman in a steel plant at New Britain. Mr. and Mrs. Lyon are at present staying with Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, at Plainville.

Lester Amidon has whooping cough. Lillian Velk has the mumps.

Edwin Cushman has been ill with tonsilitis.

Snow drifts were ten feet high in the northern part of the town.

Dominick Mrockowski has returned to his home in Michigan.

The Willington Cemetery association is to hold its meeting at South Willington Monday night.

Misses Freeman, Foster and Campaire gave a "hot dog" roast at the Center school house last week Friday night for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades and the high school pupils.

Miss Mary Pelikan, of Hartford, recently visited at her home.

Rev. Harry Olcott of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League, preached here Sunday. He was accompanied by his wife and son.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

As has been done here in other recent years in the interest of the institution, a canvass for hospital supplies is to be undertaken for the Day Kimball hospital. In the past the canvass has been made by some group of volunteers working under a local leader who was a member of the Woman's board of the hospital.

Changes that time has brought about has made it seem advisable this year for a committee of the Killingly Woman's club to undertake the work. This organization now has the mater in hand.

Last year, through force of circumstances, no work along this line was done for the hospital in Danielson. In view of this fact an effort will be made for a particularly careful and productive canvass this year. Killingly people benefit greatly from the services rendered by the Day Kimball hospital. The canvass for hospital supplies will afford another opportunity to indicate that this service is appreciated here.

Charles Coon, many years resident here, died about 11 o'clock Friday morning at his home on Broad street. He had been in a critical state of health for the past three weeks.

Mr. Coon was born in Brooklyn, February 22, 1840, a son of Frank and Susan Hale Coon. In early life he learned the trade of carpenter and was destinerd to follow it during practically all the active years of his life. For nearly 40 years Mr. Coon was employed in the carpentry department of the Quinebaug company here, remaining with that concern until his retirement. For a period of several years prior to going with the Quinebaug company Mr. Coon was employed at his trade in Springfield.

Mr. Coon leaves two brothers, John W., of Riverpoint, R. I., and George, resident in San Jose, Cal. A niece, Miss Julia Coon, of Riverpoint, has made her home with him for the past two and a half years. Mrs. Coon died several years ago.

Herewith is presented the 71st semi-annual weather prediction of the Cloud Digger, and an interesting description of the system on which the long distance forecast is based:

March 21, 1924. Thirty-six years ago today I commenced writing semi-annual predictions of the weather from rules found—in an old log of a ship in which I was cook that had been followed by four generations of Maine sea dogs, none of them ever losing a ship.

In all the long years that have passed since I, for 23 days, was on a water-logged ship off the coast of the Dutch Isle of Saba, W. I., I have found that the rules followed by those old sailors, taken at the equinctial periods are rules far beyond any predictions, guess work, or even scientific forecasts ever yet noted by me, and for over 40 years—nearly 50 in fact—I have been a close observer of the weather.

Since my prediction one year ago of many earthquakes including the exact date of the great Japanese horror, The Associated Press papers have recorded 126 earthquakes of greater or less severity and this will continue the coming six months with the single difference that the most severe quaking will be on the Atlantic instead of the Pacific coast.

After a late spring, a period of drouth may be looked for long into May, suddenly broken by a violant and continued downpour of rain toward the end of the month.

Electrical storms of great fierceness will start in, early in the month of June and continue through until fall. June and July will make records for unusual heat, although several times in June we will nearly come to frost.

I look for a bad cold spell, nights and mornings late in June. August will have some very severe electrical storms, much damage being done to crops by hail and high winds. Hot, dry weather will stay with us all through September, broken at intervals by fierce storms.

This is to be a season of plenty for the agriculturist, the greatest trouble being from insect pests that will do much damage. A hurricane of a very destructive type will sweep over the south-eastern section of the country about the last week in August, high winds and tides following; it will reach far up the Atlantic coast.

The earthquake destruction may be expected off Brazil and Argentina, perhaps as far north as the West Indies, during the late days of August, or early in September.

Storm warnings sent out by the weather bureau should be heeded with great care as the sudden appearance of electrical storms will be so frequent, the natural warnings so late in coming, that much damage will result, especially along the coasts.

Peculiar heavenly sights will also be common through the next six months, meteors, some of them large, and other heavenly conditions, much like 1881, may be expected.

While I make no guesses, and in my semi-annual "Cloud Digger" letters confine myself closely to well written laws based on past results under similar conditions, I will this time step so far from my well-studied rules as to say that "The dollar kept this summer will prove to be the greatest blessing the keeper ever dreamed of next winter," for in spite of the blessings showered upon us by nature, the world's greed and grind is getting in its work and dark days are ahead for those who let the dollar go easily, because it comes in easily, or in large numbers.

In other words, we are agoing to pass through a year or more of "settling up" for the carnival of waste and destruction. Save your dollars and don't get caught in the net of suffering.

"THE CLOUD DIGGER."

Mrs. Chloe Ensmith Truesdell, who died Wednesday night at her home in Packer and who for several years was a resident of Danielson, was the step-mother of Clarence H. Truesdell, for years agent of the Attawugan company mills in this town.

Mrs. Truesdell died after an illness of three days, although she had been a patient invalid for many years. She was the widow of Henry Truesdell, and a native of the town of Killingly. Her husband was a widely known cotton mill superintendent.

Mrs. Truesdell was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ensmith and was of the Ensmith family that owned great tracts of land in this county, having secured the grants direct from the Indians.

She was born in a house that still stands about 20 yards from the home in which she died, and she had lived there ever since her birth in 1837, excepting for 10 years spent in Central Village and four years in Danielson, where she was active in W. C. T. U. work and also in the Baptist church.

Mrs. Truesdell joined the church in Packer 15 years ago and was a staunch friend of Rev. Charles Spalding, D. D., of Boston and when a girl was friendly with the famous Prudence Crandall.

A short time before her death, Mrs. Truesdell fondly spoke of chairs in her home that belonged to Elder Kneeland, who founded the Baptist church in Packer and who was a boarder with her parents. Mrs. Truesdell also possessed numbers of relics of Prudence Crandall.

Mrs. Truesdell has one son, Walter Ensmith Truesdell, of New York.

Miss Alice Mitchell of Danielson is granddaughter of her only brother, and Mrs. Mary Gamble of Packer is daughter of an older sister.

Mrs. Truesdell will be buried with her ancestors today (Saturday) in the family lot in the cemetery at Packer.

The state department of health will not be too harsh in dealing with farmers who engage in slaughtering a hog occasionally, this in relation to the enforcement of a sanitary code intended to protect the public from being sold meats of improper quality or condition.

A letter from Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, commissioner of health, sets forth that his department has not attempted to be too strict and has no objections to a farmer killing one of his hogs, retaining part for himself and selling the rest, because that is quite a different proposition for a farmer killing many hogs or cattis, such as two or three a week, and making a business of it.

The letter points out that the department is fully aware that it it a difficult proposition to handle the slaughter house matter so that justice will be done both to the person who kills his animals and the person who consumes the meat.

The department will endeavor to take such action as is necessary to protect parsons from getting diseased meat and will see that insanitary conditions are not allowed.

Killingly High School's basketball squad left for Middletown Friday to compete in the high school tournament of games to be played off in that city.

Many Polish-speaking people were at St. James' church Friday evening to attend the retreat being conducted by Rev. Michael Kolibuch, M. S.

John M. Bessette is engaged with the work of collecting the taxes of the town of Brooklyn, an office in which he has served for years.

Reports of all church officers, committees and organizations will be given at a meeting at the Baptist church early in April.

Another Well Baby conference is to be held at the town hall Tuesday afternoon of next week.

Mrs. E. B. Wilbur of Broad street will have the members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon.

PUTNAM

A Putnam boy who has achieved distinction—Henry Breault—was seen in weekly news reel at the Bradley theatre at Friday's shows. Seaman Breault, for years resident here, was one of the crew of the Submarine O-5 sunk in the canal zone in October of last year. He with one of his mates remained with the vessel and were submerged with it, though they had ample opportunity to leap off and save themselves, as did the other members of the crew when they saw the sinking of the craft was inevitable. Rescued and fully recovered, though he spent many hours under water in the sunken submarine, Breault was shown Friday in the news reel receiving from President Coolidge the congressional medal of honor. Naval Secretary Denby and other government officials are snown in the picture, which was of real live interest to Putnam people, hundreds of them personally acquainted with Breault.

Hearing of divorce cases occupied the greater part of the time at Friday morning's session of the superior court in this city, Michael Zbyr, resident in Dayville the past seven years, was given a decree, on the ground of adultery, from Bertha Zbyr whom he married July 13, 1314 at Jewett City. The couples afterwards lived in Moosup. About two and a half years after the marriage Mrs. Zbyr ran away with another man and went to live in Manchester, N. H., the witness testified. Later she returned. After a time she ran away with another man. After a time another return, then away again with a third man. Zbyr testified that she is now living with a man at Riverpoint, R. I. Her last departure—and final one—in so far as Zbyr is concerned—was in July 1922.

Charges that Zbyr made against his wife were supported by other witnesting the divorce in this state after having sought to bring one on her own account in Massachusetts, Mrs. Hassard explained it was because she wanted to combat what she characterized as too much lying about her.

In granting the divorce to the husband Judge Hinman remarked that the marriage was ill-assorted and ill-advised and if for no other reason the decree should be granted in the interest of public policy.

The last divorce of the day, heard in chambers, was granted to Ethel S. Mansfield of this city from William Nelson Mansfield of New York, formerly of Putnam.

After four days of selling, the auction sale of the property and equipment of the Manhasset Manufacturing company was concluded Friday and at the end of the sale it was announced that the receivers would recommend the acceptance by the perior court of the bid of $375,000, offered for the property intact by interests represented by William Muir of Providence.

Today (Saturday) delegations authorized by republican cuucuses held in towns in the 28th senatorial district this week will come to Putnam to hold a senatorial district caucus at which delegates-at-large from the district will be elected to attend the state convention of the party at Hartford, April 2-3, to elect the state's delegation to the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland in June. The towns that will be represented at today's caucus are Putnam, Killingly, Thompson, Eastford Woodstock and Ashford.

An inspector representing the engineering department of the state department of health has been in Putnam the past two days inspecting places where slaughtering of swine, sheep and cattle for local markets is carried on. The inspection is to determine whether such places comply with the regulations of the state department of health, relative to sanitary equipment and practices. Rules have been made more stringent of late, in the interest of public health.

Relative to the affairs of the Manhasset Manufacturing company, much in the public eye of late, the following is of interest:

Papers on file in the Superior court, give an accounting of the Manhasset Mfg. Co., from October 25 to March 1 and disclose that the net claims against the concern amount to $5,370,527.57.

This statement on the financial status of the company was filed by the receivers, A. C. Townsend and J. B. Strongman, Friday. They state that on October 25 the company had a cash balance of $94,106.02 and that during the period covered by their report, they received a total of $759,340.39 for goods and material sold. Sale of tire fabric brought $695,267. Disbursement during the period covered by the report, the receivers stated, amounted to $190,911.28, among the larger items of expense being $25,923.80 for cotton; $14,915.64 for yarn; $97,860 for labor.

At the close of the accounting period, March 1, the receivers had a cash balance of $692,583.32 which was on deposit in banks and invested in government securities.

The receivers reported that there were 196 creditors of the company, to whom had been issued Class B notes. These notes against the company total $5,250,966. Offsets and payment of principal and other items, make the net total of such Class B notes $5,370,527.75.

Allen Durand, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Durand, is at the Day Kimball hospital. He has a broken leg, an injury sustained when he tried to "hook a ride" on an ash cart, driven by Harold Morrarty. The little boy hopped up onto the hub of a rear wheel of the Marrarty vehicle, slipped, had his fought caught between the spokes, revolving forward, and then fell backward, forcing an unusual type of break of a bone just above his knee.

New officers of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club elected at the annual meeting of the organization are: President, Prosper Vegiard; vice president, Percy Baker, Pomfret; secretary, Dr. William Saretzki, Putnam; treasurer, Carl Sharpe, Abington; executive committee, G. Byron Morse, Putnam, Dr. James Hutchins of Pomfret, Irving Paine of Woodstock, Oliver Latham of Eastford, Alexander Maitland of Thompson and D. A. Baker of Ashford.

Work is underway to equip and arrange a parish hall in the basement of St. Mary's church, Providence St. This hall will have a seating capacity of about 500, and will fill a long felt parish need. The work will be completed soon. Parish gatherings such as the hall will be used for have had to be held in available halls in the past.

The new and heavier rails with which the Worcester-New London branch of the New Haven road is to be equipped between this city and Central Village during the present year are being laid this week opposite the passenger station in this city. The work is proceeding without interruption of train service or any delay therein.

It was announced here Friday by Judge George E. Hinman that there will be no more short calendar sessions of the superior court in this city this term.

Say It With Flowers will be the topic and C. S. Andem the leader at the meeting of the Men's forum at the Congregational church Sunday noon.

Miss Elizabeth Wheelock, who has been ill at the Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Worcester, is convalescing at her home in this city.

Jerome Keech of Danielson, has been staying with relatives here during a period of convalescence that requires his going to the Day Kimball hospital every other day. He is expected to return to his home this week end.

Mrs. Charles Jacobson and daughter, Bella Gloria, of Norwich, are visiting with Mrs. Jacobson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diamond.

Miss Gertrude Perry has returned here after spending a vacation of two weeks with relatives in New York.

This has been another week of exceeding quiet for officials of the city court alternating with weeks that regularly produce much business.

It is not likely, it was stated here Friday, that the hearing of appeals of eclectic physicians whose licenses have been suspended will be heard in this county for some time.

When You Begin to "Melt Rubber"

That was the graphic term used by W. S. James of the U. S. Bureau of Standards, to express the condition that occurs when the braking strain of tires-on-road reaches its limit.

Traction ceases at that point and your brakes are impotent—regardless of the size or power of the brakes themselves.

It stands to reason that you reach the point where "you begin to melt rubber" just twice as often when the braking strain is all on two points as when it is distributed over four.

And that was proven in the tests by the Bureau of Standards.

As a matter of fact, you seldom if ever reach the point where you "melt rubber," when you have 4-Wheel Brakes.

Because—the strain is distributed over four instead of two points of contact with the road.

And, since the area of tires is proportioned to weight of car, the strain on each—and the heat generated by friction of rubber-to-road—is only half.

That's why tires last so much longer when the car has 4-Wheel Brakes.

One Rickenbacker owner states that he drove more than 36,000 miles on one set of cord tires; and hosts of Rickenbacker owners give 20,000 as their average mileage per tire.

Aside from the tremendous safety factor, the saving effected by properly designed 4-Wheel Brakes is also most gratifying.

But remember—there are 4-Wheel Brakes—and "4-Wheel Brakes."

Anyone who has tried all types will agree that Rickenbacker 4-Wheel Brakes are just the world's best.

See and compare design and construction. Then compare performance—before you buy.

But whatever you do, insist on "built-in" mechanically operated internal expanding 4-Wheel Brakes on your next car.

And if you would insure the least depreciation, longest life, lowest upkeep and most pleasurable riding, insist also on these features:

A Vibrationless Motor—2 Fly Wheels
An efficient Air Cleaner
A Frame not less than 8" in depth
"Cradle" type spring suspension
Disc Steel Wheels

And for ease of steering—ball bearings in steering spindles.

In all these great improvements Rickenbacker was first, and still is best.

PRODDING CONGRESS.

The country will watch with keen interest the outcome of the effort by President Coolidge to get congress to recognize the need of settling down to the large amount of business before it and take care of essential legislation.

With a view to having this need impressed upon congress President Coolidge will confer with leaders in both houses with a view to getting an agreement upon a programme of action and to seeing that it is accomplished. It was timely advice which Senator Borah offered upon this very point when he insisted that there should be an end to this neglect and maintained that it was creating a restlessness throughout the country.

Congress has been devoting its efforts to what the senator from Idaho calls "grand jury" pursuits, and while there is no question but what the country wants to see justice done in these various directions it is likewise clear that it is more or less disgusted with some of the methods and not a little provoked over the manner in which the legislative business is being neglected.

Perhaps one session of congress cannot be properly compared with another, but it is remembered of course that a year ago the business of congress had been wound up and adjournment taken before this time. Thus far in this congress there has been delay and obstruction. Some of the appropriation bills have been put through one of the houses, and some of the important measures have gone through the house, but in the senate where less speed is to be expected the record of accomplishment is small.

The country is becoming disgusted over the moment in which the tax reduction legislation is being delayed and by the failure to show any progress on numerous other bills in which national welfare and the interests of large numbers are involved.

Senator Borah did some plain talking to the senate upon the dilatory tactics, and it is to be hoped that the decision of the president to take a hand in the effort to get something accomplished will bring results. It doesn't speak well for congress, however, to have to be prodded in such a manner.

THE NORTH DAKOTA RESULT.

Much attention has been directed to the primary contest in the state of North Dakota because of the claims that have been made regarding the dissatisfaction that existed there and the effect which the prevailing conditions would have upon the expression of the people politically.

From the figures which are available it is clear that a substantial plurality of those who went to the polls is for President Coolidge and in view of the primary provisions the instructions thus given must be respected by the delegation going to the republican national convention at Cleveland in June.

It is a demonstration on the part of a state in the radical section of the country that cannot fail to have its significance. It indicates that the president has made a favorable impression in that region, that there is a demand for the continuance of such policies as he has set forth and there is ground for believing that the attitude as expressed in North Dakota represents that in other states in that part of the country.

It means a severe blow to the campaign of Senator Hiram Johnson. It was upon North Dakota that he placed great dependence for his opening. He rates other states as being in his camp but he expected to start with North Dakota and rely upon that to aid in the swinging of others.

While North Dakota has spoken for itself it is believed that it reflects the sentiments of other states in which Johnson or radical influences have been at work in the northwest. Senator Johnson has maintained that where primaries were held there would be no chance for any candidate but himself. The results must therefore come as a decided awakening to him for not only does President Coolidge lead but the California senator finished third in the list.

Senator Johnson may not be ready to withdraw from what promises to be a very one-sided race, but he must face the outcome with decreasing confidence.

DEALING WITH DEATH TRAPS.

Indianapolis is much concerned over the deaths of six persons in their home, which is referred to as a death trap by the head of the fire department. It has caused attention to be directed to the fact that many buildings, which are required by law to carry adequate protection for the people therein, have failed to comply with the law. Safety has apparently been given secondary consideration.

Probably the country would be appalled if it were known how many fire traps exist. Every community has them, but except branding them as such little is done to overcome them. The publicity they get when something might be done to prevent loss of life is as nothing compared to what is obtained after something happens.

In large centers fires are repeatedly recorded which show that those living or working in the buildings involved had little opportunity to get out in case of fire, and in many instances is it disclosed that institutions which house men, women or children are maintained in wooden structures where inadequate safeguards are provided, both as to the means of escape in case of fire or in regard to the heating plant.

Any city is justified in becoming aroused over the fact that tenement houses are not permitted to remain fire hazards, and it is unfortunate that the system of inspection, during the period of construction as well as after, isn't sufficient to provide the protection that is expected of it.

No community can be said to be partial to death traps, but it ought to be realized that the time to take action against them and eliminate the hazard is before something happens which causes the very thing which might be prevented. Perhaps it could not be expected that all buildings which are regarded as fire traps will be torn down and the menace thus eliminated, but there are methods whereby protection can be given to those living therein. The opportunity for excellent preventive work in that direction ought not to be disregarded.

SHIPPING BOARD DECISION.

Efforts to provide a subsidy for the American merchant marine that would help to bring it nearer to a parity with the shipping of other countries brought serious and successful objection in this country. The decision of the shipping board to provide for an indirect subsidy for American shipping by giving preferential rates to goods transported in American bottoms is now receiving the protests of both Great Britain and Japan. Verily the efforts to do anything for the relief of the present conditions in the American merchant marine and to give encouragement to the increase rather than the decrease of the American flag on the high seas have hard sledding.

The British and Japanese do not like the plan for encouraging business for American ships because they think that it will take business away from their vessels. Nevertheless they fully understand that there is now a distinct advantage which the vessels of both of those countries enjoy because of government subsidies, while the Japanese steamship lines already have a similar trade preference understanding with certain American railroads.

The shipping board is endeavoring to give the American vessels a show in the business of transportation. Certainly it can be no worse for American railroads to cooperate with American steamships than it is for them to cooperate with Japanese lines. The help which the American ships should gain through the preferential rail and water rate is not likely to overcome the advantages which vessels of other countries have from subsidies and from less restrictive laws concerning seamen.

HELPING HONDURAS.

Down in Honduras there has happened just what this country was desirous would not happen.

In the first place there had been hope that a constitutional government would be maintained, and endeavors to have Honduras hold to that idea were made. When it was found that that republic would not follow such a course there was the withdrawal of recognition by this government.

In the second place it had been hoped that such disorders as developed as the result of the revolutionary tactics in that country would not involve this or any other country. Probably such hope was unjustified in view of the methods that are employed by revolutionists, and such it proves to have been inasmuch as the American consul was obliged to call upon the American forces for protection when the legation at Tegucigalpa was threatened.

Uncle Sam has no liking for the task of keeping order under such conditions but when the governments of Central American republics demonstrate that they are unable to do so and that the lives of other nationals are endangered there is no other course to pursue. American forces were sent into Honduras for the protection of American lives and interests. That was made necessary because of the refusal to follow the suggestions that had been offered by this government following the election which failed to elect a new president. If Honduras chafes under this protection which it forced us to exercise it has no one to blame but itself. Our forces can be expected to be retained in the capital until conditions improve. Honduras may not like it but it is a service to that country and the rest of the world in the interest of better government.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

When a man wants to know just what selfishness is, all he has to do is to try to board a train, carrying two heavy valises, when a bunch of women are trying to do the same thing when headed toward a bargain counter or the afternoon movies. To be sure it is a sort of selfishness that is wholly free from malice. There is no intentional rudeness in it. It arises from our American temperament to get there and just as quickly as possible, even though we have to stand half an hour before the doors to the bargain counter are open. If a long line is formed each one feels that she is entitled to first place by a sort of divine right. One hour later she emerges from the jam at the bargain counter with a crushed appearance, her shopping bag filled with soap marked down from a dollar to 79 cents. In the process she has damaged her hat that cost $3.75. At her appearance the man with two heavy valises laughs.

How pleasant it is when traveling on a train to overhear two men with loud, rasping voices, both talking at once and continually, each trying to outdo—as it would seem—the other in the fine art of swearing! It is about time to explode the ancient tradition that it is only women who are capable of talking at the same time, and keeping it up for hours at a stretch. They are not in it with two men who feel that they can settle the problems of the universe. Neither men nor women stop talking when they have run out of ideas, and never from choice, but under compulsion; women when their throats and jaws begin to have tire trouble; men only when a frog gets into their throats bringing on spasms of coughing that makes us all feel that apoplexy is at hand. When these two men ran out of ideas they began to swear and tell us what they would do if in congress; just how the bonus and tax reduction bills ought to be treated. At length when nature could endure no more, one of them, being a very fat man, fell asleep and began to snore, and his snoring was more disturbing than his swearing.

"Fools used to blow out the gas, now they step on it." This is a sign where two streets come together at an acute angle in a city not more than a thousand miles from Norwich. This sign has two things to commend it: first is the sentiment it contains, and second is the place it occupies. Fools like the poor are always with us. They always have been, are now, and ever shall be. There has never been a period in the world's history that could rightly be called "the fool age." Fortunately fools have predominated in any age. Ever since gas has been used they have been blowing it out, and the only reason why they have not stepped on it is because it was not in a shape to be stepped on. Now they both blow it out and step on it. In other words, just at the wrong time they step on it when they come to a sharp turn and practically get blown up themselves. When a fool dies today the coroner's verdict is apt to be, "he speeded up."

Did it ever occur to you that a place in which people live is an outward expression of the ideas they entertain in their minds? If a city tolerates litter and rubbish in its streets the indication is that it is easy-going, slack and slovenly in its mode of life. In such a city there is apt to be lax administration of the laws; the lawless element is apt to be in the ascendant. If in the residential parts of a city the front side is neat and attractive, but the rear is the dumping place for tin cans and all kinds of table refuse, you can make up your mind that such a city goes in for show. The girls wear shoddy in imitation of broadcloth; they try to palm off cheap jewelry as the real thing. In the structure of the buildings there is imitation brick, granite and marble. In a city where premises are severe and prim, there is apt to be coldness and conservatism. The outer is apt to reflect the inner life.

"All she thinks about is dress!" How often is this spoken of women and girls! Is it quite true? and if it is not true it is not at all fair. If we are prejudiced against persons and things it is hard for us to deal fairly with them. We misjudge what they are and misconstrue what they do. Let it be granted that some women and girls do overdo the matter of dress. Let it also be granted that they give more time to that matter than we, their critics, think they ought to. Is it not quite likely that their bitterest critics are those who go to the opposite extreme, those who either make guys of themselves by their utter lack of taste in dress, or those who are positively shabby in their dress? We are very apt to exaggerate the taste of those whose standards differ from ours.

How much of what is bright and cheerful does one run across when traveling—if one is after such things. Usually we find in our surroundings about what we are looking for. Our external world is little more than the reflection of what lies within us. A grouchy man is always the first to discover a grouch in somebody else. A gossipy person is apt to be the first to pick up a bit of gossip. Oftentimes the shrewdest detective is the man who has been a criminal himself. In nine cases out of ten when traveling a courteous question gets a courteous answer. If a conductor seems uncivil it is because he butts up against so many uncivilities on the part of the traveling public. Treat a porter like a human being and he will grin from ear to ear. Have a little patience with a waiter and you will find that his head is not wholly made up of paper mache. The question then resolves itself to this: Are you after sunlight or shadow?

In the January issue of Life, on the outside cover, is a cartoon of a young lady admiring herself in a mirror. The title of that cartoon is Her Ideal. She evidently thinks that she is pretty, and she is. In that case can it be called vanity? If so then correct thinking is vanity. If a young girl is undoubtedly pretty, is it wrong for her to think of herself exactly as she is? I am not here speaking of that shallow, brainless type of a young girl whose slander intellect is turned by the knowledge of her good looks. I refer to the average girl with brains enough to know that she is handsome. Is she under any moral obligation to practise Coueism and say over and over again until she is black in the face, "I am as homely as a hedge fence." Or is she under moral obligation to make that face a power in her life?

It is sometimes said that everything is under the regulation of law, and that our failure to understand it is not evidence against it. We sometimes wonder if this applies to fads that come and go seemingly by chance. Take, for instance, that pagan game known as mah jong, that was so completely rotten that even pagan China kicked it out as unendurable, but which we, the supermen of the world, picked up and pressed lovingly and tenderly to our sympathetic bosom. We have quite a habit in this country in picking up the cast off dereliets of other nations and making fads out of them. Are such fads under the direction of any known law? Take that cult of heathenism known as theosophy, a product of India, which a certain set in New York "rolled as a sweet morsel under its tongue"—for a while. Take also the political scalawags so utterly contemptible that even soviet Russia kicked them out, but who found a certain welcome here. How are such things to be explained? Is fadism founded in law?

LITTLE KNOWN WINDWARD ISLANDS

The Windward Islands colony, to which London is sending a new governor and commander-in-chief, is one of the least known, to Americans of British territories in the new world. A bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society describes it.

"'Windward Islands' means different things on different maps," says the bulletin, "and to add to the confusion several other quite distinct names are applied to the whole and to parts of South America. The entire group of little islands is known most properly, perhaps, as 'the Lesser Antilles,' 'the Greater Antilles' consisting of the larger islands, beginning with Porto Rico, that reach back toward the Gulf of Mexico.

"All of the southern half of the Lesser Antilles is sometimes called 'the Windward Islands' the term including Martinique, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Grenada and even Barbados, Tobago and Trinidad. Britain's Windward Islands Colony, however, means something definite; the three fair-sized islands, St. Lucia, St. Vincent and Grenada, and the tiny islets near Grenada known as the Grenadines.

"About this little group of islands France and England fought more stubbornly than about any other bit of American territory. Over and over again they changed hands between 1650 and 1814 as the West Indian fleets of first one and then the other of the two great nations were victorious. Since the latter date all three of the islands and the Grenadines have remained British possessions.

"The Windward Islands are well in the tropics, being in the latitude of Nicaragua, the Philippines and southern India; and they are as charming examples of tropical isles as can be found in any ocean. All are mountainous, and over the sharp peaks, deep valleys and more gentle slopes of all is thrown an intensely green mantle of tropical trees, shrubs and grasses. All were peopled by the warlike Carib Indians when Columbus and other Spanish navigators discovered them. But these were largely killed off or transported during the next few centuries by British and French settlers. Most of the inhabitants of the islands today are black and are traceable to the slave ships that brought over their African cargoes during early colonial development. On St. Vincent which was long left to the natives, several slave ships were wrecked and the survivors mingled with the Caribs so that on that island there is a more pronounced Indian strain than elsewhere.

"On each of the islands is a small minority of white officials, landowners and business men. Each of the three larger islands has its own local government machinery under a British administrator, and over all is the governor who resides in St. George's chief city of Grenada. The governments are 'Crown Colonies,' the officials being appointed from London.

"France held on longest to St. Lucia and in the enthusiastic days of Napoleon hoped to make it 'the capital of the Antilles' and 'the Gibraltar of the Caribbean.' But the hope died when the treaty of 1814 gave St. Lucia to Great Britain, and now only Martinique and Guadaloupe and its islets remain of the once important French Antilles.

"St Lucia, 27 miles long by 13 wide, might be said to exist solely for its harbor, Port Castries. This superb haven, probably unsurpassed by any harbor in the Americas, was to have been France's Gibraltar. Britain has made it one of her most important naval bases and coaling stations and has heavily fortified it. A narrow bottle-neck passage of deep water leads to what is in effect a great, deep lake of salt water. Deep-draught ships of war or trade tie up directly to the piers on which lie mountains of coal. Armies of black men and women coal the ships by carrying laden baskets aboard. Most of the population of the island is concentrated in Castries dependent on the coaling activities, while a large part of the back country is abandoned to its wild state; but it is threaded with good roads that wind among its picturesque hills and tropical forests.

"St. Vincent, the middle of the three islands, had a terrible tragedy in the eruption of its own volcano at the time that Mt. Pelee destroyed a populous city and devastated a large area of country in Martinique, in 1902. The northern third of St. Vincent was devastated and nearly 2,000 lives were lost on the island. Now the brilliantly green tropical foliage is creeping back over the ash heaps to hide the evidence of this holocaust.

"St. Vincent has in its botanic garden an importance to the Western Hemisphere little known. There were introduced first tropical products from the rest of the world which, distributed from there, have established some of the most important and lucrative industries of the West Indies and the Americas. Various vegetables and fruits and spices are in the list.

"Grenada, southernmost of the three islands, is the most beautiful and most charming, and at the same time, the best developed. It forms almost a true ellipse 20 miles long and 9 wide. Its port at St. George's cannot compare in usefulness with that of St. Lucia, but it is a perfect gem of a harbor on a small scale, with a narrow entrance and a small land-locked basin. From the basin's rim St. George's grows up a ridge and down the other side, its housetops, half hidden among the palms, forming gigantic stair-steps. And the roofs only echo the surface, for the grades are so steep that many of the streets are steps. Much of the town is beyond the ridge; and the British, unwilling to be forever climbing in the warm climate, have put through a tunnel that saves many steps.

"Grenada was long under French control, and many traces of Gallic influence still linger in architecture, customs and religion. Good roads form a network over Grenada as over the other Windward Islands. Over them one may bowl in motor cars besides the numerous well-kept nutmeg and cacao plantations that turn out Grenada's chief products. Many tourists learn for the first time on these delightful jaunts that nutmegs come from a luscious fruit that is itself made into jam; and that cocoa 'beans' are hidden away in the heart of big capsules that have been described as 'squashes growing on trees.'"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Thousands of miles on an insect trail! A strange enough journey for a man, but stranger still for a woman. Miss L. E. Cheesman, who is Curator of Insects at the London Zoological Gardens and the only woman in the world to fill such a position, is to undertake this strange trip with seven men to the Pacific Islands. She will collect mosquitoes, dragon-flies, mayflies, and many of the smaller types of insect. Grasshoppers she hopes to find in the Galapagos group of the Islands. A year or more will be occupied in the search and the results will be added to the collections in the London Zoo, already the largest and most complete of their kind in existence. In addition to the many specimens of insects which she hopes to find in the South Pacific islands, Miss Cheesman plans to take home with her rare collections of insects' eggs, which it will be necessary to convey in vacuum flasks.

Stories That Recall Others

Or Appetite

Johnny had been absent from school for several days because of illness caused by overeating. On his return one of his young feminine admirers greeted him with this remark:

"I've got a compliment for you, Johnny."

Johnny's curiosity was aroused and he asked what it was.

"Esther says you have indigestion," replied the little miss.

The Chickens Were Next

Father was gone for a few days' visit, and mother urged the boys to do a lot of chores he had been wanting them to do, and have them for a surprise for him when he returned. They worked about the house, and finally she sent them to clean the chicken coop.

Dad had six hens. And he always collected the eggs, getting three a day for weeks. But eight year old Tommy found a hidden nest and in it ten eggs. He went running to the house. "Oh, mother," he shouted, "the chickens are going to surprise daddy, too, and lay twice as many eggs as they use to."

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

INSPIRATION OF SCRIPTURE

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. 2 Tim., 3:16.

The great religious reformation of the sixteenth century and all the blessings spiritual and temporal which it has brought to the world sprang from the simple recognition of the supreme authority of Scripture on all questions of spiritual truth and of personal responsibility. The reformation spread like wildfire and wherever it found a foothold there was a new center of light and life and progress.

A sudden and progressive development of mental power and activity showed itself among the people, whose minds had been enslaved by superstition or hardened by skepticism, and the whole face of the world—spiritually, morally, intellectually, and even materially—began to be transformed.

Anyone who studies the history of that great reformation and transformation must see that the acceptance of the authority of the Bible as paramount to that of either the church or the university or the state was at the bottom of it all. But what do we see now? The very churches which owe their origin and all their spiritual achievements in the past to the recognition of the Bible as the supreme authority in all matters of faith and practice are gradually letting go of that fundamental principle and teaching the truth of God as it appears after having been sifted, by human reason and adapted to man's idea as to what God should be and should do.

And what is the result? What is the only possible result? A general weakening of faith and also of man's sense of personal accountability. A religion which is not based on an authoritative revelation from God cannot possibly inspire men with strong faith in God, nor can it have a very firm hold upon their consciences or hold them to any standard of duty which they do not choose to adopt.

That is one chief reason why the churches of today have so little spiritual vitality and so little enthusiasm in the service of their master in proportion to the numbers and wealth and personal influence of their members.

It would be impossible to give all the arguments that prove the authority of the Bible, but attention may be drawn very briefly to two of them.

First, let the belief in the supreme authority of Scripture be tested by its fruits, and such facts as those already presented will testify that it is a safe and helpful belief.

Second, the Bible always assumes a tone of authority, and it is, therefore, not rational to accept it as a guide at all without recognizing and submitting to the authority of its teachings. No sensible person would follow a teacher who claimed to "know it all" when he was evidently very imperfectly informed. If Christ was not devine He would have to be rejected as a paranoiac, who was, therefore, unfit to be a leader of sane men. And the same is true of the Bible. If it is not devine in its origin, it claims devine authority in the most unmistakable manner.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

TASMANIA

Tasmania, one of the countries to appear most recently in cablegrams as experiencing earthquake shocks, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Known affectionately as 'Little Tassy' and 'Australia's Little Sister,' Tasmania, an island just about 150 miles south of that continent, is the Rhode Island of the Australian Commonwealth," says the bulletin. "But though it is the smallest of the provinces that make up Australia's Federation, it is of fair size, having more than twenty times the area of our own smallest state. Its 26,000 square miles give it a size slightly greater than West Virginia.

"There was a tendency among the people of the mainland to consider Tasmania of small account when the political battles for the formation of the Australian Commonwealth were being fought out, and there was likelihood at times that the island would not be included. The Tasmanians, isolated somewhat beyond 150 mile Bass strait dubbed the Australians 'other siders.' Tasmania was included, however, and promised to be of great importance to the country of which it is a part. Mainland Australia's farthest projection toward the pole carries it only in to a latitude corresponding to Washington, D. C. Tasmania, reaching to a position comparable to that of Boston and Buffalo, adds a land of cool climate products needed to round out the predominantly tropical and semi-tropical mainland.

"The island is largely highland, but has a relatively broad belt of rich brown soil on the northern border closest to Australia. There potatoes and other vegetables flourish and are shipped across to populous Melbourne and Sydney. The most spectacular agricultural development, however, has been in apple growing. It was found that the region around Hobart, the capital, produces this fruit to perfection. Now great orchards cover the countryside, and more than 3,000,000 bushels of apples are shipped yearly to Australia, Great Britain, the European continent and even Africa.

"One other important contribution which Tasmania makes which is lacking somewhat on the mainland is waterpower and potential waterpower. Winds from the Indian Ocean blow a tremendous amount of moisture to the highlands of western Tasmania; and the rivers of that region though not long, carry a huge volume of water. Much of the precipitation is in the form of snow which blankets the mountains and melts slowly far into the summer. Already some waterpower has been developed and there are plans for more extensive development. Some of the power is operating woolen mills for the utilization of Tasmania and Australian wool, and this industry is growing steadily.

"Heavy forests grow in Tasmania, most of the trees being of Australian types. There are some, however, unlike those of Australia, which are exactly like trees growing in Tierra del Fuego, the southernmost tip of South America—a fact that has made geologists wonder. The animals are mostly like those in Australia, chiefly marsupials.

"When Tasmania was discovered in 1642 by a Dutch navigator, Tasmon, it was named Van Diemen's Land, a name which stuck to it for several centuries. The British hurriedly established the first settlement on the island in 1803 for fear the French were about to colonize it.

"The original inhabitants of Tasmania were black and woolly-haired, but differed from the Australian aborigines. They are said to have been the most primitive people of modern times, having the development of men of the Stone Age. Only about 5,000 strong in 1803, they rapidly disappeared. Their going constitutes one of the most tragic chapters in the history of the white settlement of new lands.

"Like Australia, Tasmania suffered in the early years of its settlement from the blight of convict transportation. Its first settlement was a penal colony, and for a number of years only convicts and their guards made up its population. Free settlers came in also but shipload after shipload of felons and robbers, horse-thieves and burglars were dumped among them until 1853 when the British government was induced to abandon that method of disposing of its criminals.

"Naturally Tasmania in the early days, with such human material, was an inferno. Many convicts escaped to the back country. They became 'bush-rangers,' unprincipled thugs who, operating in bands, attacked the settlers, robbed them, and killed their victims like wild beasts. Their brutal treatment of the natives aroused their enmity against the whites and they, too, attacked the settlements. This led to retaliation in which the blacks were practically exterminated. The few survivors were placed on reservation in 1833 but they did not thrive and the last full blooded native died in 1876. Only a few half-castes remain today. After the natives were gotten out of the way the bush-rangers were rounded up and executed.

"Purged of its unruly elements by the elimination of the blacks and the bush-rangers, and by the exodus of many ex-convicts to the Australian gold fields, Tasmania settled down to a quiet life in which today one can find no traces of the hectic pioneering days. The inhabitants are almost entirely of British and Irish stock born in the island. This fact together with the cool climate and the flourishing crops of Europe, make Tasmania more truly a replica of Old England than any other British colony."

Judge Hinman Files Finding

Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court has filed with clerk George E. Parsons his finding in the suit of Guiseppe Contino of New London vs. John Turello et al of that city.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am 82 years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 60 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman 50 years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over 30 years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of The Bulletin wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 293 J Street, Hallowell, Maine. Send now, lest you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good news and opportunity to some afflicted friend. ### OBITUARY.

Daniel Frederick McNeil

Following an attack of heart trouble suffered on Monday last the life of Daniel Frederick McNeil came to a close Friday morning at 3.30 at his home 24 Lincoln avenue. Although not in the best of health Mr. McNeil had been up and around as usual until last Sunday when he became ill. On Monday his condition was worse and that evening he suffered a severe heart attack from which he failed to rally. The end came peacefully, members of the family being at the bedside.

Mr. McNeil was born in Norwich, May 15, 1854, the son of John and Caroline Sears McNeil. His boyhood days were spent in Norwich Town and after graduating from public schools there she entered the Norwich Free Academy. After receiving his schooling he entered the postoffice in Norwich and was there when Major William A. Wells entered the postoffice. This was in 1876 and today Major Wells is the only one of the employes of that year still in the office service. After serving for some time Mr. McNeil became railway mail clerk, continuing at this employment until a change of administration, without civil service, caused him to give up the work he had been engaged in for 30 years.

For some years afterwards he was a member of the firm of Dodge and McNeil, dealers in gentleman's furnishings. Later he entered the Davenport Fire Arms company and was with that company until it dissolved.

This was in 1903 and in that year Mr. McNeil entered the Norwich Savings society as custodian of the safe deposit vaults, which position he held at the time of his death.

Politically Mr. McNeil was a staunch republican and at the time of his death was serving the city of Norwich as one of its auditors. He supported every republican administration and for many years served the town of Norwich as an auditor.

He was a member of Christ Episcopal church and for many years was one of the vestrymen, and had also served the church as treasurer for many years, giving up this work two years ago.

Mr. McNeil was married on December 24, 1876 in this city, to Martha Chadwick who died in Norwich August 25, 1919.

Fraternally he was a prominent member of the Masonic bodies. He was a past master of St. James Lodge past high priest of Franklin Chapter, past master of Franklin Council, a member of all the York and Scottish Rite bodies, a member of Columbian Commandery, K. T., and a member of the Masonic Temple corporation, representing Van Rensselaer Council, Princes of Jerusalem of which he was a past sovereign prince.

All of his life save one year had been spent in Norwich and there he took great interest in the welfare of the city. He was a man of high standards and had many friends in this community. To his family he was a loving and kind husband and father; to his friends and business acquaintances ever courteous and kind and to his employers, an efficient and trustworthy employe. At Surviving him are three daughters, Mrs. Caroline Thomas, Mrs. Helen J. Wilson and Miss Ruth McNeil, all of Norwich, also eight grandchildren.

John F. Trainor

The sudden death of John F. Trainor of Poquetanuck cast a gloom over that village, Wednesday morning when it was learned he had passed away. He was employed by the Reliance Woolen Co. of Norwich, being a spinner by trade. Tuesday he worked, came home at night, ate his supper. Retired about 10.30, feeling as well as usual, but died about 11.15. He was ill only about 15 minutes, heart trouble being the cause of his death. He leaves his widow and three young children. He was a dutiful husband and father and will be greatly missed in his home and in the community.

FUNERALS

Mrs. James W. Buchanan

Funeral services for Mrs. James W. Buchanan were held Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Koons of 67 Peck street, relatives and friends attending. The service was conducted by Rev. Edwin C. Dunbar pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was in charge of Rev. Mr. Dunbar. The bearers were Frederick Wilson, Charles R. Cross, Frank J. Field and William D. Ricker.

NORWICH GRANGERS WORK DEGREE IN SALEM

Salem grange, No. 166, Patrons of Husbandry, had one of the most notable meetings since its recent organization Friday evening when it had a visit from the degree and drill teams of Norwich grange which did the work for a class of nine candidates. Twenty nine of the Norwich grange members made the trip and received a cordial welcome which was expressed by Worthy Master Fred B. Ames of Salem.

After the work was over, a supper with a menu overflowing with good things was served about midnight and the visitors sang the praises of the Salem cooks with no uncertain voice.

During the evening announcement was made of a gift of $100 from Lieutenant Governor Bingham for repair work on the inside of grange hall and a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Bingham was passed.

NORWICH MEETING HEARS PLANS FOR SUFFIELD'S $350,000 FUND

The eastern Connecticut chairmen of the Suffield school $350,000 endowment fund campaign met at the Wauregan hotel Friday evening for their first divisional conference at which the campaign plans were outlined by Dr. H. G. Truesdell, headmaster of the school. The object of the campaign is to raise $350,000 as an endowment fund, the principal to be placed in trust and the income used for scholarship purposes, teachers' salaries, repairs and upkeep, and general maintenance. Supper was served at 7 o'clock.

Those present at the meeting were Harry B. Reynolds, Essex, chairman for eastern Connecticut; Charles Schrader, Mystic, chairman for the Mystic division; Dr. H. G. Truesdell, headmaster of Sufficient school; Judge Lucius Brown, this city, a member of the board of trustees; Kenneth Arnold and Howard Arnold, this city; Charles S. Beebe, chairman of the Colchester division; Prof. Jesse Smith of Sufficield school; John B. Stanton, Norwich, local chairman, and Frederick Pietrow, of Tamblyn and Brown, New York, assistant director of the campaign.

Mr. Reynolds acted as toastmaster, explaining the purpose of the meeting and speaking of the opening of the campaign May 3. He stated that he had received a telephone call from National Chairman J. C. Loomis, who expressed his regret at not being able to attend. Mr. Reynolds then called on Dr. Truesdell, headmaster of Suffield, who explained the need and purpose of the campaign.

"It will interest you, I know, said Dr. Truesdell, to learn that everywhere I have met with nothing but the greatest loyalty and enthusiasm. When we talked of the campaign there was some question regarding the loyalty and interest to carry it through. Since we have started I have found there is great loyalty and great interest.

"I am going right straight to the point. When I was in New York I talked with Mr. Rockefeller's secretary. He asked me what justification there is for the existence of Suffield—a fair question. I answered in this way. In the first place, Mr. Richardson, Suffield exists for the boy who has perhaps missed his opportunity. He doesn't feel the high school is the place for him. He has perhaps left high school and gone to work. Then he feels he wants to continue his education. His schoolmates have gone on. Those in the high school are too young for him. He begins again, finishes his course, and perhaps goes through college.

"Then there is the boy without parents. He needs a home as well as a Christian education. We try to give it to him. Then there is the boy who lives too far from the high school to attend. So he comes to Suffield. There is the boy who needs individual attention. It is not always possible to get this in the high school. These are some of the principal classes of boys who come to Suffield. We look to the boy with moderate means rather than the boy of wealth.

The gentleman said I had answered his question.

I believe Suffield has a right to exist. It has been in existence for 90 years. If there is a reason for its existence, then we ought to place it in a position where it can render service. We thought the first thing we needed was an endowment to place the school on a firm financial basis. We decided we needed $350,000. Why? We felt if we raised $350,000 that would give us sufficient income to meet our needs. If we get this $350,000, how are we going to use it?

First, we promise to use one-quarter of the net proceeds of this campaign for scholarship purposes. The rest is to be used for general endowment purposes. We need about $6,000 for teachers' salaries. You all know that the success of any institution depends largely on the teachers who stay there from year to year. We need $3,000 a year as a reserve fund. We need about $2,000 a year for additional repairs and upkeep, over and above what we are now spending. We don't propose to spend the principal. We promise to place it in the hands of a trust company and to spend only the interest.

"The question arises, have we a good cost system? I know of no school where there is a better cost system than we have. We have a complete cost system. We are not guessing. We know. We feel that if we get this money we will know how to handle it.

"Where are we going to get the money? The trustees will do their part. We feel that the students will do their part. I am sure the town of Suffield will come through handsomely. We hope the alumni will do their part. It is not the policy of this campaign to embarrass anybody who cannot give or to bring any pressure to bear on anybody. We decided to get somebody who knows how to help us get this money. We have divided the country into seven divisions. There are about 2,500 alumni, half of these in Connecticut, and we have divided Connecticut into three divisions. We have asked some 100 people to serve as chairmen and we have had nothing but splendid responses. All we are doing now is organizing for the campaign which comes in May.

Endorsements of Campaign.

Dr. Truesdell closed his talk by reading a dozen endorsements of the campaign and of Suffield school from prominent men. These included Arthur Twining Hadley, Yale; John Newton Lacker, president of the Connecticut Baptist convention; Clarence A. Barber, president of Rochester Theological seminary; Bishop Brewster, Dr. A. P. Coats, secretary of the Connecticut Baptist convention, and others.

Toastmaster Reynolds then called on Judge Lucius Brown, who said he has always been interested in Suffield. There would not be time enough here tonight, he said, to tell of the good things of Suffield. Since I have known it it has been a Christian school, and I congratulate Dr. Truesdell on the work he has done.

Prof. Jesse Smith, a member of the Suffield faculty, told of the aims of the school in the class rooms and along athletic lines. We should endorse this campaign, he said. Look over our alumni list and see the men of prominence and stalwart character that have gone out of our school.

Plan of Campaign.

After encouraging remarks by all those gathered about the table, Toastmaster Reynolds presented Frederick A. Pietrow, the assistant campaign director, who spoke of the organization details regarding the campaign. Every district is going to have a quota, he said. And this quota will be 175 times the number of Suffield alumni in the district. We arrived at this plan of figuring the district quotas by dividing the $350,000 by the 2,500 alumni members.

There will be team captains and each team captain will have ten men, to work with him. The important meeting of the campaign will take place May 2, when in each district there will be a banquet and a Suffield reunion. The campaign will begin on May 3rd. Pledges will be payable over a period of five years.

The remainder of the meeting was devoted to a general discussion of the campaign plans. The Suffield School Endowment Fund national headquarters are at Suffield. Following are the members of the national executive committee and the list of divisional chairmen:

National executive committee: John C. Loomis, New Britain, chairman, Charles S. Bissell, Hartford; Sumner F. Fuller, Suffield; William S. Fuller, Suffield; Hon. H. M. Alcorn, Suffield; Dr. John N. Lackey, Hartford; Rev. Raymond Maplesden, Suffield; Spencer Montgomery, Suffield; Dr. Nelson A. Pomeroy, Waterbury; Newton C. Smith, West Medford, Mass.; C. Luther Spencer, Jr., Suffield; Hon. S. R. Spencer, Suffield; Dr. Hobart G. Truesdell, Suffield; Hon. John M Wadhams, Torrington.

Divisional chairmen—Western Connecticut, Hon. John M. Wadhams, Torrington; central Connecticut, Frank R. Wheeler, West Hartford; eastern Connecticut, Harry B. Reynolds, Essex; western Massachusetts, Henry B. Russell, Springfield; northeastern New England, Mrs. Sherman Perry, Tewksebury; New York division, Howard W. Carlough, New York city; western division, Dr. Arthur F. Goodyear, Decatur, Ill.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY TO JOHN McWILLIAMS

John McWilliams, prominent citizen of Norwich and builder of many of the largest buildings in the city died suddenly at 5.10 o'clock Friday afternoon while on his way home in the automobile owned and operated by Fred R. Miller of Norwich Town, shop foreman of The Peck-McWilliams company of which Mr. McWilliams was president. Death was due to a growth which lodged against the base of the brain causing instant and painless death.

Mr. McWilliams had been in the best of spirits throughout the day and upon arriving at the office of the company, 45 West Main street, Friday morning went about his work as usual. At noon he ate a hearty dinner and complimented his housekeeper on the delightful menu. Before leaving home he visited his garden where he always enjoyed going to watch the flowers that he loved and upon arriving at the office told the officials that spring was surely coming as his tulips and other flowers showed signs of coming up.

As usual he went out to see several pieces of work the company was handling and about 5 o'clock said he was ready to go home, intending to walk. Mr. Miller, the shop foreman, asked him to ride home with him and Mr. McWilliams stepped into Miller's car which was across the street and drove to the old Sturtevant house on Washington street where Mr. Miller got out of the automobile to inspect the house. Here Mr. McWilliams offered to get out and walk home but Mr. Miller induced him to wait. When he returned he noticed that Mr. McWilliams' hat had fallen off and opening the door of the car entered and found Mr. McWilliams lying with his head back against the cushions on the seat. A glance told him that Mr. McWilliams had passed away, evidently without pain, as his hands still rested on the umbrella he had been carrying.

Foreman Miller at once summoned Henry G. Peck and John D. McWilliams from the office of the company and Dr. Clarence M. Thompson, who was passing, was called to give medical aid if possible.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Church & Allen after Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve was called and pronounced death due to cerebral emboli.

Mr. McWilliams was born in County Monaghan, Ireland, April 15, 1847. He came to Norwich in May 1872 and learned the trade of a brick mason from the late William Burton, remaining with Mr. Burton for 13 years, and in 1885 he went into business for himself and prospered. Many large buildings were constructed by Mr. McWilliams while he was in business, among them the Carroll and Shannon buildings, Broadway Theatre, Central Baptist church, the Round House in the yard of the Norwich and Worcester road. At the height of his business Mr. McWilliams employed a regular force of 65 men.

In 1893, Seth Peck, Henry E. Peck and Mr. McWilliams entered into partnership in the building and contracting line under the firm name of Peck-McWilliams & Company. Upon the retirement of Seth Peck from the partnership in 1898 Mr. McWilliams and Henry E. Peck continued the partnership until 1916 when a corporation was formed under the name of The Peck-McWilliams company, Mr. McWilliams being elected president, holding this office at the time of his death. While in that corporation Mr. McWilliams continued to erect large buildings in Norwich including the Norwich Free Academy and the new Disco Building only recently completed.

Other buildings in the state handled by the company were the Windham High school of Willimantic and Polish churches in Middletown, Meriden, Union City and Norwich.

When the City of Norwich began the operation of the municipal gas and electric plant Mayor Charles F. Thayer appointed Mr. McWilliams, the late Judge John M. Thayer and William F. Bogue, members of the Gas and Electric commission, a position which they held for many years. Mr. McWilliams resigned that office after 10 years of service, resigning at the same time Edwin A. Tracy did, when the commission was increased from three to five members. The service of Mr. McWilliams on the commission were recognized as of special value because of his business knowledge and experience, which he gave conscientiously in the interest of the city, aiding greatly in conducting and developing of the plant.

Mr. McWilliams was interested in the welfare of the city and served as councilman at one time.

Fraternally he was a member of St. James Lodge, No. 23, F. & A. M., of Norwich and he also was a member of the Arcanum club.

When the Maplewood Cemetery association was formed he took interest in this project his interest in the association led to his being elected president following Joseph D. Haviland who was the first president, and he held this office at the time of his death. His was also interested in the Young Men's Christian association of Norwich and was a director of that association for many years, holding office when he died.

Mr. McWilliams was from boyhood interested in the Greeneville Congregational church and during all his life was a worker for the church giving the most liberal support to that parish. At his death he was serving the church as senior deacon, was superintendent of the church Sunday school, a member of the church board of trustees and a member of the standing committee. He was also a member of the Men's club of the church and was interested in all its activities.

His interest in church work was appreciated in the church and county and he was elected vice moderator of the New London County association of churches and ministers.

Although having only a few years education while in Ireland, he had a passion for reading and at his death was probably one of the best versed residents of Norwich. He read on every subject and loved the classics. His knowledge was appreciated by those with whom he conversed and when he visited his son, Arthur at Yale University and talked with professors there, they often asked if he was a graduate of Yale. His interest in reading made itself felt in the Norwich Round Table, of which association he was a member for years. His library at home contained many books of classics, history, travel and many other subjects, a library that might have been owned by a scholar whose life was devoted only to study.

Besides his books Mr. McWilliams was a great lover of nature and found great pleasure in the beautiful gardens at his home at 173 Washington street, and it was there he spent a few hours in the last day of his life.

About 38 years ago in Norwich Mr. McWilliams was united in marriage with Elizabeth Ann McClure, the service, being performed by Rev. Mr. Wilcox, then pastor of the Third Baptist church. Mrs. McWilliams passed away in Norwich on March 1, 1916.

On July 23, 1917 Mr. McWilliams was united in marriage with Isabella Service, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. In 1918 Mr. McWilliams moved from his residence at 122 Prospect street to his late home at 173 Washington street. He continued to reside there following the death of his second wife, in August, 1922.

Three children survive him, Arthur Perkins McWilliams of New York City, Mrs. C. W. Stephen of Bridgeport and John D. McWilliams of Norwich. There are also two grandchildren, Arthur Perkins McWilliams, jr., of New York, and Elizabeth Ann McWilliams of Norwich. He also leaves two sisters, Miss Lucy McWilliams of Boston and another in New Zealand, also one brother in England.

In the death of Mr. McWilliams the entire community has suffered a great loss. Ever of sound judgment he left many fine buildings in the city, memorials to his craftsmanship. In office he was steady and rendered efficient and conscientious service, and with his family was a loving and kind husband and father. The heartfelt sympathies of the entire community are extended to the family in their bereavement.

FORECLOSURE FOR $42,613.29 ON WATER ST. PROPERTY

At the short calendar and motion list session of the superior court in New London Friday with Judge C. L. Avery presiding, foreclosure for $42,-613.29 was granted in favor of Mrs. Katherine Shannon and her daughter Mrs. Valerie Foran, both of New London, against Max Silberman of New York on the Olympic and Strand properties on Water street in this city. Attorney J. J. Desmond who appeared for the plaintiffs told the court that Silberman, who recently went into bankruptcy, bought the two properties for $55,000, paying $15,000 in cash and giving a note and mortgage for $40,000. Interest on the note, taxes and insurance on the property have not been paid for over a year. June 2, 1924, was set as the limit of redemption with subsequent dates for other making claims against the property.

Judge Avery denied a motion in the case of Hazel N. Knapp vs Frederick R. Knapp that the former defendant be held in contempt for his failure to comply with an order of this court in respect to the payment of alimony.

In the case of Arthur E. Andrews of Norwich vs Puritan Maid Bread Co. of this city, the court denied a motion for permission to file preferred claim of John Olaff, Jr. In the same case the court directed that orders be entered for sale of personal property, and for allowances of $15 each to George Fullerton and Ward C. Allen as appraisers, $10 to Stanton K. Briggs for auctioneers fee, and $500 each for the receiver and the receiver's attorney.

Waldo L. Miner of New London, was confirmed as permanent receiver of the C. M. Shay Fertilizer Co.

Judgment for default for failure to plead was entered in Julia Saunders vs Edward L. Ernst.

Foreclosure in the sum of $1,559.50 was granted in Ralph H. Bailey of Groton vs Joseph Arsenault and judgment for $240 damages on the second count in the suit. The property is in Groton.

PLAINFIELD WINS SWIMMING MEET FROM NORWICH BY SOLITARY POINT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Mar. 21.—Plainfield had revenge on Norwich here tonight when the Plainfield swimming team nosed out the Norwich Y. M. C. A. team by a single point, the tally being 30 to 29. The meet was thrilling to say the least, the lead seesawing between the two teams and it was not until the finish of the final event that the victor could be determined. Plainfield was represented by Greene, Leo Vincent, Lee, Peterson and Harry Vincent while the Norwich team was composed of Kundig, Ely, Fellows, McNamara, Hendricks and Wyman.

Greene was easily the star of the meet, taking four first places and one second. Kundig starred for Norwich, capturing two first places, two seconds and a third. The last event, the 100 yard dash, was especially exciting since the score just before it was 28-24 in favor of Norwich. This final event won the meet for Plainfield, however, Greene taking first and Leo Vincent, third as against the second place for Kundig. The result of the events were as follows:

Relay race, won by Plainfield, Peterson, Lee, Greene and Leo Vincent, the Norwich team was Kundig, Hendricks, McNamara and Fellows.

Plunge for distance, Ely of Norwich, second; Leo of Plainfield, third.

Forty yard dash, Greene, Plainfield, first; McNamara, Norwich, second; Fellows, Norwich, third.

Fancy diving, Greene, Plainfield, first; McNamara, Norwich, second; Kundig, Norwich, third.

Forty yard breast stroke, Kundig, Norwich, first, Henry Vincent, Plainfield, second; Hendricks, Norwich, third.

Forty yard back stroke, Greene, Plainfield first; Kundig, Norwich, second; McNamara, Norwich, third.

100 yard swim, Greene, Plainfield, first; Kundig, Norwich, second, Leo Vincent, Plainfield, third.

MUCH INTEREST IN COMING BOWLING TOURNEY

The interest in the Eastern Connecticut Bowling championship is increasing as the first matches approach. From Danielson comes the report that the bowling fans of the Quinebaug valley are willing to stake their last bit of change on Barber to take the title while Norwich and Taftville feel the same about their representatives, Fillmore and Dugas. The first games of the tournament will be played on Monday evening with Dugas matching his skill against Mike Morin on the Taftville Alleys and Fillmore rolling McKenzie at the Aetna alleys. The tournament schedule is as follows:

March 24—Dugas vs. Morin at Taftville; McKenzie vs. Fillmore at Norwich.

March 27—Fillmore vs. McKenzie at Moosup; Morin vs. Dugas at Taftville.

March 31—McKenzie vs. Morin at Taftville; Barber vs. Fillmore at Norwich.

April 2—Morin vs. McKenzie at Moosup; Fillmore vs. Barber at Danielson.

April 7—McKenzie vs. Dugas at Taftville; Morin vs. Barber at Danielson.

April 10—Dugas vs. McKenzie at Moosup; Barber vs. Morin at Taftville.

April 14—Morin vs. Fillmore at Norwich; Barber vs. Dugas at Taftville.

April 17—Fillmore vs. Morin at Taftville; Dugas vs. Barber at Danielson.

April 21—McKenzie vs. Barber at Danielson; Fillmore vs. Dugas at Taftville.

April 24—Barber vs. McKenzie at Moosup; Dugas vs. Fillmore at Norwich.

The schedule is subject to change upon agreement of any of the two bowlers provided suitable cause can be shown why they can not comply with the dates.

GOOD SOCCER GAME AT NEW LONDON ON SUNDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 21—Eastern Connecticut will have a chance to see one of the best Soccer teams yet to be seen in this section of the state, when the New Bedford All-Stars, composed of the pick of the Industrial leagues in the Bay State City will oppose the New London Rangers at Caulkins Park Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Although soccer football has been inaugurated but recently in the whaling city, a team that is considered to be as good as any in the eastern secion of he state has been gotten together.

During the past season the Rangers have won 3 games and drawn 4. Four games are on the losing side of the ledger. The Rangers have scored 18 goals against 19 for their opponents. This team is considered by the followers of soccer football as the only soccer team in this section of the state that can give Westerly a good run for their money.

William Herrera, infielder, and Dick Humphries, a right-handed pitcher, have been added to the roster of the St. Joseph Western League Club. Both have joined the team at the Port Arthur, Tex., camp.

Another of the Barnes family is to get his chance in the big leagues. This one is Charles, 18-year old brother of Jess of the Boston Braves and Virgil of New York Giants. Brother Jess recommended him to Manager Bancroft of the Braves.

Frank Sullivan, famous catcher of the Boston College team has been signed to a Detroit contract, and will join the Tigers in their camp at Augusta. It is understood that Sullivan will be retained for the present season, come what may.

GOLDSTEIN TAKES BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE FROM LYNCH IN HARD FIGHT

New York, March 21.—Abe Goldstein won the world's bantamweight championship tonight from Joe Lynch in a one-sided fifteen round battle at Madison Square Garden. Goldstein gained the judges' verdict after decisively whipping his rival all the way in a title match between two veteran New Yorkers.

Lynch was dethroned after one of the sorriest exhibitions a titleholder has given in a Metropolitan ring in years. He fought a sluggish, listless battle from start to finish. He was a mark for Goldstein's rapid-fire left jab and rocked repeatedly by the challenger's right crosses to the ribs and chin.

Goldstein, on the other hand, fought a heady, resourceful battle. At times he seemed slow to follow up his advantages but he successfully blocked most of the champion's rallies and kept up a relentless fire with his left. Lynch was unable to solve that constant jabbing and he did not seem to have the strength to keep up any sustained assault himself.

Goldstein had Lynch tottering in the second round with a smashing right hook to the jaw. It dazed the champion, but his generalship saved him. Again in the 12the, Goldstein had the titleholder shaky and drew a crimson stream from the latter's nose. At the finish, Lynch was a badly battered champion, while his conqueror showed no signs of battle.

Goldstein's triumph gained him without dispute the goal he had previously gained temporarily, in New York state, and more than evened the score for the knockout he sustained at Lynch's hands in 1919 before the latter ruled any flatic heights.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Next Week at United Congregational Church

Union services in the church auditorium, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at quarter of eight, addressed by Dr. Robert A. Spear, of New York.

The Sodalitas meets in the Church school rooms at quarter of eight on Monday evening, for lessons in basketry. Members are reminded the need of scissors, or pliers.

Union Mid-Week lectures on Bible and Pedagogy, given by Dr. M. A. Hoaline, of California, Friday evening, at half past seven, in the Central Baptist Church, instead of on Thursday as formerly.

An all day meeting of the Missions Department of the Guild will be held on Friday of this week, beginning at half past ten in the morning. Surgical dressings and children's garments are to be made for a hospital in South Carolina. At noon, the Haviland Class will serve a cafeteria lunch. The afternoon's program will give information of our work in Japan, with Japanese pictures shown in the baloptican. All who are ready are urged to bring in their Talent Money returns, or gifts, at this time.

All young people of the Parish, Church School, Camp-Fire, Scouts, and Sodalitas are most cordially invited to a supper, to be given at the Community House, at half past six, on Saturday evening, this to be followed by an address by Dr. M. A. Hoaline, of California.

Piano Recital

The piano recital to be given by Mrs. Edwin Lapham in Mrs Charles W. Gale's home under the auspices of the Norwich Music Association on Monday afternoon, March 31st, is a bit unique for Norwich in two respects.

First, being given in one of the Norwich homes there will be a charm and intimacy quite impossible to effect at a recital in a concert hall, where there is always a very appreciable wall separating the artist from the audience. At this recital Mrs. Lapham will be one of Mrs. Gale's guests as will be every other ticket holder—establishing at once an atmosphere quite at variance with that in which recitals are ordinarily given.

Second, Mrs. Lapham's unusual experience in Chicago musical circles and particularly her long association with Madam Homer both at her home and on concert tour, will give to her own personality and to her playing as well just a touch that will be different and not without its appeal to the imagination.

Altogether, this recital gives promise of offering to those in attendance a very delightful musical experience.

SUCCESSFUL SUPPER BY UNIVERSALIST LADIES

Over 200 people attended the supper served Friday evening by the ladies of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, enjoying a delightful menu. The hall was prettily decorated and color scheme being representative of spring. The waitresses being dressed in white and wearing caps and sashes of yellow. Vases of white and yellow daffodils were placed at each tables.

The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, crown of lamb, mashed potatoes, green peas, egg salad, apple whip, salted peanuts, coffee.

During and following the supper a fine musical program was furnished by Ladd's Serenaders who played in their usual entertaining manner.

Workmen's Compensation

Mr. Hoxie who has been in Hawaii for the past year is expected to sail May 20th for home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

While few of us can satisfy our longing to try the stage, we can all "take it apart and see what makes it tick" by witnessing "Chastity." Katherine MacDonald's new picture for First National, opening at the Palace theatre for four days beginning Sunday.

A serious attempt has been made in this latest product of "The American Beauty" to answer faithfully and dramatically, the many questions about the theatre that have intrigued popular fancy without ever being satisfactorily explained.

Are actresses different from other people? Is it true that, to be successful, an actress must have "lived"?

These points and many more are taken up in the story of Norma O'Neill, who was told that, to be a great actress she must first have "been the world."

Norma O'Neill is played by Katherine MacDonald, whose many followers will be glad to hear that the part offers the star not only an opportunity to be beautiful, and wear gorgeous costumes, but to play a new personality, radiate and full of feeling.

An unusually good production is assured by the name of the director, Victor Schertsinger, and this remarkable cast: Huntley Gordon, Edythe Chapman, Gordon Russell, Gunnis Davis, Lew Mason and Frederick Truesdell.

The second big feature: "Crooked Alley," originally titled "The Daughter of Crooked Alley, adapted from Jack Boyle's story showing at this theatre, portrays the life of picturesque characters of San Francisco's underworld. That is quite sufficient reason for expecting something entertaining, for Frank Norris, Jack London and other writers besides Boyle made great successes of writing what they saw on the Barbary coast and South of the Slot.

San Francisco's underworld is like that of no other city, because San Francisco's population is and always has been composed of all nationalities which drifted in from the corners of the earth.

Robert F. Hill directed the motion picture version of "Crooked Alley" from a continuity by Adrian Johnson.

Other short subjects are on the program.

Broadway Theatre.

With his European sense of drama and technique in filming a screen story, and the American studio facilities for picture making, Victor Seastrom has made of his first production for Goldwyn, "Name the Man!" from Sir Hall Caine's novel, "The Master of Man," one of the finest pictures yet made. It will be the attraction at the Broadway theatre for Sunday night only and then will be at the Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story is essentially a drama, and Seastrom, in the opinion of critics has kept the spirit of the original story, and added to it that touch of sadness and drama for which his Swedish pictures are noted.

Conrad Nagle plays the role of the youthful Deemster, with Mae Busch in the part of Bessie Collister, about whom most of the story centers. Patsy Ruth Miller, Creighton Hale, Hobart Bosworth, DeWitt C. Jennings and Evelyn Selbie have other important parts in the large supporting cast.

The settings in which the drama is enacted, are all the quaint villages and century-old stone castles of the tiny Isle. Castle Rushen, largest structive on the island, was duplicated at the Goldwyn studios for the picture.

A very spectacular scene is shown as the angry citizens of the Isle gather before the Castle Rushen and demand that the man who helped Bessie Collister to escape on the eve of her executian, be found and punished. More than a thousand extras were used in the big scenes. The climax comes when the youthful Deemster, played by Conrad Nagel, appears before the crowd and confesses that he was the guilty man.

As the crowd is about to attack him, a troupe of calvary gallops down the street and up to the castle gates. The crowd seperates but one child is left in the street, too frightened to run. The Deemster rushes in front of the horses to save the child, and thus wins the respect of the crowd.

BROADWAY THEATRE

William A. Brady's big musical success "Up She Goes," will be the attraction at the Broadway Theatre one night, Monday, March 24.

The engagement here follows its triumphs in Boston, which in turn, was preceded by its run of an entire season in New York at The Playhouse.

No musical comedy can achieve such success unless it has what the public wants. And what the public demands in a musical comedy are certain essentials: flaming youth, that touch of romance that has in it some of the fleeting beauty of a superb sunset; melic, rhythmic music that can be danced to, sung and whistled, and that touch of sentiment that is perhaps the more enjoyable because it hovers around for a time and disappears.

The cast is with few exceptions the New York cast, still being headed by Nancy Welford and including Marguerite Farrell, John Barker, Frederick Graham and Fannie Rice.

The story deals with a young couple who want to build a home, get married and settle down. This were an easy thing of itself to do perhaps, but friends and relatived over eager with advice make the way difficult. Incidentally, "Up She Goes" proves Mr. Brady's theory that a musical comedy can be successful yet clean and wholesome.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

JORDAN AUTOMOBILES

"Automobiles are no longer sold fundamentally on their mechanical features," says Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company.

"The automobile industry is becoming a business of designing and building bodies.

"People are interested in the appearance of their cars, the comfort the silence and the good taste that they reflect."

These are the points that salesmen are talking today rather than the mechanical features or the price, according to Jordan.

Cars used to be sold by men who knew nothing but mechanics and who talked speed and hill-climbing ability almost exclusively.

That was before the days when most motor cars were bought by women.

Today when a man walks into a salesroom he is attracted by the game of the car, provided he has been impressed with the character of service rendered by that car.

Buying a motor car today has become also, largely a matter of social progress, and the woman of the family has become the chief factor in its purchase.

There are four family factors that enter into the purchase of every article for family use—including the car.

Father thinks in terms of economy, mother thinks of her children's opportunity, daughter thinks of social prestige, and a happy marriage, son thinks of travel speed, get-up-and-go.

Jordan believes that more motor car manufacturers should consider these four fundamental things in the designing and merchandising of their products.

BREED THEATRE

One of the most worthwhile screen offerings of the year is Goldwyn's Emmett Flynn production of F. Marion Crawford's novel, in the Palace of The King, say all the advance reports from its showings in other cities. It will be seen at the Breed theatre Sun., Mon., Tues. and Wed. with one of the most notable casts of the season. Blanche Sweet and Edmund Lowe play the two lovers. Sam de Grasse, Hobart Bosworth, Aileen Pringle, Pauline Starke, Wm. Gregory, William V Mong, Lucien Littlefield, Charles Clary and many others have important roles.

The story of Crawford's novel is well known; it has been read by hundreds of thousands and seen in play form by countless others. King Philip II of Spain opposes the marriage of his brother, Don John, to Dolores, daughter of one of his generals. He sends Don John to suppress an uprising among the Moors, hoping his brother will never return for he is jealous of his popularity. The King has decreed that Don John shall marry an English Princess. His brother returns victorious and is stabbed by the King in a jealous quarrel. Dolores' father assumes the guilt and, to save his life, Dolores, who had been hidden in her lover's rooms, confronts the King and threatens him into pardoning her father. Don John recovers and the King consents to his marriage to Dolores.

This compelling love story has been told with vigor, dramatic fire, colorful sets and costumes and with all of Emmett Flynn's fine feeling for human drama amid picturesque and spectacular surroundings. It is one of the big pictures of the year from every point of view. The photography is a thing of beauty; the production on a magnificent scale, direction and acting all that could be desired.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and a comedy.

Lillian Gish in The White Sister will be shown for the last time today. To those who are regular movie fans we say "Don't Miss It." To those who are not regulars, we hold this picture up as a shining example of the accomplishments of the screen, and unhesitatingly recommend that they see it. Continuous show today from 1:00 to 10:30 P. M.

The Elshuco Trio.

Next Monday evening one of the finest chamber music organizations now before the public is coming to New London for the final concert in the college series, and Bulkeley Auditorium where the concert is to be given is ideal in size for just this kind of music.

Chamber Music is the name applied to all that class of music which is specially fitted for performance in a small concert room, as distinguished from dramatic music, or ecclesiastical music, or such other kinds as require many performers and large spaces for large volumes of sound. In our day it is quite generally considered the finest and highest development of the art. It is the essence of pure music and must stand or fall on the music itself and the execution thereof. Performances must be perfect, for there are no masses of color from masses of instruments to hide defects. The pure line is there and no deviation from it can be concealed.

William Kroll, violin, William Willeke, 'cello, and Aurelio Giorni, piano, each a master player on his instrument make up The Elshuco Trio, an organization which gives unalloyed delight wherever it appears.

Sale of the Well Known Hubbard Property.

Archa W. Colt has sold for the estate of Frederick L. Osgood the real estate situation at No. 24 Sachem street, consisting of a colonial type house with large lot. This property was for many years the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hubbard and family. The new owner, Gurdon L. Huntington, will occupy it for his residence.

German Lutheran Church

There will be a meeting of the confirmation class of the First Evangelical Lutheran church, Wednesday evening at the parsonage. Thursday night at 7.45 o'clock there will be a Lenten service and Friday night at 7.30 there will be a meeting of the church choir. Saturday morning German school and religious instruction in the church parlors. Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be confirmation instruction.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

EVERYONE CAN LEARN SOMETHING FROM HIS NEIGHBOR

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY TO 1924

Now that you're here, please stay a while;
For certain undiscovered reasons
Of late it seems to be the style
For years to hurry 'round the seasons.

They drop in on us in the dawn
And while we eagerly endeavor
To get acquainted, they are gone—
Forever.

They didn't hurry from the stare
So fast in childhood, I remember;
It used to seem a very age
From January to December.
Long months we yearned for swimming time,
And weary autumns we spent waiting
For winter's frosty tingling clime.
And skating.

But now they tarry but a space;
The shadows of the past enfold them
As toward oblivion they race
So fast that memory cannot hold them.
The snowdrifts melt; the spring is here;
The bees are in the summer clover,
The fruit is garnered—and the year
Is over.

So, now you're here, we beg you stay;
Pray do not be a formal caller
And, all too soon be on your way.
Our store of years is growing smaller.
Let May time flowers be forgot
Before December's snow flake's flurry,
All, all we ask of you is not To hurry!

By James J. Montague.

MARCH

March is muddy, March is windy
March is cold and raw.
That's all true but let me tell you
Somethings that I saw.

Yesterday upon a willow
Soft gray catkins swelling,
Mottled hood and bold skunk cabbage
In the swamp-lands dwelling.

Though bare boughs a glimpse of brightness,
Robin on the wing.
March may have unpleasant weather
But it hints of spring.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

ABIGAIL: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

FRITZIE: Card sent as requested.

RURAL AUNTY: By some mistake the signature on your last letter was incorrectly printed as Rural Delivery.

Mary 'Gusta: Cards sent as requested.

Roberta: Letter sent as requested.

Kitty Lou: Cards sent as directed.

Whirlwind: Cards forwarded as indicated.

GREETINGS FROM ELIZABETH HENRY

Dear Sisters of the Corner: I want to thank all the sisters who so kindly sent in the words of the Snowbird song I wished to get. I also want to thank Theoda for the card she sent me because I am a "shut-in". It is the first one I have ever received from the sisters.

Theoda: I lived in that place when I was a girl.

One of the sisters asked about using saccharin. I knew that you can make very nice cup custards and sweeten to taste. They are very good the day they are made, but the next day, they are better. Saccharin is said to be five hundred times sweeter than sugar.

Some time since Rural Aunty wrote.

Grandma Gray: Why don't you write. I may not be correct. I thought I knew her. And if I did, she passed to the higher life last winter. I thought I should see something about her in the corner, and has hoped every week for it, but have found nothing. I have known her since I was a little girl.

I wish the best things to come to all the sisters.

ELIZABETH HENRY

DOUGHNUTS AND LEMON CUSTARD PIE.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: I have been a reader of your interesting and helpful letters for some time and feel that I should not avail myself of all the good things I find in them without trying to return the favor in some way. I have sent some of the sisters and have been invited to join so if the editor thinks I'll do I will try to do my bit.

Iola is surely right about the doughnuts. They are tricky; there is no better word to call it. I have an old recipe that is as sure as any which I think new beginners can manage.

Doughnuts: One cup sugar, two eggs, one level teaspoon nutmeg, one level teaspoon salt, one cup sour skimmed milk, one teaspoon soda and about three cups sifted flour, or enough for stiff dough. I always try a piece of the dough in the fat and if it needs more flour knead the dough a little more, as there is so much difference in flour it is hard to tell. I usually put a piece of dry bread in my fat and when it browns nicely I know the fat is ready. Pure lard is best and a pinch of ginger in the fat is a help. I will give a recipe for lemon pie.

Lemon custard pie: 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons flour, stir together, juice of 1 lemon and pinch of salt, in a separate dish beat the yolks of 2 eggs, 1 cup milk; add this to the first mixture and turn into crust. Then stir lightly in the beaten whites of eggs. Bake as a custard pie. I am afraid I have taken too much space for a new beginner so with best wishes to the Social Corner, I will call myself

ABIGAIL, (April 23)

THRIFT IS USING, NOT SAVING

Dear Social Corner Friends: Some time ago a Corner sister wrote that thrift is using, not saving. One day soon afterward, I was cleaning a storeroom and came upon a small box which I opened and found it contained two sets of artificial teeth. Why save them longer, I thought, but just how could I make use of them. I remembered having seen advertisements in papers offering money for them. I consulted my dentist and he suggested my taking them to a jeweler as they contained platinum. I did so and the jeweler sent them away for me and in due time handed me nearly three dollars. I felt quite pleased and patting myself on the back said to myself, "So far, so good. Eveline Burr, now look about and see what next." Not long after this the goodman was looking over the contents of his strong box I espied a badly tarnished coin that looked as though it might have been a contemporary of King Tut. It was of silver with the fleur de lis of France, larger than our half dollars and with the date 1759. I suggested finding out whether it might be rare and therefore in demand by collectors and so I entered a field quite new to me—that of numismatics. I was directed to a man who knew how to find out the value of my coin and he told me to return in a week for news. I came home much elated and began planning on how to spend my wealth to be. Perhaps I should be able to swap our old car for a 1924 sedan or have a radio installed, or at the very least have a brand new Easter hat. Well the day came at last for me to get my report which proved a veritable Waterloo. It was fortunate that I hadn't ordered any of the things aforementioned. The poor old coin isn't rare at all. There are more of them than collectors looking for them. It is worth only 75 cents. Isn't it fortunate that our spinal vertebrae are so well padded with cartilage? Otherwise we never could endure the jolts of life. I have suggested to the goodman that he add a codicil to his will bequeathing the coin to the Social Corner which, I trust, will go on forever and perhaps by 2200 there will be less of these coins and more collectors and the Corner will win out. I can't help wishing the coin could speak and tell us of its adventures since 1759. No doubt it would be a thrilling story. It may have been in France during the reign of terror. Perhaps it rested in the pocket of some nobleman when his head fell beneath the guillotine. or maybe it had already crossed the Atlantic, perhaps in the pocket of the gallant Lafayette. Who can tell? Poor old coin! I do wish you could speak and tell us all about it. At any rate you shall not be sold for 75 cents.

Theoda: I enjoyed your letter so much and have put it in my scrap book. I have often wondered if any member had that first Corner Page. My best wishes to all. May we continue to grow in numbers and in helpfulness.

Has some sister the words of the poem, The Baffled Angel? A friend wishes them.

EVELINE BURR.

STORM CAUSED DISAPPOINTMENT

Dear Cornerites: I did not write last week because I thought there would be a lot much more sensible letters in the page than I could write and I would leave my space to some one else and sure enough the Corner was full including some new ones we were glad to welcome and also old ones that we were glad to hear from. I'm feeling blue tonight as we heard today of two old friends having been killed outright last night when their auto was struck by a train. Oh, we never know when we go away from home how we will go back. These friends have left three children to mourn their loss, old enough to mourn their loss, old enough to care for themselves in a way, but we are never too old to need our parents' love and counsel. The sympathy of the whole community is with the children so suddenly bereft of their parents.

Black Eyed Susie says she has little chicks. That is nice and hope she will have the best of luck. We have bought all of ours this year so far and expect fifteen hundred to be here by the time this letter is printed so there will be lots of work for some of us. I don't do much about caring for them except go look at them real often. Do stop when you go by, you will be very welcome.

Free Air, Bug, Rural Aunty and myself had made all plans to go to Willimantic last week Wednesday, but of course, my kind of weather was on hand, only worse than usual this time, and it was a long way and bad roads. But we hope for better luck next time. We also hope to get to Norwich in April. My sewing is pretty well caught up, even all those dreadful stockings are mended and we are going to get through before it becomes very warm. I don't like to clean then. It takes the life all out of me when it gets warm. If I couldn't clean house before May or June I should never clean. I had much rather be out doors all I can when the nice days come. Today I used up my last squash and made nine pies. It's some job to make so many but all the folks said they tasted better then ever, so I felt repaid. Best wishes to all the Corner. As ever,

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

A TRIED RECIPE FOR DOUGHNUTS

Dear Social Corner Friends: It is quite a long time since I have written to the Corner. So I will say, Hello, everybody!. I was much disappointed in not being able to attend the anniversary meeting but could not make connections. I guess there were a great many disappointed ones on account of the storm, but I was glad so many braved the storm. What grand letters we do have. Not many old writers, but the news ones do help out. So many new ideas! I tried the creased shoes, but "nothing doing," cramps just the same.

Now I want to thank you for all the cards and letters I received from the Corner sisters—over one hundred cards and letters—and like Brave I traveled many lines with them. I didn't know I had so many friends. It is nice to be remembered. Am getting along nicely, do a good part of the housework now and I guess Mister Selinda is very glad for her does not like housework. He says he has been doctor, nurse and housemaid and now I am trying to make a dressmaker of him, and wonders what I am going to do next.

Iola: I used to sing that song when I went to school. I wonder if any of the sisters ever heard the hymn, the first two lines of which went like this:

On the banks beyond the stream,
Where the flowers are ever green.

Perhaps Breeze would know. I would like to see it in print. I do hope I'll be able to attend the next meeting, but those stairs. I am not much on writing but on talking I am right at home with the best of them. I will send a tried and true receipt of doughnuts.

Doughnuts: 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, scant teaspoon soda dissolved in cup of milk, flour with teaspoon of cream of tartar. Mix not very stiff. Fry in hot fat. Turn only once.

With best wishes for the Corner.

SELINDA.

SUNSHINE WITHIN, IF NOT WITHOUT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I write to tell you how much I enjoyed the meeting of Club No. 1 the 12th since I had not been able to meet with them for months. I was in hopes we were to have a fine day like Sunday the 9th, so the sisters could come from the other clubs. We as well as they, were disappointed, but we find the weather is one thing we cannot govern no matter how much we would like to. The hostess did everything to make it pleasant for all, and to look at the cheerful faces of all, one would think the sun was shining outside very brightly. The table for the guests was a pleasure to look upon, with the decorations and good things to eat and it was reserved until after the two o'clock trolley came in hoping more would brave the elements and show up. But we had one Brave with us that all were glad to see. It was surely good for our eyes. Hope it was not too much for her and that she will be at the next meeting. We were sorry to hear the orchestra got stuck in the snow and mud and had so hard a time getting out they were glad to return and stay there. Let us hope that will not happen again. We missed them very much. Today is St. Patrick's day and he is surely getting in with plenty of wind. I am wondering if Lonesome Pine is celebrating by dancing. I do not think she is but she is mourning the loss of a doll which got mislaid in some way. Hope some of the sisters may be able to give her some information in regards to it, as it is one of a set and she feels sorry to lose it.

I am glad one of the sisters, in her letter of last Saturday, spoke of a shower of cards for Don Pedro. She has not been able to leave her room in four months and when one is shut in like that they sure do enjoy reading them over and getting the names of the sisters. Her address is Miss Mary Beebe, 29 Masonic Street, New London. She is not able to write but a friend will write for her and tell us how many cards she received. Where are you Nannie Lou? Do write a few lines and tell us how you are. We miss you.

Wrinkle: Should 'old' acquaintance be forgot? Best wishes for the editor and sisters.

AMY

BAKED CANDY.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It makes me feel a little ashamed of myself to think I have been such a slacker. So many times I have thought of writing and then it won't slip my mind when I got through my work, so I could. I see Martha's call for all to try and write if only a few lines for the anniversary season. I do enjoy the nice recipes.

Dew Kist: Your hot milk cake was very nice. Will try it over and over again.

Hope I can't tell you just how much I loved your red catsup recipe. It was the best I ever tasted. I tried your way of letting it stand over night and tried to dip the water off, but couldn't get much so I drained it through a cloth and it only took a few minutes then to cook it and it was nice and thick and so red. I just love it on raw oysters.

Farmer's Daughter: Do excuse me for not thanking you sooner for the ladyfingers recipe, but guess I haven't written since. There is another recipe that is much easier than that one I would like to get very much. They are rolled out and call for two eggs, I think. They are just about the same as those bought.

I'm sending in two very nice recipes for baked candy which I hope some will try, very easy to make and very nice.

Peanut Candy: The whites of 2 eggs beaten stiff, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup peanuts that have been put through the meat grinder. Butter a dripping pan, then take a spoon and dip in water and spread thin all over pan. Bake in a very slow oven thirty minutes.

Baked Kisses: Whites of two eggs beaten stiff, then 3-4 cup sugar, a little at a time beaten in the eggs. Don't put all in at once for it will make the eggs soft. Flavor with almond. Put waxed paper on large dripping pan and take a teaspoonful at a time which will make about 24. Bake 30 minutes in very slow oven.

GREETINGS FROM DOM PEDRO

Dear Corner Sisters: Once more I will try to write a few lines to the dear old Corner. My private secretary has been on her job again but did not have time today. My hand is rather shaky but I'll see what I can do. I took a very severe cold that put me in bed about three weeks, four days of which I took no nourishment but water. This second sickness was entirely different from the first. But I am up and around my room and can wait on myself and go out in the hall, but am not allowed to go down stairs yet.

That cyclamen which Calla Lily sent me from Club No. 2 is quite a bloomer. It had a beautiful lot of buds when it came, and after those bloomed another set came but some of those blasted for I was taken sick about that time and it didn't have the treatment I had given it. But there is a beautiful flower on it and I think more are coming and about a dozen new leaves. The foliage is lovely and has kept nice and green. It has been beautiful all the time.

My hand gets so tired I'll have to stop. I am glad to see the Corner page so well filled every week and hope it will continue.

Happy greetings to all who are interested in the Corner.

DOM PEDRO (March 23.)

CREDIT BELONGED TO RURAL AUNTY

Dear Social Corner Friends: There are many surprises as we drift along life's journey and the latest I have noticed was in the Social Corner page of the past week under the heading, Suggests Meeting at Moosup. The printer must have got things somewhat mixed up as I do not live in Moosup, have not been visiting in Norwich, have made no promise to secure a hall for said meetings, do not understand piecing bed quilts and house cleaning and patchwork are not in our line of business. While there was no harm done I did not write the letter and the one who did has not got the credit for the good suggestions.

RURAL DELIVERY.

SOCIAL CORNER FRIENDS ON OUTING

Dear Social Corner Friends: Listen, I have an aeroplane. It's Primrose. She said I could look for her next by plane. The Last Rose of Summer will be with her, for the Jewett has gone to Florida and they cannot travel by auto. May B that Twice Twenty will be with them for Iae that she has relatives living near me. While flying over look for the Rainbow that Rosesta saw and Don't Worry for you will get plenty of Fresh Air on your way. Be careful not to get into a Whirlwind.

SATURDAY EVE.

CRANBERRY PIE.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Have we not had nice weather this winter? I have not had a hard cold and have been busy making dresses and coats and making tatting to trim curtains.

My husband says he feels the best when he is well. He told me of an item he read where two women met. One said, "Mrs. Murphy, how is your husband?" She replied: 'He has enjoyed poor health the past month, but this morning complained of feeling better."

Cranberry Pie: One cup cranberries, one-half cup raisins chopped, one cup sugar, one of hot water and one spoon of flour. Try it.

MIG.

WHERE THE WINTER'S STORMS HAVE BEEN FELT.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As I could not attend the anniversary meeting in the Buckingham I'll write a few lines that you may know I am thinking of you all and am very glad you had such an enjoyable gathering as reported in The Bulletin.

I wrote a letter to the Corner during the holidays wishing all a happy New York—but I found the letter today in my desk. By some mistake it did not get mailed, but I have the same wishes for you all now that I had then—health, happiness and prosperity for you all and although late I will thank the sisters, Paula, Theoda, Remember Me, Blue Baby, Kitty Lou, Delilah Deal and maybe some other who sent me Christmas cards and later birthday cards. Also the members who sent the very pretty calendar which I keep on the desk and enjoy looking over. A few days ago a Social Corner sister called me on the phone and asked me if I knew who sent the calendars and I told her my idea was that our kind editor sent them. Long may he live and prosper. He must be a very patient man to keep a roll call of so many writers. I had 29 cards and booklets and it seemed very pleasant to be remembered. We have had such lovely weather, many were saying spring had surely come and they had heard blue birds—but they changed their tune when the blizzard came Tuesday and Wednesday making a very lonesome time for us shutins. With the phone and radio out of commission and the mail carrier not able to make his rounds we missed our daily papers and magazines. Hubby and I in mine were getting pretty blue, but today (Thursday) the sun has shone and that cheers us and our mail has come in. Also we have the best of neighbors to call on us. The snow is drifted badly and it will be some time before the roads will be in good condition again. A terrible accident happened not far from us yesterday which makes us feel as though our petty trials are not worth mentioning. A heavily loaded truck which was clearing snow from the state road went through a bridge. The bridge, truck and men all went down together. One man was drowned and two others got broken legs and day's work. I pity them all.

I am glad the sisters find time to write such interesting letters to the Corner and fill it to overflowing. I enjoy it every Saturday morning and use many of the cooking recipes which I find to be good.

I wish some of the city sisters could have been out here in the country during the ice storm of several weeks ago. It was beautiful beyond description—everything loaded with ice and the sun shining on them. It lasted nearly a week with branches of the trees bent to the ground. We did not need to go to Canada to see ice castles. We receive cards from our friends in Florida and I tell hubby, "Florida for us next winter." I have 20 pots of plants I have kept through all the cold weather and enjoyed them.

I have pieced two bed quilts and made tatting some and hope to do quite a little sewing before house cleaning time comes. I think it is a good deal of work to keep two wood fires going night and day. Perhaps I am making my letter too long, so with best wishes to all will close.

GRANDMA GRAY.

DIANA PLEASED WITH BOX

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Our Corner has had its birthday and now we must start on a new year, we should not be, but let our interest for the Corner increase.

I wish to thank Club No. 1 for the sample of goodies which you sent me. I thank you all for your kindness in sending it to me.

As usual of course you had a fine time at your social meeting. I thought of you on that day and also when I received the goodies and I thought how very nice the tables must have looked and because of the samples I had, I know how nice and good they were.

To the sick and shut - ins I would say renew your courage for March is over half gone. Surely March behave lamb-like the first twelve days. Since then the lion has come forward and it has been cold, snowy and blustering. But in two weeks more a change must come and before we realize it April will be here and someone will be showing us May buds. To those who sorrow for loved ones gone keep yourselves and your minds occupied creating new interests and in making others happy.

We still have a large amount of snow on the ground which I hope will disappear very soon.

Again I thank you for the box
Best wishes.

DIANA.

GOOD TIME AT ANNIVERSARY.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Oh! where, Oh! where were you Salinda? I had my jaws lubricated in fine shape, but it was a bad day for all to get out. Still we had about 55 and a very good time. The dinner was just great with the pretty ice cream to top off on, and the fine sponge cake.

Say, Wandering Jew, I guess you got the recipe on that, what say? It tasted like more.

Aunty and Brave: Don't you think I was lucky to get that kiss, too?

Practical Polly and Wee Wee: You surely will get shorter skirts to do that stunt in. Still that was fine and ought to take the cake. Was sorry not to see more from Club No. 2 as I expected to see so many, but had a wonderful visit with Necia, Olive, Jennie and Priscilla had good courage to come from Hartford, also Till We Meet Again from Groton. Must be the cares of their newly wedded life kept Neighbor Everybody and Busy Bee home. It must be hard to live so far apart. What say Neighbor Eveready?

Olga and Lonesome Pine surely did their part to entertain and it was good. How is the weight, Olga? also Betty with her preaching. For a woman who has been as sick as she has it was good.

In closing will say all ready for the next good time.

EFFIE M.

RECALLS VISIT TO MAINE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I have been absent from the Circle this long time but trust you will still give me room. As for myself I can write nothing of interest but I want the sisters to know I read every one of their letters and appreciate all their household hints and recipes and refer to them more often than to my cookbook. I noticed the recipe for bran muffins went in recently. I am proud of the fact that the one who sent it in and myself are closely related.

I would like to become better acquainted with Balsam Fir, the sister in Maine. Her letters interest me. Twenty years ago I went to Chair-back mountain and Katahdin Iron Works for a short visit but had such a good time, and as each season came, each one more beautiful, my visit was extended to nearly a year. It is something I hope I shall never forget. Even the name of the lake and river I thought so pretty Silver Lake and Pleasant river. On the way up the mountain we passed Old Camp Comfort and other sporting camps—and such going! It was impossible to ride in the buck-board but the guide and Old Dobbin knew the trail so my uncle and myself followed, puffing and panting until we reached the summit of Old Chair-back or Saddle-back (either name is correct). I went in October and came back to Connecticut in June. Nothing suited me better than biking through the woods, snow chasing to winter, and when the lovely different flowers came I loved to search and see how many different kinds I could find. The large wood violets were my favorites. The wild lady's - slippers were lovely too. There were many others, the names of which have slipped my mind. I brought back with me a pillow made of pine needles and still have it. Of course the odor is not as strong as when gathered but there is enough left to remind me of the wonderful time I had while way down in Maine. The trip was instructive as well as a pleasure.

Stranger-in-the- City: Thanks for package. Will make use of contents. Small son started for school this morning being absent for a week with a cold. It seems to be the fashion around here. Yes, I intend to send to New Jersey again for R. I. chicks.

Ethelynn: I made the eggless, milkless, and butterless cake and had fine luck.

Old winter hates to yield and give room for merry springtime but I know she is on her way because my daughter has brought me a bunch of pussy willows.

Heres good luck to the Corner on St. Patrick's day in the morning.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

USING SUET

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: The old saying is, 'Winter never rots in the sky." I think has come true. I think I must have forgotten the blizzard of long ago in March, but have heard it said that if Easter comes late it usually means a late spring.

Am glad Winnie had good luck with her cakes. I find that there is a difference in flour; some swells more than others, but I use pastry flour for cake. If you make it of bread flour it requires more shortening. I heard some say they couldn't make doughnuts from pastry flour and one woman tells me that she never makes any unless she has a little suet grease to put in, for she thinks then they don't soak fat so much.

I used suet a great many ways in war time when everything was so high. I try it out the same as lard. The scraps I don't cook so hard but if they have a little grease in them I put them in a spider with two onions sliced and take four large potatoes, peel and slice and put over the onions with water enough to cover and let it cook down. Pork can be used the same way. I like either with warm sweetened johnnycakes.

Just Me: I am so glad to hear from you, and such a nice long letter, too. Have you heard from New Jersey folks lately? Mother is quite well this winter for her.

Crimson Rambler: I couldn't make out much about that puzzle. Haven't seen any brother much lately. He is in class A of the tournament, but he doesn't have quite the chance that two others do for they go to Boston and Providence and see the best players. That puzzles must have been taken from a book.

When greasing tins or bread pans it is nice to cut pieces of paper that come around bread into squares. I use the white part, it saves washing your fingers so much.

I have been wondering if North Dakota is frozen in this winter. She wrote some interesting letters.

Hope Twice Twenty's cold is better and was glad to see a letter from Bee True.

Here is a recipe in which suet is used. Take one half cup molasses, one half cup water, a teaspoon of soda dissolved, a little salt, one and one half cups flour, half a cup of suet cut fine and stir it with the flour. Spice if anyone likes. Steam for an hour and eat warm with butter.

ROSALIND

PEANUT BUTTER FUDGE—MEATLESS MINCE PIES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope I am not writing again too soon. But I suppose if I renew my membership, I should add my bit occasionally.

Breeze: Your card received. Many thanks for it. Your writing looked very familiar. You see you are no stranger. "Your folks and our folks have often passed the time of day." Perhaps some of your neighbors will bring you to see us sometime when it comes pleasant weather.

Francis: Was interested to see your recipe for chocolate fudge. That is my favorite recipe for making chocolate fudge. Perhaps you would like to try my recipe for peanut butter fudge. I always have good luck with it, and everyone says it is delicious.

Peanut Butter Fudge: 2 cups granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, 1-2 cup milk. Boil these ingredients just five minutes. Take from the fire and beat until creamy. Then pour into buttered pans, and when cool mark into squares.

Another recipe which some of the sisters may like to try is a recipe for mince pie meat—and it can't be told from the real mince meat.

Mince Pie Meat (without any meat): 2 cups chopped raisins, 1-2 cup molasses, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, little salt, 1 cup sweet milk. Heat all together to the boiling point. Remove from stove and when the pies are filled, put bits of butter on top, and also a light grating of nutmeg. This makes two pies.

Hope some of the sisters will try this as it is very good, and much more economical than the real mince pies.

Best wishes.

GWAISSA

TO MAKE ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS LOOK LIKE NEW

Dear Social Corner: Aniline inks are very good dying stuff for flowers. They seem to contain some matter that stiffens the flower petals slightly. Dilute the ink with water and dip the flowers in as many times as is necessary, drying after each time, until the desired shade is obtained. Separate the petals with a hatpin, that each may be colored.

Common red ink diluted with water gives a neat shrimp pink, and faded chrysanthemums are lovely when renewed by this method. They should be lightly shaken from time to time when drying to keep the fluffiness of the flower.

Ordinary purple ink may be used for violets that have grown too pale. Not an unpleasant occupation for spare half hours.

KITTY LOU.

WHERE THERE ARE NO CLOSETS

Dear Editors and Corner Writers: I have seen a new use for two old canvas curtains. They had been two or three times turned upside down and cleaned and, after a racking prolonged study, cleaned again and brushed each side with cedar oil. Each end was cut off a little and they were made into two bags with seams outside so one could rub at times with cedar oil the woolen blankets, shawls, furs and other things kept in them. There is a flap turned over at the top which could be kept closed by using two kettle menders on the flap and one on the bag and tying a string about these.

I am trying these as I have no clothes closets.

J. E. T. (March 21.)

FAVORS IDEA OF MOOSUP MEETING

Dear Corner Sisters: How are you all after the hard storm? It was dreadful. I sat up all night, the house shook, the lights were out and I got so worked up I didn't know what would happen. The roads are getting cleared of snow and traveling will soon be all right again. What awful accidents have happened the past few days. My sympathy goes out to all those in sorrow because of loved ones taken from them so suddenly.

I enjoyed the letters from the sisters last week. I think as Rural Delivery (signature should have been Rural Aunty) does that we could meet in Moosup. I should like to attend. Hope it can be planned for in the near future. I have sent a card to Dom Pedro and hope she is feeling better.

Zerviah: I tried your recipe for brown bread. It was lovely.

I would like to ask the sisters if they know of a tried and true remedy for the removal of warts on the hand.

The best way I know to wash men's or children's stockings is to soak them in cold water for an hour or more. They then will be very easy to clean.

I wish we might hear some thing about headache, its cause and cure, if there is any cure. A friend of mine always gets a bad headache when out in the sun.

I too have found many uses for flour sacks. I used some for bedquilt linings after dying them. Some I made into covers for mattresses and some for underclothes. My children were combinations made from the finer ones until King, Jr., said please don't make my C. D. D. E meaning B. V. D. out of bags any more, the boys call me walking flour bag. I still use them but not for clothing any more. The children are nearly grown now. King, Jr. until he was eleven, years of age never had other then home made clothes. His suits were made by me from cloth remnants bought from a woolen mill. His overcoats were some King, Sr. cast off and they were easy to make. I enjoyed the work very much though some times the button holes were hard to master.

We have had about all the kinds of birds there are this winter. We hung suet in the large tree near our house and oh how the birds do enjoy it. They got real hungry at one time.

I should like a recipe for cream pie. Why can't the whites of some eggs be beaten to a stiff froth? I have some trouble in beating the whites of eggs. My letter is far too long but I should like to send a little poem for the sisters to read. I think it quite nice. Hoping all the sick ones are on the gain and that we will remember to thank our Heavenly Father for all His kindness in caring for us and that we have been spared to each other. With best wishes to all the Social Corner sisters and brothers.

KINGSTON BROWN

HARD TRIP, BUT WORTH IT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Was so sorry not to be able to attend the meeting in Willimantic March 12, but the storm of the day before made the roads too bad for me to attempt such a long drive. Whirlwind and I left Norwich March 5th at 8 o'clock thinking we would get home before dark. The road between Norwich and Colchester was very bad and when we got to Marlboro we had a soft tire. After having that fixed we started again and between East Hampton and Portland we struck an awful bad spot. When we came out of it we had two flat tires—one cut and the other a blow out. Just as I started to fix one of them a couple of young men in a truck came along and I smilingly asked them to help me which they did. One of them looked at the yellow bow I had on the front of the car and said, "Oh, I remember seeing that yellow bow this morning." We started again and when we got into Middletown, Whirlwind telephoned home we were safe and on the way—but late. As we came from Middletown to Meriden the fog was thick. I could hardly see to drive and there was a terrible fire not far from the road which made it look as though the fog was blood-red. We reached Whirlwind's at 7:15. I had tea with her, rested awhile and then went up home. We were both pretty tired but after all we decided we had such a delightful time it was worth it.

Rose Lee: We were so disappointed not to be with you on your anniversary for you had promised us a good time and a good feed. We'll try and be with No. 1 next month if the weather permits.

Olga: We are looking forward to going to Club No. 2 with you at least once this summer. I sure did enjoy being with you at dinner.

Free Air: As we are the same age I hope to see you again before long. We ought to meet at one of the meetings in May just to shake hands and congratulate each other. My hubby wants to know if there is any time during the summer when the Social Corner Sisters can bring their husbands. He did not know but perhaps at one of the picnics the men folks would plan to come too. He and Mr. Whirlwind would certainly come with us if it is permissible.

I think the sisters have done fine all the year about writing the Corner, for all but one week the page has been filled to overflowing.

Ma of Greene Gables: I see by the paper you came to Norwich with Tree Air. Why, Oh Why, didn't I see you? I have wanted so much to do so. Next time you go and you hear Foxglove is there please make yourself known to me.

I have Dorothy Jane yellow bow all washed and ironed ready for next month. I want people to know where Whirlwind and I are headed for. (Dorothy Jane is what I call my sedan.) Do hope there will be an account of the anniversary at Willimantic in this week's paper as I am very anxious to know what you did. Hoping to see you next month I am yours with best wishes for the editor and Corner.

FOXGLOVE, (MAY 10.)

ANOTHER LOVER OF THE WOODS

Dear Social Corner People: As Pedestrian has asked the nature lovers to write I will try to respond.

Every year I grow more fond of the fields and pastures and woods. These places give me real rest and joy and peace. In the last year I have walked many miles and Pedestrian is not the only one who loves the woods in winter.

I go quite often and visit all my favorite spots. The trees seem like friends to me. One can always find something new or discover a different view and so I believe walking is an ideal recreation.

Hoping we will hear from others who feel at home in the woods.

Best wishes to all.

HEPATICA.

BEGGING FOR A SEAT IN THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I hope I am not too late to become one on your list. I know quite a few of the Corner sisters and also have been to several of the meetings so I really feel as if I am one already without asking but I do enjoy reading the letters and hope I will be admitted to the merry-go-round.

Salome: Saw your interesting letter in a while ago and was glad to hear that you were all well. How are Saville and Pocahontas. Hope things are going well in Reid & Hughes. Would like to be there after a new record some long lunch hour.

Stranger-in-the-City: Heard you were in New London. The city seems to agree with you. Hope to see you at some of the meetings.

Scottie: Have you been down city lately? Would like to see you. Heard you were going to write. Hope your ink hasn't frozen this cold weather.

I see where one of the sisters asked for all new writers to put there birthdate down beside their pen names so I will do so hoping these few lines won't be thrown in the waste basket. As a new writer I will send in a new name.

MAH JONG. (Dec. 3.)

WAYS TO USE EGGS

Dear Corner Sisters: You made a pretty good guess, Winnie, about that egg, but not quite right. I'll tell you what I think may be the answer if you will come close so I can whisper. You know it is supposed that at midnight the roosters are all supposed to lay eggs. The reason that these eggs are never found is because old old witch comes in and gobbles them up as soon as they are laid. Now, please don't tell anyone I told you for with this crossing of shoes, chainless letters and what not superstitious things going about we'll be likely to start another "Salem witchcraft and that would never do. Of course it was extra dark one night so the witch didn't see this particular egg or else she got frightened away before it was laid.

A. Corn: A friend of mine had a corn that was so bad she was unable to wear her shoes at all and she sent for some remedy to Engler's pharmacy, Norwich, and they sent her a greenish liquid preparation they put up themselves. It cured her corn right away. She has lost the name of it but no doubt they would know.

Here are a few ways to use eggs:

Stuffed Eggs: For six hard boiled eggs take 1 cup of finely chopped cooked meat, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-4 cup sweet cream. Season to taste. Cut eggs in halves and mix the yolks to a smooth paste with melted butter, add meat and seasoning and cream gradually as it may not all be needed. Stuff the eggs with this mixture, press together and roll in eggs and breadcrumbs. Fry in hot fat.

Stuffed Eggs No. 2: Slice hard boiled eggs lengthwise. Mash yolks with butter, salt, pepper and mustard for seasoning. Roll into balls and place back in halves of white. Serve with lettuce.

Hasty Omelet: Beat 3 eggs till fluffy, add a tablespoon milk to each egg. Have ready a hot frying pan well buttered. Pour in the eggs and as they cook around the edge gently lift to allow the middle to break under so none will get too brown. When nearly done fold 1-2 over the other and serve hot, sometimes just before folding add a spoonful of currant jelly or apple sauce or orange, banana, or canned corn is nice for a change.

Poached Eggs: Put in small frying pan piece of butter half size of an egg. Break into this 2 or 3 eggs. With a silver fork break the yolks. Cook till nearly done then tear in shreds and serve.

Scrambled Eggs: Butter the pan and beat 3 eggs thoroughly with 2 tablespoons of cream or milk, add salt a bit of pepper, stirring constantly till done. Instead of frying your eggs try hot oven.

baking them in the buttered tin in a

Eggs a la Goldenrod: Soft-boiled eggs (not too soft.) The whites cut round in rings carefully laid on toast and yolks forced through a potato ricer over them both is as nice as it is pretty. Make nice dry toast, beat the whites of eggs to stiff froth, add pinch of salt. Put this on each slice of toast. Drop the yolk in the center and bake in a quick oven. Eggs are fine baked on top of fish cakes, browned potatoes or rice croquettes.

Dropped Eggs: Boiling water in pan to depth of two inches. Place skimmer in the pan. Now drop the eggs carefully in the water but do not boil so hard they will tear at the edges. By aid of the skimmer they can be carefully lifted out and placed on your toast or crackers.

Escalloped Eggs: Six hard boiled eggs chopped fine, 1 cup ham or corned beef chopped, 1 cup cracker crumbs. Moisten cracker crumbs with 1-4 cup melted butter, 2 cups scalded milk (not boiled.) When milk is scalded have ready 2 even teaspoons of butter and 2 of flour thoroughly mixed and free from lumps. Pour the milk gradually into the thickening. Stir till smooth and season with salt. Take 1-3 of the cracker crumbs and cover with 1-2 the egg and 1-2 of the sauce, 1-2 of the meat. Repeat and put remainder of crumbs on top. Bake in hot oven about five minutes.

Egg Rolls: Two eggs well beaten, 1 small cup milk, 1 teaspoon melted butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder, enough flour to make stiff biscuit, little salt. Bake in hot oven.

Have numerous other ways to use up eggs but guess I've taken up enough space. Please let me know if you find any of these a help.

DON'T WORRY.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY'S GREETINGS

Dear Social Corner Folks: We have had anniversary week and to one and all I extend good wishes and to our editor grateful appreciation, for giving us a page, whereby we receive so much valuable information on all subjects and good cheer. Wasn't it delightful today amidst the wind and snow, to have my neighbor deliver a cheerful word from Balsam Fir, and last week one blew in from Whirlwind. Each week brings some new bit of cheer from our Corner members which is a delight. Let me say things cook to the king's and queen's taste made in the aluminum double-boiler, and sweet Corner thoughts are renewed in its use every few days. It sure was such a nice useful gift. Hubby was home last week and he thought it was fine.

Father has fully recovered, and until snow reappeared he was out of doors much. As for me, I had laryngitis last week. Spose it was for a change so as my voice could rest, as that's the only time it is still. You know the old saying, "A woman is bad off, when she can't talk." I can for once say, "Yes."

Ask Busy Bee. She couldn't tell who was who by my voice, when inquiring about mother.

Sis Hopkins: Glad to know you came forth, and like little Georgie told the truth about Mary France together, any way let me say none of you will ever be forgotten if I live to be old enought to tell fairy tales that originated in Coventry to my grandchildren.

Another needed correction—Use 1 cup of butter, or 1-2 cup of drippings, instead of a pint as the cookie re-

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

A half century ago the City of Norwich offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person setting fire to any building in Norwich. This was due to the many small fires which had given the local firemen plenty of useless runs during the winter.

Other items of interest taken in part from the Bulletin of 1874 are as follows:

Monday, March 16, 1874—Yesterday a letter from the Rev. Mr. Dana tendering the resignation of his pastorate of the Second church was read by the Rev. Dr. Stors who occupied the pulpit in the absence of the pastor. Since the impending division of both church and society this action has been anticipated. Mr. Dana's pastorate extends over 9 years making him senor pastor in the city, and in town being ranked only by the Rev. Stanton of Greeneville.

Ledyard Lodge, Knights of Pythias have started a literary newspaper which has gained a wide circulation among its members in this section of the state.

The platform at the C. B. Rogers & Co's shop elevator fell in Saturday under the weight of a heavy planer and the machine, which weighs 8,100 fell to the ground and was damaged to some extent.

Robins and bluebirds are beginning to be seen in numbers around Norwich, a sure sign of the arrival of spring.

At the meeting of Norwich Typorraphical union held Saturday William H. Hovey was elected president, D. T. Roath, financial secretary; A. S. Curr---- recording secretary; Charles A. Burdick, treasurer.

Tuesday, March 17, 1874—In pursuance of the resolutions passed at the meeting of the Court of Common Council held on the 16th instant, I hereby request that business be suspended, and that all places of business be closed from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock this afternoon. signed, James Lloyd Greene, mayor. This was the tribute paid by Norwich to the memory of a hero son, Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman, whose funeral was to take place that afternoon.

People ---- seeing the bright ---- in the sky last evening will be anxious to learn what caused it. The glare was caused by the burning of Bunce & Cheney's extensive paper mills in South Manchester. No particulars of the fire have been received.

The city bells were tolled yesterday in honor of Senator Sumner. Colored organizations in Norwich after receiving word of the death of Sumner passed resolutions and are to drape their houses and societies in honor of this great man.

Wednesday, March 18, 1874—In the midst of a drizzling rain storm yesterday the obsequies of the late Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman were celebrated. The guard of honor from Sedwick Post, B. P. Learned, Stephen Meech, S. T. C. Merwin, Charles M. Coit, George W. Whittlesey and J. H. Jewett, repaired to the residence of the late admiral on Church street and escarted the body to Christ church. There it laid in state from 12:30 o'clock until 1:30 o'clock watched over by the guard.

All through the day the flags of the city and of the shipping had been displayed at half mast, the bells were tolled, and from 2 until 4 o'clock all business places were closed. The service was in charge of Rev. W. W. Silvester, pastor of Trinity church and Rev. John Binny of Middletown. At the close of the servies which were attended by hundreds of relatives, friends, business acquaintances and naval officers and men, army officers and men, the casket was removed from the church by the following bearers, Col. F. L. Guenther, Frank Thorp, Dr. Hasson and J. Porter Loomis of New London, all naval officers, John F. Slater, LaFayette S. Foster, I. M. Buckingham and Frank Johnson.

The pall bearers were the Rev. Alvin Bond, the Rev. Hiram P. Arms, George L. Perkins, Daniel W. Coit, John T. Adams, John T. Wait, James B. Goddard and James L. Ripley.

The annual conclave of the grand commandery of Knights Templar of the state of Connecticut was held at the asylum of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., in this city Tuesday. At the election of officers the following from Norwich were elected; Sir Charles W. Carter, grand junior warden; Sir John W. Stedman, grand recorder.

The cars have once again began to stop at South Windham. This marks the first stops made since the smallpox excitement.

Thursday, March 19, 1874—Last evening while Rev. Norris G. Lippitt and wife were visiting with friends a carriage drove up to the door and the owner requested that Rev. Mr. Lippitt return home with him as a couple desired to be married. The return home was made and Rev. Mr. Lippitt found the congregation of Sachem street church and their friends. He was greeted, by Rufus M. Ladd, who in behalf of the church presented him a handsome black walnut book case. Before Rev. Mr. Lippitt had time to recover R. Wood presented him a ---- black walnut desk, a triboute from business friends in all a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A janitor in a local bank charged ---- with ---- a bottle of gin that was found hidden in a barrel in the bank denies owning the bottle and gives the following plausible reason for his stand, "It isn't mine, because this one has got gin left in it."

Bananas of the finest quality are disported in all local fruit stores.

Friday, March 20, 1874—Several Norwich veterans are to visit Worcester in April when Warren L. Goss is to speak before the soldiers of the Civil war who experienced the horrors of being held a prisoner at Andersonville.

The merchant who exchanged the bundle of oranges purchased last evening by a young man en route to a party is awaiting his return with anxiety. It seems that after the young man made his purchase another customer came in and made a purchase. The cerchant got the wrong burdle and the young fellow took a bundle of potatoes to his girl's party instead of oranges.

George H. Lillibridge, formerly of this city, now of the Capitol police at Washington, was in town yesterday. He was one of the escort to accompany the remains of Charles Sumner to Boston and stopped off on his way back to Washington, to visit with friends.

Saturday, March 21, 1874—The great ---- of the prohibition party was held yesterday at Breed hall the meeting being called to order by W. S. Gardner. There were representatives from all sections of the state and a number of lively speeches were made.

The horse car company of this city like other similar companies has been presented with a demand for better horse cars for their patrons. Whether Norwich people will get the new horse cars is a question, but it is hoped the company will arrange to give service.

The stone work on the wharf of the Northern road at New London, has been started and will be rushed to completion.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetuck lodge, No. 17, was held Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows hall on Main street with Noble Grand Walter Kelley in the chair. Routine business was transacted after which the entertainment committee announced that a one-act farce comedy would be presented next Tuesday evening at the regular session of the lodge. It was also announced that no special invitations would be sent out to other lodges of Odd Fellows, or the Rebekahs but a general invitation was extended to them to be present.

The cast of characters for the play will be as follows; Mr. Puff (the dentist), Edward Kinney; Julius, (in search of a position), Mr. Lanoie; Katie, (Lady Clare Ver De Ver of Zigfield's Follies); Hiram Pumpkin; (with ---- mouth and big teeth), J. J. Parsons; Mike O'Galligan, Myron Ladd; Hans Donnerwitter, A. H. Perry.

Following the show dancing is to be enjoyed from 9:30 until 11 o'clock music to be furnished by a local orchestra. Interest is running high among the show people and it is expected that many members of the lodge will be present to enjoy the farce. As an extra inducement, Dr. Puff will demonstrate pulling teeth by use of his "tear 'em out" speedy tooth extracting machine.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

Members of the Veterans of Foreign wars in more than 1,200 posts throughout the United States, Philippines, China, Hawaii, Canal Zone, France, and even in far away Capetown, South Africa will sell poppies on Memorial day to serve a two fold purpose; as a visible sign of honor to our dead and a means of financially assisting disabled, former service men. Col. Louis M. Fellowe, chairman of the 1924 V. F. W. Poppy committee, declared: "The campaign conducted annually by the Veterans of Foreign wars has now become an established custom, and it certainly looks as though the veterans' dream to see a poppy placed in the buttonhole of every American on Memorial day, would this year be realized.

"The poppies used by the V. F. W." Col. Fellows further declared, "Are being manufactured by disabled veterans of the World war, in a clean, well-ventilated factory in Pittsburg, Pa. These men are of the class termed non-feasible for any training by the Veterans' Bureau at Washington, and were employed by the V. F. W. only when all other agencies of the government had admitted that they were hopeless cases. They are well-compensated for their labor, and under the watchful eye of Veterans Bureau officials, representatives of welfare organizations and others interested in the problems of the nation's disabled men, are showing great progress and seem to be rapidly forgetting the horrors of war."

RED MEN

At the regular meeting of Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, held Wednesday evening at Steiner hall on Main street Sachem George Farrell presided. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. Three applications from palefaces were received for action.

Announcement was made that the membership drive which ends on April 24th is running smoothly and Sachem Farrell in addressing the tribe urged them to go out and work even harder than in the past, as Norwich shall not be outclassed by tribes in other cities.

A feature of the evening came when Brother Daniel Deane presented the tribe a set of War Clubs which are to be used for degree work. Brother Deane also notified the tribe that he was prepared to present them two tepees which may be used for degree work, one presentation to take place at the next meeting of the tribe.

REBEKAHS

With an attendance of sixty the regular meeting of Hope Rebekah Lodge, No. 21, I. O. O., F., was held Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows hall, Noble Grand Mrs. Mary Adams in the chair.

Considerable routine business was transacted and plans were discussed relative to suppers and socials to be held by the lodge during the coming months.

Delegates to the assembly of Rebekahs to be held at Willimantic on April 16th were elected as follows: Mrs. Ora Spencer, Mrs. Bertha Collins, Mrs. Ada Revell and Mrs. Mary Green. The assembly meets with Violet Rebekah Lodge, No. 57, of Willimantic and it is expected that business of importance will come up for discussion.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The routine business and various committee work of Mercier Assembly, No. 12, is being carried on and all members of the assembly are interested in all that is going on.

The members are anxiously looking forward to the next meeting which will be a social one, with Miss Rose Dennis of the social committee in charge. These events are always welcome as is evidenced by the big attendance.

The drill team is practicing and promises to be second to none when the drill is put on in the very near future.

Members are showing their appreciation of the work of the house committee by spending much time in the re-decorated rooms enjoying the artistic arrangements and have none but words of praise to offer.

Applications for membership are continually being made and Mercier assembly continues to grow.

EAGLES.

The regular meeting of Norwich Nest, No. 147, was held Monday evening at Eagles' hall with President Edward J. Mullins in the chair. Arrangements were made for a large class initiation to take place on April 18th. State officers are to attend the meeting and final plans will be made for the state convention of the order be held in Norwich in June.

The committee in charge of the ---- initiation will be as follows: William R. Hastedt, Timothy Fields, Alfred Steinke, R. A. Krohe and Stanley Zurambo.

HADASSAH.

Real music, good dancing and a sociable crowd caused the verdict of success to be rendered by those who attended the sixth annual masquerade ball of the Norwich chapter of Hadassah, at Roseland, Wednesday evening. Originality in those who masked brought much applause when the grand march was announced. The prizes were awarded not only on the merit of the costumes but upon each who received the most applause. The outstanding feature of those masked was S. Taylor, whose eccentric work and original disguise proved a real surprise to all when the masks were ordered removed. He had the Will Rogers' tramp actions to perfection. He received first prize. The others whose disguises were a credit to their individual ability and who received the prizes of the evening were: Miss Leah Siegal, girl in pink grey dress, Mrs. G. Herman and Mrs. Miller, bride and groom Miss A. Sudinsky and A. Siegal, colored couple, Miss B. Yalen, the crown girl and Miss Addelstone, Egyptian girl.

The work of the chapter of Hadassah is well known throughout the world, this charitable organization growing in a few years from a small group of sincere workers to an army of hundreds of thousands, can proudly boast of their achievements. Their work is consecrated to the new homeland in Palestine, completely supporting the medical units there.

The success of the ball was due to the untiring efforts of the committee which is composed of the following: Mrs. George Kaplan, chairman; Mrs. R. Alexander, Mrs. R. S. Taylor, Mrs. A. Levine Mrs. L. Beckenstein, Mrs. S. Herman, Mrs J. Lahn, Mrs. N. Rosenberg, Mrs. Sussler, Miss Lowenberger, Mrs. M. Levine.

EASTERN STAR

Sachem Chapter, No. 57, had work in initiation at its last regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall and the evening closed with refreshments served during the social hour.

The meeting next Wednesday promises to be one of interest to the membership as it will be the last meeting that the chapter will hold in Odd Fellows hall before changing to the Masonic temple. A supper is to precede the meeting and there will be a sale of fancy work. In April the chapter will begin to meet in the Masonic temple, keeping the second and fourth Wednesday's as its regular meeting nights.

A. O. H. LADIES' AUXILIARY.

The ---- class, Division 18, A. O. H., met at the home of Miss Nellie Gleason of Fourth street Thursday evening. Refreshments were served and every one enjoyed a pleasant evening.

The class will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. James Fox on Prospect street, Thursday evening, March 27th.

ODD FELLOWS.

At the meeting of Uncas lodge No. 11, held Monday night the second degree was worked in full form by Degree Master Frank M. Green and staff. Following the meeting a social was enjoyed.

Next Monday Uncas lodge will work the third degree in full form on a large class of candidates.

Bronze.

Bronze, the only tool-metal known to our ancestors of 8,000 years ago, was invented independently in the Near East and by the Peruvian Indians.

OPENING STYLE DAY REVEALS FASHION'S LINES

While the weather was not particularly favorable for the formal opening of the Spring Style Days in Norwich stores, nevertheless a good crowd got out for the event Friday.

As a matter of course, there was keen interest to get first-hand information regarding the newest fabrics, cuts, trimmings and colors of garments, also the latest ideas in modish accessories.

Suit, dresses, coats and capes in the big stocks of Spring apparel seem to be especially rich and elegant.

Leaders among coat materials are matlada, twill corda, crepe satin, Juina, velmata and a material called Kasha. Slender lines are aimed at more than ever, and the tuck, cording and plaits are made use of very effectively. Cape-back effects appear in many smart garments. Braiding and stitching have a prominent place.

Inserts of self-fabric figure prominently. As to colors, those already noted as liked best for hats are strong in garments also. Much fur trimming is still seen and, ---- able feature is made this season of proper summer furs.

Look over the elegant stocks today. Where to find the most pleasing is explained by The Bulletin's advertisers.

VOLUNTOWN

Lenten devotions were held at St. Thomas' church Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev. Ludovic Paradis, was the preacher.

Several young people from the village attended a dance at Pachaug Saturday evening.

Miss Marjorie Gahan of Norwich Free Academy with a party of schoolmates, spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Gahan.

Dupont; alternate, James F. Hall.

Wednesday a republican caucus was held in Union hall. William E. Kaufman was chosen chairman and Howard James clerk. Representative Emery Dupont and Howard E. James were elected delegates to the state convention. The following town commiktee was chosen: Chairman, John N. Lewis; vice chairman, Bertha B. Lewis, George R. Edmonds and William H. Kaufmann.

LEDYARD

Miss Nellie Geer, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. Ernest Smith of Franklin, has returned home.

Mrs. Fannie Clark was a recent visitor with her sister, Mrs. Hazel King, of Stonington.

Rev. G. F. Goodenough was a business caller in Hartford Tuesday.

Mrs. Arthur D. Barrett visited over the week-end with her husband in Worcester.

Miss Freda Goodenough of Smith college arrived at the parsonage on Wednesday evening to spend the Easter vacation with Rev. and Mrs. Goodenough.

Starboard.

The word starboard is probably derived from steer board, and became identified with the side of the ship to the right of a person at the steer board and facing the bow. The word larboard was used to designate the side to the left. This term has been superseded by the word port, in order to avoid the confusion caused by the similarity of names.

I Spent $100,000

To find these ways to youth and beauty

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. She went with me to search the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. They cost us a fortune and many years of time. But they made me a famous beauty. I became the rage. And now, they keep me a beauty still.

I have seen those same helps bring to many plain girls multiplied attractions. To some they brought careers of beauty. I have seen them bring to countless women decades of added youth. So now I have placed these matchless helps at every woman's call. And I am doing my best to urge women to employ them.

You need but four

I found 32 great beauty helps. But French experts combined them in four preparations. So these results came very easy to me.

One is a super-clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays you read about today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. It has been perfected by 30 years of scientific study. I call it my White Youth Clay. Before I found it, I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.

Clay is a beauty essential. It purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It creates a rosy glow. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It has brought to millions new complexions. But my White Youth Clay vastly excels the old types. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream

My Youth Cream combines products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best French experts know to foster the fine texture of the skin. I use it after the clay. Also as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. I am never without it. So whiten, soften, feed and smooth the skin. I have never known another cold cream to bring comparable results. My Youth Cream costs 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which does what nothing else can do. The greatest beauty experts now employ this formula, but they charge for it a price which few can pay.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the refuse, grime and dirt go with it. No other method cleans the skin like Facial Youth. The cost is 75c.

My wonderful hair

Millions of women envy my hair. It is thick, silky and luxuriant. I have never had dandruff or falling hair, never a touch of gray.

The reason lies in my Hair Youth. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. You will be amazed to see how hair thrives when the scalp is kept in shape.

My Hair Youth costs 50 cents and $1 with eye dropper. The results come quickly. I hope you will learn what it means to your hair.

To those four products I owe my beauty and my youth. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply them to all who want like results. For the sake of all you prize most, go learn what they can do. Edna Wallace Hopper, 530 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

POETRY

The Little Green Leaves

I never grow weary of watching their faces;
Betwixt uncle's I gather in sheaves
Viewing their momently shifting grimaces
Dappled shade making—the little green leaves.

No man, nor woman,
Could seem more human—
See them now laughing and chatting together
Of this and that; perchance of the weather
Which always interests them much,
For they dread the storm and love the breeze
That softly wanders amid the trees
With playful, loving touch.

There's something about them quite soul-refreshing
When vexed by cares my spirit grieves;
Cares, like tares, make weariful threshing—
But cheered am I by the little green leaves.

For merrily waving
With never a craving
For things they have not, they are happy to be Just as they are, and ask but to see
Other leaves happy as they—
And so they have taught me to be content
With the simple pleasures by Nature sent,
And laugh grim Care away.
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

Alfalfa Coming

Rain last night has left the field
Bare as though a goblin kept it,
Inch by inch the fellow kneeled
And picked it clean; and his wife swept it.

Tomorrow morning when I pass
A million particles will shine,
As if the sky had been of glass,
And had fallen, shattered fine.

But on the third day will appear,
Green between me and the sun,
Behind each clod a mouse's ear—
I shall go softly, lest they run.
—Mark Van Doren in Scribner's.

MISSING NEW LONDON GIRL FOUND WITH PENN. CIRCUS PERFORMERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 21—Marion Nostrand, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nostrand, of 5 Huntington street, who disappeared from her home a week ago, was located this morning at the residence of two circus performers, George and Lewis Barton at Coatesville, Pa., and will be returned to her parents late tonight or tomorrow. On the disappearance of the girl Mrs. Nostrand communicated with the New London police, stating that she believed the girl had gone away with a circus performer, who recently was one of a troupe that exhibited at the state armory. The route of the circus was obtained and this morning the Coatesville police found the girl at the home of the Bartons, apparently suffering from severe mental strain. Arrangements were immediately made for the girl's return home. Mrs. Nostrand has been confined to her bed several days because of nervous collapse caused by her daughter's disappearance.

Charles E. Rice, 43, of 476 Montauk avenue, a well known merchant, died at Lawrence hospital early this morning, following an operation a week ago for stomach trouble. Mr. Rice is survived by his widow. He was born in New London and had resided in this city his entire life and for about 15 years he had been identified with the wholesale confectionary business. He has not had sound health for some time and when his condition became serious last week an operation was deemed necessary.

The automobile owned and driven by Leon W. Rix, of 6 Truman street and a machine, owned and operated by James D. Sullivan of Groton, were in collision this morning, corner of Huntington and Federal streets. Both cars were damaged.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Cornelius Walker, 14 Blydenburg avenue, to be returned. The license was suspended last October when an automobile, operated by Walker, collided with a stone wall at Poquonoc, throwing William A. Bray, a passenger from the machine and causing injuries which resulted in the death of Bray three hours later.

Bernard Maguire of Attleboro, Mass., has communicated with the New London police, through his attorney, Philip Brady of Boston, for the purpose of determining, if possible, what money was possessed his brother, Patrick Maguire, of New York, who ended his life while en route from New York to this port on the New London line steamer Chester W. Chapin by jumping into the Sound on the night of Feb. 19th. It is the desire of the suicide's brother to ascertain what money Patrick Maguire had on his possession when he ended his life, as the extent of the dead man's savings in banking institutions. The New London police are holding a bank book belonging to Maguire, which was found among his effects and which shows deposits in a New York bank of nearly $2,000.

The automobile owned and driven by Charles Antis, of 10 Montauk avenue, was backed against the machine owned by Councilor Lucius E. Whiton on State street last night. The car of Mr. Whiton was damaged slightly.

The New London police have been requested by the Hartford authorities to be on the lookout for thieves who stole $600 worth of fur coats and neck-pieces at Providence, earlier in the week.

Mrs. Charles A. Pinney, wife of Captain of Police Pinney, is visiting relatives in Willimantic.

Miss Ida Cranston, of Montauk avenue, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, was able to return to her home today.

The New London police were requested last night to be on the alert for automobiles stolen earlier in the evening from Waterbury and New Haven. No signs of the stolen machines were found here.

The hearing of charges made by Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe through Captain Pinney, that Sergeant Charles Hammond was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer in drinking while on duty, scheduled to be held this morning at 11 o'clock in the municipal building, did not take place until 4 o'clock this afternoon, the postponement being made for the convenience of some members of the board of inquiry. The hearing was also in chambers, the board deciding this afternoon that the session should be secret.

With the conclusion of testimony it was announced that no decision would be reached until City Manager William A. Holt submits a recommendation to the board and it will then be for the board to approve or disapprove the recommendation. If the recommendation is approved Hammond will be disciplined one of three ways, suspension of 30 or 60 days, demotion or dismissal from the force. If the recommendation is disapproved Hammond will return to duty and will receive compensation for such time as he has been off duty because of the temporary suspension imposed on the officer by Captain Pinney.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Catton of School street are in New York and tomorrow will sail for England, where they will spend several weeks at Mr. Catton's former home.

In the police court this forenoon Oscar Hill of East New London and William Johnson of Quaker Hill were fined $5 for intoxication by Judge Victor Prince. Hill and Johnson were arrested yesterday afternoon when found helplessly drunk near the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad. Charles Pierce, claiming Hommestead, R. I., as his home, was charged with trespassing upon railroad property. He was allowed to get out of town. Pierce was arrested by Special Agent Fink of the Central Vermont railroad late yesterday when the officer detected Pierce loitering in the East New London railroad yard.

Mrs. William Grieve and infant son, of Westerly, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

U. S. S. Bushnell arrived in port during last night and will remain here a week of ten days. The Business convoyed several submarines to Hampton Roads that became disabled in the winter manoeuvers at Colon.

Mrs. Dolores Heller, of 114 East 25th street, New York, is a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from an acute attack of indigestion. Mrs. Heller was in a local drug store last night when stricken.

Mrs. Emma Beebe, wife of William L. Beebe, of Niantic, died today at Lawrence hospital, where she had been under treatment but a short time, although she had been in ill health about three months. Mrs. Beebe is survived by three sons, Louis and William O. Beebe of Niantic and Benjamin M. Beebe of New York; two daughters, Mrs. Ernest S. Decker of this city, and Miss Thelma Beebe of Niantic and by two brothers, Lewellyn Mack of Essex and Frank Mack of Detroit, Mich. A sister, Mrs. William Edwards of Deep River, also survives.

Thieves operated at the Y. M. C. A. again today and a considerable amount of plunder was obtained. The losers were Gerald Chester 23, and his brother, Frank, 19, who did not discover their loss until several hours after the theft was committed.

Frank Carpenter, arrested by the Springfield, Mass., police a fortnight ago for the theft of an automobile, and at which time had in his possession an automobile stolen from Lieut. L. E. Denfield, stationed at the submarine base, will be brought to New London within a few days and given a hearing in the police court charged with the theft of the Denfield car.

A hearing was conducted this morning in the council chamber, municipal building, by the compensation board for the purpose of giving property owners on Tilley street an opportunity to be heard in the matter of the proposed widening of that throughfare. At the meeting Frederick C. Burrows presided. The session was attended by Mrs. Mary Murphy, Mrs. Marie Fournier, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Kelley, Mrs. Mary McGarry, Mrs. Florence Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Rafferty, Solomon Ockoneff, Mrs. Mary Butleman, Mrs. Benjamin Shmusk, Mrs. Luke M. Morley, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Jerome, Patrick H. O'Brien, Abraham Bronstein and John Mulcahy.

The only objector of Sol Ockoneff who declared that the proposed change if carried into effect, would mean the removal of many shade trees and that children would be deprived of a playing space that they now enjoyed.

The board will submit to the city council at a meeting of that body, a report of the hearing today.

PLAINFIELD

The following committe met Friday evening at the Congregational parsonage to complete plans for the every-member canvass to be conducted Sunday afternoon: Cecil L. Butler, Charles F. Heap, William P. Barstow, Walter P. Lathrop, Charles A. Phillips, Clarence E. Winsor, Alfred Royle.

At a meeting of Plainfield grange Tuesday evening an address was heard from G. Warren Davis of Norwich on the subject of Standard Time.

A meeting of the town committee men of the Pure Bred Bull campaign was held in the grange hall at Plainfield Thursday afternoon. The meeting was arranged by President Peter Chabot of Wauregan. County Agent Frank C. Davis, who presided, introduced the following speakers who talked on What Certain Bulls Have Done to Advance the Different Breeds; M. C. Peabody of the New England Holstein Association, Springfield, Mass.; R. H. Holden, of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H.; W. A. Kyle, of the National Ayrshire Association, Brandon, Vt.; H. E. Stevenson, of the American Jersey Cattle Club, New York city; R. B. Percy, Livestock Improvement company, Worcester, Mass.; A. R. Merrill, dairy specialist, Storrs, Conn.

Several of these men, representing national Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Ayrshire associations, are in Windham county this week, helping with the pure bred bull campaign. Meetings similar to that in Plainfield have been held in the grange hall fair grounds, South Woodstock, Tuesday, in the grange hall at Abington, Wednesday, and at the new school house in Windham Center, on Friday.

Mrs. Arthur Moffitt spent her birthday, the 20th, with her mother, Mrs. Charles Crotsley, in Providence.

Mrs. Eliza Wilcox passed her 90th birthday, Wednesday, at the home of Percy Wilcox. Friends and neighbors called during the day with cake, flowers and candy, and a number of postcards were received.

Rudolph Swanson recently moved into his new house on the north side of Pleasant street.

Miss Althea Maples of Norwich is visiting Mrs. Henry Fontaine.

One of the most interesting and thrilling games of the season was played at the high school, Thursday evening, between the faculty of the high school and the town school committee. This game was somewhat of a novelty, but was certainly an exciting one. Johnson starred for the faculty, making eight of that team's twelve points. The general all-around floorwork of Principal Chapman was the feature of the games, hard luck only accounting for the fact that his sum of baskets was not greater. Gauthier, the janitor at the high school, distinguished himself by his fine guarding, while Neilsen and Sullivan played their usual fast game, which at times had the members of the opposing team completely baffled. For the school board, DeForge was undoubtedly the star, his plays showing up well on the background of a steady game by the rest of his team. J. Smith and D. Smith were also outstanding factors in their team's score of ten points. The playing of Maynard was excellent, while Connell distinguished himself by a beautiful shot from the opposite end of the hall. The final score was 12-10 in favor of the faculty. It was thought advisable by the faculty members to put in some substitutes, so the regular utility men—Dodd, Purdon, and Mahoney—were put into the game during the last quarter.

The second game of the inter-class series was played Friday afternoon, between the Juniors and Freshmen, resulting in a win for 1925, the score being 40-5. The Senior girls defeated the sophomore girls 38-15. Tuesday of next week the finals will be played, the Junior boys vs. the Senior boys, and the Junior girls vs. the Senior girls, for the championship.

The major sport at the Community House at present, is volley ball, a net being stretched in the auditorium. Many interesting matches have been played by the different departments of the mill.

A large crowd was at the auditorium of Plainfield Community House Thursday evening at the fashion display conducted by the Portsous' & Mitchell company of Norwich. All the latest designs in smart apparel were displayed by the models. Music was furnished by Krauss' orchestra. All the women who attended were most enthusiastic over the elegant designs shown.

One of the large elms located between the homes of Herman Chapman and Dr. Elmer Bennett was cut down recently. This tree was splintered by the blizzard a short time ago, and its felling was made imperative.

LEBANON

A social was held in the parlors of the First Congregational church Friday evening. A variety supper was served. Later a fine entertainment was given, consisting of music and recitations. Mrs. Richardson and son of Norwich were present. Mrs. Richardson sang several solos, accompanied at the piano by her son. Miss Rose Leyenthal recited in a very pleasing manner. $40.85 was added to the C. E. treasury.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield's subject for his sermon Sunday morning was The Baby's Tears. The text was Ex. 2, part of the sixth verse, "The baby wept." The subject for next Sunday is to be The Man Who Was Left Behind. Abraham Aspinall was the leader at the C. E. meeting.

At the First Congregational church Sunday evening a missionary pageant was given by a number of young ladies.

An all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held in the parlors of the First Congregational church on Tuesday.

Charles Lillie and family have returned from China and are staying with their brother, Fred Lillie, until they can get settled in their new home. Mr. Lillie has hired the farm owned by Lee Gardner.

The pruning demonstration held on the farm of E. J. Graham Tuesday was well attended.

Social Corner Club No. 3 met at the chapel of the Baptist church Wednesday with about 70 in attendance. A fine dinner of beans, salads, escalloped potato, meat loaf, pickles, rolls, cake, pie, doughnuts, cheese, oranges and coffee was provided. This was followed by two solos by Mrs. F. N. Taylor, a piano duet by Mrs. William Pultz and Mrs. Amos Lillie, two solos by Miss Blanche Smith of Franklin, a reading by Mrs. C. C. King and several humorous short clippings by different members.

The republican town caucus was held in the town hall Wednesday at 2 p. m., to elect delegates to the state convention in Hartford. The following were chosen: Charles Perkins, Edward McCall, Elmer Geer and Henry Briggs.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. James Choquette, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Choquette and son Vincent motored to Middletown. Sunday they all spent the day in Southington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Geer and daughter Myra were in Hartford on Wednesday. From there Mrs. Geer went to New York for two days' stay.

Alfred Wyman is in New York for two weeks.

A class in dressmaking under the leadership of Miss Mason, of Storrs, held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. J. R. Foster, Friday. Ten were present.

The Girl Crusaders met with Mrs. George L. Randall Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sweet and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Pitcher are visiting Mrs. Norman Drake, at Little Falls, N. Y.

B. F. York has returned to his home after spending several weeks with his daughter, Mrs. William Curry, in Springfield, Mass.

William Lillie of Norwich spent Sunday with his son, Fred Lillie.

Horse and Cow Peculiarities.

It is a peculiarity of the horse to arise on its forelegs first, while the cow first arises on its hind legs.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

OFF FOR TURNIP CITY

"Wake up, little bunny, it's six o'clock!
Ding-a-ling, ling, tick-tock, tock!"
Up hopped the little Jack Rabbit so quick
He changed the song into a "tinky-tick, tick!"

Wasn't that wonderful? Well, I guess yes.
And it took him not more than two minutes to dress.
A splendid example to those who are slow
And take half the morning to eat their H. O.

In a few minutes, Little Jack Rabbit had finished breakfast and was hopping over to Rabbitville to meet Uncle Dave Cory at the Lettuce Hotel.

"Now we are off for Turnip City where in the good old summer time the fairies sing and dance," laughed David Cory.

"And I'll introduce you to Uncle John Hare," cried the bunny boy.

Just then the Billy Goat Stage Coach stopped in front of Lettuce Hotel and the next minute Uncle Dave and the little rabbit were rolling down Lettuce Avenue.

Just as they reached Cabbage street, the Old Brown Horse galloped out of his stable.

"Stop, Oh stop, please take me, too. It's pleasant on the Avenue. I want to hear a rabbit story Is this your good friend, David Cory?"

"Pleased to meet you," said Uncle Dave to the Old Brown Horse, "we are going to Turnip City. I'm to talk at the Lettuce Opera House to the dear little rabbit children. Every little bunny boy and girl has a ticket. Dear Uncle Cory has been to that."

"Well, I'll come along with you. I'll give them all a ride for nothing," said the generous old horse. I'll jog along by the coach. Every time I see one of your books in a shop window I'll throw out my heels and whinny."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Little Jack Rabbit. "You remind me of my dear friend, the Circus Elephant. Only he trumpeted every time I took a lolly-pop out of my pocket. He had a sweet tooth you know, and when you have a sweet tooth, you don't like lemons!"

Just then, the Stage Coach came to the River Sippi where the ferry boats take you across to the other side. There in the slip floated the Billy Goat ferryboat. And in less time than I can take to tell it, the little rabbit hopped on the Old Brown Horse while David Cory bought the tickets. Then the whistle tooted:

"Get on board! No time to waste.
B-a-s-t-e spells haste.
Drop your tickets in the box,
And run your slippers off your sox."

And goodness me! How all the four-footed people hurried to get on board! As soon as the gates were closed and the gang plank lifted with a jingle, jingle, away went the Billy Goat Ferry Boat. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

GALES FERRY

Miss Natalie K. Gibbs entertained a sewing party at her home here Wednesday. Twenty were present, during the day, some attending for the afternoon only. The sun parlor of the house was greatly enjoyed for the sewing. Among those present were Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Mrs. Billings P. S. Crandall, Mrs. Joseph DeRuahk, Mrs. Delphine Eish, Mrs. Everett Noyes, Mrs. Henry W. Huributt, Mrs. R. Irving Huributt, Mrs. Carroll S. Huributt, Mrs. Lucy A. Huributt, Mrs. Charles A. Hoyt, Mrs. D. C. Perkins, Mrs. Gertrude B. Latimer, Mrs. Walter Clark, Mrs. Andrew P. Miller, Mrs. Allen S. Bush, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop and Misses Caroline B. Freeman, Susan Mathewson and Laura A. Perkins, all of the Ferry with Mrs. Edwin W. Jones of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham entertained at dinner, recently, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Oat and Mr. Harvey M. Briggs of Norwich with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Noyes of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Jones of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., purchased the past week from Charles Tyler Bard of Norwich, his summer cottage situated on the Bluff, here, and will occupy the cottage the coming season.

Miss Julia M. Chalnels has been engaged to take charge of the Plant-Cadman company's office in New London, entering on her duties there the past week. Miss Chalnels came to Gales Ferry about six months ago, with her mother, Mrs. Chalnels from Baldwin, L. I. Miss Chalnels had been in the employ of the Empire Trust company of New York for 11 years, previous to coming here.

Mrs. Charles A. Satterlee and daughter, Miss Alice Satterlee, returned Tuesday, from Jacksonville, Florida, where they have been spending some weeks and while away visited other points, among them Southern Pines, Savannah, and spent some time in Washington, D. C.

Ground has been broken this week on the Military Highway, south of the main street, as one enters the village, for a bungalow to be built for Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett.

CANTERBURY GREEN

A well attended meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Fred Stafford. No place for the next meeting has yet been appointed.

Those from here attending the funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance at Plainfield were Mrs. Hiram Elsner and Miss Elise Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. James Appley and Mr and Mrs. Fred Kinne and son Curtis of the Plain and Andrew Clarke of Hyde street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Appley and daughter Louise have been visiting this week at the Appley homestead.

The family of James Appley were in Packerville Thursday to attend the funeral of his uncle, Edwin Appley, whose body was brought there from Attawaugan. Out of town relatives present were Lyman Appley of Boston, Mrs. Katherine Appley of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Weaver and Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Colchester and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Appley and daughter.

William Miller died Thursday after a lingering illness, at his home south of the Green. His wife survives him.

At a recent meeting of the republican voters at the town hall, Leon Clark was appointed chairman of the town committee with Mrs. Lillian Frink vice chairman. Delegates to the state convention are: Mrs. Frink, Andrew Clark, Lemuel Carpenter and Herbert Williams.

MARKET GAINED STRENGTH.

New York, March 21.—Stock prices showed signs of recovery in today's relatively quiet session, bear traders apparently suspending their campaign for lower prices after having uncovering a number of weak spots during the morning trading. The improved tone displayed by the market during the afternoon was generally attributed to short covering. Strength of the high priced specialties was one of the features of the day's trading. Ingersoll Rand, trading in which is usually confined to odd lot transactions, jumped 27 points to 200, a record high, while Woolworth went into new high ground at 223, closing at 220 1-4 for a net gain of 4 1-2; Fisher body jumped 7 1-2 points to 223 1-2, a new top, and then slipped back to 221. Corn Products and National Lead closed at 178 and 144, respectively, the net gain being 3 points in each case.

U. S. Steel common, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, the so-called pivotal stocks, showed small fractional net gains. Motors were firm on short covering. Atlantic Refining was hammered down 6 points to 118, a new 1924 low, but the other oils showed a tendency to improve on reports of more favorable conditions in the oil industry.

Another flock of new low 1924 records were established during the session by such issues as American Sugar Refining, American Beet Sugar, Chandler Motors, Pressed Steel Car, Gulf States Steel and American Tobacco, the last named closing at 142 1-8 for a net loss of four points but most of the others making good recovery from the day's lows.

Reports that the interstate commerce commission might not approve the proposed lease of the Norfolk & Western to the Pennsylvania sent the former stock down nearly four points. Most of the other rails were firm, Lackawanna climbing more than 3 points to 120, the best price this year and a number of others gaining a point or more.

The further recovery of the French franc to a new 1924 high ground 5 1-4 cents featured the foreign exchange market. Other rates showed a firm tone.

Call money opened at 3 per cent and then dropped to 2 1-2. Bids for 30-day time money were reduced to 4 per cent but practically all of the business for short dates was done on a 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent basis six months loans commanding 4 3-4. Prime commercial paper was still on a 4 3-4 per cent basis.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 21.—Evidence of a more friendly feeling toward the buying side of the corn market becoms apparent in some quarters today but the resulting gains failed to hold. The close was steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c off, May 78 1-8 @1-4 to 78 1-4, with wheat unchanged to 1-4@3-8c lower, May 1.04 7-8 to 105 and July 1.06 1-4, oats unchanged to 1-8c down, and provisions ranging from 2c decline to a rise of 5c.

Firmness which prevailed in the corn market throughout the greater part of the day was based largely on reports showing widespread stormy weather and curtailment of receipts. Various prominent traders who recently have been sellers were said to have become nervous about their position, and to be leaning to the view that receipts of corn this week at primary points gave indications of a permanent let-up in the crop movement. Talk was also current that as soon as weather conditions permitted, farmers would make every effort to get into field work, and that rural deliveries of corn would drop almost to zero.

Wheat ruled easy on account of favorable crop conditions, especially in the southwest, and because of entire lack of export business. Nevertheless, sellers were cautious in view of recent sharp declines.

Delay to seeding gave relative firmness to oats.

Provisions were upheld by an advance of the hog market.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 21.—With the official rate on call money dropping to 2 1-2 per cent, the lowest rate since April, 1918, surplus funds continued to flow into the bond market today, bolstering up prices of high grade issues to new high levels.

U. S. government obligations, eagerly sought by banks as an outlet for their excess supplies of money, attained the highest figures of the year. Recording substantial gains for the day, the four active issues of Liberty 4 1-4s eclipsed yesterday's top quotations, while the treasury 4 1-4s, at 100.18, established a new high record.

A break of 3 3-4 points in Norfolk & Western convertible 6s, following weakness of the stock, was attributed to profit-taking based on reports that the contemplated lease to the Pennsylvania might fail to get interstate commerce commission approval and the statement of President Rea of the latter road that little progress so far had been made in negotiations.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 21.—Stock prices displayed an upward tendency in today's curb market but the volume of trading was relatively small, particularly in the industrial group.

Strength of Prairie Oil and Gas featured the so-called Standard Oil shares, that stock closing 4 1-2 points higher at 236. Most of the other shares in that group showed only fractional changes. A gain of 1 3-8 by Wilcox Oil and Gas featured the independent shares. Superior Oil company 7 per cent. Bonds jumped 3 points to 136, or 6 points above the initial transaction last week.

Chief activity in the industrial group centered in Dubilier Radio, which touched 25 1-2, a new low on the movement, and then rallied to 26 7-8, up 3-4 on the day. Radio corporation issues failed to respond to the large increase in earnings shown in the 1923 report published today. Durant rallied nearly 3 points from yesterday's low and Jordan improved fractionally.

MONEY.

New York, March 21.—Call money: easy; high 3; low 3 1-2; ruling rate 3; closing bid 2 1-2; offered at 3 3-4; last loan 3 1-2; call loans against acceptances 3 1-2; time loans; easy; mixed collateral, 60-90 days 4 1-2; 4-6 months 4 12@4 34; prime commercial paper 4 1-2@4 3-4.

METAL MARKET.

New York, March 21.—Copper quiet, electrolytic spot and futures 13 3-4@14. Tin easier, spot 56.00@56.25; futures 53.75. Iron steady, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot, 9.00. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby 6.50. Antimony, spot, 11.25.

COTTON.

New York, March 21.—Spot cotton quiet, middling 38.90.

— FOREWORD —

The black night in which she came to him for refuge is seared in the memory of the great Magistrate as he stands before the world to pass judgment on the girl-mother, whose lips he was the first to stain. But even as the verdict of guilty echoes through the court room, he plans to cheat the gallows of this child-mother. The power, the surging passion, the blood-red drama of hearts that yearn and hope and suffer are mingled here in a Photoplay that reaches the epitome of emotion.

WEATHER

Conditions

The coast storm was central Friday night some distance south of Cape Cod and advancing eastward. It has been attended by gales during the last 24 hours on the New England and the middle Atlantic coasts and rains and snows in the middle Atlantic states.

Temperatures continued near or slightly above normal during Friday along the northern border and below normal in all other parts of the country.

The outlook for the middle Atlantic and New England states is for generally cloudy weather without material change in temperature during Saturday and Sunday.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast at and north of Wilmington, N. C.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook—Strong north east gales over south portion, weather unsettled Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Strong north and gales, shifting to northwest; rain followed by clearing Saturday.

Forecast

Southern New England, eastern New York: cloudy Saturday and Sunday; no change in temperature.

Observations in Norwich

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

| | Ther. | Bar. |
|---|---|---|
| 7 a. m. | 36 | 29.70 |
| 12 m. | 40 | 29.80 |
| 6 p. m. | 38 | 29.80 |

Comparisons

Predictions for Friday: Snow and probably rain.

Friday's weather: Cloudy, northeasterly wind, clearing in evening, some cooler.

SUN, MOON AND TIDES

| Day | Rises a. m. | Sets p. m. | High Water a. m. | Moon Sets a. m. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 17 | 5.58 | 5.56 | 7.10 | 8.47 |

Six hours after high water it is low water, which is followed by flood tide.

TAFTVILLE

Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis presided at the Workers' Conference held Thursday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church. The resignation of Superintendent Fred Knowles was accepted with regret and the office will be filled by Assistant Superintendent Victor H. Davis, who consented to serve until the present constitution is revised. The committee elected to revise the constitution and by-laws were Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, Victor H. Davis, Earle M. Wood, Mrs. Eugene S. Monty and Miss Gertrude M. Young. Flowers will be supplied the church for the Easter service, as has been customary for many years. Protests New York Handling Charge

Manufacturers of Connecticut are at present compelled to pay a handling charge, from cars to ship, of 7 cents per hundred pounds on less than carload freight, and 54 cents per net ton on carload freight routed via the port of New York c|o Intercoastal Lines. This charge, which is collected at New York and Philadelphia, is absorbed by the steamship companies at most of the other important ports.

The traffic committee of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut has for some time protested this charge and has finally succeeded in securing a hearing. A large delegation headed by J. F. Atwater, chairman of the sub-committee on rates of the Traffic Committee of the State Association will represent Connecticut shippers at the hearing which is to be held in New York on March 24.

Will Hear Arguments

Judge C. L. Avery is to hear the arguments next Wednesday morning in the superior court at New London in the plaintiff's motion to set aside the verdict in the suit of Springfield Coach Works of Springfield, Mass, vs. Mrs. Mary J. Rogers of New London in which the jury found for the defendant.

DR. ROBERT E. SPEER TO SPEAK AT SERIES OF UNUSUAL MEETINGS HERE

DR. ROBERT E. SPEER

All the Protestant churches of Norwich and the local Young Men's Christian Association are uniting in a series of unusual meetings to be held at the United Congregational church, beginning Sunday evening, March 23, and running through Thursday, the 27th.

The management of the Y. M. C. A. is announcing that the noted religious leader, Dr. Robert E. Speer, of New York city has been secured to deliver the addresses at this series of meetings.

Dr. Speer is known all over America and in many other countries as a leader in religious thought; he has written several books which are eagerly sought, and is recognized as a speaker of unusual power. It is very unusual that a city the size of Norwich can secure a man of Dr. Speer's reputation, and the probability is that very large audiences will greet him; he is most popular at Northfield schools and college commencements.

These meetings are made possible because of the special endowment fund given to the local Y. M. C. A. by Miss M. Louise Stirtevant.

The public is welcome to all the services. Sunday the hour will be 7.30 o'clock, while on the other evenings the services will begin at 7.45 p. m.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME FOR ST. PATRICK'S SERVICE

REV. J. R. DANFORTH BEGINS NOON LENTEN SERIES

A fine audience of business men greeted Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of the First Church of Christ in New London, Friday, when he gave the first of a series of noon Lenten Talks at the Norwich Young Men's Christian Association. Promptly at 12 o'clock lunch was served and social fellowship was enjoyed. Promptly at 12.30 they assembled in the parlors; after the singing of the old hymn, "Majestic Sweetness Sits Enthroned," Rev. Charles H. Ricketts was called on to offer prayer by President J. C. Macpherson, after which Hugh Kinder rendered very impressively two verses of "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Mr. Macpherson reminded the men of the earnest desire of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. to contribute in every possible way to the spiritual interests of the men of the city, and to assist the churches in every possible way; he spoke of the appreciation felt by the management of the association toward Dr. Danforth for his willingness to conduct the second annual series of Lenten services. The topic of the talk was "Christ and Youth."

In introducing the series Dr. Danforth said that wherever a charged wire touches there is a flash. Wherever Christ touched there is an abiding light. On these five Fridays we shall see five touches of the Master. Today it is His touch on youth.

St. Anselm asked the question why God became man. We may ask the question why the Wonder Spirit of the ages did not enter a grown man rather than be born under the star of Bethlehem. Look at His life and we see. He was no failure, so the thing he did we know he intended to do. A bit unlike ourselves in that regard.

The perfection of the Master was not ready-made. He learned before He taught. He grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man. Only a child could do that. He was made perfect through suffering, and being tempted as we are he is able to help us.

We were boys once, though our children sometimes doubt it, we show so few signs of it. Now Christ did not forget it. He carried with Him ever the spirit of youth, so that the little children wanted to come to Him and the mothers realized the value of His blessing for their little ones. He knew, as only experience could teach anyone, just what it meant when He said, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

The power He gained in His childhood He used in fulfilling the eternal purpose for which He came. When in the morning twilight by Galilee He told Peter to feed His lambs He we only asking him to continue a part of the work which He himself had been doing.

The life Christ brought to men is not for heaven only, or He would have devoted Himself to those at the door of death. It begins now, the sooner the better, so He sought the children and made the spirit of a little child a sure token of admission into the kingdom of heaven. Those whom He raised from the dead were not those who had died of old age. They were those who had been early cut off, and Christ restored not only life but youth to them.

The youth of Christ had been so impressed upon the people of Nazareth that they could accept Him in no other role than as one of their boys. To them it was a stumbling block. But the impression He has made upon the rest of the world in the aged coming after has been made complete by that youth. When He says, Lo, I am with you always, it is the eternal youth as well as the eternal Godman, Christ, who is with us. With man, Christ, who is with us. With Him we go to children and we win them to Him to whom their predecessors in the long ago ran with outstretched arms because they saw His arms outstretched toward them. Yesterday spring began. But wherever there are children there is spring. The beauty and the promise of it all are from the Christ. He fills it with Himself.

The meeting closed promptly at one o'clock when Dr. Danforth made the closing prayer.

RESERVES DECISION ON MOTION TO SET ASIDE

Arguments on a motion to set aside the verdict of $5,000 rendered a jury in superior court in favor of Alexander Plona of Waterford for the death of his wife Cecelia in his suit against the Connecticut Company, were heard by Judge Avery Friday morning at New London. Attorney Frank L. McGuire appeared for Plona and Attorney Charles B. Whittlesey, who filed the motion, appeared for the trolley company. Attorney Whittlesey contended that the evidence in the case would not sustain the verdict. After listening to the arguments Judge Avery took the papers for consideration.

SOCIAL CORNER

clips called for. When I saw that I hoped none of you took a chance on that amount as printed.

Jerushy Epice: Your poem There is No Death, is a statement I most certainly believe, and do you have the poem Away? If not write me and I'll send it to you. It is beautiful.

Last Rose of Summer: You bet I'll find that meeting place for you. Sorry weather man dealt poor weather for you last week.

It was a great disappointment not to be in Willimantic but with three and four feet of snow on the level, road impassable and the 8:15 A. M. bus going through here at 2:45 P. M. had to be conspicious by my absence, but had a report that over fifty went and that Jennie, Olive and Priscilla arrived. Long live the Corner.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

TROTTIE TELLS MORE ABOUT FLORIDA

Dear Corner Sisters: You may be interested to hear more about Florida and experiences of Trottie. For two days it has been very windy and cold for Florida. No doubt we are feeling the effects of the snow and blizzards north of us. At Raleigh, N. C., where we camped enroute here, high winds and snow several inches deep are reported, and in Richmond, Va., where we also camped, snow and sleet fell for 24 hours. It was one of the most damaging storms that had been known to sweep the state in many winters. St. Augustine another camping place was bound in a cold grip, registering 32, but as we do not return north until May or June I think the way will be grand and we intend to go slow and take in places of interest.

Maine Lover: Son proposed this morning going your way and camp at your home. Ha, ha. How is that?

I am so sorry to hear of Mrs. Li's severe sickness. She has my love and sympathy and hope she may get strong again soon.

At West Palm Beach we have a large park where band concerts are held every day. Not long ago a memorial was held for Robert E. Lee (confederate general), at the unveiling of his head at Stone Mountain, Ga., two gentleman gave addresses on the life of Gen Lee and they were fine. A confederate flag hung at one side of the stand, but the band played all our national airs. When playing the Star Spangled Banner every gentleman's hat is removed and the ladies bow their heads. At present at the park is an Italian band and they play here for 10 weeks receiving $2,800 for that length of time. This sum is met by taxing the property owners of West Palm Beach. This Italian band came to this place to play while the city has so many tourists here. In the summer they play in Atlantic City, New Jersey. I attended the Palm Beach county fair, and saw many fine displays of southern fruit. But what interested me most was the growing of pineapples and bananas. The pineapples grow upward from a plant which looks like a cactus, and if you touch the leaf it has the same prickly feeling. It takes six months for the apple to mature. Bananas grow upward and keep blossoming from the bottom and going upward. Those on the stalk were green. Berries in baskets same as strawberry baskets had wonder berries, looked like very small grapes, but make nicer pies than blue berries or whortle berries. When all the family were out for a pleasant auto ride we saw in the water an alligator which was on a float. We got out of the auto and went across to get a view of it and found it was a large one. The tail hung off the float in the water. They often come out of the water to sun themselves and lay quiet and sleep. Some live to be 700 years old. Very nice fish are caught in the lake which is near here, large blue-kingfish is very nice eating, amber fish is so called as the under part is amber colored. It has to be skinned the same as barn pouts. On the shore of the lake lies a huge sea turtle weighing, it is thought, 900 pounds its shell has many barnacles on it. As it is against the law to catch them it was never taken away by the one who may have got it. I wrote you of cactus growing wild, but never saw a blossom until my daughter brought one in this week. It was a beautiful large yellow one. But she took a paper to take hold of it, as it has long prickly stems and it is not well to get one in your hand. They tell me the Negro in the city is afraid of wild cactus and rattlesnakes. Many Negroes here, and some are migrating to their own country. They live in a section of the city and are not allowed to go to any amusement or band concert in the park—nowhere among white folks. They have a church and schools and a negro teacher.

Many buildings are being erected and most of them are cement and of various colors, some blue and red and some grey and pink, the pink predominating—some all pink. These colors give a mottled effect and are certainly very handsome. The Negrees are employed in the menial work on these buildings. They carry the sand for the cement and the cement up to the men who lay it. I must say the Negro is not over ambitious. This may be due to the climate as in summer the sun must be hot and to work in cotton fields as they did in times of slavery must have been terrible. But at the present time they cannot be trusted for their honesty—that is many of them.

I wrote about the sweet singing of the mocking bird. I want to tell you his song often sounds like a canary with the same trills and, did you not know, you would declare some one had lost their canary.

With kindest thoughts for all sisters.

Ever the same.

TROTTIE.

RAISED DOUGHNUTS

Dear Corner Sisters: As I read your lovely letters each week, I think I will write right away, but when I attempt to do so, somehow my courage fails me. Yet I wish to do my best to help keep the page full also. I am not forgetting my resolution of writing four letters a year. I hear some of you good sisters say, that is a small job, but to me it as as mountains.

Glad to read of the nice time at No. 1's anniversary.

Neela: You must have had courage. Bumblebee: "Cheer up" better days are coming for you and me.

Zoda: The day was well spent at your house. Hope to see you at the April meeting if not before.

Esmeralda: Am coming to visit you some sweet day. Again we are reminded of the scripture, "Be ye also ready in the sudden death of another one of our sisters.

FINE TIME IN SPITE OF STORM

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: How often are we reminded of that little word "if," which makes so much interference with our plans and their results. It was never more evident among Social Corner sisters and friends than on March 12th when so many were detained from attending the anniversary meeting. For surely "if" the storm, and impassible traveling conditions had not featured that day, Franklin hall would have had increased numbers.

However, those of us, who could be present, enjoyed a good, social, friendly gathering. Practical Polly, the hostess, and her efficient aids, Theoda, Bebbie, Maine Lover, Alfara, Lonesome Pine, Wandering Jew, Dew Drop and Sister Williams were up to the mark, with welcome greetings.

They were all attired in white dresses with a dainty yellow rosette of crepe paper as a decoration for the hair. As Necia has mentioned in her letter of last week, that Priscilla Olive, and myself were at the anniversary meeting, will say we came by train, which brought us a little early, so that Priscilla and I were the first two, that ascended the stairs and entered the empty hall. Only a few minutes later, we heard other footsteps and voices, and Theoda and Practical Polly came in, with smiles and cheerful good mornings. Olive had a few errands she wished to do, so came later, and others came along by two's and three's. We were all quite disappointed not to see a large number from Club No. 2. "If" was responsible in co-operation with the weather I presume, and all absentees were the losers of a good time. A special "guest table" was reserved, but finally utilized the same as others. The tables were very prettily decorated with yellow crepe paper. The dinner served was up to the usual standard of Social Corner menus—beef loaf, cold baked ham, hot baked beans, hot mashed potato, various kinds of excellent salads, pickles, rolls, pies, cakes, coffee and last but not least, ice cream cones. As it was a cold stormy day (outside) we had an excuse for good appetites, and I truly believe no one left the tables in the same condition as when we sat down. As customary we sang the doxology standing, before the dinner. After dinner was over and the tables were cleared there came the auction of remaining food, which was soon disposed of. The special birthday cake, with its 14 miniature white candles, escaped the auctioneer and bidders, as I understood that was to be presented to the Social Corner headquarters at the Bulletin Office. "If" and weather again were responsible for the absence of those who were to supply the entertainment for this anniversary meeting. However, substitutes were called into service and Practical Polly started the programme with a short reading. Then followed recitations by Sisters Betty, Amy and Lonesome Pine, which were very amusing, next, Practical Polly called on those who had come from a greater distance to say a few words, and they responded as follows: Necia, Sister Hoffman, Priscilla, Olive and Jennie.

The Social Corner gatherings are never complete without a dance, so the Virginia reel was demonstrated by several feminine feet, to the musical strains of a victrola. Like all previous good times, the hour comes when we must part to go in our various directions. So it was on March 12th that we bid each other a pleasant "good bye," hoping we may all meet again.

JENNIE.

PAST AND PRESENT

Dear Editor, Sisters and Friends of the Social Corner: Although I have not written for the Social Corner for a long time I have not forgotten the many writers who are trying to make the Corner a success. I enjoy each and every letter and always read them all.

I have been thinking of the new inventions and the different ways of doing work since I was a girl. In those days we had to go to a well and draw every pail of water that was used in the home. Now we only have to turn a faucet and get either hot or cold water just as we wish. In the kitchen was the fire place where meat and potatoes were cooked in a kettle that hung from the crane by a hook or sometimes by a trammel, the ironing done by setting flat irons in front of the fire, biscuit baked in a tin oven set before the fire. Now the meat and potatoes are cooked either by gas or electricity, biscuits, bread, pies and cake baked the same way. The only light we used to have at home was a tallow candle. It didn't give much light but we were satisfied. After that came the kerosene lamp, then gas and electricity for lighting purposes.

In house cleaning time I remember how we used to have to take up carpets and lay them on the grass, or throw them over the clothes line, and beat them, clean the room and tack the carpets down again. Oh, what a job. Now we have either hardwood or painted floors and a dustless mop and a vacuum cleaner do the work, so much nicer and easier.

Then the weekly washing was done by rubbing the clothes piece by piece on the washboard and it would take half a day sometimes to get the clothes ready to put out on the line. Now we have the electric washer and by just touching a Button the work is done without putting the hands in the water. Also the electric flat is such a convenience, no running back and forth to the stove to change flats.

I have heard some old people talk about the good old days, but I for one am glad of the new inventions that have been installed in the homes. I often wonder what will be done with electricity in time to come. But that remains to be seen.

Best wishes to all.

CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC TELLS OF RECOVERY

Mr. and Mrs. Bayes Give Full Credit to Tanlac for Remarkable Results — Mrs. Bayes Gained 21 Pounds.

"Mrs. Bayes and myself are both strong for Tanlac and could not over praise it," declares T. H. Bayes, 428 College St., Springfield, Mo. Mr. Bayes is a popular musician and well known to the people of Springfield, having been associated with a leading music house here for thirty years.

"My wife had been a confirmed dyspeptic, having suffered from it for twenty years. She was sorely troubled with heart palpitation and about all the distressing symptoms a prolonged case of indigestion can cause a person.

"Finally she got down to only one hundred and eight pounds and landed in a hospital almost a nervous and physical wreck. In fact, her case seemed hopeless, but after everything else failed along came Tanlac and easily and quickly put an end to her twenty years suffering and restored to her the pleasure of living.

"Tanlac was soothing and healing from the very start and now she has a wonderful, appetite and her digestion is the best I have ever known it to be. The change from eating a little toast and other very light foods to such things as sausage, cabbage, sauerkraut, etc., came about so quickly as to astonish and delight us both.

"Her weight has gone up to one hundred and twenty-nine pounds, a gain of twenty-one pounds. Rheumatism about her arms and joints and swelling in the feet has also disappeared with the general building up Tanlac gave my wife. Her strength has returned, she has an abundance of energy and is altogether happy over her new found health."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

RUMORS OF DISCORD AMONG THE REPARATION EXPERTS

British Members of the Committee Have Gone to London to Consult Their Government—The Commission May Issue an Official Communique Today to Allay Alarm—It Has Been Offically Stated That No Serious Disagreement Exists on the Main Decisions of the Committee.

Paris, March 23—The departure for London yesterday of Reginald McKenna, Sir Robert Kindersley and S. J. C. Stamp, British members of the experts committees, has given rise to reports that fundamental differences have cropped out in the work of the experts and that the Brish representatives have gone to consult their government.

It was stated officially this evening that no serious disagreement existed on the main decisions of the committees, and that, while different opinions have been expressed in the course of the discussions, the report now being drafted will be unanimously signed by both committees.

The pessimistic and alarming tone adopted by the British and also a part of the French press recently, however, may cause the reparation commission to issue an official communique tomorrow, setting forth exactly where the matters stand, although reparations circles refuse to make a specific announcement to that effect.

Sir John Bradbury, British member of the reparation commission, left for London this morning, and his departure caused a stir in French circles. He is held by the French to represent a tendency towards a reparation settlement diametrically opposed to that of the French. It is felt here that his presence in London simultaneously with the three British experts means that the British experts are not in agreement with the findings of the majority in the schedule of payments for Germany during the next two years. The question of a moratorium is reported to be the point upon which opinions diverge.

Officially, however, the correspondents are informed that "the work of the experts is proceeding in complete accord on fudamental points," and that the joint report of the Dawes and McKenna committees will be ready the first week in April.

SEARCHING FOR PERSONS WHO SHOT BRITISH SOLDIERS

Queenstown, Ireland, March 23.—(By the A. P.)—Spurred by the government's offer of a reward of 10,000 pounds sterling, hundreds of civilians joined today the Free State troops who shot down British soldiers and local civilians as they were returning from Spike Island on Friday.

Thus far no arrests have been made, and the only details which have been learned concerning the circumstances to the crime is that some miles outside of Queenstown Friday night two motor cars were observed which it is thought carried a covering party to the assassins.

The British torpedo boat destroyer Sea Wolf arrived in Queenstown this morning with the purpose, it is believed, of removing the body of Private Aspinwall, one of the victims of the shooting, to England. Free State troops are patrolling Queenstown and the surrounding district and nobody is being allowed to land at Spike Island.

Universal detestation over the tragedy is being voiced throughout Ireland. Some concern is felt regarding the safety of the small British garrison at Lenan, Lough Swilly, County Donegal, whose position is even more precarious than that on Spike Island. Both British and Free States officials are exercising extraordinary vigilance to prevent further outrages.

INFANT'S BODY HAD A CORD ABOUT ITS NECK

Dover-Foxcroft, Me., March 23.—The discovery of the body of an infant with a cord about its neck in a grave on the farm of Edward Smith in East Guilford led to the arrest today of Alonzo Beatham of Lincoln, a farmhand. Beatham, who had made his home on the Smith farm during the winter, was held for a hearing in Piscataquis municipal court Tuesday, a statutory holding charge having been lodged against him.

Smith, who had been employed in the lumber regions during the winter, leaving his wife at home, returned recently to find, he said, Beatham living at his farmhouse. He brought the statutory charge on which Beatham was arrested. The grave was found last night. The child is believed to have been dead for two months.

CROWDS TOOK PRIVILEGE OF INSPECTING LEVIATHAN

Boston, Mass., March 23.—Announcement that the public would be allowed on board the Leviathan today brought a crowd estimated by the police at 30,000. So great was the crush that more than a score of women fainted and were given first aid treatment on board the mammoth liner. Extra details of police and marines were called to handle the mass that struggled at the gangway. The steamer is in the government dry-dock here undergoing a general refitting. The Leviathan was damaged when she ran aground on Robbins reef off New York last December.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED NEAR HADLEY, MASS.

Hadley, Mass., March 23.—The large farm buildings of William Heiden on Moody's Bridge road, three horses, 35 head of cattle, two hogs, 30 tons of hay, four automobiles and farm tools were destroyed by fire which started in the cattle barn at 9 o'clock this morning. Three horses and a few pieces of furniture were saved. About half the loss was covered by insurance. The town fire truck became lodged in the mud a mile from the farm and when the firemen arrived with hand extinguishers the blaze was beyond control.

600 CASES AND 750 HALF BARRELS OF BEER SEIZED

New York, March 23.—Six hundred cases and 750 half barrels of beer, comprising what was described as the largest beer cache unearthed here since prhibition began were found today in the rear of a garage on the upper east side by prohibition agents who had previously seized eight trucks loaded with beer and arrested twelve men.

THREE EMPLOYES OF A DYNAMITE FACTORY KILLED

Torreon, Mexico, March 23—Three employes of a dynamite factory near Torreon were killed late yesterday, when an explosion in the nitro-glycerine department completely wrecked that department and damaged other parts of the building.

STATE OF WASHINGTON REPUBLICANS FOR COOLIDGE

Tacoma, Wash., March 23—Republicans of ten counties in various parts of Washington state held county conventions today and without an exception endorsed Calvin Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FASCIST MOVEMENT IN ITALY

Rome, March 23.—(By the A. P.)—Representatives from more than five hundred municipalities participated today in the fifth anniversary of the founding of the fascist movement in Italy. After paying homage to the unknown soldier, the delegates marched through flag-draped streets amid enthusiastic manifestations on the part of the populace.

A cordon of troops presented arms at the quarinal palace and acclaimed King Victor Emmanuel, who viewed the parade from the balcony. The parade, which lastad more than an hour, was marked by continuous demonstrations.

Premier Mussolini delivered a stirring patriotic address. Mussolini reviewed the history of the fascist movement and its achievements. He pointed to its rapid growth from little beginnings. In 1919 the fascist did not exceed 10,000, yet made a bold stand against subversive ideas. In 1920 they numbered 30,615; in 1921 the number had reacned 248,936.

SPECULATIVE BOOM IN THE TAHITIAN ISLANDS

Papeete, Tahiti, Feb. 27.—(By the A. P.)—The sudden rise in the price of vanilla beans during recent weeks has induced a rather exciting speculative boom in the Tahitian islands, especially among Chinese.

Some time ago a Chinese merchant in Papeete by accumulating vanilla beans when prices were low amassed a fortune on the turn of the market. Now many Chinese are endeavoring to do likewise, despite higher prices. They argue that failure of the crop in Madagascar and Bourbon and the yield in Mexico reduced by war, vanilla beans will command still higher prices.

Every landowner is planting every available acre in vanilla vines.

In Bora Bora, though there are scarcely five miles of passable roadway, motor cars are in great demand. The agent for a widely known American light car is taking vanilla in exchange for cars while bicycles in large numbers have been virtually legal tender for purchase of vanilla beans.

FRANCE TO PRESENT TAPESTRY TO AMERICA

New York, March 23.—A tapestry commemorating the departure of American troops for France in the world war will be presented to the United States by the French government at the opening of the French exposition here on April 23, it was announced today.

The tapestry, made at the famous Gobelin tapestry works, and valued at $50,000, is the first ever given to America from the government works. It was designed by G. L. Jaulmes and represents American soldiers standing before Independence hall in Philadelphia. It will be presented at the New Philadelphia art museum.

MOVE IN PARIS TO RESTRICT LARGE ELECTRIC SIGNS

Paris, March 23.—A law handed down from the time of Napoleon is being invoked to save Paris from Broadway advertising methods. The large electric signs that have been steadily increasing in number around the place De L'Opera have hurt the eyes of the French people accustomed to softer light and offended their artistic taste. Pressure was brought on the police department to prevent further desecration of the artistic opera quarter, and the Prefect Duguan ancient statute that gives him jurisdiction over the exterior design of buildings in the vicinity of any particularly interesting sculpture or spot which under French law may be classified as "historical monuments."

$15,000 WORTH OF NARCOTICS SEIZED IN COLUMBUS

Columbus, Ohio, March 23.—Police and federal narcotic inspectors tonight seized $15,000 worth of narcotics in a raid here and arrested Thomas Zazo and Mahala Huffer. The narcotics are said to have been smuggled in from Belgium as the containers had Belgium labels on them.

OBITUARY.

Count Joachim

Berlin, March 23—Joachim, count of Efell and Klein Ellguth, geographer, explorer and Colonial expert, died today at Greifenburg, Silesia. He was 67 years old. The count was governor of the Bismarck archipelago in the Pacific from 1887 and 1893. He made the first German settlements in east and southwest Africa. He visited the United States and Mexico numerous times to attend geographical congresses.

It was the count who introduced cotton production in East Africa.

CONFERENCE OF RUSSIANS AND RUMANIANS TODAY

Vienna, March 23.—The Russo-Rumanian conference which opens here tomorrow will be concerned principally with the delimitation of a customs frontier, a question which has been annoying both governments for some time. This would logically involve Rumania's title to Bessarabia, assigned to her as a war prize by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

The envoys of both countries appear to be disposed to ignore political contentions, at least at the commencement of the negotiations. Neither side is conceding anything respecting territorial rights. Political observers here regard the present meeting as having dangerous possibilities of a disagreement and a rupture in relations.

PURSUING MEXICAN REBEL GEN. GUADALUPE SANCHEZ

Vera Cruz, March 23.—General Jose Escobar left yesterday with 1600 men for San Francisco station in pursuit of the rebel general, Guadalupe Sanchez. General Topete's forces are pursuing the rebels of Nabor Ojedas and Pedro Gonzales.

A small rebel band which approached Medellin, near Vera Cruz, was driven off. General Topete's troops have had an engagement with Vidal Tenorio's rebels near Paso Del Cura on the isthmus railway. The rebels were defeated.

Various small bands of rebels surrendered during the last week.

FORMER RUSSIAN PRINCE IS WORKING AS PORTER

New York, March 23.—Alexander Taraeff, a Russian prince and former paymaster of the czar's armies, has been discovered here working as a porter in a Broadway office building for $23 a week. He is occupying a bare little apartment in Jersey City with his wife.

Col. Taraeff, who is a composer, said he could not even afford a piano now, although he had formerly complained that his duties of spending $3,500,000 annually left too little time for his music.

When the revolution swept him from power the Russian noble fled into China and crossed the Gobi desert alone. He finally reached Pekin, where he met with his wife, who had escaped some months before.

OLYMPIC GAMES TO HAVE DANCING CONTEST

Paris, March 23.—Though dancing has not been recognized by the Olympic committee as a "sport," there is to be an Olympic year championship. Competition has begun for a long list of prizes between 33 men and the same number of women, of whom 39 are professional dancers and 27 amateurs. The contest is international there being several Russians, Brazilians, Italians, Poles and Swiss entered. A single English entry has been registered, while no Americans have seen fit to try for the blue ribbon of terpsichotean art.

WAS SHOT FOUR TIMES IN A LONELY STREET

New York, March 23.—Louis Limole, who was acquitted of the murder last September of Joseph Santuccio, was shot four times today in a lonely street of the lower East Side when he made his first visit to the district since the Santuccio killing.

The police arrested James Santuccio, brother of the dead man, and Limole identified him as his assailant. Santuccio, however, denied the shooting and disclaimed ownership of a pistol found on the sidewalk.

Senate to Hasten Income Tax Action

To Incorporate 25 Per Cent. Reduction in a Resolution to Be Taken Up for Immediate Action.

Washington, March 23.—With the revenue bill facing several more weeks of study by the senate finance committee, impetus was given today to the movement to remove the provision for 25 per cent. reduction in income taxes payable this year and incorporate it in a resolution for immediate action.

Secretary Mellon in a letter to Representative Ackerman, republican, New Jersey, commenting on the latter's resolution proposing to eliminate the September instalment payments, said he preferred the proposed cut be made as provided in the recenue bill, but suggested the provision be taken care of by a resolution which would assure settlement of the proposed cut before June 15, when second installments are due.

The revenue bill would allow deduction of 25 per cent. of the first instalment to be made when the second instalment is paid and further deduction of 25 per cent. on the second and remaining instalments when they are paid. If the entire taxe pere paid on March 15 it would allow a 25 per cent. refund. Elimination of the September payments as proposed by Representative Ackerman would disturb the cash position of the treasury in September, Mr. Mellon said.

The secretary's letter to Mr. Ackerman said:

"Your resolution provides in substance that a taxpayer paying personal income taxes in 1923 in quarterly instalments may omit the September 15 instalment and if he has paid in full on March 15, he is entitled to a refund of one quarter of the amount paid, after his return is audited by the treasury. With the principle that it is advisable to permit the taxpayers to get the benefit of the expected surplus in 1924 by a reduction of 25 per cent. of the tax payable in the calendar year 1924, I am thoroughly in accord. There may be considerable administrative difficulty in the particular method contemplated by the resolution.

"It seems to me if it would be simpler, and certainly preferable from the standpoint of the treasury, if the plan incorporated in the revenue act of 1924 in the form it was passed by the house were adopted in a separate resolution. Under this plan if the resolution were passed before June 15, the taxpayer could take on that day a credit of 25 per cent. of his March payment plu 25 per cent. of his June payment; in September he could take 25 per cent. of his September payment and in December 25 per cent. of that payment. If he had paid in full in March he would have refunded the 15 per cent. credit."

Shot Herself to Please Husband

Statement Made in Petition for Divorce by Mrs. Georgia Thomas of Tulsa, Okla.

Tulsa, Okla., March 23.—That she had shot herself in the leg intentionally to become an invalid to satisfy the "brutal wish" of her husband, was the statement of Mrs. Georgia Thomas in a petition for divorce from Orville Thomas, wealthy cigar man of Tulsa.

"My husband gave me the money to purchase the pistol," Mrs. Thomas further stated.

Mrs. Thomas said her husband would only love her and dispel his fits of jealousy when she had become an invalid or injured for life. "I shot myself because I loved him and wanted to please him," she added

STATEMENT OF DEFENSE BY FRANK A. VANDERLIP

Washington, March 23.—The action of J. Horace Harding, of New York, in refusing to sit with Frank A. Vanderlip on the board of directors of the Continental Can Company, brought a statement of defense tonight from Mr. Mr. Vanderlip who is here directing his Citizens' Federal Research Bureau.

If reputations must suffer in order to draw the attention of the people to "the need of a cleanup," in various departments of the government, Mr. Vanderlip said, he was willing that "my own reputation should suffer, as it has, because of what has been called my 'indiscretion.'"

"No man likes to offend deliberately against good taste," Mr. Vanderlip said. "No man who has enjoyed the esteem of his fellow citizens as I have in the past, likes to place himself deliberatly under a cloud. I feel, however, that what may happen to me personally in the present situation is of small moment. My one concern is that corruption in the government shall be routed out."

Mr. Harding objected to Mr. Vanderlip's Briar Cliff speech in which he told of rumors that President Harding had sold the Marion Star for more than it was worth, and Mr. Vanderlip has resigned from the Can Company board. In his statement tonight, Mr. Vanderlip renewed charges against "unfortunate appointments" of President Harding and explained that many of his speaking engagements were cancelled because he wished to come here to assist Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in the Daugherty investigation.

FRENCH AND BRITISH DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

Paris, March 23—(By the A. P.)—With the visit here tomorrow of the Count de St. Aulaire, French ambassador to London, France will assume the initiative in diplomatic negotiations with the British government concerning the problem of security for France. The ambassador's return home is for the purpose of taking part in a joint examination of the principles under which the security of France and the general peace of Europe can be assured.

Count de St. Aulaire, and Premier Poincare will discuss—in their broad outlines at least—questions of a pact of guarantees; the problem of the Rhine frontier and the role which the league of nations will be called upon to play in the new system of a European balance of power.

An exchange of views regarding security has been in progress between Paris and London for some weeks through diplomatic channels. The matter received fresh impetus following the second letter of Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister, to Premier Poincare, and since then security, rather than reparations, has formed the bulk of the usual communications between the chancelleries.

TRAMWAY AND BUS DRIVERS IN LONDON ON STRIKE

London, March 23.—(By the A. P.)—There was no change today in the situation growing out of the strike yesterday of the employees of the Tramway and omnibus services. Neither side to the dispute evinced any disposition to give in.

A court of inquiry sat both this morning and this afternoon taking evidence with regard to the situation. It is expected that the court will present its report to the labor ministry within a few days. A feature of today's session of the court was the general admission htat there was need for some central control for coordination of London's transport facilities in order to remedy existing competition and overlappings. It is believed that the court's report may recommend that the government introduce legislation in parliament to attain this object.

NEW YORK PRINTERS REJECT OFFER OF THE PUBLISHERS

New York, March 23.—Members of the "Bix Six" Typographical Union today voted to reject the offer of the Publishers' association for a pay increase of $3 a week for newspaper compositors it was unofficially stated tonight and approved a proposal submitted by the union scale committee that the union demand a $5 increase, and failing to get it, request permission to take a strike vote.

The result of the balloting will not be announced officially until Tuesday. More than 2 000 members voted.

ATTEMPTS TO DEMOLISH A BUILDING IN AMSTERDAM, N. Y.

Amsterdam, N. Y., March 23.—A second attempt was made Saturday night to demolish the building at 10 Washington street, this city. Police suspect an enemy of the owner of the structure.

A hole one and a half feet deep was made in the ground and clapboards were torn from the building when a stick of dynamite planted near the structure exploded. No one was hurt, although windows were broken in nearby houses.

SEASICKNESS CAUSE OF DEATH ON CLYDE LINER

New York, March 23.—A heart attack induced by seasickness caused the death of Mrs. Mary Smiley, aged 67, of Ellensville, N. Y., on the Clyde liner Comanche yesterday, it became known when the ship docked here today.

Mrs. Smiley with her husband, Edward Smiley, a retired hotel owner, and her daughter Elizabeth, were returning from Jacksonville, Fla. She was a native of Grand Isle, Vt.

PROHIBITION CONDITIONS IN WASHINGTON IMPROVING

Commissioner Haynes Asserts That There Has Been a Constant Betterment—Conditions Decidedly Better Than They were a Year Ago—15,176 Gallons of Various Liquors Seized in Three Months—Declares the City is Free of Real Beer.

Washington, March 23.—The national capital's reputation for sobriety, recently under attack from various sources, was upheld in a report submitted to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and made public tonight by H. M. Luckett, chief of the fourth enforcement division. For the three months ending March 1 the report showed seizures of 15,176 gallons of various liquors.

"Constant improvement has been noted of violations of the national prohibition act in the city of Washington," Chief Luckett said, adding that "conditions are decidedly better than they were a year ago."

The report said that only about one per cent. of the liquor seized in Washington and Maryland is genuine, 90 per cent. being corn whiskey and nine per cent. gin made from re-distilled denatured alcohol artificially colored and flavored. Luckett declared the city was free from real beer.

10,000 NAMES TAKEN FOR BLUE LAW VIOLATORS

Jersey City, N. J., March 23.—Hudson county's blue law violators were listed for the second time today, 10,000 names having been gathered by the police several weeks ago. Today about 3,000 alleged violators of the Sunday observance laws were listed, several hundred of them in Jersey City being patrons of commercial enterprises whose names were taken along with the proprietors.

The names again will be presented to the grand jury which has been investigating the "blue law" question, but which as yet has returned no indictments against alleged violators. Confectionary stores, gasoline stations, shoe shine parlors and undertakers were listed as well as motion picture and vaudeville theatres.

The present grand jury will be discharged on March 31. It is expected that the April term will take up the Sunday observance situation if no definite stand is taken by the present body.

Among those listed in Jersey City were picnickers in the city parks, a woman who purchased a dozen eggs, several men who bought cigars and cigarettes and one who had his shoes shined.

Edward A. Ransome, Jr., secretary of the Sunday league, which has opposed the "blue laws," said tonight that he would hold an outing on the first Sunday in May to demonstrate a "legal Sunday" in New Jersey. He said the 15,000 members of the Sunday league would cooperate. The outing would be held in Hudson county park, he said, and "walking" would be the principal diversion.

SNOW BLOCKS ROADS IN WESTERN KANSAS

Garden City, Kans., March 22.—A heavy snow fell today further clogging already impassable roads and the situation in western Kansas is becoming grave. All towns in this section have been marooned for eight day.

Many farms, homesteads and ranches are running short of coal and provisions. Stock men today attempted to haul feed but were unable to break through the deep snow. No roads are open in any direction from Garden City. Highway forces yesterday broke through with a tractor snowplow nearly to Pearceville but today were unable to reach the tractor where they finished work yesterday.

There is little hope that the roads will be opened up for automobile traffic this month. Many tourists are stranded along the Santa Fe trail.

There has been little thawing and the temperature remains around the freezing point.

SEARCHED STEAMER FOR GROVER C. BERGDOLL

New York, March 23.—Federal officers and police searched the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft evader, when the steamship arrived from Germany today. The search was made on the strength of reports that Bergdoll had left Germany.

Passengers on the Albert Ballin said the latest reports in Germany were that Bergdoll had gone to France and would come to America soon to surrender himself to the federal authorities in conformity with the plan of the American Legion announced recently.

JAP TIGHT ROPE WALKER FELL 40 FEET INTO AUDIENCE

Vera Cruz, Mexico, March 22.—While performing last night at the Variedades theatre, Terutaro Komia, a Japanese tight rope walker, formerly of Havana, fell forty feet into the audience. The actor suffered a fracture of the skull when his head struck the tile flooring. It is said, however, that he will recover.

Nobody in the audience was injured.

BULGARIA TO PAY FOR ARMIES OF OCCUPATION

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 23.—An agreement between Foreign Minister Kalloff and the inter-allied commission has been reached by which Bulgaria will pay 25,000,000 gold levas for the expenses of the armies of occupation after the armistice. The payments are to be made in ten annual installments with interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

PRISONER RUMELY ASSIGNED TO FARM LABOR

East View, N. Y., March 23.—Dr. Edward E. Rumely, former publisher of the New York Evening Mail, and his attorneys, Norvin R. Lindheim and S. Walter Kaufman, all convicted for concealing German interests in the Mail during the war, have been assigned to farm labor at the state penitentiary. It was learned today the three were sentenced to serve one year each.

DAMAGE BY FLOODS AND HEAVY FROSTS IN FRANCE

Paris, March 23.—Among the damages caused by the winter floods and excessive frosts in France is a decline of 20 per cent in the acreage of growing wheat. Much of the ground prepared last fall could not be seeded on account of the continual rains and a considerable portion of the ground seeded was laid waste by the successive frosts, unusual in France.

MISS STINSON TO RESUME HER TESTIMONY TODAY

Washington, March 23.—The third week of the Daugherty investigation opens tomorrow with Miss Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jess Smith, friend of Attorney General Daugherty, ready to conclude her amazing story of "deals" in whiskey, prize fight films, drugs and big politics.

Tomorrow Miss Stinson is to undergo cross examination with the bare possibility a matching of wo-men's wits. The questioning may be conducted by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general. Arrangements had been made to have Mrs. Willebrandt, who followed the testimony all day yesterday, undertake the examination but a federal grand jury engagement may prevent what promised to be a spectacular feminine duel.

In closing her story which opened the Daugherty investigation, Miss Stinson is to finish reading her letters from Jess Smith, and other papers which, she says, support her long and startling tale of "deals" which she charges involve Smith, Mr. Daugherty and others of the attorney general's official and personal entourage since he took office.

The Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight film exhibition "deal," and whiskey "deals," including the $200,000 New York bootlegging story given by John Goroni, also are to be developed this week. Fred C. Quimby, New York partner of Tex Rickard in this film affair, and William A. Orr, New York republican politician, connected in the testimony with both the film and New York whiskey transactions are under orders to return here tomorrow. Both have been ill since their first appearance, and the period of their further examination is uncertain.

G. D. WAHLBERG IS IN CUBA FOR HIS HEALTH.

Havana, March 23.—After having evaded newspaper men for two days, G. D. Wahlberg, at one time secretary for Harry F. Sinclair, and for whom the Senate Teapot Dome investigating committee has issued a subpoena, tonight talked for a few minutes with them. He said he had come to Cuba for his health. He would not discuss the Teapot Dome situation in any way.

Mr. Wahlberg indicated that he would be in Cuba for some time. He said he expected to go to Matanzas tomorrow. He had informed the senate committee he said, that he was in ill health, due to an operation which he underwent last month.

$30,000 DIAMOND ROBBERY BY BANDITS IN NEW YORK

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—Three small leather bags containing diamonds estimated to be valued at $30,000 were stolen by two armed men who held up a taxicab in which Henry Henry Davidson salesman for a New York wholesale jewelry house had left them. Davidson was talking to Frank Allio, a wealthy Italian, this afternoon, relative to the sale of the diamonds, when the men entered the Allio home and pointed revolvers at the two men. After searching them and failing to find the jewels, they headed for the taxicab took the diamonds and escaped in a touring car.

FATALITY CAUSED BY MOONSHINE WHISKEY

Philadelphia, March 23. — Patrick Hart is dead and two other men are reported in a critical condition as the result, the police said, of drinking moonshine whiskey. The three men were found unconscious today on a vacant lot in West Philadelphia. Hart died two hours later. The other two, Daniel Donovan and Martin Quinn, were still unconscious late tonight and hospital physicians said their chances for recovery were slight.

SIX FIREMEN IN NEWARK NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH

Newark, N. J., March 23.—Six firemen narrowly escaped death today when Charles Baker, driver of fire truck No. 3, responding to an alarm, suddenly swerved the course of the truck to avoid hitting a small boy, and crashed into a tree. Despite the overturning of the truck the firemen managed to scramble from it to safety. The truck was completely destroyed. About $500 damage was caused by the fire.

EIGHT BRONX BUTCHERS WERE HOLD-UP VICTIMS

New York, March 23—Eight Bronx butchers, who had assembled in the back room of a market for their weekly after business card game were held up and robbed of $10,000 in cash and jewelry early today. Five well dressed youths entered the shop, worked quickly and quietly and escaped before an outcry could be raised.

Charles A. Gates of Windham and Mrs. Maude A. Hargraves of Brooklyn were elected delegates-at-large to the state convention at Hartford, April 2 and 3, at the Twenty-ninth District Republican caucus held in the town hall at noon Saturday. Mrs. Lillian M. Frink of Canterbury and Charles A. Gates of this city were re-elected members of the republican state central committee of the Twenty-Ninth district. All of the elections from the district were unanimous. Herbert F. William of Canterbury was chosen chairman of the caucus and Nelson A. Daniels of Windham was clerk. The roll call showed every one of the nine towns in the district represented and but one delegate absent. There were five substitutes: Christian Kerr for Lemuel M. Carpenter, of Canterbury Ellsworth C. Babson for J. F. Gardner of Brooklyn; W. Franklin Sheldon, for Arthur Mott of Plainfield; Nelson A. Daniels for A. Linn Weatherhead, of Windham and Fred R. Haines.

The corrected roll call follows:

Brooklyn, Frank D. Spaulding, Ellsworth C. Babson; Canterbury, Andrew D. J. Clark, Mrs. Lillian M. Frink, Herbert F. Williams, Christian Kerr; Chaplin, James Lewis, Frank W. Landon; Hampton, John G. Lewis, Chester B. Jewett; Plainfield, Session L. Adams, W. Franklin Sheldon, Charles Henden, Henry S. King; Pomfret, Dr. James H. Hutchins, John Ash. T. Fred Briggs, Fred K. Haines; Scotland, Fred B. Willoughby, James H. Johnson; Sterling, Myron P. Young, Mrs. John Knox; Windham, Raymond F. Gates, Joseph M. Gerard, William F. Maine, A. Linn Weatherhead.

Following the main business of the session, Mrs. Lillian M. Frink of Canterbury was elected a member of the state committee on organization from the district, Raymond A. Gates of Windham to the credentials committee and Session L. Adams of Plainfield to the committee on rules.

The entire business of the caucus was completed within twelve minutes. Delegates and guests numbering seventy-seven were then invited by Charles A. Gates and Mrs. Lillian L. Frink to attend a dinner at the Hotel Hooker. At 1:30 o'clock the dinner was served. Rev. F. C. Williams of St. Paul's Episcopal church said grace. Music was by the Lyric Orchestra. Excellent addresses were delivered for an hour after the repast, some of the speakers being Mrs. Lillian M. Frink, Senator John Ash, Dr. George E. Wilcox, Judge Frank H. Foss and Attorney Harry S. Gaucher.

An explosion of gas in a section of fifteen-inch galvanized blow pipe in one of the gas making buildings of the Rockville-Willimantic lghting Co., plant, on the river side of the local railroad yard, stirred the business section of this city into activity, shortly after noon Saturday. The explosion was heard for blocks and within a few minutes a crowd had gathered in the vicinity of the plant. The concussion blew out three large glass windows and the escaping gas took fire. Employes of the plant made quick connections wiht a hose and soon had a stream of water playing on the blaze. Engine Company, No. 1 was summoned by still alarm and assisted with chemicals in extinguishing the flames. The danger was at an end in ten minutes. The pipe was one which ran from a valve, connected with a large tank used in the making of water gas and was some thirty-five feet in length. A number of the riveted sections of the pipe were blown with such force that they were flattened out like pancakes. The entire casahing of one window was blown into bits. None of the workmen were in the room at the time of the explosion. Repairmen got busy within half an hour and had the section of blow pipe replaced Sunday.

Upon a request from the Danielson state police barracks received early Saturday morning by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur that a five ton Mack truck with the Massachusetts registry number 56-463, headed for this city and driven by Ralph Lamoureux of this city, be taken into custody the truck was intercepted here. Lieutenant Frank McLean halted the truck which was found to be empty. Lamoureaux was brought to the police station and later taken back to Putnam by Officer Keith to be given a hearing on two charges, transporting an overloaded auto truck and not having a drivers' license.

According to Officer Keith the truck, was stalled in Putnam Friday afternoon and the size of the load, which was made up of pressed paper, attracted the attention of the officer. When hauled to scales the truck was found to be over 32,000 pounds. According to law the maximum weight of auto loads over Connecticut highways is 25,000 pounds, or twelve and one-half tons.

Lamoureux told Officer Keith that the owner of the truck, Henry Fink of Hartford, had driven the truck, as he did not possess a driver's license. Arrangements were made to divide the load and a part was taken on to its destination. Lamoureux was ordered to leave the truck in Putnam, but Saturday morning when Officer Keith came to that city he could locate neither the truck nor Lamoureux. After notifying the local authorities to stop the truck in this city, Officer Keith called up the owner of the truck and told him to come to Willimantic and run the truck back to Putnam and tell his version of the case. Lamoureux said Saturday that the empty truck was driven to Willimantic Saturday by another man, who possessed a license.

The little town of Andover is being invaded by amateur burglars and the state police of the Stafford Springs barracks have been called to assist in the investigation of three burglaries which occurred there last Wednesday night. No arrests have been made as, yet. From a description of the articles stolen it is believed that the robbers are youngsters. From the home of Mrs. Florence H. Platt a gold watch, a pint of milk and thirty cents in cash were taken. The bandits secured a dollar bill and a yellow wax candle from the home of G. M. Bartlett and candy to the value of $1.50 was stolen from the Andover schoolhouse.

Mrs. Platt had heard some young people outside the house before she retired at 11.30 o'clock but she had no premonition that they were to commit a theft nor has she any proof that they are the guilty ones. The intruders entered the house through the unlocked kitchen door and found the watch on a sideboard in the dining room. Yellow melted wax found about the interior of her house led Mrs. Platt to believe that the Bartlett home had been visited first. The school house was previously broken into by an Andover youth who had been seen wandering about the Center at nine o'clock.

In police court Saturday, Henry Shosak, of Chapman street, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. The accused said that it was his first appearance before the tribunal and he promised faithfully that it would be his last. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $5 and costs amounting to $12.15 which was paid.

Julius Guay, charged with selling an automobile under a conditional bill of sale which he had failed to pay, was presented before the court but the case was continued for the fourth time, for a period of thirty days.

With reference to boosting the firemen's pay Alderman Lamarre says that they deserve more money—but you cannot give anything away when have haven't got it.

A few live wire radio experts are out to take steps to overcome the buzzing interference which has been very annoying during the past week or more. It is the general opinion that the buzzing noises have something to do with the electric power in this city and the management of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company has been approached on the matter. This is a good beginning but those who have taken the matter in hand lack co-operation. Many other cities in these parts have organized radio clubs which have proven very beneficial to all concerned.

There are over 400 radios right in the town of Windham and an average of two a day being installed, which goes to show that if these fans cooperated they would soon become a powerful body. An interference committee could be appointed and excellent results obtained.

A conference will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building next Friday evening to discuss the Y's relation to the other organizations in the community the problem of co-operation and work for young women and girls the problem of personnel and leadership and the basis for membership in the association. Announcement to this effect was made Saturday by Herbert W. Huber, chairman of the committee on affiliated agencies. Harold W. Fiske of Meriden, L. A. Shriver of Middletown and Harry H. Smith of New Haven will be the speakers.

Through this conference it is planned to gather an expression of the sentiment of the public in regard to the various problems which the local Y. Association is facing.

Funeral services for Arnold Hanna were held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at St. Peter's church, Hebron. Rev. Theodore D. Martin officiated. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery. A prayer service was conducted at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter of Valley street, this city, at 12.30 o'clock. Avery and VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Elizabeth, the year old daughter of Anthony and Catherine Piccadilly Popo, died at the home of her parents, No. 33 Temple street early Saturday morning from bronchial pneumonia.

The funeral of Mrs. Fred Miner was held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning with a requiem high mass at St. Andrews' church, Colchester. Rev. Philip J. Hurley sang the mass. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery of that place.

Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

Fire which broke out in a cracked chimney at the home of Paul Locrasto, 227 Valley street, Friday evening gave the members of Engine Company No. 1 a hard battle before overcome. An alarm was pulled in from Box 76 corner of Valley and Walnut streets the firemen making one of the fastest getaways on record at the station house. At the last stroke of the bell the big pumper and the hook and ladder truck were rushing out of the engine house. Fifteen gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze. Assistant Chief Henry J. Kelley was in charge. The house is owned by A. Oden.

At the second successive whist given by St. Mary's Choir Boys prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies Miss Dorina Bertrand, first; Blanche Brunelle, second; Lorelda Lariviere, third; men, George Brown, first, Joseph Blouin second and Edward Marcoux, third. Fifty-five tables were in play.

The resignation of Miss Esther Sanderson as assistant librarian of the public library has been accepted and took effect Saturday. The library committee of which Alderman William E. Jackson, is chairman, has appointed Miss Elizabeth Buck to the place. She will begin her duties this (Monday) morning. Miss Sanderson is to be with the Willimantic Trust company.

In accordance to a vote taken by the board of aldermen at the January session to have the footbridge inspected in regard to its condition, the bridge committee, Aldermen Lee Jackson and J. Laramee, has contracted with the firm of Fuscewood & Neer, consulting engineers of Hartford to do the work. Just when it will be begun the committee does not know.

The fine large Dutch Colonial house which Dr. Laura H. Hills of this city is having erected on her property in the suburbs of Winter Haven, Fla., on the shores of Lake Lulu, is nearing completion. S. A. Hall of South Coventry and Stephen J. Davis of this city are at work on the house.

Mrs. Agnes Veglard of 71 Mill St. has received word of the sudden death of her brother-in-law, Ralph J. Sprague, at Miami, Fla., Thursday. Mr. Sprague was from White Plains and was on business in Florida. He was a graduate of West Point, serving overseas during the war with the rank of major. He has suffered attacks of epilepsy since the work. He leaves a wife and three children.

Miss Dorothy Sweeney is critically ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sweeney of Jackson street.

Local young ladies who attended the fraternity dance at C. A. C., Storrs Friday evening included Misses Loretta Cardinal, Alice Dion, Bessie Bradshaw and Dorothy Hevrin.

Two of four alleged hold-up men were captured in a restaurant on Pell street in the heart of Chinatown, New York, after one of them is said to have shot and killed Yee Wing Bon, a waiter.

JEWETT CITY

At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the alarm of fire on the big whistle from station 14, aroused the sleeping borough and brought the firemen to the Liberty Hill block, Main street, owned by Maynard Brothers. Chief Wakeley and his men found the tailoring establishment of M. Gittleman, on the street floor, a roaring furnace. A bystander arriving at the same time as the truck, said he wouldn't give a cent for the whole building. However, results proved that he had not reckoned well, with the fire-fighting skill of Wakeley's men. They got two streams through the front and back, and by well directed effort, kept the fire where it started, in Gittleman's shop. The firemen were handicapped with one low pressure stream from the hydrant, directly opposite the fire because of a bad leak above the coupling.

The tailor shop, with its contents and fittings is a total loss, which will be covered by the insurance carried. The building was damaged to the extent, according to Mr. Maynard's statement, of rising $2,000, also covered by insurance. Smoke and water did not far from $1,500 damage to R. J. Guy's wallpaper and paint shop, also on the ground floor. Mr. Guy is insured. Reckoned in his loss is his entire new spring stock of high grade wall paper and paint.

The Maple Leaf shop on the second floor, owned by Miss Elisabeth Dealy, was, with its stock pretty well ruined. The proprietor is at present in Manchester, N. H., and no line could be determined on her probable inventory. She is amply protected by insurance. Occupying the two wings of the block are B. R. Gardner's news, candy and novelty store, and E. G. Lague's hyber shop. Insurance covers their loss, of perhaps $100 each. Ed. Bryan, the man who turned in the alarm, says that when he saw it, a great volume of black smoke was pouring from the chimney. Mr. Gittleman claims his stove contained no fire when he left. Chief Wakely and Fire Marshal G. H. Prior seem to lean to the opinion, that a smouldering spark from the stovepipe, which traverses the entire length of the tailor shop, perhaps dropped early in the day, might have caused the bad and stubborn blaze that resulted. There are two reports from men who were in the vicinity before midnight, that they detected the odor of burning cloth.

The original portion of the block, which bore the name of Liberty hall, and which was pretty well gutted on Sunday morning, was built in 1830. The site was purchased from the heirs of Nathan Taylor. The original deed states that the price paid for the land was sixty-five dollars, by the Jewett City school district. The original building had two rooms, and records state that when the classes recited they were obliged to move up to the windows, while others retired to the twilight at the rear.

For many years there was a small belfry on top, yet no bell was ever hung therein. In Liberty hall the first Sunday school in Jewett City was established, and Welcome Browning, born in 1820, perpetuated the memory of the time he attended there by stirring poetry which he wrote. This poem also establishes the fact that the building was called Liberty hall long before the Civil war.

In 1857 the building was sold and the district, in 1858, built a new schoolhouse on, what is now Soule street. Since passing from the hands of the school district, no one piece of property in Griswold, has ever been used for more widely diversified lines of business and public industry.

Miss Gladys Jeffers spent the week end with her aunt, Mrs. R. L. Smith, in Phenix, R. I.

Friday evening several girl friends visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robertson Jr., to give their daughter Isabella a surprise shower, all wishing her happiness and prosperity. Later, sandwiches, pickles cake. Fancy cookies, fruit and coffee were served. Those present were Mrs. Mary Howes, Diana Pepin, Rosanna Gobiel, Agnes Franklin, Florence Barber, Freda Sholes, Martha Davis, Ethel, Bessie and Sadie Thompson and Ruth Stathbun.

On account of fire in building, temporary quarters of M. Gittleman will be 28 Anthony street.—adv.

Miss Gwendolyn Jones of Norwich spent the week-end with Miss Frances Sweet.

Morton Brown, of Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, Mass., is at home for the Easter vacation.

Friends of George Lyden are very glad to see him out again, after being confined to his bed for four months.

Sunday in the borough, was like a day in June, state road traffic showed that many were enjoying automobile excursions of some distance. Attendance at the churches was above the average, with many taking short strolls afield in the afternoon. Grackles have arrived in considerable numbers, noisily discussing the latest black bird gossip from the Rio Grande. Bees were noted buzzing about in the warm air, that at noon touched summer marks.

Lague's barber ship open for business as usual today.—adv.

Among those who sent flowers to the funeral of James Appley were Mr. and Mrs. James Appley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Appley and family, Mrs. Kate Appley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Geer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waters, Mr. and Mrs. John Gill and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wood.

A flock of sixty wild geese flew north over the new Pachaug Grange building, Sunday afternoon, and by their vociferous conversation seemed to be much pleased with the improvement made, since their 1923 journey south.

Blue birds and robins were reported within the borough limits Sunday.

PERSIA HAS ABANDONED IDEA OF A REPUBLIC

London, March 23.—The Persian Parliament has abandone the idea of a republic, but has deposed the shah and has decided to install his infant son on the throne, according to a Teheran dispatch to the Daily Mail.

The correspondent says that a momentous sitting of the national assembly to decide on the future form of government was held Saturday, when, owing to the opposition of the clergy and the public, the agitation in favor of a republic collapsed.

The new shah is two years old, and a regent will be appointed to act during his minority.

Sultan Ahmed Mirza, shah of Persia, born in 1898, succeeded his father, who abdicated in 1909, under a regent. His coronation took place in 1914.

The shah of Persia has been living in Paris, and much antagonism to him developed because of his long absence from his own country.

Walter Morgan, about 40 and a stranger in Gardiner, Me., was arrested there in consequence of statement made by Gurdon C. Snell, a junior in the high school, who was alleged by the authorities to have admitted after his arrest late last night that he ((Snell) had set seven fires here.

BREAK AND ATTEMPTED BREAK DISCOVERED AT NEW LONDON SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 24.—A burglary and an attempted break were reported to the police this morning as having been perpetrated during Saturday night. Both are credited to boys.

Jacob Solomon reported early this forenoon that his stationery store, 30 Main street, had been entered. Police investigation revealed that the thieves ascended a ladder to the roof of Schwaner Brothers' market, passing over to the roof of the Solomon store, from where they went to the rear windows by means of a stairway. A broken window made it easy for the crooks to enter the place. So far as the proprietor of the store could determine the only plunder obtained was $12.85, taken from the cash register. The Solomon store has been the location of many burglaries by boys the past few years.

The attempted break was revealed when Jacob Rochman, proprietor of a baker shop at 117 North Bank street, visited the establishment at 6.30 o'clock Sunday morning and discovered that an effort had been made to force a rear door. A spike was found on the floor near the door which had been used in an endeavor to open the entrance. Entrance was not gained because the crooks were not sufficiently strong to open the door and that they were boys there is little doubt, as the door is held in place only by a small bolt.

Edwin T. Fairbanks, a lodger at the Hotel Winthrop, was arrested Saturday night, charged with breach of the peace. He was liberated this afternoon when his brother, Alexander T. Fairbanks, became surety on a bond of $100 for his brother's appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

About 8 o'clock Saturday night Harriet Thompson, 13, was walking through Gardner avenue. The girl alleges that when she was passing one of the few houses on the avenue, she observed Fairbanks leaving the window through which he had been peering. As Fairbanks reached the highway, the girl alleges he accosted her and his attentions became such that the girl fled to the home of John B. Pendleton of 553 Ocean avenue, where she sought protection. After the girl related her story Mr. Pendleton communicated with the police. Acting Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolmen Henry Hick and John Cavanaugh were assigned to the case.

The Thompson girl declared that her offender was a young man, who had but one arm. Suspicion pointed to Fairbanks, who is known to the police and the suspect was found at his room at the hotel by Acting Sergeant Babcock and Patrolman Hick and was arrested. At the police station the girl identified Fairbanks as her annoyer.

Fairbanks was examined by City Physician George P. Cheney and was pronounced sane. Fairbanks denies that he is guilty of peering through windows or that he molested the girl.

Frank Bolles was found drunk and unable to navigate, on Washington street, last night by Patrolman John Cavanaugh and was taken into custody. Today Bolles furnished a surety on his bond of $25 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Sergeant of Police Nelson Smith, who has been confined to his home on Rogers street several days, resumed duty Saturday, but he was in such a weakened condition that he was ordered to go to his home by his attending physician.

A class of candidates received the third degree at a meeting of the Knights of Columbus this afternoon in the Lyceum theatre. The ceremony was witnessed by a large assemblage of members of the order from New London and nearby cities.

Edward McLoughlin of Union street, Astrosolna Falls of Mitchell court, Tony Lokeeska of Eastern avenue, Thomas Bonanno of Main street and Mrs. Annie Kostecka of Montville, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Bessie Cohen has sold a parcel of land at 78 Truman street to B. Packer.

Minnie R. Lyon and Annie H. Parmelee have sold a tract of land on Colt street with several sheds on the site to Joseph Litvin.

Michael Giri and Carlo and Stephano Cecchinni have sold to Agostino Minucci a building lot on Harbor View Heights.

Mrs. Frank A. Phillips, of Station 6, Waterford, who requested the New London police Friday to arrest John Saunders, 19, for the theft of $30, has, through Sheriff J. H. Tubbs, withdrawn the complaint.

The engagement is announced of Norman Mahan, son of Mrs. Margaret W. Mahan and the late Bryan F. Mahan, to Miss Grace Hale, formerly of New London, now of Belmont, Mass. The marriage will take place at Belmont, Saturday, April 5th.

Elmer Manning and Fred Carlson, sailors, were taken into custody early Sunday morning by a provost guard for boisterous conduct about the streets. Later in the day the sailors were taken to the submarine base for discipline.

Charles P. Olson, 84, died Saturday morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Chapel of Montville, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Olson was born in Sweden, but had resided in Montville the greater part of his life. He is survived by a son, John Olson of Waterford and by five daughters, Mrs. Bertrand Edwards, Mrs. William A. Ritchie, Mrs. Frank Chapel, Miss Gertrude Olson, all of Montville and Mrs. Hicks of Hartford.

Funeral services for Charles Hill were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, Baker's Cove, Eastern Point, Groton. Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church, officiated. Relatives and former friends of Mr. Hill acted as bearers. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

A petition signed by Paul Eldridge and eight others has been filed at the office of the city clerk, protesting against the deplorable condition of Chapel street and requesting that the thoroughfare be put in a condition that will compare favorably with other highways in the Pequot colony. L. Tracy and W. Kyle Sheffield have also filed with the city clerk a protest against the proposed assessment levied against their property in connection with the extension of the Parkway outfall sewer.

Both matters will be submitted to the city council at the regular meeting of that body Monday night.

Louis B. Lincoln, formerly of New London, now of Madison, N. J., has sold a house and lot at 130 Willetta avenue to Carlos B. and Jennie L. Pimer.

Mrs. Clarence W. Kaneen is spending a few days in Worcester, Mass., the guest of her mother, Mrs. Winifred Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Gadbois and daughter, Miss Florence, of 449 Montauk avenue, sailed from New York Saturday on S. S. Olympic for England, to remain several weeks.

A chimney fire occurred at the home of the late Charles E. Rice, 425 Montauk avenue, Friday night, the fire threatening to extend throughout the house. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Rice, who notified fire headquarters. A still alarm caused the Ockford and Pequot Hose companies to respond. With the arrival at the Rice home of the firemen it was revealed that the fire was in the chimney of the fireplace and had worked its way into the partition. A great volume of chemicals was necessary to extinguish the blaze.

Elmer J. Abell has returned to his home in Salem, having visited his daughter, Mrs. H. Addison Rogers, of 604 Bank street.

Theodore Lusta, an alleged crook, who was to have appeared in the police court Saturday, did not show up then, so the surety on his bond of $1,000 will have to hand over to the city of New London that amount. Lusta was accused of having stolen a gold watch and fob chain from the McGarry rooming house in Tilley street last January, when he stayed there for a brief time. He was held in the police court and his bail was fixed at $1,000. He was to appear in the court to answer Saturday, the 15, but he did not show up then and an agreement was made that he should have until the 22d to make his trip to New London to plead to the complaint. His non-appearance will cost $1,000, for the United States Guaranty and Security company is the surety on the bond and will be compelled to pay the amount the bond calls for. The representative of the company has been so advised. That's an easy $1,000 for the city to pick up.

The town of Groton, or at least the second school district, the borough has begun the erection of a school building that will be an ornament to the borough and which will afford adequate facilities for pupils. The district has instructed Charles M. Adams, representing the school district to sign a note of $65,000 on behalf of the district to finance the project. While New London is quibbling about the erection of a school building the borough of Groton is going right along with its plans and will have the new school building erected during the coming summer. It will be ready for occupancy in the fall.

Mike Cahill, a Waterford farmhand, came to town Friday and looked upon booze that is sold at 50 cents a drink in this city. He not only looked upon it, but he absorbed enough of it to lay him by the side of the highway on Belden street, where he was found by police officers. Mike said he had $130 due to him for his work, but that he didn't have any money in his duds. He was very good-natured about it, and apparently told the truth as to his finances. He could not remember what he drank, he said, nor where he drank it, but he did recollect that he had all he should have taken before he went down for a sleep beside the road. Judge Prince took all the circumstances into consideration and then decided that Michael would be better off working for himself to add to the sum he had saved than he would be working for the county without pay, so he sent him back to the farm.

Strauss & Macomber are to change the location of their business between now and the first of May, when the lease of the firm on its present quarters will expire. The building has been sold to a ten-cent store management, and it is expected it will be razed and that a new structure will succeed it. Strauss and Macomber are to move to the store vacated this week by Reagan Brothers.

Lieut. Benjamin Beebe suffered another attack at his home on School street this afternoon and was not at his desk at the police station tonight. It is believed that Lieut. Beebe's illness is not of a serious nature.

An automobile, the ownership of which was not established, struck a two-wheeled cart, the property of Arist Konsidis, 65 Shaw street, this evening, on Huntington street. The car was overturned and its contents of peanuts and confectionery distributed in the highway. Konsidis was knocked down and sustained superficial cuts and bruises. An automobile, owned by Ales Radivanovics of 340 West Main street, Norwich, which was parked side the curb near Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, was struck by the peanut vender's outfit for the latter vehicle was hurled against it, causing disfigurement to Radzivanovics's car. The driver of the colliding automobile speeded away without stopping to determine what damage he had caused or the extent of Konsidis' injuries. Radzivanovics is a Norwich real estate and insurance dealer.

No developments have occurred as to the result of the hearing of charges made against Police Sergeant Charles Hammond by Lieut. Benjamin Beebe of drinking while on duty and on which a hearing was held by the police board in the municipal building Friday. It is expected, however, that within the next day or two City Manager William A. Holt, a member of the board, will make a recommendation to the board for that body's approval or disapproval, but what the recommendation will be no one can tell and the board is powerless to render a decision until the recommendation is received and acted upon.

MYSTIC

Mrs. Gertrude C. Baubumas who died Friday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Linsen, in Quinebaug after a year's illness, was born in Creiseldt, Germany, the daughter of Carl and Helen Laurangen Scharfhausen. ## PREPARING FOR REICHSTAG ELECTIONS IN GERMANY

Berlin, March 23.—(By the A. P.)—The German political parties are perfecting their lineups for the forthcoming elections to the reichstag. The party platforms, so far as they have been revealed, indicate that the political fight will center about the principles championed by the extreme right and left parties.

The German national program makes a chauvinistic bid for votes from men and women who desire the reestablishment of a "Christian social and monarchial state" and who are opposed to the stigma of German war guilt and the Versailles treaty. The United socialists will wage their fight on the communists. Defense of the eight hour day and a demand for rigid taxation are parts of their platform.

The Bavarian reactionaries are booming Admiral Von Tirpitz as a presidential nominee.

DANIELSON

A theory is advanced that the crashing of an automobile against the bridge at Oneco last fall may have had something to do with its collapsing, about two weeks ago when state highway trucks were thrown into the water and Clarence Gates drowned. The touring car that struck the bridge is believed to have greatly weakened or snapped off one of the girders. It is understood that no careful examination of the bridge was made following the accident referred to, so unless careful examination of parts of the bridge is now made, what has been described as a theory may always remain so. It was stated Saturday that some parts of the collapsed bridge had been taken to Hartford by representatives of the state highway department.

The temporary bridge replacing the one that went down is now open to travel.

Louis Gaudin, 64, a native of France, died at his home on Tiffany street Saturday night. He had been in failing health for some time and seriously ill the past few weeks. Mr. Gaudin had been a resident of Danielson for years and was employed in the Quinebaug mill. He is survived by his wife.

Relatives here were notified Saturday of the death in Providence, during the early morning hours, of A. E. St. Onge, formerly engaged in the jewelry business in Danielson. Mr. St. Onge's death came suddenly and was a shock to his family and friends.

He had been ill with heart trouble for some time, but his condition was not regarded as critical. Friday evening he seemed unusually well and listened in on a radio at his home until about 11.30. He retired soon afterwards. About 4 a. m. he awakened distressed and died before a physician could be summoned to attend him.

Mr. St. Onge had been engaged as an automobile salesman in Providence for the past twelve years and was well known in that trade. Prior to going to Providence he had disposed of his business interests here. Before coming to Danielson Mr. St. Onge was a resident of Putnam.

Mr. St. Onge leaves his wife, who before their marriage was Miss Kennedy of Dayville, three daughters, Mrs. Louis Maynard, Mrs. John Hadley and Miss Dorothy St. Onge, all of Providence, and three brothers, William and Alcid of Putnam and Harry of Worcester.

The lower tax rate fixed by the adjourned annual town meeting last week is going to mean a considerable saving for each individual taxpayer on real property in the town of Killingly this year. The 18 mill rate represents a reduction of 1 1-2 mills from the rate in force last year. With heavy taxpayers the saving will be material, but will be appreciated by all who benefit by it, in any degree.

Ice was going out of the rivers here Sunday, when much open water showed along the route of the streams. Lakes and ponds remain covered with ice, this being unusually late for such a condition in this vicinity. Ice on the lakes is becoming thin and worn, however, and with good weather they should be cleared during the present week.

Depression in the textile business in many sections of New England results in a constant drumming of plants hereabouts that are operating by those who would like jobs. It so happens, however, that the territory hereabouts has its certain quota of unemployed, so that those who come from the outside find little to encourage them in their seeking after work.

Relative to textile matters, it is of interest to note that plans are underway to resume manufacturing at the plant of the River Weaving company, near the state armory. Warps are being made for looms that are to manufacture a certain line of cottons not heretofore produced in this plant.

Amending the federal constitution does not appear to amend human nature in any great degree. Less than half a dozen women attended a political party caucus here last week, while the attendance at the millinery opening at the week end ran into the hundreds.

PUTNAM

Saturday afternoon delegates authorized by the republican caucuses held in towns of the 28th district—Putnam, Thompson, Woodstock, Killingly, Eastford and Ashford—met in Putnam for the senatorial district caucus to elect delegates-at-large to attend the state convention at Hartford, April 2nd and 3rd, to elect the state's delegation to the republican national convention in Cleveland in June.

Byron D. Bugbee, of Putnam, was chairman of the convention and Sarah C. Crosby, of Thompson, was clerk. The delegates elected were State Central Committeeman G. Harold Gilpatric, of Putnam, and Senator Clarence H. Child, of Woodstock.

Members of the state central committee from this district elected were G. Harold Gilpatric and Miss Katherine Byrne, both of Putnam.

The following nominating committee appointments were made: Vice president, Oliver A. Hiscox of Woodstock; permanent organization, Frederick D. Hutchins, Pomfret; credentials, Luther M. Keith, Putnam; rules, Mrs. Ida E. Armington, Killingly.

When the convention adjourned it was to the Putnam Inn where 19 sat down to luncheon specially prepared by Landlord Rogers.

The new report of the state bank commissioner, just issued, evidences that the Putnam Savings bank is one of the strongest in the state. This is shown by the the difference between its deposits and its total resources, the difference being a good ten per cent of its deposits. The bank has also shown a decided increase over a year ago. The statement is of October, 1923, and is as follows: Deposits, $3,028,281.45; resources, $3,295,519.68. The same figures for 1922 were: Deposits, $2,752,243.05, resources, $2,991,509.48. Increase in deposits amount to $271,048.40 over 1922 and increase in resources amount to $304,010.20.

Michael Blake of New York spent the week-end in Putnam, called here by the death of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Blake of Pomfret street.

The coveted football letters at Putnam High have been awarded the following players: Captain Ed Arnold, Captain-elect Ellis Prichard, Allen Thayer, Sydney King, Gerard Cartier, Ralph Davis, Charles Murphy, Thomas Elliott, William Valentine, Harold Arnold, Perry Barber, Thomas Cody and Earle Geissler.

Pomfret school closed Saturday for the spring recess. Many of the boys took the train at Pomfret station, but a good number came to Putnam Saturday morning to take trains here. When the boys return baseball practice will begin in earnest. The school has some good material for the 1924 team.

At the meeting of the Men's club of the Congregational church in the church banquet room, April 23nd, there is to be a supper, singing and an address by Rev. Boynton Merrill, former pastor of the church, now assistant pastor of the New Old South church, Boston. The acceptance of Mr. Merrill to be present is gratifying to the committee in charge of arrangements for the club member will be especially pleased to welcome and hear from their former pastor.

The meeting of Putnam lodge of Elks Tuesday night will be held in Music hall on account of the large class of candidates ready for initiation. The class will number nearly 50, the largest number ever taken into the local lodge at one time. The officers of Willimantic lodge have accepted the invitation to come to Putnam and work the degree. Following the initiation and business of the lodge the grill committee will take charge and serve supper.

The appearance in Putnam last week of a representative of the state board of health, who came to investigate the manner in which slaughterhouses were being conducted, again brings to mind that Putnam has absolutely no local meat inspection. As one official, in close touch with such affairs, said "They can sell any old thing as meat in this city and nothing is done about it." While this statement may be a bit too broad, some of the better class meat dealers have for some time urged the appointment of a local meat inspector claiming that some of the animals killed and their carcasses offered over the counter at low prices need expert inspection. While the health officer makes periodical inspection of slaughter houses and has some power regarding the sale of foodstuffs, it needs an expert to make such an inspection of meat as will safeguard the public from having diseased meat foisted upon them.

There have been a number of efforts to bring about local meat inspection but without result. A few years ago, upon invitation of a local veterinarian, city officials and members of the common council were taken to a slaughter house over the city line and there were shown animals that had been condemned and slaughtered. The interior of these animals showed convincing signs of tuberculosis and from these animals milk had been sold consumers in this city. At the time the veterinarian told the officials that oftentimes if not properly inspected, the carcasses of such animals were offered as meat to the consumers for, when properly dressed, the ravages of disease could only be detected by one trained in discovering it. The effort made at this time to have local meat inspection was no more successful than before.

PLAINFIELD

The annual Every Member Canvass of the First Congregational church parish was held Sunday afternoon. The twenty-four members of the two teams met at 12.30 for a luncheon, served in the vestry by the members of the O. J. H. Sunday school class, with Mrs. Arthur Moffitt in charge. After the luncheon, a statement of the financial affairs of the church was asked for, and this, with a statement of the budget, was given by Charles F. Heap, chairman of the society's committee. The two teams were then chosen by the team captains, Cecil L. Butler and Ray W. Greene, and divided into groups of two each, each group to have its territory to cover. The work was then explained by the captains, after which the members of the teams started forth.

The budget this year will call for $4500, about $700 more than was asked for last year. This increase has been made necessary by the added expense in running the church, and by the interest on the debt which was necessitated by the alterations in the church this past year. A way of lessening the budget was found in the duplex envelop system. In previous years the money appropriated by the church for missionary work, has been taken from the treasury and added to the budget. This year, the duplex envelope with two compartments, one for the church and the other for missionary work, will be used, thereby lightening the load on the treasury.

The teams reported to the treasurer, Walter P. Lathrop, at the church Sunday evening and the results of the canvass were very gratifying.

Mrs. Walter P. Lathrop and little son, Ralph Cushman Lathrop, return home today (Monday) from Mrs. Harry Sherman's, Oneco. Mr. Lathrop was over to see Mrs. Lathrop and infant Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Elsie Briggs of Oaklawn, R. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Lathrop of this town, is staying at the Dorrance home.

Fred Gardiner is making steady progress on his new house. The house is a large up-to-date building, containing eight rooms.

Mrs. Arthur C. Tillinghast spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Payne of Jewett City.

Mrs. Rose Beaudry has returned home from the Day-Kimball hospital, Putnam.

The Plainfield Buddies went to Peacedale, R. I., Tuesday evening of last week, where they took a defeat in a very hard fought, close game, at the hands of the Peacedale Strollers, score 34-31.

Another swimming meet has been arranged for Friday evening of this week, this one being with the South Manchester team. Plainfield has developed a very good team, as was proved last Friday evening, when they administered a defeat to the Norwich Y. M. C. A. team, so an interesting meet is promised for Friday night.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Boy Scouts, Troop No. 1 is to be held in the basement of the Congregational church this (Monday) evening. Plans are under way for an entertainment to be given by the boys, for the purpose of raising money for a present to the church. A committee, consisting of Earle Butler, Alfred Royle, and Curtice Phillips, has been appointed to arrange for his entertainment some time in April.

Ralph Rundell has left Plainfield to take up work in the poultry department on a large estate in Arlnonk, Westchester county, New York. F. G. Hohman, a well known young man of this village is superintendent of the poultry department on this estate. Mr. Hohman held a position with William J. Tilley while he was proprietor of a large poultry farm in Packerville, Conn.

WESTERLY

Those who attended are still commenting in terms of warmest praise on the clever entertainment given Friday evening by St. Michael's parish Boy and Girl Scouts, "South Sea Smiles," which was written and directed by the scoutmaster, George P. Chapman, of that parish. St. Michael's Scouts—boys and girls—number two hundred and have been organized and largely trained by the assistant pastor, Rev. Father, John J. Keane. Not only has Father Keane effected this organization, but he has a girls' bugle corps as well as a boys' drum corps among the scouts. For the Friday evening entertainment before a packed house the music was by John Getchell and Raymond Mullaley; costumes by the Conn. Council of Catholic Women; dances by Sophia Lynch.

The cast included: Jessie Hughes, Mary Mullaley, Frances Kelliher, Anna Barrett, Raymond Burdick, George Ward, Myles Brennan, Tony Tokkas, Maurice McGuinness, Herbert Smith, Arthur Brennan, Tutti Sanguedolce, Walter Riordan, Margaret LaBounty, George McKnight, Sophia Lynch.

Workmen from a moving firm in New London having carried a heavy steel door of the vault into the New Washington Trust Co. building Friday, worked late in the evening in getting the massive piece of steel close up to the entrance of the vault.

The board of assessors of the Westerly fire district, Walter C. Hiscox, Oliver P. Crandall and D. Harold Rogers, are to hold a session in the council chamber Wednesday evening, April 9th, to hear anyone interested in and especially the abutting property owners of the present lines of the fire district. The annual fire district meeting held December 5, 1924, directed that the board of assessors be instructed to investigate the advisability of extending the boundaries of the Westerly fire district and report to a future special meeting of the district. The assessors were in session at the office of the Westerly town clerk Friday afternoon from 1 to 5 for the purpose of receiving accounts of executors, administrators, guardians, trustees as well as other persons concerning their rateable property.

In the book printed in 1792, on the constitutions, Free and Accepted Masons to which were added the history of Masonry, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and which was procured by William A. Wilcox at the Brown farm auction the past week, on page 119, under date of January 12, 1753 appears the following: "The petition of several brethren residing at New London, in the colony of Connecticut, for dispensation to erect a Lodge there, was granted. Under date of February 4, 1754, appears "in compliance with the petition of several brethren resident in Middletown in Connecticut, a charter constituting a regular lodge there, was granted" and also on page 149: "a petition was also presented from several brethren requesting the establishment of a Lodge at Norwich, in Connecticut, whereupon, voted, That a charter be granted under the title of 'Columbia Lodge.'" This was under date of July 28, 1785.

Zanzibar is described in a letter received by Alexander C. Thompson under recent date from his son, Capt. Allan L. Thompson of S. S. Eastern Glade, 4,521 tons, Mallory Transport lines, who makes his home in Westerly. Capt. Thompson says that his earliest recollections of names connected with the sea are Frisco, Hong Kong and Zanzibar, and little did he think that he would eventually skipper a ship into Zanzibar. In the days of the old wind-jammers the captain says it must have taken a good man to put a craft into that harbor, especially during the northeast monsoon, as at all times there is a strong current and tide in the Zanzibar channel with reefs on each side, making the navigable part about ten miles wide.

The entrance to the channel is well marked now with very good lights at Ras KaKasi and Dar es Salaam and a fair light on Pungee Island, which is at the southeast point of entrance, the first two lights being on the mainland. As one enters the channel, the light on Chube Island is raised so that there are always at least two lights visible for cross bearings. Just off Chube Island there is a small reef with smaller water on it so that the captain ran Chube Island light a-b and changed the course to run across the harbor entrance range lights. It was just daybreak as this turn was made so that the ship was slowed down for there was only five miles to go to the entrance through the reef, which makes the harbor for Zanzibar. It is at this point that the pilot is picked up, usually by radio twenty-four hours before a ship's arrival.

Tuesday of the week of his arrival Capt. Thompson went ashore long enough to transact the ship's business, but on Wednesday the chief and captain went ashore, investigating. The manager for the Texas Oil company took them out to the Go Down, where the oil is landed and stored. On the return trip they passed through the bazaar, where the Indians were making or selling almost everything conceivable. It is a long, narrow street on either side of which are houses made out of mud and volcanic stone of the island. The roofs are thatched with the branches from cocoanut palms, but each house has a wonderfully carved teakwood doorway, and some of them are beautiful. In many of the tailor shops was a Singer sewing machine. At the Texas Oil company shop the average amount sold at one time is a measure no larger than an after dinner coffee cup. A four ounce bottle full is a marked extravagance.

Captain Thompson wrote of a visit to an agent for an oil company, his home being daintily arranged with oriental rugs and Indian furniture. At the time of his arrival the agent's wife was quieting a row among the boys. The cook had returned to cook the lunch and found the "totum" the cook's helper, who among other things keeps the fire going) asleep and the fire low. The cook beat up the totum at the time of the arrival of the host and his guest. Two boys served the table and each minds strictly his own duties. Following tea an automobile ride was taken to BuBuBu and one of the government clove plantations, it being the terminus of a railroad line, which are two streaks of iron with a locomotive that would be just right for a watch charm, beside which one of the little French engines looks like a mogul. The equipment consists of a series of four wheels and on each set of wheels a framework filled with Indians and natives. The cars resemble a subway jam at the rush hour. The clove plantations are made up of trees set in straight rows growing tall and thin, resembling a juniper tree with the leaves long in color and texture like our laurel. The cloves grow in clumps or bunches on the branches and sprigs. The natives climb the trees, receiving so much a measure for picking the cloves. Cocoanut palm trees grow straight and tall and filled with clumps of nuts. The natives are picking, or rather cutting the ripe cocoanut now in the groves, but clove picking is about over for this season.

The town of Zanzibar is very quaint—the streets running "every which way." Those in numbers have two ends and those without lead into some Indian back door. There are such a lot of natives, Indians and Arabs passing all the time, that it resembles a regular procession, and they just seem to ooze along, their motions are so stately. The motive power is man, bullock and donkey.

Captain Thompson on leaving Zanzibar passed out by the south end of Comoro Island, Mt. Kartala, 7,874 feet high was in sight for a long distance. It is volcanic and spits every little while. At night the burning sulphur is visible on the south side of the mountain.

Miss Grace Hopkins of New York arrived Saturday to be the guest of Mrs. Catherine J. Farrell.

Alice T. Rathbun has conveyed to Forbes B. Duguid et ux a parcel of land with buildings and improvements on the west side of Main street and bounded on the west by the Pawcatuck river and on the east and south sides by seventeen foot passway, which passway extends 17 feet west from the northwest corner of the Leonard hotel. The premises and right of way were those conveyed to Charles H. Chapman by Emery Babcock and Ezra Babcock on August 29, 1876, being inherited by the above grantor. The premises are occupied as a livery stable by William A. Burk, whose lease expires about the middle of June.

The last marriage license recorded by Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple was on February 16th and there has not been another entry until Saturday, March 22, when two licenses were granted. "In the spring a young man's fancy," etc.

Mrs. Albert B. Crofts, formerly of Westerly, has returned to Providence after a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Obar Abbott, in Saginaw, Mich.

The engagement of Mrs. Catherine J. Farrell to Charles H. Cushman, a superintendent for the Westerly Light and Power Company was announced at a dinner given at the Rhode Island Hotel Sunday night. There were present about twenty friends at a turkey dinner. The table decorations consisted of sweet peas and daffodils arranged in mossed baskets. Mrs. Farrell has been a bookkeeper for the Whitall Electric Company for several years, coming to Westerly from New York.

The death of Mrs. Louis J. Frankenstein, of Westerly occurred at the Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, early Saturday morning. Mrs. Frankenstein had undergone an operation her strength not being sufficient to overcome complications which followed. She was born in Westerly, Feb. 6th, 1857, the daughter of Sally Dixon and Jesse Lathrop Moss, of a family connected with manufacturing operations in town. Following her attendance at Westerly and New York schools she was united in marriage with Louis J. Frankenstein, who died November 10th, 1903. She is survived by three daughters, Miss Katharine Dixon Frankenstein of New York City Sally M. Frankenstein and Mrs. Russell Hemphill of Westerly and by a grandson, Roderick J. Hemphill, and a brother, Jesse L. Moss, of Lake Forest, Ill.

Box 66 was sounded Saturday afternoon for a brush fire, undoubtedly caused by locomotive sparks, in a lot off Oak street east of the Coduri Granite Works. The R. I. No. 1 truck and firemen responded and the flames were extinguished by the use of chemical tanks before they could reach the buildings of the Coduri plant. Sunday afternoon the firemen were called for a brush fire near Burden's Pond.

The temptation of a gold watch and chain on a shelf in the bedroom of Rupert H. Austin, at the home of his father, Reuben W. Austin, 15 Newton, proved too great for Angelo Algiero, 22, for when he went away from the house, after being left alone in the room, the watch and chain disappeared. Soon after the young man had gone away from the house, where he had been to see Mr. Austin's son, the absence of the watch was noticed and Mr. Austin remembered seeing Algiero in Wilcox park apparently looking at a watch, as he was on his way home, about 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Father and son immediately started out to locate Angelo and Patrolman Michael Curtin was notified. Rupert Austin went up Oak street to await Algiero's return home. It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when he met him near his home and a trip to the police station was made with Patrolman Curtin who had returned to Oak street. At the police station Algiero denied all knowledge of the missing watch until Officer Curtin directed Rupert to go and telephone the man who had reported seeing him with the watch. Algiero then directed young Austin to the place on Oak street where they had met and a visit to the place revealed the watch wrapped in a handkerchief in some bushes where it had been tossed. The watch was valued as a gift.

Algiero who was detained at the police station to await the action of the Third district court Sunday night at 7 o'clock, was presented before Judge Michael J. Turano, on a complaint charging him with the larceny of a watch to the value of $25. Algiero pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs of $3.80, amounting to $53.80, which he paid.

PARTICIPANTS WOUNDED IN DUEL WITH SWORDS

Buenos Aires, March 23.—(By the A. P.)—General Augustin Justo, minister of war, and General Dellepaine, head of the military forces in Buenos Aires, fought a duel with swords this afternoon. Both men were slightly wounded.

The encounter followed criticisms of the Argentine army by a major. The minister was unable to meet him owing to their difference in rank. Thereupon General Dellepaine took the major's place, declaring himself to be in accord with the major's criticisms.

General Justo tendered his resignation to President Alvear so that he might be able to fight.

DIED FROM A WOUND RECEIVED FIVE YEARS AGO

New York, March 23.—Patrolman Leo Sexton died in Harlem hospital today from cerebral hemorrhage traced by physicians to a bullet wound received in a bandit chase five years ago.

The man who shot him, released from Sing Sing 15 months ago after serving his term for the robbery, was sought by police tonight on a murder charge.

BANNING ARMS TO HONDURAS.

Quite the same as in the case of Mexico, President Coolidge has decreed that no arms or ammunition can be sent from this country to Honduras. Placing the ban on such shipments may not debar the revolutionists from getting munitions of war but it will shut off the American market and re-emphasize the fact that the United States stands for constitutional government and not revolutions.

The situation in Honduras is a bit different than that in Mexico in view of the fact that the people had failed to elect a president in the election, resulting in the termination of a constitutional government and, with three leaders striving to get control of the government. It is therefore not a case of taking sides, but of standing against revolutionary tactics.

What the situation in that country is can be realized from the call for American marines to give protection to American lives and property in the capital of Honduras. Disorder and the inability to give protection discloses a chaotic condition, and above all the need of preventing American munitions being sent to a country where American life has been taken and where they might be used for further acts of violence and terror.

Thus the action of the president in shutting off any supply of arms and ammunition was prompted by excellent judgment and the furtherance of the same policy that was established relative to Mexico. The lack of a government recognized by the United States in Honduras adds to the complications of the situation, but it was time to do all possible for the protection of American lives and property and to prevent all needless bloodshed and destruction.

Whatever the feeling may be relative to this country's policy it cannot be overlooked that it is taking the highly commendable stand of endeavoring to use its influence for the real benefit of the country involved and to impress upon it the importance of insisting upon and standing by a constitutional government. It may be hard for such republics to realize it but it is for their own best interests.

FIGHTING A GREAT EVIL.

In the opinion of Dr. Carleton Simon, at the head of the narcotic squad in New York city, the narcotic drug evil is one that is so worldwide in character that only by treaties and international conventions can it be successfully dealt with. Dr. Simon thoroughly understands the drug situation in the metropolis and his squad has brought to light much smuggling, but when a federal official recently declared that every incoming ship is bringing dope that is smuggled ashore it is time that efforts were made to prevent as well as to light the smuggling.

The situation in regard to habit-forming drugs is much the same as the prohibition question was when part of the states were wet and part dry. Because of the amount that was available from the outside and the amount smuggled in enforcement was ineffective. With the narcotics there may be some advantage gained through treaty arrangements which would permit the search for such illegal goods but until there is a general agreement among the nations and a curtailment of the production as well as the distribution of dope there will be the smugglers and the forces necessary to deal with them.

Dr. Simon would make it possible the extradition of those involved in smuggling drugs, which does not prevail now, and he would make it possible for steamships to be searched at sea. This action he believes would be welcomed by the steamship companies, which are at present fined when illegal drugs are found aboard.

That such agreements would be of assistance in fighting the evil can be appreciated but along with it should be perfected an understanding among nations whereby recognition would be given to the drug evil and the production of narcotics would be restricted to such an amount as is required for medical and scientific purposes. It is a big undertaking but no more so than the problem required, and the quicker success is attained in that direction the quicker will there be relief from the widespread demoralization of humanity through the drug habit.

DEALING WITH A MENACE.

It is only occasionally that attention is directed to the practice of courts in giving accused persons the alternative of getting out of town instead of going to jail. Invariably it is the case when such an order is passed that the offense is trivial, possibly being no more than idleness. There are instances when such a disposition may be looked upon as the wisest thing to be done. But such a view can hardly be taken when it actually involves the treatment of a menace.

A case of this kind came before a St. Louis judge and a young man had been convicted several times of rowdyism in connection with the use of his automobile, while he was known among the police as a disrespector of laws. Because he had money he seems to have been a privileged character, and as is usual in efforts to reform such persons he neither cared for nor paid any attention to the fines that were imposed on him. He paid them like so many license fees. In his last appearance in court the proposition was put forth by the judge that instead of a sentence of 90 days in jail he might elect to leave the state, it being the presumption that he must stay away.

He of course decided to leave the state and has gone apparently to find out whether other states are disposed to be as tolerant of his methods as Missouri has been. He has been turned loose as a recognized menace upon the other 47 states. Perhaps Missouri regards that as the cheapest and quickest method of getting rid of this individual, but it can be surmised what the attitude of that state would be in regarded to such a course is adopted by a neighboring state. No state wants a highway menace wished or thrust upon it. No state wants to do the work of dealing with the reckless that have been sent out of others. No state wants its people subjected to the same recklessness which St. Louis is unwilling to tolerate. It is a method of dealing with a menace which does not make a good impression.

SUPER POWER SYSTEMS.

Cheaper power and more satisfactory power systems have been advocated for many years. The need of utilising more extensively the natural resources of the country, and particularly the vast amount of waterpower that is going to waste, has been repeatedly urged. Progress is slow but progress is nevertheless being made.

While a super power system to include the states of New York and New Jersey in addition to New England has been urged, in which there would be made available a vast amount of power through the cooperation of various existing companies and the addition of others, there has been a development of this character by the bringing together of nine light and power companies for the mutual exchange of power. It is known as the coal field group and includes Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland and means that there will be two million horse power available for distribution by plants located largely in the coal fields to some of the most important manufacturing centers of the country.

Through the means thus established of distributing power that is developed at the mouth of the mines not only increased and better service is planned but also cheaper power, the great industrial desire of the present time.

If this can be done by the bringing of steam plants together under such an agreement as this, it is not difficult to appreciate how much greater advantages lie in the establishment of an even greater super system that would include the utilization of hydro electric plants, existing or projected, for distribution to communities far from the coal mines and even now unable to get all the cheap power that is required. New England and New York have the natural advantages that have long been crying for effective development.

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

Statistics may be dull and uninteresting but it cannot fail to attract attention when the savings accounts of the United States show that there is an appreciable gain therein. In spite of the high cost of living, the day of big expenses and the tendency to extravagance it is significant when it is shown that of the total bank deposits of the country the savings accounts aggregated one-half last year and that there has been a gain of nearly 100 per cent in the savings accounts in the past eleven years.

Exhortation to thrift is nothing new. It was begun a long time ago and there are those who have always practiced it. But with due allowance for the increase in population and the present day conditions there is much gratification to be gained from the thrift that is displayed by the savings accounts of the country.

It not only displays the result of the work in behalf of thrift but the recognition of the principle by a steadily increasing number of people. Regardless of what is earned much depends upon what is saved, how waste is overcome and how resourcefulness is permitted to keep busy.

Savings accounts likewise can be looked upon as the work of those with modest incomes. Others look to different fields for various reasons, but wise is the individual who not only puts aside something for the rainy day but who abandons the idea that all that is earned should be spent. The healthy growth of savings accounts is a good sign.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Left over cereals may be used thicken soups, stews or gravies.

An excellent breakfast food is browned bread crumbs and cream.

In the washing of gloves, whether leather or frabrics, avoid hot water.

If potatoes are cooked in an iron pot they have a much better flavor.

Never put meat into water to wash it, but wipe with a damp cloth.

To bake potatoes quickly boil 10 minutes in salted water, then place in a hot oven to finish cooking.

Try filling the cavity of the apples cored for baking with orange marmalade and a little butter and sugar.

For cream of tomato soup, heat 1 cupful of evaporated milk and add to 1 cupful of concentrated tomato soup diluted with boiling water. Season and serve immediately.

Many things can be nicely baked in the ash pan of the base burner. Shake down the ashes; regulate to a moderate heat; place whatever is to be baked in the ash pan and cover.

Berry pies will not bubble over if you don't stretch the crust. The bottom crust should lie loosly in the plate, and the top crust should have a fold in it to allow for shrinkage.

The picnic salad can be wrapped in waxed paper, packed in paraffin drinking cups and eaten with paper spoons.

A small embroidery hoop covered with mosquito netting makes a nice flower holder for short-stemmed flowers.

If a recipe calls for one cupful of milk, you can use half cupful of evaporated milk and half cupful of water in its place.

An easy way to wash small fruits and berries is to place them in the corn popper and shake in a pail of cold water.

Strained spinach, peas, asparagus, young carots and young beets are the first vegetables a child should have.

TO KEEP FISH FRESH

To keep fish fresh, clean the fish and sprinkle it inside with brown sugar. Keep the fresh in a horizontal position so that the sugar may soak into it as much as possible. Half an ounce of sugar will be found quite sufficient for three pounds of fish. If a fish is treated by this method before salting and smoking the flavor is much improved.

IRON MOULD

A solution of begonia leaves will remove the iron mould better than anything else. Simmer the begonia leaves until a dark green solution is obtained. Rub the solution, when cold, on the mould stain and leave on the garment for about five minutes. Then rinse in clear water and expose to the sun. If one application does not bring the desired results, try it again.

MERINGUE

There is one way in which you can make meringue and always be sure of the result. Beat the eggs to a stiff, dry froth. Remove the beater and with a silver spoon beat in one tablespoon of powdered sugar to each egg white. Add the flavor then, if there is to be any, and beat until dry and fluffy.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

For keeping the complexion of the nose, use light compresses of cotton saturated with rose water every day. A stronger lotion for the same purpose made from a quarter ounce refined powdered borax, one-half ounce cologne, one ounce rose water, four ounces water. Moisten and hold this compress over your nose for about half a minute or until there is a prickly sensation. Repeat the process several times a day.

Hands should be white as well as soft and shapely. A good whitening lotion to be used daily may be made from four ounces cologne, one ounce elderflower water and one-half teaspoonful borax. This should be used after the cold cream massage, as the cologne is drying.

The shampoo should be thorough. Never, never rub a cake of soap on your hair. A liquid shampoo or a soap jelly made at home should be used. Beat up a thick lather in about a quart of warm water. Rub the lather into the scalp; also rub each strand of hair with the suds. Rinse and repeat soaping process. The final rinsing must be very thorough; a bath spray is a great help in removing all traces of soap. Dry the hair by rubbing between warmed Turkish towels.

Dried lemon and orange peel are splendid for bringing up a fire which has died down. All peel should be collected and dried in an oven that is cooling off after cooking and then stored in an old bag. This revives the fire without crackling which is sometimes annoying in a sick room.

SUGAR HINT

If you desire something a bit different, rub the cube sugar over an orange which has been cut, thus letting it absorb some of the juice. Then when you serve tea later in the day use this sugar for it. It imparts a delightful flavor to the tea.

SPORT-LOVING GIRL

The girl who takes her sports seriously will delight in the new suits and separate coats of heavy woolen material that are imported from Scotland. The colors are a clever blending of fawns and browns that sink into the surrounding landscape in quite a remarkable fashion. One smart little box coat has a waistcoat of the same material for added warmth.

HIDES POWDER PUFF

Quite the cleverest of the flower-bands which today serve to conceal the powder puff is the evening handeau. A rose or a long leafy garland falls to the wearer's shoulder, and inside the rose the powder and mirror are conveniently hidden.

FOR LONGER WEAR

To make a shirt last longer, rip off the neckband each side just back of the shoulder seam a little more than half its length and cut straight down the fronts from shoulders, through the hem. Now bring the fronts up so as to cut off all worn places. Just below one button and buttonhole shape again to fit neckband and shoulder, and seam into place. Even off the flap and the shirt will wear as much longer.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Nets are popular this season not only for dresses but for blouses.

Peasant embroidery is used effectively on the sleeves of some of the new crepe de chine dresses.

French blue flannel is shown in any number of attractive frocks with black or white monogrammed scarves.

Double frills and jabots are worn on some of the newest overblouses to counteract the too plain appearance of the more masculine type of shirt-waist.

There is a vogue just now for short necklaces; indeed, some of them as big a robin's eggs, in a variety of colors, sometimes strung without definite pattern.

Slip girdles of Italian silk, worn below the waist to give the merest suggestion of support about the hips, are very popular with those women who like a trim line and yet rebel at the idea of a corset.

The young girl of 12 or thereabouts will revel in the new spring coats of plaid. The colors of these plaids are light and springlike. Some of the models show the smart cape back.

The familiar little hat of black taffeta gains a new charm when it is embroidered in an all-over pattern that is worked out in red, gold and large pearl beads.

Among the spring styles, more definitely than among the winter, the beltless model is seen. Whether coat or dress, whether formal or tailored, the garment that hangs straight from the shoulder is seen with increasing frequency.

A smart black satin coat for spring is very straight as to line, a large monogram in black satin on the left front, and with ermine collars and cuffs.

An unusual hat, made of black satin covered with gold net, has a small band of what was once a Paisley shawl running about the crown tied in a part bow.

A new glove that is equally suitable for street wear or for cold-weather driving is of mocha, sewed with lock-stitch seams, and fastened with wrist straps. A deep gauntlet cuff, on which are embriodered designs, folds downward to serve as a windshield.

FUR AND STRAW

One milliner has created a sensational spring fashion by a combination of straw and fur. One hat by this designer with a crown and brim of soft, light straw and a straw bow standing up behind has the wide brim bordered with a thick band of black fox.

REMOVING WALL PAPER

This hint may help women who would like to try papering their own rooms. Use a stray pump. It is a big help in removing old wall paper. Make a paste somewhat thinner than that used for pasting on the paper, and spray this paste onto the wall very hot. The paper will scrape off easily—indeed, it will almost fall off. Usually strong glue was used in pasting the paper on originally. The reason for using a flour-and-water paste instead of just plain water, is that the water alone is apt to evaporate too quickly. Also, clear water does not have the soaking effect that paste has. Do not make the paste too thick or it will not be able to go through the nozzle of the spray pump.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

A small case of blue leather contains all the needles the most industrious woman could desire. Besides six packages of sewing needles there are knitting and crochet needles of practical size.

To mend fine lace curtains starch a piece of mesh as near like the curtains as possible. Cut the starched patch one inch larger each way than the place to be mended and with a warm iron press it over the hole. If done carefully it will be difficult to detect the hole.

Use silk thread when basting on silk, velvet or cloth. It will not leave an impression under the form. Cotton thread does.

A gay work basket which on account of its shape is particularly adapted to holding knitting is made of wicker and red leather. The knitting needles fit closely to the lid and there is a pocket at each end for wool.

REMOVING STAINS

To remove mildew, moisten the spot with clear water and rub on a thick coating of Castile soap mixed with powdered chalk. Rub in well, then wash off.

Chloroform applied freely with a soft cloth will permanently remove grease spots from white canvas shoes.

Wash corduroy in warm white soapsuds, hold under running water and hang on the line dripping wet. Do not wring. It will look like new when dry.

One tablespoon of kerosene to a quart of lukewarm water makes a splendid solution for washing windows and looking-glasses. It saves time and labor, as the oil makes them shine quickly and removes all the dirt.

Anything hot placed on colored oilcloth turns it white. To remove these spots, rub with alcohol and polish with a dry cloth.

When cleaning black satin shoes, use alcohol, and you will find they look like new.

If you spill alcohol by accident on your highly polished furniture, rub olive-oil on the spot immediately.

WHEN COOKING TENDER MEAT

In cooking tender meat one general method is to be used. The chop or roast is first thoroughly seared on both sides and slightly browned by subjecting it to high heat. After this has been done the heat is reduced somewhat and the meat is cooked to the desired degree in its own juices.

The problem of broiling or roasting is to complete the cooking of the inner part of the cut without overcooking the surface. In the broiling of chops this is done by turning them frequently, which allows for intermittent cooling of one surface while the other is exposed to the heat.

In roasting the hardening of the surface is lessened by basting with water or by covering the roaster after the meat is first browned so that the confined steam accomplishes the basting.

BEST IN DARK SHADES

Color is a special problem for people with stout figures, who appear at their best in dark shades. Checks should be avoided, especially if bright, on garments for stouts and among the stripes the subdued are the best. Light colors should be employed on stouts as little as possible, as they reflect too much light and produce the optical delusion of making the person appear larger than they actually are. The color of the sleeves should never form too strong a contrast to that of the bodice for stout persons.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Louise Moore, blind girl architect, who won a place for herself in her profession despite her handicap, now is aiding other blind girls in Washington, D. C.

As a result of educational work among the women of the Democratic party, probably 10,000 women speakers will take the field in the cause of Democracy during the coming presidential campaign.

As State Librarian of Kentucky, Mrs. J. Campbell Cantrell has the distinction of holding the highest office a woman can hold in that state.

Miss J. Murry Innes is at the head of the leading firm in England producing beautiful colored leather handbags, purses, blotters and calendars.

Twenty million American women belong to some sort of club or society for mutual benefit and for making the world better.

Maria Dougias, the German "Angel of Mercy," was recently selected as one of the six foremost nurses of the world, receiving the Florence Nightingale medal.

WALL DECORATION

A narrow wall space that requires a bit of color will welcome a wall pocket of painted tin with a trellis of green arranged at the back. When filled with growing ivy the effect is excellent.

FOR THE CHILD'S ROOM

Cover unsightly flower pots with heavy black, cartridge paper and paste colored jonquils (made of green and yellow paper), or tulips at intervals around the pot. These covers are most attractive and give the effect of a jardinere.

RECIPES

Potato Fondante: Pile hot, well-seasoned, mashed potato lightly on a well-buttered baking dish; pour over 1-3 cup of triple cream and sprinkle thickly with coarse bread crumbs. Bake on the middle grate of a hot oven until the crumbs are brown. Serve with fried chicken, roast lamb, broiled chops and the like.

Almond and Chocolate Cake: Cream one cup of butter and gradually add one cup of sugar, stirring briskly all the time; add one cup of sweet chocolate, grated. Add the yolks of four eggs, beaten until thick and light, one cup of blanched and fine chopped almond, two cup of rice potatoes. Continue beating then add two cups of flour, sifted with one-half teaspoon of salt, three teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of cinnamon and one-half teaspoon of gloves. Add the flour mixture alternately with 3-4 cup of milk, beating constantly. Lastly beat in the whites of four eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a well-buttered, paper-lined, tube-pan and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. When cold, spread with boiled frosting.

Ford, The "Crazy" Inventor

Henry Ford was intensely fond of mechanics—and he was born and raised on a farm.

When 16 years old, he ran away to Detroit, where he worked 16 hours a day—wages, $4.50 a week—to learn machinery.

Just when hard work brought better pay, and his plan to make 2,000 watches a day was ready, word came that his father was injured and his brother sick.

Back on the farm and working from sun to sun; studying mechanics at night brought the idea of a gasoline engine to propel vehicles.

In Detroit, again, this time with a wife, a long hunt for a job, and he was a night watchman at $45 a month. Later came a $150 a month position, a home built at night, and a shed for experimenting after each 12-hour day.

People scoffed, and neighbors snubbed the wife of the shabby "crazy" inventor. With apparent nothing accomplished, everything looked drab, and it was decided to go back to the farm. That night one more trial—and the first Ford automobile sputtered down the slushy street.

Eight more years of inventing, and the car was ready—but funds were not. Borrowed money helped build two winning racers before a company would back him. Then he had to get out of it because he would not accept a few-car, high-price, quick-profit policy.

Another company formed had little capital and often payrolls could not be met. Finally profits appeared. Then came the suit for big damages brought by the Selden patent organization. Ford lost his first court skirmish; the enemy threatened his customers, and it was predicted his business would fail. His ten-year night and day struggle won the suit and success. He did not give up.

Now he is one of the richest men in the world—if not the richest.

He says: "There are chances lying around everywhere," also "I always knew I would get what I went after."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Norwich Society of New York City.

Mr. Editor: The Norwich Society of New York city has arranged to hold its annual banquet and meeting for the year 1924 on Monday, March 24, 7 p. m., at the famous Crescent Athletic club, 196 Pierrepont street, corner Clinton street, Brooklyn.

Previous to this writing we have sent you the notice that was mailed out to the members, and you referred to it in the columns of The Bulletin.

We are now writing you in the hope that you can give this letter some prominence in the columns of your paper to the end that we may reach, if possible, all of those who have left Norwich at some time or other and are now in New York city or vicinity.

If the friends or relatives now living in Norwich would cut this notice out and mail it immediately to the address of their friend or relative in New York city or vicinity, it might inform some of those whom we have been unable to reach.

Everyone who is in New York city or vicinity should have no hesitancy in attending our affairs, because he is most welcome whether a member or not, and can share in the expense of any event in which he may participate.

The main thing is that these affairs enable us all to get together to have a good time, to renew acquaintanceship and talk over the good old days in Norwich.

This society desires to render every possible assistance to its members, and by these occasional meetings we are able to keep in close touch with each other.

The Crescent Athletic clubhouse is near Borough hall station of the I. R. T. subway and also to the Clark street station of the B. M. T. subway—thus easily reached from Manhattan, being only sixteen minutes from 42nd street and about five minutes from City hall or Hudson terminal.

Arrangements will be made to accommodate those whom we may not have heard from in advance.

Dress informal.

Thanking you for helping us by this valuable publicity, I am,

Cordially yours,
WILLIAM B. KLEIN,
President.

680 West 34th Street, New York, March 21, 1924.

More than $44,000,000 envelopes will be required to handle the United States government business this year.

Today's Birthdays

Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the treasury in the Coolidge cabinet, born 69 years ago today.

James R. Howard, the Iowa farmer who founded the American Farm Bureau Federation, born in Marshall county, Iowa, 51 years ago today.

William Mather Lewis, president of George Washington University, born at Howell, Mich., 46 years ago today.

Garrett P. Serviss, popular astronomer, who declares that America leads the world in the advancement of astronomy, born at Sharon Springs, N. Y., 73 years ago today.

Mrs. Roswell Miller, only child of the late Andrew Carnegie, born in Pittsburgh, 37 years ago today.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

General Nelson Monroe, who today enters upon his one hundredth year, is a nephew of President James Monroe and a distinguished veteran of two wars. He is a native of Boston and received his education in the public schools of that city and at the University of Pennsylvania. While he was in college in the forties trouble broke out in Mexico and he left college to enter the service as a private. During the height of the gold fever, 75 years ago, General Monroe was sent out West to guard the "Golden Gate" at San Francisco from pirates and thieves, who at that time were numerous and most dangerous. He saw service throughout the Civil war, with various Pennsylvania regiments and took part in many important battles. His war record was a remarkable one, and it was during the Civil War that he rose to the rank of general. For many years General Monroe has resided in Arlington Heights, Mass., where he was actively engaged in business until his 95th year.

CHILD TRAINING

COOPERATE WITH NATURE

By Ora A. Clement

"Goodness, taking care of children means spending all your time making somebody do something he doesn't want to do," exclaimed young Mrs. Lane as she took Daddy's letter-opener from the baby and motioned Billy and Sister to continue their task of picking up blocks and toys.

"Oh, I hope it is not as bad as that," her mother laughed comfortably. "In fact, I do not remember it in that way at all."

"But how did you manage, Mother, when there were six of us to get into mischief and tease and hurt one another? It must have been Bedlam at the time."

"I suppose it was noisy, and I doubt that I was sometimes worried and cross. But I have forgotten that part of it. That is one of the nice things about growing old—you forget so much that is unpleasant.

"But about the children—I learned one thing while I was taking care of mine that helped me a lot, and it was that Mother Nature keeps a firm hand on all her babies and is quite determined they shall grow up to be normal, healthy human beings. So that working against Nature is very much like swimming up-stream, while cooperating with her makes the care of children comparatively easy."

"I don't know what you mean," the daughter confessed.

"Well," explained her mother, "after watching six of my own and many of my friends' and neighbors' children go through their childhood, I have decided that all children pass through certain stages of development, and during each stage it is especially easy to teach them certain things.

"Of course, at first, the baby's attention is chiefly occupied with learning to manage his hands and feet. We do not usually interfere with this process though something people urge a baby to walk too soon, and sometimes sickness prevents him from walking when he should.

"Usually the four-year-old has learned to use his hands and feet, and his chief delight is in their use. Movement of the arms and legs is what he wants, and he imitates the motions his mother makes as she works about the house. During this period children can be taught habits of order and cleanliness which will stay with them all their lives. Though too small to do actual work, they are pleased to do little, step-saving tasks for mother, if the task is a matter of imitation. This imitative age is a period of golden opportunity.

"Right on top of this lovable age comes the individualistic age, when almost overnight, the child becomes distressingly selfish. He wants the best of everything for himself and will fight to get it. He wants the attention and adulation of adults and will try to gain them by 'show-off' antics. He bullies the younger children and teases the older. He becomes a family nuisance, and his discouraged mother wonders what she has neglected to do for Johnny that he should get so far beyond control. It is not her fault, though. Johnny's Mother Nature is preparing him for the battles of life; she is teaching him to think and act for himself.

"That the process is painful to his parents and friends does not influence the old Dame for one instant. She knows what she is doing. Soon his selfishness will be controlled by conscious self-denial, and Johnny will begin to show real character. His boastful contrariness, which challenges every spoken statement, will soon be tempered by reason.

"There are many things you can teach him at this age. He appreciates praise for his individual effort and will spend tremendous energy to gain it. He can be taught to take responsibility. The irresponsible and untruthful young people, who are altogether too numerous today, were not handled rightly at this age. This child asks innumerable questions, and your greatest possible mistake is to ignore, ridicule or evade these questions. Give truthful, serious answers, drawing him out when you suspect that some troubled thought lies at the bottom of the questions, and in later years you will not have to suffer that worst of all hurts, the knowledge that your child's confidence is being purposely withheld.

"Besides these there are other—but, mercy, child, see what time it is! If I sit here lecturing, James will find no dinner when he comes home."

WARNS LENTEN CONGREGATION AGAINST COMMITTING SIN

By committing sin we take up arms against God, said Rev. John S. Calahan, of La Salette college, Hartford, the preacher at the Lenten service Sunday evening at St. Patrick's church. Sin kills the soul, he said. Continuing he said, when we stay away from mass, eat meat on Friday, or are unfaithful to our sacred matrimonial obligations, the sentence is passed, Thou shalt die. When we commit mortal sin we are morally dead. The man who falls into mortal sin is dead.

The just man who commits a sin may be compared to the merchant, who has accumulated great treasures and whose ship founders just as it is entering the harbor. God himself has said that if man commits sin He will no longer remember his good works While living in mortal sin the soul is perishing. By mortal sin we lose His grace. We will lose heaven itself if unpardoned. God is a just God and punishe s all who disobey Him. He spares no one who transgresses. When God created man He placed him in paradise. If man had not sinned he would have continued to live there.

Sin brings miseries upon the nations of the earth. It is not surprising that the sins men commit hasten their own ends. Let us turn to ourselves and see what we have done for Almighty God in return for all His goodness. Let us look back on our lives and see how often He has preserved us from death. Let us not forget that on the part of God there is a mercy as great as the boundless sea. Let us be heartily sorry for all the sins we have committed. Let us endeavor to live always without committing sin.

The organist, Prof. Frank L. Farrell, was in charge of the special music during the service. Mercedante's Vespers was beautifully sung by the choir. Third Word, (Look, oh, woman, behold thy Son, beloved) was also sung, Frank R. Murdy and Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, sustaining the solo parts. The soloists for the evening were Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. Joseph Ellers, Miss Loretta Bellefleur, Frank R. Murdy, Frank G. Aubrey and Daniel Gleason.

The programme was as follows:

Domine ad Adjurandum, Dixit Dominus, Mercedante; Laudate Dominum, Weigand; Third Word (from Seven Last Words) Dubois; Magnificat, Mercedante; Veni Creator, Rosewig (quartette—Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Mrs. Joseph Ellers, Frank G. Aubrey, Frank R. Murdy); O Salutaris, Werner; Tantum Ergo, Rossi.

NORWICH MAN AND GIRL KILLED WHEN MACHINE SKIDS INTO FENCE

Peter Stempnick, 33, of 9 Fifth St., was instantly killed and Eleanor Izbicki, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Izbicki of 465 North Main street, received injuries from which she died soon after reaching the Backus hospital Sunday night in an automobile crash that took place about 7 o'clock on the Norwich & Westerly road a few hundred feet beyond the Norwich city line. The machine skidded, crashed into a fence and turned over.

The machine in which they were riding, driven by John Rydel of 642 Main street, New London, was a Velie touring car carrying a party of six adults and four or five children all on their way home from a christening party in Hallville, according to the information gathered by the police.

Rydel, who is employed as a chauffeur in New London, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Izbicki, parents of the dead girl, and Anthony Poreda of 9 Fifth street, who went to the Backus hospital when the injured girl was taken there, were arrested at the hospital by the police on charges of intoxication and were locked up at police headquarters. A bottle partly filled with what is alleged to be hooch was found under the car after the wreck.

The crash occurred on a straight stretch of road between the city line and a location known as the stone crusher. The car driven by Rydel was headed towards this city and was careening from side to side in the road at a fast rate of speed, according to the testimony of eye witnesses who told their stories to the police. One man said he pulled out of the way to let it pass him and another said he breathed easier when it got by. Measurements made by the police were said to show that it skidded about 60 feet before it crashed into the highway fence to its right, whirled around and turned upside down, headed in the opposite direction from which it had been coming.

The occupants were pinned underneath and the dead body of Stempnick was found when the car was raised. His skull had been fractured. The little girl, with her head terribly crushed, was rushed to the Backus hospital with her mother in the automobile of George Godak of Jewett City as soon as she was taken out of the wreck. She died a few minutes after reaching the hospital Dr. W. T. Driscoll, who was called to the wreck, gave medical aid to the injured.

The others in the party reached the hospital in another machine and the hospital authorities telephoned to police headquarters to have them arrested as they were all drunk. Sergeant John Casey sent officers to the hospital and brought to police headquarters Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Izbicki, Rydel, the driver of the car and Anthony Poreda, of 9 Fifth street.

Rydel, the driver, escaped with only a cut on his forehead, Poreda was badly cut about the face, and Izbicki was severely cut about the face.

Sergeant Casey sent Officers Charles Perry and William Sharvan with Ralph Divito to the scene of the accident where Officer Sharvan interviewed witnesses and secured the bottle which is said to contain liquor. State Policemen Charles A. Myatt and T. J. Henry were also at the scene for an investigation.

The car had the 1924 number plates N-1670. A registration card for 1923 in the name of Florence Abernathy, 178 Ocean Avenue, New London, was found near the wrecked car.

After Dr. N. B. Lewis, medical examiner for Preston, had seen the body of Stempnick, he gave Cummings and Ring permission to remove it to their undertaking rooms, and they also took charge of the body of the Izbicki child by permission of Dr. C. C. Glidersleeve, medical examiner for the town of Norwich.

DEFINES CHRISTIANITY WITH WORD "UNITY"

If I were to select one word to define Christianity I would select the word unity, said Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York city speaking Sunday night at the United Congregational church before members of the several Protestant churches of the city in beginning a series of addresses under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

In every religion in the world one word has been selected to define that religion, Confucianism selects the word, reciprocity; Mohammedanism the word, submission; Buddhism the word meaning absolute extinction of personality; Hinduism the word meaning destiny or fate; Christianity the word, unity.

Certainly in the life of our Lord we find an exemplification of unity, a unity of spirit, mind, body and soul. In Christ we find no bitter struggle, just an unbroken calm, and when the time came for him to leave a legacy to his disciples he said, "Peace I leave unto you, My peace I give unto you."

Christ was unified with God, for did not he say, I and my Father are one. Christ came into this world to unite men and if Christianity teaches nothing else it does teach the great law of unity.

The message of unity is not learned until a unification has been accomplished of all the diverse elements into the higher life. We must learn to live a heavenly life in this world of strife and tumult, learn to love God with all our strength, body, mind and spirit. Nothing else will make life smooth for us save unity through Christianity. That is what Christianity was in the beginning and if ever that message was needed this is that day and our lives are those lives needing it.

Christianity also brings the message of unity between man and God. Christ proved that humanity was habitable of God, the incarnation demonstrated this for what Christ was, he was that all men might follow him. Christianity came as a great light to a putrid world and people flocked to it and found peace and unity. Christ was the only one that carried the conception of individual will separated, and yet, also linked up with God.

Christianity teaches more than these, it teaches the unity of man to man. The Lord Jesus Christ made himself the center of a group of followers bound together by the ties of unity, ready to face the perils of their mission under the words of Christ who taught them to love one another. They had no need of lodges or bands bound together for friendship; they found all this in Christ and his teachings. They carried their convictions deeper than we do today and even in the writings of which are far beyond the comprehension of the present day, but all there for us if we only had eyes to behold.

In our days of race prejudice, creed differences, color hatred, and other bitter feelings we are rapidly plunging back into a world of hatred far worse than that world which Christ came to see. The love of God and Christ, the one father of us all, and the one head of all humanity is our only salvation and if Christianity cannot do this for us nothing else holds out hope for mankind.

I believe in the League of Nations, said Dr. Speer, I believe that men should unite for common good, but all these will not suffice to stamp out racial differences and other hatreds, no one can ever do this except the one head or master of all mankind. Let Christ came back again and be what he came into the world to be, the one head of humanity, the one goal of life and unity will solve the problem.

The auditorium of the church was filled to capacity to hear this splendid speaker and listen to the message he brought. Dr. Speer was introduced to the congregation by James C. Macpherson, president of the Y. M. C. A. through whose efforts he was brought to this city for a series of addresses. In introducing the speaker President Macpherson said that the association had now for the third year by use of the fund left by Miss M. Louise Sturtevant endeavored to bring to Norwich a bearer of a divine message. The association would feel more than repaid for its efforts if these addresses led to the carrying on of a more active and vital religious work in this city, and he felt sure Dr. Speer would deliver the messages needed.

CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUOR AT RESTAURANT

Alleged to have sold liquor in coffee at his restaurant, No. 108 Thames street, Harry Hicks, colored, 48, of New London, was arrested Saturday night by Federal Officer Lewis, Sergt. Thomas Murphy and Officer William Sharvin. He was held on a charge of violation of the liquor law, and bond was fixed at $1,000 which he failed to secure. He will be presented in court this (Monday) morning.

The officers visited the lunch room and were served what is alleged to be a mixture of coffee and liquor in a coffee cup. Hicks opened the restaurant here about two months ago.

DEPUTY CHIEF'S CAR STRUCK SMALL BOY

John Lapues, about 10 years old, son of Michael Lapues, No. 13 Sherman street, was hit and knocked down on North Main street, in the rear of the Connecticut Co.'s car barn Sunday afternoon a few minutes after 2 o'clock by Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft's car in which he was responding to a telephone call for a grass fire on land opposite the North Main street tannery. As the deputy chief's car was approaching the car barn two boys started to run across the street, in front of the fire apparatus. The Lapues boy ran directly in front of the machine and knocked to the pavement by the left front fender of the machine. As both boys were in the street it was impossible for the deputy chief to avoid hitting one or the other, and he could not stop his machine in time to avoid the accident.

Deputy Chief Taft picked the injured boy up and rushed him to the Backus hospital in his machine. Dr. R. R. Agnew found that the boy had a dislocated jaw and a slight concussion of the brain. His injuries are not serious.

The boy was visiting friends in Greeneville for the afternoon.

BREED THEATRE PICTURE SHOWN AT SANATORIUM

Through the courtesy of the management of the Breed Theatre the patients and staff of the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium were given a treat Sunday evening when the White Sister, the picture that had been showing at the Breed Theatre during the past week was shown. This act of kindness on the part of the management of the Breed Theatre was greatly appreciated by both patients and staff at the institution, the picture being classed as one of the greatest feature productions in America.

OBITUARY

Miss Emma Greene Hilton

After an illness of some duration the life of Emma Greene Hilton came to a close Sunday in this city. She was born in Shirley, Mass., December 20, 1833 and spent the greater part of her life in Massachusetts. About five years ago she came to this city to reside.

She was the last of her immediate family, all of whom lived to an old age. Surviving are three nieces, Mrs. L. N. Cunliff of Sarasota, Fla., Mrs. William Eager of Wasiecon, Ohio, and Miss Bertha Hilton of San Antonio, Texas. There is also a nephew, Dr. Edgar H. Guild of Springfield, Mass., and one grand-niece, Mrs. William A. Somes of this city.

Samuel F. Sullivan.

Samuel F. Sullivan, son of Patrick and Mary Sullivan, died Sunday in this city after an illness of eight weeks. He was born in Ireland but had resided here for many years, being employed in Montville at the time of his death. Fraternally he was a member of the Norwich Nest of Eagles, Norwich Lodge of Moose and the Knights of Columbus.

Surviving Mr. Sullivan are two brothers, Patrick and Cornelius J. Sullivan of this city.

Mrs. William Oddy

Mary Sharpe Oddy, wife of William Oddy, No. 3, Church street, died in this city, Sunday, as the result of a shock which she suffered Friday. Mrs. Oddy, who was in her usual health Friday morning, was found unconscious on the floor of her home about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. She was removed to the Backus hospital and died Sunday without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Oddy, who was 66 years of age, is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. William H. Cruickshank of No. 32 Church street.

Miss Alice Elizabeth Caryl

Miss Alice Elizabeth Caryl of 29 Otis street passed away at her home Sunday morning about 6 o'clock following illness since Wednesday of diphtheria. Three years ago she had suffered a severe illness and had been an invalid at home ever since then.

Born in Norwich, the daughter of Edward and Mary A. Caryl, she attended local schools and was a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy. For several years before her serious illness she had been employed as a stenographer by the Attawaugan Co., and previous to that time had been in the office of the Shore Line Electric company.

Surviving besides her mother are three sisters, Mrs. Leon M. Hoadley of Naugatuck and the Misses Mary and Edna F. Caryl of Norwich; one brother, John A. Caryl and an aunt, Mrs. John A. Caryl of Norwich.

Miss Caryl was a member of Christ Episcopal church and until health failed her was active in church work. Possessing a loving and kind personality she easily made friends, and the news of her death will come as a shock to them.

CONGREGATION FILLS CHURCH FOR ST. PATRICK'S SERVICE

The annual St. Patrick's night concert and lecture at St. Mary's Memorial church on Sunday evening arranged by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe proved a pronounced success and the handsome edifice held a congregation of over 1,000 people who felt well repaid for attending.

The concert programme of Irish music and songs was followed by the sermon on The Life of St. Patrick, delivered in his usual eloquent manner by Rev. William H. Kennedy of St. Mary's church, South Coventry, a former curate of the parish. The evening's service ended with the tension of Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, which was given by Rev. Charles H. Kelly, curate at St. Joseph's church, Willimantic, who was assisted by Father Cohoian, the local curate.

REV. W. H. KENNEDY

In treating on the life of St. Patrick, Father Kennedy pictured him as a shepherd keeper on the hills of Antrim at the age of 16. After a short period thus spent he left Ireland for other lands and prepared himself for the church as his life work, he rose to the priesthood and seemed to hear the voices of the Irish people in his ears to come to his native land and preach the doctrine of Christ. Pope Celestine christened him the Apostle of Ireland and ordered him to that country to begin his great life work. Before leaving for Ireland he visited many spots in Rome which no doubt gave him a great inspiration, amongst which was the Colliseum where so many martyrs had shed their blood for the Christian faith

Ireland became known as the Isle of Saints and Scholars. St. Patrick not only preached religion to his people but also urged education. While Ireland had its glorious periods she also had her sad days, and suffered much for her faith.

With the separation of their families to other lands they brought the Catholic faith with them and liver it as they preached. In England, Australia and the United States in the year 1776 the Irish Catholics were rated 1 in 50 people of other creeds, today they number 1 to every five. The Irish were noted for their loyalty to Mary, the mother of God, for obedience to ecclesiastical and civil authority and reverence for their dead. St. Patrick's life work and the faith which he preached were brought to the different land where the Irish settled and it could be truthfully said of him on his death bed in the words of St. Paul, I have finished my course, I have fought the fight and kept the faith.

Always well known for its splendid singing, St. Mary's choir proved its reputation at this service. The musicianship and ability of the trained solo voices was evidenced in the lovely folk-songs and each of the numbers was given a musical and atmospheric interpretation, which is so necessary in the Moore melodies The individual singers are to be warmly commended. The ensemble work was as usual inspiring, the efforts and shadings being of a high order. In all the selections the suggestion of unity was observed, a desirable result in choral singing. Noteworthy, was the triumphant Jubilate Deo, by Loxhal, and the old Gregorian Tantum Ergo, by Verdussen. The latter with the male voices was especially impressive. Much credit is due the organist and director for this real musical event. Assisting the choir was a concert orchestra, which added much to the evening's success. A Sunday night concert is promised in the near future, at which appropriate Lenten numbers will be used.

THOMAS E. DONOHUE APPOINTED AS CHAIRMAN OF STATE BOXING BOARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 23.—Thomas E. Donohue of New London, a member of the state boxing commission, was elected chairman to succeed Moses King of New Haven, whose term expires on July 1.

Several other important matters were also attended to in the regular monthly meeting of the commission here Saturday. Nearly the entire day was spent in attending to routine matters.

Dr. P. T. Keeley of Waterbury, formerly of the Waterbury boxing commission was named secretary. Keeley, who succeeds Acly W. Castle as secretary of the state boxing commission, was recently appointed by Governor Charles A. Templeton to succeed Moses King.

The changes do not become effective until July 1.

A number of boxers were suspended; among these being "Pee Wee" Kaiser, of New York, who drawa a ninety day suspension for appearing the night of his scheduled bout out of condition and presenting a worthless check as his forfeit for weight and appearance.

$63.64, Kaiser's share of the receipts, was ordered paid to Frankie Mack, Hartford featherweight, who fought Kaiser, and the balance of the amount $187.06, will be returned to the Star Athletic club, who promoted the bout.

Because Kaiser did not attend today's meeting, the findings will be suspended for a period of ten days to give him ample time to present his side of the story.

Tommy Lynch and Tommy Dunn, who failed to post forfeits for the same show, were fined $10 each. This money will be given to the club.

When Ernie Shaw and Robert Walker were thrown out of the ring for stalling in Danielson recently, they lost $50 each man that would have been theirs had they fought instead of playing tiddle winks. They also draw a 30-day suspension.

In an interview granted to a Bulletin reporter immediately after Mr. Donohue was elected to be chairman of the Connecticut boxing commission, Mr. Donohue said that he expected to pay particular attention to boxers that would not fight when they entered the ring. Several other minor changes in the workings of the commission will be in order with the beginning of July 1.

Mr. Donohue has been a member of the boxing commission since this body has taken charge of the boxing game in the state. Mr. Donohue was appointed by the then Governor Lake on July 1, 1922, for a period of one year. At this time, Moses King was appointed for three years and Mr. Murphy for a term of two years. Mr. Donohue's appointment ran out last year and he was immediately appointed for a three-year term by Governor Charles A. Templeton. His appointment has until July 1, 1924 to run before it expires, Mr. Murphy's term expired last year and he was appointed again, but this time for a period of three years. Moses King was originally appointed for a term of three years and his term expires July 1. He was not re-appointed.

Thomas E. Donohue has been an ardent follower of the boxing game for the last thirty-five years. While his appointment to the highest position that can by held as a member of the state boxing commission came as a surprise to his many friends in New London, it was expected by a number of fighting fans that have kept in close touch with the doings of the commission since it was inaugurated.

Hereafter when a boxer is suspended in this state he will be also suspended in four other states which were announced as follows: New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. These states have entered in a working agreement with the Connecticut boxing board and will cooperate to make the boxing game cleaner. When a boxer is suspended in this state a bulletin is released by the secretary announcing that a certain boxer had been suspended. He immediately is put on the suspended list of the other four states that are mentioned above. If a boxer is suspended by any of the four states mentioned above he is put on the suspended list in this state.

Before the commission was called in to take charge of the boxing game in the state, only six matches were held in the state in the year 1922. Last year a total of 79 bouts were held in various cities in the state This year the amount of boxing shows held will probably double the amount of last year.

RANGERS BATTLE TO TIE WITH NEW BEDFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 23.—The New London Rangers' soccer team battled with the New Bedford All-Stars to a 1 to 1 tie at Cauikins field today. The first half was scoreless, although both sides threatened to score. With the beginning of the second half of play, the locals showed some fine form in working the ball down near the New Bedford goal where Crawford, after receiving a pass from MacGowan, shot the ball past the goal keeper for the first goal registered by either team.

About ten minutes later, following closely upon the heels of the New London team, the New Bedford All-Stars began a series of assaults on the Ranger goal and Forman, after receiving a fast pass from one of his teammates, shot the only score for the Massachusetts city that tied the count. For the remainder of the game the rival teams fought hard to get into position to get the ball by the goal keeper but with no results.

The teams lined up as follows:

Rangers — Herbert g, Murchie rb, MacFarlane lb, W. Orkney rhb, Soderstedt lhb, MacGowan chb, Ainsworth or, Thompson ir, Caralaw rc, Foster il, Crawford ol.

New Bedford All-Stars — Sayles g, F. Thompson rb, Forman, lb, H. Thompson rhb, A. Robinson lhb, Ward chb, Fairclough or, E. Robinson ir, Seddon rc, Grimes il, Berry ol.

Referee, T. Anderson; goals for New London, Crawford; for New Bedford, Forman.

BATTERY E TEAM LOSES TO SOUTH KINGSTON FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, March 23.—The Battery E boys, 243rd field artillery, were decisively defeated in the state armory on Dixon street Saturday night by the South Kingston basketball team, the score being 41 to 29 in favor of their South county visitors.

Record crowd was in attendance and a record number of automobiles were parked about the armory building, no less than twenty-five or thirty machines coming from South Kingston to witness the prowess of their basketball warriors. The game was a fast and exhausting one, the players all showing the strain of the game. Martin, center for South Kingston, despite the fact that he made a long trip from Vermont to be in the game, was a star player for the visitors, caging nine goals. Harvey, the Newport man, was a close second with seven baskets to his credit. The Battery boys seemed to have lost track of their team passing work, while some of the Kingstown players were permitted to be uncovered with disastrous results. A little life was injected into the game by the local boys at the beginning of the second period but it soon flickered and faded.

The summary of the game follows:

| Battery E. | South Kingstown. |
|---|---|
| Spencer, Plympton | Negrelli |
| Left Forward | |
| Torrey | Wilbur |
| Right Forward | |
| Stenhouse, Dionne | Martin |
| Center | |
| Shertman | Davis |
| Left Guard | |
| McCloy | Harvey |
| Right Guard | |

Scoring — Battery E: Field goals, Plympton 2, Torrey 4, Stenhouse 4, Dionne 6, McCloy 4; fouls, Torrey 1.

South Kingstown: Field goals, Negrelli 6, Wilbur 5, Martin 9, Davis 3, Harvey 7; fouls, Davis 1.

Referee, D. Harold Rogers; timekeepers, Grieg, Sweet; scorers, Hebb, Sykes; attendance 900; two twenty-minute halves.

Score by periods:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Battery E | 5 | 36—29 |
| South Kingstown | 21 | 40—61 |

It is reported that a basketball game is to be arranged in the not distant future at the armory of Battery E, 243rd field artillery, on Dixon street, between the Boston Whirlwinds and the Broadway Whirlwinds of New York. A preliminary game will be played between the Battery team and another team of their class.

CHANGES AND ADDITIONS MADE BY FOOTBALL RULES COMMITTEE

Changes and additions to the football rules made yesterday at the annual meeting of the National Intercollegiate Football Rules committee, in brief, follow:

1—Abolition of all mud or artificial kicking tees.

2—Advancement of the kick-off from the 40 to the 50-yard line

3—Decision to place the ball on the 3-yard line instead of the 5-yard line for attempt to score point after touchdown.

4—Granting of power to referee to refuse to take time out when delaying of game is apparent.

5—Increase in penalty for more than three times out in each half from two to five yards.

6—Recommendation that gun shall be fired at end of each quarter.

7—Clarification of rule against onside kick.

8—Warning to players forming passive interference for screen pass.

9—Provision for declining of penalty when forward pass touches ineligible player and is recovered by eligible man.

10—General tendency toward speeding up the play and encouragement of use of fun or pass to convert point after touchdown.

FIRPO LOOKING FOR A MOVIE CONTRACT

Buenos Aires, Mar. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, who recently announced that he would retire from the ring after his forthcoming bout with Al Reich, is willing to return to the United States to become a movie actor. Luis has cabled a Los Angeles company asking if the $210,000 offer made to him while he was in the United States to appear on the screen still was open. If it is, his message said, he was willingto accept it. Otherwise, he declared, he intended to sail for Europe next month.

Firpo yesterday received a cablegram from Juan Homs, who formerly represented Tex Rickard in Buenos Aires, saying Homs sailed from New York Saturday with "Interesting propositions from Rickard" and requesting Firpo not to enter into any engagements until Homs arrived in Buenos Aires. Firpo said, however, that unless he obtained a favorable answer from Los Angeles, he would surely sail for Europe, regardless of Homs' mission. He reiterated that he was through with boinxg.

TONY WEST PITCHES AGAINST ATHLETICS

In the brief summary of the exhibition game between the Baltimore International team and the Philadelphia Athletics appears the name of Weso as one of the pitchers used against the Athletics. Weso is the name that Tony West, alias Wesoloski, is using during his baseball career. Just what he did or how many innings he pitched is not shown but as the score was three to two in favor of the Orioles and the Athletics got only five hits it would seem as if he had made out pretty well.

The Baltimore papers of the last week that contain the training camp news speak very highly of West as a pitcher.

NEW LONDON "Y" FIVE BEATS LOCAL TEAM IN FAST AND CLOSE BATTLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 23.—The New London Y. M. C. A. basketball team, by defeating the Norwich "Y" five by a 26 to 22 score at the local Y. M. C. A. court Saturday night, qualified for the final game for the state championship, next Saturday. In the preliminary game between the First Congregational and Groton quintets, found the latter team out in front when the last whistle blew. The final score was 19 to 14, and by gaining this victory Groton clinches the title in the Intermediate Church league.

All the advance reports pertaining to the New London-Norwich "Y" contest, stating that this game would be fast and furiously fought, came out according to predictions. From the very first blow of the whistle by the referee, the spectators present were in for a good night's entertainment. There was plenty of good passing of the short snappy variety for the fans that preferred to see a good passing game. There were good baskets hung up by Norwich from the center of the floor and from the side of the court and last of all the game was played roughly enough so that it made the contest interesting from the very start. These were only some of the reasons that kept the fans present from leaving early.

New London took the lead from the very beginning and held it throughout. Norwich several times came within five or six points of tying the score but never really threatened to forge ahead. With about three minutes remaining of playing time, Harris, for Norwich, took things into his own hands and began to throw a scare into the Whaling City players, by sending the ball through the netting three times in succession cutting down the lead from ten points to four. Harris was the best performer for Norwich all evening.

New London had a snappy passing system that was more accurate than that of Norwich passwork. Norwich arched their passes which made it an easy matter for the New London guards to intercept them. Where the winners accounted for the majority of their field baskets from either under the basket or from within the foul line area, Norwich on the other hand, resorted to long shots when they failed to penetrate the locals' defense. Several long distance baskets were registered by the Norwich players, but this team's forwards were slow in following up on their long distance shots and numerous opportunities to score were passed up.

The Norwich players can be accused of individual play at times. Mostly all of that team's baskets were the result of one man dribbling the length of the floor or standing in the center of the floor and trying for the basket instead of passing the ball to a team mate who had a better chance for the basket. The New London team on the other hand combined team work and good shooting for the basket, to win out.

Indomitable spirit made itself evident time and again and with MacMahon and "Tenny" Risch leading in the assault on the Norwich basket, New London won one of the best games played on the "Y" court this season.

For New London, the Risch-MacMahon combination was too much for the visitors. This pair accounted for 19 of the total of 26 points amassed by the Whaling City boys. Kelley, Lord and Rankin also contributed their share of good playing to make the evening complete from New London's point of view.

Harris for Norwich, playing center was continually in the thick of the game. He outjumped both New London centers and scored five field baskets. Williams at guard played a good game. Finlayson as left forward seemed to have an offnight, his playing was not as good as usual.

The lineup and summary:

Groton Clinches Title.

By winning over the First Congregational five in the preliminary game, Groton clinched the title in the Intermediate Church league. Although one more game still remains to be played between the First Congregational and First Methodist teams, it will not have any bearing on the league leadership but will decide which of these two teams will finish second in the league standing.

Saturday night's contest between the First Congregational five and Groton was a thriller. The teams were evenly matched and a real battle was the result from the very start. Groton got the jump on their New London opponents and held it throughout. The five point margin which was the total number of points that separated the two teams at the termination of the contest was the margin by which Groton led almost the entire contest.

Crouch, the elongated Groton center, was largely responsible for the Groton victory. He accounted for 16 of his team's total of 19 points. It was the best game that Crouch turned in all season and he picked the most important contest to run wild.

For the losers, Prince and Hutchinson were the best players, accounting for two field baskets each. Silva played a good floor game.

The lineup and summary:

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Jack Roche, veteran catcher, with Oklahoma City last season, has been signed by the Denver Club of the Western League and is slated to play first base. Roche was a free agent

Des Moines of the Western League has obtained Chick Knapp, second baseman of the Charlotte South Atlantic League club last year. The deal was made through the Minneapolis Club.

The St. Louis Cardinals received a severe jolt when their first string catcher, Vernon Clemons, cut a cartilage in his knee. The injured knee has been put in a cast and it will be some time before Clemons will be able to get into action.

The Philadelphia Americans have released Outfielders W. Munnefield and J. W. Jones to Portland of the Coast League. Both men had previously been sent to Galveston but held out for more money than the Texas League is accustomed to paying.

The list from managers in the South Atlantic League was completed when Ray Kennedy was signed to pilot the Charlotte team. Kenhedy was first string catcher for Charlotte last year and succeeds Dick Hoblitzel, who led the team to a pennant last year

Outfielder Joe Horan for whom the Reading Club of the International League paid Des Moines $5,000 has come to terms. Red Ormand, the Trinity College recruit, and Kedzie Kirkham, a star in the Southern League last year, also have signed. Both are outfielders.

Pitcher Claude Thomas, who was recently purchased by Shreveport from Los Angeles, has retired from baseball rather than play in the Texas League. He claims that the heat of the Lone Star circuit is too much for him, and asks that he be sold to a club further north.

The Yankees have placed Glenn Killinger former Penn State athletic star, on the voluntary retired list. Killinger, who has been under contract with Huggins since his graduation in 1922, has given up baseball to assist Hugo Bezdek in coaching his alma mater.

At a meeting of the Michigan-Ontario League, held last week, Grand Rapids decided to retain its franchise for another year. One of the important matters of the meeting was the rescinding of an earlier rule that second games of doubleheaders be of seven-inning duration.

Omaha announces the trading of Dick O'Conner to the Lincoln team for Outfielder Joe Robinson. Last year Robinson, who is an Indian, was with Sioux City until the middle of the season when he jumped to play with the Corning, Neb., independent team.

Norman (Kid) Elberfeld, veteran manager of the Little Rock Southern Association club, will appear in a new athletic role next fall. He has signed to become athletic coach at Little Rock College. His new duties will not interfere with his work as pilot of the Travelers.

Preston Gray, manager of the Rock Island, Mississippi Valley League, has signed Steve Hibbard, a Chicago semi-pro infielder, Edward Waytula, a pitcher who was with the Stevens Point, Wis., club last year, and Emmet Dorsey, a catcher and outfielder, also of Chicago.

Garland Braxton, young southpaw pitcher, who had a tryout with the Boston Braves, has been turned over to the Springfield Club of the Eastern League by Worcester of the same league. Worcester has sold Dick Wacha, a youthful infielder, to the Pittsburg Pirates.

Another college man will jump right out of school into professional baseball. He is William Houle, a three-letter man from St. Thomas' College, St. Paul, who has signed with Terre Haute of the Three-Eye League. Houle gets through with his studies in June when he will report.

Easton, Md., is likely to have a good team this year. The Rev. Thomas Donaldson of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church has been named as its president. Easton has been given a franchise in the Eastern Shore League. The Rev. Donaldson is a former semi-pro from around Maryland

Carl East, star slugger of the American Association, has changed his mind about jumping to the outlaws and has reported to Manager Kelley of the Minneapolis team. Outfielder Bruno Haas, of the St. Paul Club also turned down an offer from the outlaws and has signed his contract with the Saints.

Bert Humphries, who pitched for the Cincinnati Reds several years ago, has signed for the 24th year in professional baseball. He will cast his lot with Orlando in the Florida League this year. Counting his amateur and semi-pro service Humphries has been playing baseball for 20 years.

Two more players have been added to the Joplin Club. L. Williams, a first baseman and Taylor Phelps, a third baseman. Williams was purchased from the Little Rock Club where he played the latter part of last year Phelps has been the property of the St. Louis Browns, Mobile and San Antonia at various times.

Manager Spencer Abbot of the Reading Club, announces the signing of Pitcher L. W. Wood, a Princeton University right-hander, and Catcher Alvin Judas, the former Bucknell all-around athlete. Woods was a member of the Princeton team for the past three years and is quite a hitter. He bats left-handed.

NEMROD GROTTO PLANS FOR COMEDY "MARCHETA"

This sensational musical comedy of Spanish setting is scheduled at Broadway theatre Friday and Saturday evenings, April 4th and 5th, and Saturday matinee. Nemrod Grotto, under whose auspices "Marcheta" will be staged, has been busily engaged for the past two weeks in the arrangement of details and appointment of various committees.

Fred G. Prothero, who has acted as talent man for other Nemrod Grotto enterprises, has devoted considerable time and consideration to the selection of both cast and choruses and each one has been placed with a view to adaptability to a particular role. Sydney Wilkinson, who represents Harrington Adams, Inc., of Ohio, in the presentation of "Marcheta," is a director of unusual ability, having been a producer and director of amateur theatricals for many years. He is one of the original Harrington Adams, Inc., staff. Mr. Adams will personally handle the settings, arriving in Norwich during the latter part of the month. It is planned to use a company of about 300 people. Representing Nemrod Grotto are the following committees:

Alexander Finlayson, general chairman; Fred G. Prothero, talent; Wilbur S. Williams, publicity; Louis Brown, tickets; E. Tyler Rogers, programme; Mary Carlson, details.

BREED THEATRE

There was revealed at the Breed theatre last night a constant motion picture which deserves to rank with the finest thing yet done. It is Emmett Flynn's first production for Goldwyn Pictures, "In The Palace Of The King," adapted by June Mathis from F. Marion Crawford's popular novel. There are a number of spectacular episodes in this production, but the spectacular is never emphasized to the detriment of the dramatic and absorbing story which is woven around half a dozen highly pleasing personages in the Royal Court of Spain in the sixteenth century.

Flynn is one of the directors who never loses sight of his story in staging spectacular effects. The rout of the Moors and the burning of their camp affords one of the big moments of the film from a spectacular point of view, but it is touched on only briefly and only insofar as it bears on the drama in the picture and on Don John, King Philip II and Dodres Mendoza, the principal actors. "In The Palace of the King" is one of Crawford's most popular novels, and in its dramatic version Viola Allen scored one of her biggest successes.

Blanche Sweet has in Goldwyn's screen version of the story, the role that Miss Allen essayed on the stage. It gives Miss Sweet one of her biggest opportunities and her characterization of her part is everywhere admirable and appealing. Edmund Lowe, one of the handsomest leading men on the screen or stage, is cast as her lover, "Don John" and acts with fervor and restraint. King Philip II, who is jealous of the popularity of his brother with the Spanish public is finely delineated by Sam de Grasse. The part of Dolores' father, who takes upon his own shoulders the guilt for the supposed murder of his daughter's lover, to save the King, gives Hobart Bosworth one of the character roles which he delights in playing, and in which he is incomparable. Other well known players who act important roles admirably are Aileen Pringle, Pauline Starke, William V. Mong, Lucien Littlefield and Charle Clary, June Mathis prepared the continuity and Lucien Andreit is responsible for the photography which is unusually beautiful.

In The Palace of the King is a picture which will appeal to every patron of films and one that can be seen again and again with both pleasure and profit.

In The Palace of the King will be shown again today, Tuesday and Wednesday and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an Educational comedy.

THE ELSHUCO TRIO

What can be accomplished when three master musicians organise a trio and dedicate themselves to the performance of chamber music is shown by the reviews following the first New York appearance of The Elshuco Trio.

New York Times.

"The smoothness and balance of their ensemble playing was more than surprising; it was refreshingly artistic. A half dozen seasons will not give them more polish, repose, nor a more closely knitted spirit. The Elshuco Trio became a veteran organization over night."

New York Tribune.

"A new organization, but one with the spirit of one thoroughly seasoned, as the playing showed: a combination of rare artists, deep in knowledge of the high form of art which they have undertaken to cultivate. Theirs was the best trio playing heard in years."

The trio will play the following program in Bulkeley auditorium tonight.

William Kroll, Violin.
Willem Willeke, 'Cello.
Aurelio Giorni, Piano.

PROGRAM

I.

Trio in B flat, Opus 11.....Beethoven
Allegro Con Brio.
Adagio.
Tema Con Variazioni. Pris Ch'io L'impegni.

II.

Sonata, for 'cello and piano, Op. 6, .....Richard Strauss
Allegro Con Brio.
Andante.
Allegro.

III.

Trio in D Minor, Opus 32...Arensky
Allegro Moderato.
Scherzo, Allegro Molto
Elegia, Adagio.
Finale, Allegro non Troppo.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Palace.

The show at the Palace theatre this week is headed by the famous Arabian Whirlwinds. Norwich theatregoers who have had occasion to see the show that played at the Hippodrome in New York will well remember the Arabian troupe who were there for two years, and their remarkable acrobatic specialties and spectacular attractions. These whirling dervishes are the most famous troupe of daredevils and tumblers in vaudeville Opening with a series of unique pyramid building stunts, they astonish by their strength and agility. Then they perform a series of whirlwind tumbling tricks that are astonishing in their dexterity and seeming impossibility. Acts like this are scarce for it is seldom that a company of this sort can be gathered together in one act, so that the Palace management considers itself fortunate in being able to procure them at this particular time.

Bob Ferns and company in a humorous comedy sketch entitled A Lease For Life, depicts the troubles of life in a modern hotel. Humorous beyond description is this exceptionally clever comedy farce. Mr. Ferns is well known in musical comedy and vaudeville as being one of the cleverest and most original comedians on the stage. His every move is mirth-provoking and his every sentence brings laughter. Mr. Ferns has with him a clever company of fine entertainers who ably assist him in introducing the many funny situations.

Kurzene and Sonia are the last word in high class music. Mr. Kurzene is a concert violinist of no mean reputa. He is in a class with the more famous violinist, Jan Rubini and other concert stars who have lately been recruited into the vaudeville field. Miss Sonia is a beautiful woman, and accomplished musician. Together they offer a musical specialty that is far above the average vaudeville act. Too much cannot be said in praise of acts such as this as they tend to elevate the vaudeville field and make for themselves an enviable place in the process.

Every once in a while someone will think up a new idea in the form of a novelty for vaudeville. This time the Brightons, a man and woman show what can be done with bits of rear, silk and cloth of all colors. With these, they make rapidly faces of presidents, animals, scenes, etc., that look exactly as if painted in oil. Perhaps this doesn't seem very entertaining but it is strange how much real entertainment value there is in this odd specialty. Of course there are few new things in vaudeville but this one really is new and different as well as being odd. The act carries much special scenery and apparatus and it can readily be seen that no money, time or effort have been spared by this couple in their effort to present what they term The Oddest Act in Vaudeville.

Keith Vaudeville and Name the Man at the Strand.

One of the finest programs of the year starts off the spring program at the Strand theatre.

The Robbins Family, vaudeville's cleverest family act, heads the vaudeville program. Seven big and little funsters comprise this family group and they are "some family."

Mlle. Lyda and Louis Reveda offer character singing, music and dancing that's different.

Gardner and Revere appear in bits of vaudeville.

Carde and Noel, the laugh artists, are wonders in the art of fun-making.

Mary Maxfield and Harry Gelmon present The Modern Romeo and Juliet.

Whether or not a woman should forgive everything in the man she loves is the underlying theme of the Goldwyn photoplay, Name the Man! which was shown last night at the Broadway theatre, will be seen at the Strand today, Tuesday and Wednesday. Whether her love should triumph and her pride be submerged no matter what he has done, or whether she should let him suffer out his own salvation, is the problem presented.

In Hall Caine's characters from The Master of Man, the question is worked out. Conrad Nagel has Victor Stowell, Patsy Ruth Miller as Fenella, and Mae Busch as Bessie Collister, are the principals involved.

Victor, who really loves Fenella, is caught in a web of circumstance, and sins. Bessie, the victim of circumstance also, does everything in her power to protect him from the girl he loves and from his public. But when suspicion dawns upon Fenella, and she realizes that he is guilty, her only comment is a sharp slap across his face.

However, when facing an incensed mob, he makes a complete confession, she glories in his honesty, her love again triumphs and she rushes to protect him from being stoned.

In Name the Man! Victor Seastrom has justified Goldwyn's judgment in bringing him from Sweden to direct pictures for it. Lovers of this form of entertainment should see to it by their support of his productions that Seastrom is never allowed to stob directing photoplays in America. Name the Man! is one picture which deserves the word "great" in all its implications.

It is easily worth the price of admission alone. You'll talk about this great spring offering.

Up She Goes Opens Tonight.

William A. Brady's musical success, Up She Goes, opens tonight at the Broadway, where it will play for one performance.

Up She Goes, is the musical comedy that ran through all of last season at The Playhouse, New York, setting forth this year in the big cities, it coming here direct from its triumphs in Boston where it played three months. The splendid company is the same, still being headed by adorable Nancy Welford. Others include John Barker, Marguerite Farrell, Frederick Graham and Fannie Rice.

The book of this Brady opus is by Frank Craven, author of The First Year, with the music and lyrics supplied by Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy, who did the same pleasant duty of Irene. They have done as well in this collaboration.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

LADY MOON

Lady Moon, Lady Moon, where are you roving
Over the sea.
Lady Moon, Lady Moon, whom are you loving?
All that love me.

Are you not tired with rolling, and never Resting to sleep?
Why look so pale and so sad, as forever
Wishing to weep?

Ask me not this, little child, if you love me:
You are too bold:
I must obey my dear Father above me,
And do as I'm told.

Lady Moon, Lady Moon, where are you roving?
Over the sea.
Lady Moon, Lady Moon, whom are you loving?
All that love me.
By Lord Houghton.

THE WINDMILL

Behold! a giant am I!
Aloft here in my tower,
With my granite jaws I devour
The maize, and the wheat, and the rye,
And grind them into flour.

I look down over the farms;
In the fields of grain I see
The harvest that is to be,
And I fling to the air my arms.

For I know it is all for me.
On Sundays I take my rest;
Church-going bells begin
Their low, melodious din;
I cross my arms on my breast,
And all is peace within.
By Henry W. Longfellow.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

During the past week Uncle Jed received in his mail five or six letters from members of the Wide Awake Circle, all of whom wrote on the same topic and along the same lines. These letters were very carefully prepared, and the penmanship is unusually good for boys of nine or ten years of age. These boys and girls, the letters show, took a real interest in the topic upon which they wrote and they are to be complimented on the neatness, good penmanship and excellent arrangement of their stories.

If the awarding of Wide Awake books depended on neatness, good penmanship and arrangement of stories all of these young writers would receive prize books. But one of the points to be considered in awarding the books is originality. That, of course, means that the letter or story should originate with the writer, and should be written in the writers' own words.

There are scores of topics upon which you can write interesting letters. Things you see or do at school, incidents that happen at play, or at home, stories about your pets, descriptions of journeys you have taken, visits to the seashore, country or city, etc., all make interesting reading for the members of the Wide Awake Circle.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Julia Lecker, Dayville—Received the prize book you sent me. I think it is very nice and thank you very much for it.

Earl F. Babcock, Norwich—I thank you very much for the prize book you sent me. I have read it and found it very interesting.

Sarah Avery Williams, Lebanon—I received the books you sent me. I enjoy reading it very much.

Beatrice Coffey, Danielson—I thank you very much for the book you sent me. I have read it and think it very interesting.

Margery Bushnell, South Coventry—I received the book you sent me. I was so interested in it that I forgot to thank you for it. I enjoyed reading it very much.

John F. Reedie, Voluntown—I wish to thank you for the prize book you sent me. I have started to read it and find it very interesting.

Frances Lamb, North Franklin—I thank you very much for the book, Katie Robertson. I have read part of it and find it very interesting.

Leonard Williams, Norwich—I thank you very much for your book, The Boy Scouts in Italy. I have read it through and it is very interesting.

Clarence E. Still, Hanover—I wish to thank you for my prize book. I have found it very interesting.

Mary L. Maynard, Norwich Town—I thank you very much for my book. It was a lovely surprise and I know I will enjoy reading it.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

A TRUE STORY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write my first story to the Wide Awake circle. I believe in writing true stories, so I am going to write you a true story which happened to me about four years ago.

We lived about a mile from Hanover on a large farm. We took care of about forty sheep and a large herd of cows. Well, one day Mother, my sister, and brothers, and myself started for the garden. It was quite a way from the house, as we were walking along. Mother saw something jump into the bushes. She called me, to run quick and see what it was. It was a baby deer. It was so frightened that it came right towards me. Mother told me to hold it tight. I managed to hold its squirming legs till she got there. We could not see the mother or father deer. Well the garden was forgotten. Mother and I carried it to the house so we all could get a good look at it. We put it in the woodshed to show father when he came home. It was very pretty. We gave it some warm cows' milk and it drank it very well. The next morning very early father carried it in his arms down to the pasture and let it go. After that we often saw the father and mother and only once we saw our little deer.

FRANK A. STILL, JR., Age 13.
Hanover.

DOG FRIGHTENED FOX

Dear Uncle Jed: Near the middle of a lonely forest is a small brook. It is surrounded by several thick pine trees, which at a distance look rather small. Very often wild animals come to get a drink. One morning at dawn a large, sly, fox was running to get a drink. He heard the barking of a dog and voices of some boys who were in the woods not far away. He was so much frightened that he ran and hid behind a tall drooping pine tree. The sounds came nearer and nearer. He ran to the opposite side of the brook. He saw a big hole close by and quickly slipped under it.

He saw the dog and two small boys on the other side of the brook. The dog swam across. But the boys could not, so they turned back and started for home carrying no squirrels which they were after. The dog, seeing them go away, also turned after them. When they were out of sight the fox slipped out to get his drink.

ANNIE FERRENCE, Age 14.
Stafford Springs.

THE WONDERFUL CRADLE

Dear Uncle Jed: Last summer there lived a little caterpillar in my grapevine. He fed upon the green leaves and ate so many that I wondered if there would be any left. One day after a very large dinner, the caterpillar began to spin. I saw a strong silk thread that seemed to come from his mouth, and it was fastened to the grapevine.

Then a strange thing happened. He moved his head to and fro and twisted it round and round, until he was wrapped in a beautiful soft silk blanket which he had made for himself. Soon there was no caterpillar to be seen, nothing but this curious silken cradle.

At last the cold winds died away, and the warm days came. The little sleeper awoke with the May sunshine, and rustled inside his brown cradle. I watched to see the caterpillar come forth from his winter nest. What do you think I saw? A beautiful butterfly, that clung to the grapevine stem, and slowly unfolded his velvety wings.

My mother wondered if I realized that the baby caterpillar had changed into a beautiful butterfly in his winter cradle?

ELIZABETH A. LUCY, Age 13.
Hanover.

MY RABBITS

Dear Uncle Jed: I had three rabbits. One was white and had lovely pink eyes and the other two were brown. One day one of the brown ones dug a hole under their house and they all got out and ran away but one brown one, and he still stays in our barn. My brother feeds him grain and he is quite tame.

ALICE RATHBUN, Age 8.
Yantic.

VISIT TO A COPPER MINE

Dear Uncle Jed: Have you ever visited a copper mine? Well, if you haven't, I'll tell you about an imaginary trip we have taken. The one we visited is on the banks of Lake Superior. Be sure to wear your old clothes and wear a rubber coat, hat, and rubber boots. The reason we wore this clothing is because of water dripping from the roof and walls.

A shaft is a deep hole dug into the earth. Over this shaft is a building containing machinery which lowers the men to their work and brings up the ore. The men ride to work. Buckets called skips are used in taking out the ore. We descend into the earth. After passing several drifts, the car stops and we see before us a long railway. We can hear in the distance the miners at work.

In the mine are guides that show us about. To loosen the ore, holes are drilled in the rock and filled with dynamite. After the explosion, several tons of ore fall to the floor of the drift. It is shoveled into cars and carried to the surface. The ore is now taken to the smelter where the impurities are removed. Then the ore is run into bars and sent to all parts of the world.

In busy times, there is a day and night shift. The mine we are visiting is lighted by lamps but now a days most of them are lighted by electricity. We notice fresh air is being constantly forced into the mine through pipes. Don't you think that this is a wonderful place to visit?

NORAH CREIGHTON, Age 9.
Danielson.

HAS PLAYFUL CAT

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the WideAwakesand I am going to write about my cat. He is a nice Maltese cat and has a white spot in his throat. He has caught all the mice in my mother's cupboard and loves to play with a spool or nut on the floor. He will sit in my lap and sing to me. I call him Maltie.

MILDRED RATHBUN, Age6.
Franklin.

HOW TO CARE FOR GLADIOLI BULBS

Dear Uncle Jed: One of the greatest enjoyments in the summer is a bed of gladioli. Not only for their colors, but for the beauty they add to your home.

About the first of May you start planting your bulbs. It is best to plant a few weeks apart because then the profusion of blooms will continue during the summer until late fall. Before planting it is wise to fertilize the ground with phosphate or any other fertilizer. Plant your bulbs about four inches deep, and two feet apart.

When the stalks are about a foot high take a tall stick, and stake your gladioli, also you may tag your flowers by printing their names on a card and tying the card to the stem. Then about June or July your garden will be a mass of purple, red, orange and all other colors. During the blooming time be sure to give your flowers plenty of water.

After blooming time is over do not water the bulbs any more. Then the stalks will wither down and about November you must cut them off. After cutting the stalks take up your bulbs. Let the bulbs dry in a sunny place and then store them away in a box of sand.

DANIEL O'NEIL, Age 13.
Norwich.

A SURPRISED SNAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: Not very far from an old house in the woods is a brook with clear fresh water which comes bubbling up from the earth. This brook is surrounded by small trees and bushes which make the brook shady all the time. On the south side is a small wooden bridge which crosses this brook.

The water in this brook is continually fresh and clear on account of its being shady. It isn't very deep. It runs a short distance and joins another brook.

One very hot day in summer as I was looking after the cows, I happened to come upon the brook and rested awhile. As I sat there for about five minutes upon a rock, watching the water as it bubbled up from the ground, I saw something like a big turtle resting on the bottom of the water. I thought that I would take a stick and poke him, although it seemed mean for he was having a rest just the same as I. But as I was curious to know whether it really was a turtle or perhaps a stone, I poked him with a stick. But to my surprise it was a snake curled up there. He seemed as much astonished as I and quickly uncurled and ran under the rocks.

ANTONIA BARICAK, Age 13.
Stafford Springs.

SOMEBODY'S MOTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write the story of Somebody's Mother. One day an old woman was waiting to cross the street. She did not dare cross it alone, for she was afraid that she would fall and the horses would trample upon her.

She waited patiently and was overjoyed on hearing shouts and laughter. A group of boys passed her by unheeding the glance of her anxious eye. Presently a little boy of 10 years stopped and said, "I'll help you across if you wish to go." The old lady consented. The boy went back to his friends and said, "She's somebody's mother, boys, you know and I hope some boy will help my mother if I'm very far away."

That night the old woman prayed and said, "God be kind to that noble boy who's somebody's son, and pride, and joy."

DORIS BESSETTE, Age 10.
Baltic.

A SCHOOL PAPER

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the seventh and eighth grades' school paper, The Echo. Most of the children like it very much. The boys and girls make the covers and do the writing for it. Some of the subjects are: Good Sportmanship, Improving School Grounds, etc, and there are poems.

CHARLES WILLIAMS, Age 11
Baltic.

A SERIOUS MISHAP

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about a serious mishap. Fred had a new sailboat. He and another boy went out for a jolly time with the boat. A light wind came up. The sky was blue. They had a fine start. Dark clouds gathered. A squall came up and tore the sails of the boat. The boat overturned and the boys were in the water. They swam to the boat.

The boys clung to the sides of the boat and shouted for help. Some man came in a boat to rescue the boys. The boys got into the boat and were towed home.

ELIZABETH MITCHELL, Age 14.
Norwich.

OUR DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you about our dog. Our dog's name is Buster. He is brown and white. He will bark at any stranger. I like him and he likes me. He will not drive cows. We do not let him loose. If we did he would run away. He likes to sleep in his house better than outside. I think he is a very nice dog and he is also a fine watch dog.

DOROTHY CONLAN, Age 10.
Preston.

A LOST CHILD

Dear Uncle Jed: Not far from our house is a brook where the water is always clear. As it is shaded by a few big trees it is nice and cool in summer. Here we often come wading.

One day when I went wading my mother told me to take my little sister with me. When we came to the brook I left her by it and I went into the water. It felt so nice and warm, that I soon forgot about leaving my sister behind.

When I thought of her it was getting late, and time to go home. I quickly ran to the spot where I felt her. She was nowhere to be found. I felt frightened and went to search for her. I looked for her about two hours, and then went home to get my mother to help me find her. When I came into the house, I was greatly surprised to find my sister already there.

ROSE CHECHOVICK, Age 11.
Stafford Springs.

MY BROTHER'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Dear Uncle Jed: On June 22 is my brother Alton's birthday. There were quite a few of us girls and boys, that went swimming together so we planned to make up a surprise for him on his birthday last year.

When June the 22 came we all took candy, cookies, cake, bananas, oranges, sandwiches and biscuits over where we go swimming.

We took a table cloth with us, and spread it on the ground. We told the boys to keep Alton away until we got already. The larger girls then made a signal to come. You may be sure he was very surprised when he saw what we had prepared for him.

Before we ate up went in swimming and came out. Without taking off our bathing suits we had lunch, after lunch we played games and sang songs for about an hour. We then went in swimming again.

We played a while longer then cleaning up our things and dressing in tents, one for the girls and one for the boys we started home, arriving at six-thirty o'clock.

GRACE L. WALSH, Age 11.
Packer.

FIRE PREVENTION

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. Fire! Fire! Fire! You hear of those words every day. Now, what is the cause of fire? Nobody ever thinks that an oily rag, a match near the stove, uncleaned chimney, a little kerosene put on hot ashes would ever cause the loss of homes, food, commerce and other important things of life.

Two years ago a new building was being finished by careless workers. They smoked while working and always carried matches, cigars and cigarettes in their pockets. One morning a careless worker was unpacking nails. He soon thought he would have a smoke. After lighting the cigar he carelessly threw away the match. In five minutes the word "fire" rang through the building. Seventy-three people out of one hundred were injured and five were smothered.

Fire can be prevented very easily. Always be careful is the main rule. Here are a few other laws that can be obeyed very easily, too; Teach children to be careful. Keep matches away from infants. Keep your chimney cleaned. Don't let your flat iron get overheated. Have a clean cellar. Don't pour kerosene on hot ashes.

SAW A FOX

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake circle. I always like to read the letters. We have seen a flock of robbins and some quail. The other day while I was at school I saw a fox. My brother Maxwell and I walk two miles to school. I am in the second grade I have three little sisters. I live on a farm in Canterbury. We have 22 head of cattle and two horses. Their names are Jerry and Jim.

A TRIP TO A COTTON PLANTATION

Dear Uncle Jed: Last summer I went down south to visit a friend. When I reached her house I was very lonesome because it was my first night. But the next morning I was very happy when I saw the cotton fields. There were many negroes picking cotton. After they had picked the cotton they put it in baskets and took it to the cotton gin, where the seeds were taken out. They shipped it to New Orleans where they unloaded it and sent it from New Orleans to Connecticut where they took it to mills and stores. When I reached home I told my father and mother about the cotton.

AUTUMN

Dear Uncle Jed: Some afternoon our boys and girls will come pouring out from schoolhouses, linger a bit about the building, and then set off in all directions going singly or in little groups. There are those who have a little distance to go, to enjoy the full glory of the autumn as it is revealed in quiet places.

But all days cannot be alike, nor would we want them so. I think that no two are ever just alike and, though we travel the same path day after day the season through, we may find it our senses are in tune with nature. Even the cold, gray days, the wild, windy days and the stormy days have their place, and hold a charm and interest to meet them without discomfort as we journey to and fro.

OUR CAT

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to the Wide Awakes before. I hope they will enjoy reading this story. Whenever I used to hear our chickens cackle I would go to the hencoop and get their eggs. One day father and mother suggested to set a hen. About three weeks later the hen hatched chickens. My mother put them in a box, out in our yard, in the sunshine. When mother opened the door, our cat, which is about 6 or 7 years old, stood in front of the box and watched them. Our neighbor's cat, wanted to get one of them. Our cat saw the other cat. She got up from her place and ran after the other cat till it was out of sight. I guess our cat understood that the other cat wanted to get the chickens. Our cat came back and watched them till mother took them back into the house.

THE BLUEBIRD

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to you before. I am going to write about a bluebird. When the bluebird is in full plumage, it is a rich azure blue. The throat, breast and sides of the body, are of a bright, brick-red, shading into a bluish white, or white toward the back. Some of the feathers, in tail and wing are black. Their nest is in a hollow tree, box or hole. The eggs are from four to six and usually a pale blue or white. For food they eat insects, beetles, spiders, and grasshoppers.

THE MICE AND THE TRAP

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second story I have written you and I hope all the Wide awakes will enjoy reading it. A mouse trap was set with a piece of bacon. Two little mice saw the trap and stopped to look at it. Oh, just smell that bacon, cried one. How good it smells and it looks still better and oh, how good it would taste. See there is a door into the little room in which it hangs, come, hurry. All right, said the other one, if you want to be a fool and get caught you may. So he went in and the door shut and he was caught and the wise one went safely home.

VIRGINIA VARS, Age 10.

THE SLOTH

Dear Uncle Jed: The Sloth is a native of South America. It lives on leaves and wild fruit. It has an ugly face. It is so strong that nothing which it seizes can be freed from its claws.

This animal is a slow walker and it takes him many days to climb a tree, but still longer to climb the branches. It suffers the most pressing hunger.

When it has reached the branches, he clings to the tree, and devours the fruit, leaves, and even the bark.

It then comes down, or drops down to the ground. It stays there till it is hungry again. Then it travels to another tree.

THE LOST KITTEN

Uncle Jed: One night as I was going to bed I thought I had better put Topsy outdoors. The next morning was Saturday morning so I did not get up very early. When I got up I asked if Topsy had been in the house that morning. My mother said, that Topsy had not been seen that morning. I waited all day and all the next day but she did not come home. So I thought she must be lost.

About two weeks after Topsy disappeared I saw a kitten that looked exactly like her. I called Topsy and went up and stroked the kitten but the kitten did not seem to know me so I am not sure whether it was Topsy or not.

HOW COPPER IS MINED

Dear Uncle Jed: Have you ever visited a copper mine? I'll tell you about an imaginary trip we have taken. The mine we have been visiting is on the banks of Lake Superior. Wear your old clothes and if possible, a rubber coat, hat, and boots. A shaft is a deep hole dug into the earth. Over the shaft is a building which contains machinery which lowers the men to their work and brings up the ore. The men ride back and forth in a man car. The ore is taken in buckets called skips. Now we descend into the earth. After passing several drifts, the car stops and we see before us a railway. In the distance, we can hear the miners at their work. In the mine are guides to show us the ore in the rock and we watch the miners working. To loosen the ore, holes are drilled in the rock and filled with dynamite. After the explosion, several tons of ore fall to the floor of the drift.

LAURETTA NADEAU, Age 10.

ABOUT ST. PATRICK

Dear Uncle Jed: Year after year, as the 17th of March comes around we recall the memory of St. Patrick.

St. Patrick was born in Scotland in the year 387. His father was of Roman and his mother of French origin. In 403, he was taken captive and brought to the shores of Ireland. Here he was sold as a slave. He tended sheep for six years naturally giving rise to deep thoughts. At length, he was warned, in a vision, that his captivity was over.

He was directed to go to a certain port where a ship was about to leave This he obeyed, and he was soon in a monastery near Tours, in France, preparing for the priesthood. Later he was consecrated a bishop by St. Maximus.

In 433 this new missionary landed upon the shores of Ireland. Immediately he began the conversion of the Irish race.

HOW DIMES GROW

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about Tom's dime. Tom's big brother had told him that the first dime he found if he would plant it, a tree would grow and instead of leaves it would have dimes on it.

One day Tom found a dime and planted it in his garden. He watered it and pulled the weeds every day but the tree did not grow. At last he told his mother about it. His mother thought it very funny and laughed and said, "Dimes only grow if they are given to help someone."

Tom planted the dime again, not in the ground this time, but bought a book for a little boy, who could not go to school, because he had none.

Big Reception for Uncle Dave

"Goodness gracious meebus!" as dear Uncle Lucky says, "I almost made a dreadful mistake in the last story, O, yes, O, yes. I meant to say there was no room on the Ferryboat for the Old Brown Horse so he just swam across the River Sippi in plenty of time to hear David Cory tell a story to all the little boy and girl bunnies at the Lettuce Opera House in nice Turnip City.

And now, let me say, there were maybe a million little boy and girl rabbits waiting for them. And didn't they have a nice time. Well, I just guess yes three times. But you don't know what happened when Uncle Dave first arrived.

So, listen my children and you shall hear

How Little Jack Rabbit winked his ear
When Miss Daisy Duck put out her hand
And said "You are welcome to Story Book Land."

"I've brought Uncle Dave all the way from New York City to talk to the children in your nice big opera house store," laughed the little rabbit. Doesn't he look just like his pictures which he sends to all the bunny boys and girls?"

"Of course," answered Miss Daisy Duck. "I was just wondering if his portrait painter is as good. You see, his legs are as long as the camera's. He doesn't have to stand on tiptoe. That's the reason he's such a good camera man."

"I should like to meet him," laughed Uncle Dave. "But come along. I must not keep the rabbit children waiting."

Just then, all of a sudden, the bunny boys and girls began to sing:

"Here comes Uncle David Cory,

And the rabbit in his story.
Jackie Rabbit, all the way
From Sunny Meadow, Oh, so gay.
Listen and we'll hear him tell
All about Sweet Clover Dell,
Shady Forest, Bubbling Brook,
Big Brown Bear, Cosy Nook.
We will surely shout with glee
Unless Danny Fox we see.
Then look out for he may snatch
Off the door, the knob and latch!"

"Don't Worry," said the Kind Policeman Dog. "I won't let him in. Go ahead Uncle Dave and talk to the rabbit children." And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

The Clash of Hammers

"Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven"—Ps. 119:89.

Nor hammer, axe or other tool
Rang with unhallowed sound
When anciently God's House was built
With reverence profound:—
Prepared was every stone o'er brought.
Hewn, polished, carved, its face
Numbered—to fit its proper niche—
Silently dropped into place.

So builds the Christian Temple, grand,
In the Kingdom of God's grace—
Age after age its walls expand,
Each block of truth finds place,
Shapen from quarries of His Word
When priests and prophets spoke,
Nor may the clash of human tongues
Loud hammering, aid, one stroke.

Each marble block of truth profound
No tooling harsh debates with clamorous sound
District men's minds with pain:—
Truths' fundamental all abide,
Need setting but in place,
Where workmen labor side by side,
To build God's House apace.

Foundation truths require no change
From God's own quarries brought,
The Church of Christ rests firmly on
The Words of Life He taught—
Though wise fools pound with deafening noise
Nor reverence betoken,
Silently place thy stone with poise,
GOD'S WORD CANNOT BE BROKEN

Rich Man, Beggar Man, Thief

Rich man, beggar man, thief,
How we clutch at a glint of Treasure
Selling our silver dreams
For a handful of tinsel pleasure.

Hurrying through the world
With greed in our eyes to blind us:
Cramming our pockets full
Of the things we must leave behind us.

Lying straight in our graves
At the end of the road we must travel,
Rich man, beggar man, thief,
We shall grasp but a handful of gravel.

"If only you novelists would stick to love," wrote the inspector, "you'd do less harm." Mr. George's comment on this was: "I'm not at all sure about that. My own opinion is that love has done more harm than burglars since the world was created."

WESTMINSTER

The theme for the pastor's discourse at morning worship Sunday was prayer and regular church attendance a vital part of true religion "He went into the synagogue as was His wont on the Sabbath day."

The Fellowship of Prayer, topic for the week beginning March 23 is The Great Adventure.

The W. C. T. U. dinner was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Fred Kinne at the Plains, by seventeen persons, quite a few being detained by road conditions and having dinners sent to them.

The meal proved a perfect, old-time style boiled dinner, with all accompaniments possible supplied by the hostess. In the center of the long table was a large basket of fruit with green and white festoons and streamers to the ceiling in honor of St. Patrick's day, then near at hand favors of tiny potted shamrocks were at each plate. The dinner was served at noon; various members of the W. C. T. U. adding to the bountiful board and all having much merriment and good fellowship.

Miss Helen Kinne was her mother's able assistant in the role of hostess, in all directions, during the day, both receiving high praise for their achievements.

Mrs. Charles Roberts had a serious experience one day in connection with the storm, coming from her house on foot and falling exhausted near the church. Lewis Greenman chanced to be near and Mrs. Roberts was removed to the Moodys for first aid. She has since recovered but is now in charge of the doctor ill with grip.

Howard Rix who was laid up for some days with a severe grip cold is about again.

Mrs. John Soderberg was ill the first of the week is now up and doing well.

Raymond Brown has obtained a work-certificate and left school. All pupils except Joe Maner were in school this week at Westminster Hill.

A. F. Maynard is at work again after his attack of influenza. Victor and Norman MacLeod also having recovered; the latter from an attack of croup.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Greenman spent a night at Restawhile, last week. Mrs. Greenman assisting Mrs. Moody to care for the children, sick with croup at the time now recovered. Mr. Moody having returned to his work in Long Island, N. Y.

Miss Julia Green is confined to home by a severe attack of influenza.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Coulter and sons, Arthur Coulter and James Coulter expect soon to move to Saybrook, Conn., a former home, and are having their house here reshingled, prior to their leaving.

The R. F. D. carriers have not been able to deliver all their mail daily for the past two weeks. The Westminster Hill district received but two deliveries last week, because of road conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson have sold their live-stock as well as their fowls to the Griffins, new owners of the Powers place. Mrs. Johnson and her grand daughter, Miss Bonita Dunnberre left Friday, March 21, for their new home in Syracuse, Milford Pike county, Pa., which is to be their home while Mr. Johnson is engaged in the development of a tract of land as stated in a recent item in the Bulletin.

There was a short entertainment program after the W. C. T. U. dinner at Mrs. Kinne's last week.

CHESTNUT HILL

A. E. Peckham spent a day last week with his brother, William H. Peckham, in Willimantic.

Mrs. Etta Lewis and a friend from Willimantic were recent visitors in this place.

Mr. Lefenthall of Lebanon has hired and moved his family to the Latrop place.

Serious colds or distemper are prevalent.

The work of hauling ties and wood to the local railroad station has been resumed the past weeks, as the roads were frozen again, during the cold snap.

Richard Dimon, assistant R. F. D. carrier, distributed the mail from this office for several days the past week, as Mr Wachtel was ill with a severe cold and unable to go over the route.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield, of Lebanon was a caller in this place a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Peckham of Manchester visited the former's parents here Wednesday.

Misses Cora and Mary Chappell attended the play given by the Dramatic club of Windham High school in Willimantic, Thursday evening.

They were entertained over night by Mrs. Ayer.

LEONARD BRIDGE

Mrs. Edward H. McCall was in Norwich Tuesday.

William Curry of Springfield, Mass., and William Ritchie of the Spalding Manufacturing Co., of Chicopee Mass., returned to their homes Wednesday evening after a brief visit with the former's father, William T. Curry.

Rev. (Miss) Lydia Hartig is scheduled to make two addresses in New London this week. While there she will be entertained at the home of Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Mrs. Mitchell is caring for Mrs. Davis in Franklin, who is ill.

The Community Club met Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Jones were the entertainment committee. After the business meeting there were songs, a guessing contest on a penny, which was won by Stephen Gorski, and a one-act play, "Precious Pickles", parts being taken by Mrs. Calvin McCall, Miss Annie and Clara Gillett, Eunice Barrows, Annie Mitchell, Sophia Gorski and Sophia Shatka. Games were played and selections over the radio were listened to. Cake and coffee were served.

There was a good attendance.

W. G. Thomas and Miss Annie Gillett were in Norwich Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh and Mrs Louis C. Schroeder were in Willimantic Monday.

COVENTRY

At the republican caucus held in the town hall, second district, Wednesday afternoon, Arthur J. Vinton and William B. Hawkins were chosen delegates to the state convention to be held in Hartford, April 2-3, 1924. William B. Hawkins was re-elected town committee for the ensuing two years.

On account of the conditios of the roads, the Bolton and Tolland granges postponed their visit to Coventry Grange Thursday evening, till the roads get settled.

Mrs. John E. Kingsbury is visiting her sister, Mrs. Cora McKnight, near Wellsburgh, Penn.

Miss Bernice Hall of Ellington is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. R. Lee.

Schools closed Friday for the spring recess. They will open on March 31.

Sergt. Martin H. Carver and Miss Lillie Crouse were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman Tuesday evening by Justice William E. Hawkins.

Laurence Hill who was five weeks in the Rockville Hospital following an operation for appendicitis is now at the home of his grandmother.

SUPERIOR COURT CASES ASSIGNED FOR TRIAL

Friday, March 28th: Short calendar, bar meeting and assignment of cases by Judge Marvin for the April additional session, 1924.

Massachusetts conservation and agricultural officials joined in a telegram of protest to the Du Pont Powder company against its proposed nation-wide crow shooting contest.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

New York, March 22.—Stock prices failed to develop a definite trend in today's brief session of the market, renewal of selling pressure against some of the Steel, Rubber and Motor shares being counteracted by the strength of a number of the representative Rails and Oils.

There was a fair-sized accumulation of over-night buying orders when the market opened, many of them undoubtedly inspired by President Coolidge's plea to senate leaders for early action on the tax-reduction bill. When these had been disposed of, operators on the long side showed no disposition to follow up their advantage and bear traders renewed their efforts to unsettled the industrial list.

Curious cross-currents of prices continued throughout the morning, establishment of new low records in some parts of the list being simultaneous with the creation of new peak prices in others. Easy money rates which carried over from Friday apparently had little effect on stock prices but they resulted in a further strengthening of the bond market to which surplus funds are being divorted in large amounts.

Studebaker was again the principal target for bear pressure, being hammered down more than three points to 93, a new low for the year. Recessions in the other Motors were held to fractions. Recent pressure against this group has been based on the reported falling off of sales, which the automobile manufacturers attribute to the unseasonable weather in various sections of the country.

Selling of the Steel shares sent Crucible to a new 1924 low at 53 7-8 and carried U. S. Steel common down to 98 1-2, but both made moderate recovery from their low prices of the day. Fear of price-cutting as a result of the increasing competition of mills for business and the lack of aggressive forward buying have had a depressing effect on the Steel shares. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred touched new bottom prices on liquidation inspired by speculative fears for the safety of the preferred dividends.

Revival of speculative interest in the Oil shares was based on rumors of competitive buying of Mid-Continent Crude and predictions of another increase in prices. Marland, Phillips, Pacific and Standard Oil of California moving up one to nearly two points. Woolworth established a record high price at 333 3-4.

Another brisk advance in Lackawanna, which established a new 1924 high at 124 and closed at 123 1-2 for a net gain of 3 3-4, featured the Railroad group. Buying of this issue was associated with reports of a possible distribution of the road's Glen Alden Coal Co. bonds and vague rumors of its acquisition of the Wabash railroad properties. Profittaking in Southern Railway apparently having temporarily subsided, the stock moved up to 55 3-8, a record high.

A further gain in French francs which carried them above 5.35 cents to another new high price for the year featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Sterling was slightly reactionary. Strength of Brazilian exchange was due, in part, to the publication of an optimistic statement by the head of the British mission which investigated financial conditions in that country.

The weekly clearing house statement showed increases of $60,746,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $459,000 in cash in own vaults; $18,856,000 in reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve bank, $71,705,000 in loans, discounts and investments; $459,000 in cash in own vaults; $18,856,000 in reserve of member banks in the Federal Reserve bank $71,705,000 in net demand deposit, and $12,322,000 in time deposits. Aggregate reserve totaled $545,917,000, leaving excess reserve of $14,663,530, an increase of $8,903,610.

TWO ROADS TO SUCCESSION CROPS

In making up a vegetable seed list, remember there are two ways of producing a succession of crops. One is by successive plantings of your favorite variety. Another is by planting at the same time varieties which will mature successively. In general, successive plantings are preferred where space is limited, and so the quickest growing varieties will produce greatest results. But if one has plenty of space, then a combination of two systems is ideal, as it permits each vegetable to be treated in the way most suitable for it.

The earliest variety of sweet corn matures in about 55 days, while the latest takes 90 days. A succession may thus be sown May 1 which will produce a harvest from mid-June until mid-August. But those who consider Golden Bantam as the finest home garden variety will prefer to sow it every two weeks, and thus produce the succession of crops.

Peas take from 45 days (for the smooth seeded Alaska) to 75 days to mature; and the tall growing types, which bear most heavily and are excellent in flavor, are later than the dwarf. So planting of different varieties for succession in crop promises a heavier yield, and no sacrifice in quality.

Radishes may be grown either way, and one should be guided by taste; as many do not care for the long types which stand the summer heat; but prefer many sowings of the milder globe and olive sorts. For a lettuce succession, on the other hand, one must choose different varieties. Start with a leaf or loose heading variety, sown indoors at the earliest moment and harvested when half grown, using the plants which are thinned out; at the same time set out plants of a butter-head variety which has been started indoors and will mature heads before hot weather begins. And for later harvest, sow crisp head and cos lettuce.

When sowing in late summer for a fall harvest, do not sow late maturing varieties. The early varieties are used again for the fall crop. Late varieties are sown in the spring or early summer, as they take the season to reach maturity.

There suggestions are given to help one in selecting a planting list. The more complete information about the different varieties which is given in seed catalogs should be studied in the light of these suggestions, which are necessarily incomplete.

INEXPENSIVE DISINFECTANT

Every farmer should have on hand a disinfectant which is inexpensive, says an expert. One that can well be used in stables, tie-up milking machines and dairy utensils is made by dissolving 12 ounces of chloride of lime in two gallons of water. This should then be filtered or allowed to settle, so that a clean solution can be secured. To make the disinfectant solution one should take one pint of this mixture and add it to eight gallons of salt bring. This salt brine can be made by dissolving all the salt that can go into suspension in hot water. This mixture can then be covered in crock jars, kept where it is cool and used when needed.

USING SODATOL IN CONNECTICUT ON LAND

Although Connecticut has used considerably more sodatol, an explosive secured by farmers from the government, than any other New England state, the farmers have asked the state board of agriculture to take orders for the second carload this year. The material is used to clear land of stumps and stones and prepare it for cultivation. Secretary Leonard H. Healy of the board of agriculture, estimate that about thirty-five acres of land in Connecticut much of it practically virgin, will be ready for plowing this spring as a result of the work done with the two carloads of sodatol.

Already this winter 18,500 pounds have been used in the state. By counties, Hartford bought 6,300; New Haven, 3,200; New London, 900; Fairfield, 2,100; Windham, 1,400; Litchfield, 4,000; Middlesex, 200 and Tolland, 500. An equal amount will be distributed throughout the state when the car now being ordered arrives.

In addition to the sodatol bought this winter, during the past two years carloads of picric acid have been used by farmers of the state in clearing land. Many Connecticut rural districts abound with fields which have been too rocky or which have contained too many tree stumps to permit of plowing.

This state was the first New England state to accept the offer of the government to supply sodatol at a low cost, $6.67 per 100 pounds. The material is a mixture of TNT and sodium nitrate and is a by-product of war material. Vermont is the only other New England state ordering the explosive. One car has been received there.

Orders are now being taken and anyone interested should communicate with the state board of agriculture at once.

MILK AND CREAM CONSUMPTION GAINING

Consumption of fluid milk and cream in both farm and city homes has been increasing rapidly for several years, a survey just completed by the United States department of agriculture indicates. Average consumption in 1923 was 52 gallons, compared with 50 gallons in 1922, and 49 gallons in 1921. The average daily consumption in 1923 figures out 1.16 pints per person.

Farm people who have producing cows consume more milk than do city people; but farm people without cows or with nonproducing cows consume less than do city people, the survey shows. Average daily per capita consumption on farms having cows was 1.78 pints in 1923; on farms without cows or having nonproducers the average consumption was .775 of a pint, and in city homes the per capita daily consumption averaged .87 of a pint.

The farm figures were tabulated from approximately 30,000 schedules of consumption on individual farms, and represent the most comprehensive survey ever made of milk and cream consumption. Data on consumption in cities were obtained principally from boards of health and covered nearly 300 cities, or about 25,000,000 people.

HOW THE HOME GARDEN SAVES

Paying for the family dinner becomes more and more of a problem in this era of high prices. Together with priceis the constant problem of varying the diet. Thousands of families, particularly in the city and surburban districts, have a ready means of reducing living expenses by utilizing back-yard space. Besides reducing the price of food in dollars and cents the back yard offers a means of providing variety and quality that cannot be secured readily by depending upon the limited stock offered by the stores.

Almost any kind of ground that has sunlight for the greater part of the day will grow vegetables of some kind provided only that it is not permeated with gas or composed of tin cans and ashes. No one who has as much as five feet square of available ground need go without some fresh home-grown vegetables.

The only price that doesn't go up is the price of seeds. They are always the same and from five to ten cents will provide seed for the smallest plot. For those who are more fortunate and have a lot 50 by 100 or 150 the problem is easier. They need not be without vegetables for the entire summer of a quality that money cannot buy. By the first of May they may have radishes, young onions and spinach.

And so on throughout the season, following with green peas, sweet as sugar, that cannot be bought, tender and stringless string beans, young carrots, young turnips, tomatoes, Lima beans, always an expensive luxury, and last and most gratifying of all the vegetables, sweet corn that is really sweet.

If the lot is only the size mentioned there is still opportunity for a bountiful supply. On smaller plots, the family must limit its list to only those vegetables which most appeal to its appetite. It would be foolish for a family which did not care for egg plant or string beans to waste space on these vegetables.

In several communities where the lots were small a happy arrangement is made whereby each owner grows and specialises in one crop and then they divide the produce, furnishing a liberal supply of several vegetables in their season. However it needs to be a neighborhood of particularly kindly and unsuspicious dispositions when it comes to picking sweet corn or green peas for distribution in order not to start trouble. But the arrangement has worked out nicely in several places.

Even a plot five feet will grow half a dozen tomatoes trained to single stems which will furnish a family with fresh tomatoes to slice for the table for two months. The plot before the tomatoes are ready to function will furnish a goodly supply of radishes and young onions planted closely, as intensive culture is possible in such a small plot. A few half hours a week will be all the time needed for the average back yard garden after the preliminary work of preparing the soil has been done.

POINTS IN RAISING OF RASPBERRIES

In starting the planting of raspberries it is always better to set out the plants on a piece of soil which has been used for garden purposes a year or more than to use fresh plowed sod land, say, the league experts. Red raspberry plants multiply naturally by making new sucker canes or sprouts from the old roots which spread far and wide not far below the soil surface. These sucker sprouts can be bought from a nurseryman or perhaps may be dug from the field of some friendly neighbor and used for starting the new lot.

Black-cap and purple cane types of raspberries have the odd habit of making new plants only from tips of the previous season's canes. The nurseryman covers these cane tips with soil in the latter part of the summer, and roots and a new crown bud are soon formed.

Among red raspberries the most popular variety is Cuthbert; other good sorts are herbert, marlboro and early ruby. The st regis is grown a great deal for market in towns near Springfield. This variety bears a second crop on the tips of the new canes of the growing season. The la france is a new fall bearing red raspberry in which there is much interest. The berries which have ever come to their attention. The columbian is the best of the so-called purple cane raspberries. This variety is becoming more popular each year.

One chief horticultural agen says the chief essentials for success in raspberry growing are to select a good soil, free from grass roots; to set out the plants early in the spring; to allow plenty of space between plants, the rows should be from 5 to 8 feet apart and the plants 6 to 12 inches or more apart in the rows; to keep the plantation free from weeds by frequent hoeing or cultivation; to fertilise moderately each spring and, if possible, grow a crop of peas and oats between the rows in the latter part of the summer to add humus or fiber to the soil and to help protect the raspberry roots during the winter; to fight surplus plants in the red raspberry plantation by cutting out old canes as soon as they have finished bearing and by keeping weak plants and surplus plants cut out or hoed out.

SEEKING NORWALK MAN FOR MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Norwalk, Conn., March 23.—George Weeks, 42, an oyster packer, is being sought by city and state police charged with the murder of his wife, Nellie, in the latter's home today. The authorities believe Weeks has taken his own life as his cousin, Charles Smith who saw the man shortly before he went to his wife's home, said Weeks called to him "Goodbye Charlie. I'll see you in the next wroid."

According to the police Mrs. Weeks secured a divorce about 10 months ago and early last night Weeks called on his wife and pleaded with her to return to him. She refused, it is said, but invited him to breakfast this morning. Mrs. Weeks went to a dance later in the evening and confided in a friend that she was afraid to return home because her husband had threatened her.

This morning Weeks was seen to leave his house boat in which he lived by Smith. He went directly to his wife's house. There, police believe Weeks became infuriated because of his wife's refusal to make her home with him and drew a revolver. Mrs. Weeks in attempting to get into the yard to call for help was shot down on the back stairs, one bullet entering her temple and the other a cheek. A third was found lodged in the wall.

George Flynn, who lives on the first floor of the house, heard the shots and summoning Steve Bonis, Mrs. Weeks' nephew, living nearby, entered the apartment where they found the body of of the woman huddled at the foot of the stairway.

Weeks was seen to run from the house along South Main street in the direction of the shore and woods. Several cartridges of the same calibre used in the gun owned by Weeks, were found on Novac street where they had evidently been dropped as the man ran along. He was last seen by Fred Haines of Norwalk who spoke to him as he turned into Wilson street, which leads into the Boston post road at Darien.

TO CONDUCT NEW YORK PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

New York, March 23.—Willem Van Hoogstraten and William Mengelberg have been reengaged to conduct the New York Philharmonic orchestra for the season of 1924-25, the board of directors announced today.

Mr. Van Hoogstraten will conduct the first half of the season as well as the orchestra's New England tour next fall. Mr. Mengelberg, who will conduct the spring tour in the Middle Western states will serve the second half of the season. Henry Hadley has been retained as associate conductor and will direct several mid season concerts.

COLUMBIA

Wednesday evening, at the meeting of the Grange, 38 members were present. The recently elected lecturer, Mrs. Howard A. Rice is providing excellent programs, which are evidently increasing the attendance. The general subject for discussion during the lecturer's hour, was Good Roads. The first number was a reading by Miss Myrtle Collins, followed by an excellent paper on Famous Highways of Our Country, by George Champlin, who has been occupied for some years in the care of some roads of the state.

Edward P. Lyman, who used the roads continously for many years as an R. F. D. carrier, spoke on the Benefits of Good Roads, speaking especially on the Benefit this Town will derive from the Jonathan Trumbull highway. A paper on the Mohawk Trail was read by Mrs. Raymond Lyman followed by remarks by Mrs. Henry B. Hutchins, Mrs. Lester J. Hutchins, Philip Isham and William Wolff from personal experience on a trip over the road. A short, humorous sketch entitled Four Unfortunates, impersonated by Lawrence Hutchins, Joseph Hutchins, Donald Woodward and Howard Squires concluded the program. Each was represented as having lost a leg, was obliged to use cruthes, but they were suddenly able to discard props, concluding the number with a lively dance.

Mrs. Stella Lyman who for some months has been attending Mrs. Emily Little, concluded her engagement Thursday, and went to Willimantic.

That this year, all fisherman must obtain an Angler's license. The trout season opens April 1st, but other fish cannot be taken fro mlakes or ponds until May 1st.

TAFTVILLE

The Young People's meeting at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday evening was led by Mrs. Eugene N. Monty.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Labarre of Goodyear spent the week end with relatives in town.

Miss Dorothy Wood of the State Normal school, Willimantic, is spending this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of South Second avenue.

Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis preached at Norwich Town Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the Norwich Town church.

Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree of North Third avenue.

Lawrence Ryan of Thompson has returned home after spending a short time with William H. Whitehead of Boswell avenue.

Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York will give an address at the Taftville Congregational church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Lewis A. Tillinghast has returned to his home on North Third avenue after spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Taylor and family of New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Meyer of Lisbon have been recent visitors in Hartford.

NORWICH TOWN

When the Norwich Town Men's league met Friday evening, in the First Congregational chapel, there was a short business session at 7.30 when a number of matters were disposed of. The report of the Boy Scout committee of the league as submitted was approved as follows: Payment to lecturer for traveling expenses, also advertising, $7.00. At 8 o'clock John H. Sherman lectured on Bees and Bee Keeping, showing very interesting exhibits. Mr. Sherman was kept busy answering questions for about a quarter of an hour. His talk was listened to with interest and that it was thoroughly appreciated the rising vote of thanks showed.

At 8.30 a Talk on the Need of the Hour, by Ozias Dodge, showed that he was well posted and vitally interested in work of schools, not only in this city and town, but in other cities and communities. The future citizens of the country are the children now about us and that will be true in every age. Many are foreign-born and to make real, loyal American citizens there is no better place for this than the public schools, on account of the impressionable age and the assimilating process. We want and must have agreeable and healthful buildings and surroundings for both teachers and pupils, so that the work may be well done.

The thanks of the league and the committee were given Mr. Dodge for his talk and the painstaking investigations that preceded it. H. D. Larrabee and others spoke briefly in the same vein.

Miss Gertrude S. Avery of Norwich Town has been spending several days in Northfield, Mass., where she attended the meeting of the Connecticut Valley Intercollegiate Missionary union.

With sadness friends learned of the death Sunday morning, at 2.45 o'clock of Mrs. Merilla Loomis, 72, wife of Edwin R. Scott, at her home, 15 Town street, following an illness of about two months, she having been critically ill for the past ten days. Mrs. Scott who was the daughter of the late Drayton and Lydia Lampson Loomis, and was born in Granby, July 15th, 1851. She was united in marriage with Edwin R. Scott, in Avon, Connecticut, 52 years ago last December, New Year's eve. They took up their residence in Avon for a few years, later moving to Plainville, where with their family they resided for more than thirty years. They were members of the Congregational church of Plainville during their long residence there, being closely affiliated with its interests. They were held in high esteem by a large circle of Plainville friends.

When moving to Preston City about twelve years ago, their membership was transferred by letter to the Preston City church, of which, since then, they have been valued members.

Before coming to Norwich Town last July, the Scott family lived for about six years on Beech Drive. Had Mrs. Scott lived until Easter Sunday of this year, with her husband and daughter, she was to have united by letter, with the First Congregational church of Norwich Town. Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Park, of Preston, and Miss Mabelle Scott of Norwich Town; also by a grandson, Wilfred Park of Preston, and a granddaughter, Miss Dorothy B. Scott, daughter of Edwin H. Scott. Miss Scott's mother having died when she was three years old, she has always lived with her grandparents. Another daughter, Miss Mary Scott, died 30 years ago, at the age of 17.

Of New England ancestry, Mrs. Scott was a woman of high ideals, upright and just in all her dealings. Those whose pleasure it was to be brought in contact with her daily could but be benefitted by her gracious influence. Not only did she profess Christ, but she lived a life in keeping with His teachings. She always found comfort in her Bible, and was ready to meet her Master Whom she had served faithfully all her life. In the home where her life's interests were most manifest, she was a loyal wife, mother and grandmother. She took much delight in everything that pertained to nature and especially enjoyed the birds, flowers and foliage.

CAN'T STOP JOINT-EASE

"You can't stop people from buying Joint-Ease for sore throat and cold in chest," writes one of our druggist friends. "They say it's the best ever."

We know that, of course, but please remember that Joint-Ease is for stiff, swollen, painful joints, whether rheumatic or not, and its tremendous sale for that purpose proves that it is the one joint remedy that gets the most satisfying results.

A tube costs 60 cents at all druggists everywhere. Just rub it on and in a few seconds it disappears completely under the skin, and relief follows instantly.

BELL AND TELEPHONE ALARMS KEPT FIREMEN ON THE JUMP

Two bell alarms and four telephone calls made an unusually busy week end for the fire department. All of the calls were for grass fires. Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the department was called out by telephone for a grass fire on land off Brown street, owned by the Norwich Land Improvement Co.

At 3:09 o'clock Saturday afternoon box 224 was pulled in for a grass fire on land on Golden street extention owned by the Groton Land Improvement Co. Boys who started a bonfire were responsible for the alarm.

Sunday morning at 10:06 o'clock the department was called out by telephone for a grass fire on land in the rear of No. 137 Summitt street, owned by Frank Enos.

At 1:14 p. m. a telephone call was received for a grass fire on land at No. 128 Maple street owned by O. E. Hafner.

Less than an hour later, at 2:02 o'clock the department was called out by telephone for a grass fire on land off No. Main street, opposite the tannery, and owned by Charles Burton.

The final call of the day came at 4:09 o'clock in the afternoon when box 73 was pulled in for a fire on land owned by Rueben Kadish, at No. 27 connell street. M. Kadish was burning a pile of rubbish and the fire got beyond his control.

STATIC ELECTRICITY CAUSES GAS TANK EXPLOSIONS

Explosions of the gasoline tanks of automobiles while at filling stations, due to static electricity igniting the gasoline vapor when the cap of the tanks are removed, have caused Connecticut authorities to give serious attention to a proposed safeguard against such accidents.

At the invitation of the Connecticut motor vehicle department, Alanson E. Stewart, superintendent of the jitney department of the Connecticut public utilities commission, has laid before the eastern conference of Motor Vehicles Administrators a plan which he believes should be universally adopted to guard against such explosions. The following statement by him, has been referred to a subcommittee of the conference consisting of Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of Connecticut and Robert J. Howard, director of the automobile bureau of the New York State Tax Department:

"Off and on we read or hear of fatalities occurring in different localities while automobiles are being refueled at gas stations. Apparently, for some unknown cause to the layman, when the hose nozzle was inserted in the car's fuel tank an explosion occurred burning to death the occupants of the car, seriously injuring those near and causing more or less property damage.

"We have all heard of static electricity. It is ever present and can be easily generated by the friction of moving parts. We have heard crackilings in our hair when combed; or when you shuffle over a carpet and immediately touch a radiator or water pipe, you will see a spark and feel a slight shock as this static electricity leaves the body upon contact with the aforementioned; or, in other words, when the body is grounded. The body is grounded well as all pipes enter a building from deep in the earth—at least below the frost line.

"Now lets take the case of an automobile which has been travelling for some time at a fair rate of speed on a well paved highway. This car is being charged with static electricity through friction of the tires, the air, the fan belt and other moving parts. When the car is allowed up or brought to a standstill, this static electricity is discharged into the air or otherwise. If the car has been travelling over a cement or asphalt highway and stops at a gas filling station, (today the grounds or driveways at most filling stations are well paved with concrete) you will note that the material in such roadway construction is a good non conductor and the car accumulates quite a charge of static electricity. The gas station man hurriedly removes the gas tank cap on the car, inserts the wet gas pump hose to refuel the car with the five or ten gallons ordered, and what is liable to happen? The static electricity generated by the car upon contact with the nozzle flows from same to the hose, then to the earth below the pavement where the gasoline storage tank is buried; in other words, the car becomes well grounded. In so doing, a spark can leap from the car to the hose, ignite the gasoline vapor and fatalities result.

"In a coroner's finding, subsequent to an explosion fatal to those involved while a car was being filled with gasoline, he suggests that all car owners carry a chain, and, before allowing the hose to be inserted in the tank, to throw one end of the chain over a mud guard, leaving the other end on the pavement, thus grounding the car of all static electricity.

"It is hardly conceivable that each car owner will or does follow out this good suggestion as there have been several similar fatalities recently.

"As a further suggestion, one which the states could enforce through proper legislation, why not compel the pumps at all gas stations to be equipped with chains or cable adjacent to and securely fastened to the pump frame and the operator of same be required to ground each car by touching the chain to the car (spring, chassis or mudguard) before the tank cap is removed and the hose inserted.

"Let's do this before a load of passengers in one of our jitneys goes the same route."

Y. M. C. A. Sunday Meeting

An interesting service was held in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. During the meeting several reels of moving pictures were shown depicting the life of Edison, and bringing out the value of some lives, when spent in serving others. The meeting was conducted by L. R. Church, assisted by Hugh Kinder and Emmett Fritz.

15TH AND 20TH SENATORIAL DISTRICTS HOLD CONVENTIONS

Albert J. Bailey and Mrs. Martha H. C. Mitchell were re-elected members of the republican state central committee at the 15th district senatorial convention held Saturday at noon in the county commissioners' office in the court house. The convention was called to order by state central committeeman Bailey and on motion of Henry H. Pettis, Fred D. Miller was chosen moderator. Weston C. Pullen was chosen secretary on motion of Stephen H. Reeves. The convention officers were elected as follows: Vice president of the convention, Henry B. Bates; member of the permanent organization committee, Miss Hannah Crowell; credentials committee, Henry H. Pettis; rules committee, William W. Service.

The chairman called for the election of delegates-at-large and George M. Charbonneau and Herbert L. Knox were chosen. A short recess was then taken to notify these two of their election.

When nominations for the state central committee were called for H. H. Pettis stated that the district had been more than well represented on the committee and he would present the name of Albert J. Bailey for re-election. This was carried without opposition. Henry B. Bates of Preston presented the name of Mrs. Martha H. C. Mitchell for re-election and this also was done without opposition. Upon motion of Mr. Pettis, William H. Allyn and Miss Hannah Crowell were named a committee to notify Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Mitchell of their election.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked the delegates for the honor conferred upon her and stated that she would endeavor to keep in ming the interests of the district at all times while serving on the committee as she had always done. Mr. Bailey stated that with this election he would have served on the state central committee for 10 years and that at the expiration of this term he hoped that someone else would be willing to shoulder the burden of conducting the affairs of the district. He and Mrs. Mitchell invited the delegates to dine as their guests in conjunction with the Shoe String district delegates at the Wauregan hotel. Upon motion of Mr. Pettis the invitation was accepted with thanks and adjournment taken.

20th District Convention

The senatorial district convention of the 20th, or Shoestring district was held in the town hall. It was called to order by State Central Committeeman George H. Bradford. L. M. Carpenter was chosen chairman and L. G. Drescher clerk. The officers for the state convention were elected as follows, Vice president, James H. Weeks; permanent organization, Louis J. Fontaine; credentials, Dan L. Home; rules, Louis M. Carpenter. For delegates at large William G. Park, Hanover, and Fred Beckwith, Niantic, were named.

This district, it was stated by a delegate was proud of its representative on the state central committee and it again elected George H. Bradford, of Montville, as its representative on the state committee. For the woman representative Mrs. W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford, was chosen. Mr. Bradford and Mrs. Allyn then invited the delegates to dine at the Wauregan hotel as their guests and adjournment was taken.

LONDON DOCK STRIKE EFFECTS CONN. INDUSTRIES

Due to the recent strike at a number of United Kingdom ports, the United States Shipping Board and foreign steamship lines have incorporated in their bills of lading strike clauses which would absolve that if on account of weather, strikes, lockouts, or other labor troubles, whether of the carriers' employees or others, beyond the control of the carrier, it shall be deemed impossible or unsafe, in the opinion of the master or carrier, to unload goods, in whole or in part, at the port of discharge or delivery, the same may be carried to the next convenient and safe port of discharge for transshipment to destination, or retained on board for delivery upon return, at the master's or carrier's option, but at the risk and expense of the goods and their owner. If goods are landed at the next convenient and safe port, advices mailed to the consignee shall be considered under this agreement as proper delivery of said goods.

The Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut in a notice issued today holds that the application of such a clause is contrary to the provisions of the Harter Act and cannot relieve the ship owner from liability. The Harter Act makes it unlawful for the ship owner to insert in the bills of lading any clause relieving him from liability for loss or damage arising from negligence, fault or failure in proper loading, stowage, custody, care or proper delivery of any or all property committed to his charge.

The state association is making every effort to have this clause removed.

AVERY E. PARK REPORTS MILD WINTER IN VIRGINIA

Avery E. Park, a well known resident of this city for more than half a century is now living with his daughter, Mrs. Henry R. Anderson at Chincoteague, Va., where Rev. Mr. Anderson is pastor of the Union Baptist church. Mr. Park reports that the winter has been mild in that section. There has been only one snow storm and the snow had all disappeared within twenty-four hours.

During the recent near blizzard in the north there was no snow there and while the people were digging themselves out of the drifts in the vicinity of Norwich, Mr. Anderson was busy planting his garden with the early varieties of seed. At no time during the winter has there been more than two or three inches of frost in the ground.

Rev. Mr. Anderson assumed the pastorate there October 1, 1923 and has baptized more than fifty into the membership of the church since that time. The church services are well attended and it is nothing unusual to have from five to six hundred in the congregation.

ACCEPT OFFER TO EXPAND PRESENT GOLF COURSE

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Norwich Golf Land company was held Friday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Shetucket street, Vice President Willis Austin presiding in the absence of President Oliver L. Johnson.

The following directors were elected: Oliver L. Johnson, Willis Austin; Grosvenor Ely, C. Royce Boss and J. Ralph Howe.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors officers were re-elected as follows: President, Oliver L. Johnson; vice president, Willis Austin; secretary and treasurer, J. Ralph Howe.

A resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the Norwich Golf club—that the Norwich Golf Land company acquire and purchase additional land adjoining the present holdings, sufficient to extend the present nine-hole course into an 18-hole course, to erect new structures, buildings and improvements necessary for the maintenance of an 18-hole course, and to construct two new tennis courts, was read into the meeting, and the company voted to accept the proposition. It was voted that the directors confer with the board of governors of the golf club regarding the financing and carrying out of the other details of the project.

The presentation of a practice field for the benefit of the members of the golf club by President C. Royce Boss of the club was formally accepted. This field consists of four acres of the Lawrence farm adjoining the fairway of the first hole. It extends from the New London turnpike at East Great Plain 1,000 feet in an easterly direction to the woods flanking the club house. Its width is about 100 yards. The land is flat and is ideal for the purpose to which it is to be devoted. Members may practice on this ground and the professional will give lessons there, thus doing away with any interference with the play of golfers on the regular course. Heretofore, the club has had no field separate from the links on which to practice. This gift of Mr. Boss, who is deeply interested in the welfare of the club, and whose interest has been demonstrated in a practical manner in other ways previously, is greatly appreciated by the club members.

When the expansion of the golf club is completed, and it seems likely that this will soon be brought about, the club will have every facility of a country club, and it is probable that the name of the Norwich Golf club shall be changed to Norwich Country club. The club already possesses two fine tennis courts and with the addition of two new courts will have a tennis department that will attract many of the best players in Eastern Connecticut. Trapshooting is also a feature of the club.

With these added features, many applications for membership have been coming in this spring. The board of governors anticipates one of the largest gains in membership, in the history of the club, during the coming twelve months.

PLEASANT SOCIAL HELD AT HOME OF C. S. STEVENS

The sixth of the Central Baptist district socials was held Friday evening at the home of Deacon Charles S. Storms, of 575 Main street. The social was not confined to the Preston district, many from other sections of the city accepting the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Storms to be present, and sixty-six registered.

Beautiful floral decorations made the home attractive. The orchestra rendered many pleasing selections and games were played under the direction of Miss Alice Dean. Each of the new members in whose honor the gathering was held, received a boutonniere. John M. Swahn was leader of the orchestra.

WILL FORM CHAPTER OF RESERVE OFFICERS

GAVE INTERESTING TALK ON LIFE OF CARUSO

The regular monthly meeting of the Parish House Association was held at Park Congregational church Friday afternoon. An interesting talk on Caruso was given by Miss Annie L. Ruggles, who was specially qualified to handle the subject because of her unusual opportunities throughout her life of becoming familiar with the opera, with a little account of which Miss Ruggles prefaced her remarks. Miss Ruggles's childhood was spent in Barcelona where, as in all Latin countries, the opera is really a part of the daily life. The opera house in that city is generally conceded to be the largest in the world, and here, night after night, in company with her parents she learned to love the composition of Verdi, Donizetti, Mascagni, etc. When her father was tranferred in the consular service to Malta, the same operatic advantages continued. Successive residences in Geneva, and Dresden, long sojourns in Paris and London, and recent visits to Madrid all furnished further opportunities for an intimate knowledge of the opera, yet Miss Ruggles testified that nowhere was the opera produced worthily than in New York.

Enrico Caruso was born in Feb 1873. He was the eighteenth son of an obscure Neapolitan family. The boy early showed a fondness for music and in the parochial school which he attended was soon chosen to be the principal singer for the church choir. However, there was no money to procure a musical education for the lad and he was put to work at a foundry where drinking fountains were manufactured. He was a general favorite because of his kind and generous disposition. He early lost his mother, but fortunately was soon provided with what proved to be a model stepmother whom he always dearly loved. His life through his teens is a story of hard work and perseverance but merit is almost sure to come to the surface. His voice finally attracted the attention of one who recognized its possibilities and the way was opened to its cultivation. The road to success was not an easy one. Hardships, heart-aches, yearnings there were, but at last chances, one after another, came to him. At the age of 26 he went to St. Petersburg where he sang before the Czar. Soon after this he went to South America where he procured an engagement. For some years then he followed the winter season in the two hemispheres, singing alternately at the famous Scala in Milan and at Buenos Ayres. Later at Veinna, Paris and London triumphs were in store for him. Caruso was never considered great as an actor but what he lacked in that capacity, he amply supplied vocally.

In November 1903 he made his first appearance in New York, singing at the Metropolitan under Courled. No great enthusiasm marked his first performance but it was gradually conceded that on him had fallen the mantle of Jean de Reszke. Steadily he rose to untouched heights. Fame and fortune were indeed his. The royalties from his records brought great sums, while seasons of from 50 to 60 appearances with $2,000 for each performance, made up a goodly income. But he was always a generous spender. His art collection of gold coins, enamels, paintings, tapestries, etc., was valued at $500,000. His last appearances in New York was on Christmas Eve, 1920. In broken health, with his wife and infant son, he returned to his beloved Italy where before he succumbed, leaving vacant a place in the musical world hard, indeed to fill.

At the close of Miss Ruggles's delightful talk several Victrola records of Caruso were given. These included selections from Pagliacci, and R'goletto, an Italian folk song, Solo Mio, an Ulegie by Massinet, a ballad, For You Alone, and Handel's Largo. Tea was then served and a social hour was enjoyed.

EXPERT WILL CONFER ON Y. M. C. A. MEDICAL WORK

William H. Ball, physical secretary of the International Y. M. C. A. committee, will spend Wednesday of this week with Physical Director Fritz of the Y. M. C. A. in going over the physical department work of the local association. Mr. Ball will also meet a number of the "Y" physical groups including the gym leaders club and the physical department committee, of which John M. Swahn is chairman.

Mr. Ball is a national figure in the promotion of athletics and sports, including basketball, and will probably have many valuable suggestions to make to the local organization in regard to its future physical department program.

The number of men now employed is 1,184,200.

WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF LIFE SAVING

In cooperation, the Norwich Boy Scouts and the local Y. M. C. A. are arranging a demonstration of swimming and life saving to be given in the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool on Wednesday afternoon, by Captain Carroll Bryant of the United Gross Life Saving Corps of Washington, D. C. In the demonstration Capt. Bryant will show the latest developments in life saving work, and will probably be assisted by the Y. M. C. A. swimming team and boy scouts. The demonstration is planned for 4:30 and will be open to all boys and men of the city who are interested. There will be no charge.

Captain Bryant will also at a different hour examine local candidates for the Red Cross Life saving work and conduct a session for those who are desirous of getting some special instruction in this work.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY DEGREE TEAM IS AT WARK

The degree team of 15 members of Ladies Auxiliary, No. 54, A. O.H., is at work perfecting itself for working a large class of candidates in April. It also expects to do some work for divisions outside of the city, the first of which will be in New London. The team is under the direction of Cornelius Crowley.

Tried Before Judge Brown

In the Superior court at Waterbury, before Judge Allyn L. Brown of Norwich, and a jury, Deputy Sheriff John Weisman of that place has been trying to convince the 13 men that he is entitled to $50,000 damages from Louis M. Raffel because the defendant intimated unpleasant things about the plaintiff. Raffel at one time wanted "to ride Weisman out of town."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

AMERICANS MADE PRINCES OF ROMAN CATHOLIC FAITH

Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein Elevated to Cardinalate—Ritual of the Secret Consistory Was Conducted Without Ostentation—In his Allocution tahe Pontiff Pronounced an Impressive Eulogy of the American People.

Rome, March 24—(By the A. P.)—The elevation of Archbishop Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago to Cardinals of the Roman Catholic faith took place this morning at the moment of the delivery of the sacred "biglietti" by special emissaries from Pope Pius after a secret consistory, in which these two American prelates were formally raised to the purple of the Cardinalate.

When the pontifical emissaries delivered the momentous tidings from the holy father they addressed each recipient as "most illustrious and most reverend archbishop," but on their leave-taking, after the "biglietti" had been read, announcing the pope's action, the form of address was: "Most eminent and reverend prince."

Henceforth the title to be employed in addressing the American dignitaries will be: "Your eminence," instead of "your grace."

The American members of the sacred college now number four, the two others being Cardinal O'Connel of Boston and Cardinal Daugherty of Philadelphia.

The pontiff, in reading his allocution, in which the American prelates were nominated, pronounced an impressive eulogy of the American people, especially the staunch Catholics who had given so liberally to charity since the war. The pope gave as his reason for elevating Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein to the sacred purple "their personal qualities the importance of their respective sees and the zeal and merit of their pastoral ministry, which has already shed lustre on the hierarchy of the United States of America."

Despite the unostentatious character of today's ceremonies, large groups of sight-seers gathered around the doors of the Vatican and the propaganda and American colleges to obtain a glimpse of the scenes within. Promptly at ten o'clock a score of violet-garbed cardinals resident in Rome assembled in the historic consistorial hall and seated themselves in semi-circle before the pontifical throne to await the appearance of the holy father.

The consistorial hall, constructed under Pope Clement VIII, is one of the most richly decorated rooms of the Vatican; its red silken draperies blended with the violet robes of the cardinals, setting off in striking contrast the pure white of the pontiff's vestments as he strode in with slow and measured steps a few minutes later.

His holiness advanced to the throne accompanied by a select staff of Swiss guards attired in yellow and blue uniforms. The cardinals one by one approached the pontiff, genuflected and kissed the fisherman's ring. A moment later the master of ceremonies pronounced in sonorous voice:

"Extra omnes," whereupon all but the pope and the cardinals filed out of the hall. The pope then read his allocution, nominating two American prelates as members of the highest senate of the Catholic church.

The approval of the cardinals was indicated at the end by the simultaneous lifting of their skull caps, whereupon his holiness tinkled a little golden bell, indicating that the emissaries might depart to deliver the "biglietti" to the chosen dignitaries. In order that there might be no confusion in the ringing of bells, the entire electric bell system of the vatican had been disconnected by papal order.

The consistory having been declared ended, the three pontifical emissaries—Monsignor Gervasi, Cardinal Gasparri's master of the household, Monsignor Tani, Cardinal Gasparri's master of ceremonies and Cavaliere Riggi, secretary to the apostolic chancellor—departed on their sacred mission. They drove in a black closed coach drawn by two glistening black horses, simply decorated with black harness, the only touch of contrast being the highly polished nickel buckles. Two black-liveried coach men sat erect on the box.

Pedestrians and Roman shop keepers turned to gaze questioningly as the coal black steeds pranced through the squalid cobble-stone, winding streets that separate the vatican from the Propaganda and American colleges, their ultimate destination.

Meanwhile, the prospective recipients of pontifical honors, surrounded by a few of their closest friends, took up their positions to await this official call from the holy father. Monsignor Mundelein, clad in the violet silk robes of an archbishop, waited in the congregational hall of the college of the Propaganda, while Archbishop Hayes, similarly attired, waited in the salon of the American college. Besides the select few who were with the epectant prelate in the antechambers, about one hundred invited guests, included, including the students of the two colleges assembled in the two halls to watch the ceremonies.

The papal emissaries drove to the College of the Propaganda and delivered Archbishop Mundelein's "biglietti" first, as he was the senior American archbishop, although in years he is the youngest cardinal in the sacred college—his age is fifty one. Just as the clock struck eleven the pontifical coach rolled up to the Piazza di Spagna, upon which fronts the hall wherein Archbishop Mundelein and his friends waited in solemn silence.

The silence became even more profound as the papal couriers entered the hall. They advanced to where the archbishop stood. Monsignor Gervasi and the other two couriers bent the knee and handed to the archbishop an envelope enclosing the papal announcement. Archbishop Mundelein accepted it, bowed and handed it over to Monsignor Marchetti Selvaglani, secretary of the congregation of the Propaganda, who opened it and read:

"The holy father in secret consistory has had the benignity to elevate to the dignity of cardinal his grace, the archbishop of the diocese of Chicago, in appreciation and consideration of the great work he has done.

Signed, GASPARRI"

The new cardinal then delivered a short address of gratitude, the emissaries withdrew and the ceremony was over. The emissaries then drove to the American College where an identical ceremony was enacted with Archbishop Hayes playing the principal role. The hall where the ceremony took place was crowded, many prominent New York dignitaries and laymen being present, as well as students of the American college and a number of correspondents.

Immediately after the ceremonies the official visits of congratulation began, lasting until twelve thirty and being renewed in the afternoon.

CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST H. F. SINCLAIR

Washington, March 24.—Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, was certified to the federal courts here today by the senate for contempt proceedings because of his refusal to answer any further questions put by the oil investigators.

At the same time, another witness, C. C. Chase, customs collector at El Paso and son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, also refused to testify before the committee taking the position that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

Special government counsel in the oil cases returned to Washington from the west conferred with President Coolidge, and announced that they would present the cases to a grand jury here about April tenth.

A subpoena was issued for Lewis W. Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust company, of New York, from whom the committee will seek to learn what collateral was used to secure a note in that bank which Will H. Hays, former chairman of the republican national committee has testified was paid off with a contribution of $75,000 from Sinclair.

Harold Vivian, a New York Times reporter, told the investigators that Joseph J. O'Neil, attached to Hays' New York office, was authority for an article written by him that it was understood Haya would testify that Sinclair had made a large stock contribution to help wipe out the $1,600,000 deficit of the republican national committee after the 1920 campaign.

ALLEGED FRAUDULENT SALE OF LAND IN TEXAS

Washington, March 24.—Senate inquiry into alleged fraudulent sale of land in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas—newest of the many investigations in progress before congressional committees—got under way with a rush to departments and their field branches and between federal officials in Washington and individuals outside who were interested in the several development companies in the valley, were read into the record during a three-hour session of the senate post-office committee's sub-committee, headed by Senator Moses, republican, of New Hampshire.

Mr. Creager charged that J. M. Donaldson, the inspector who started the latter inquiry was prejudiced, and on his complaint, Chief Postal Inspector Rush D. Simmons placed O. B. Williamson, of Philadelphia, on the case, instructing him to handle it directly with Washington. Mr. Simmons was the only witness before the committee today.

Among those mentioned in the correspondence laid before the committee were Attorney General Daugherty, Postmaster General Hays, Senator Bursum of New Mexico, State Senator David M. Proctor of Missouri, District Attorney C. C. Madison of Kansas City, and W. F. Zumbrunn, counsel for Senator Mayfield, democrat, of Texas, in the election now pending.

FOUND TEN SKELETONS WHILE DIGGING MANHOLE

New York, March 24.—Ten skeletons, believed to be those of American soldiers and sailors who were starved to death on British prison ships in Wallabout creek during the Revolutionary war, were unearthed today near Fort Green park in Brooklyn by laborers who were digging a manhole.

The excavation work was temporarily suspended in the belief that many other skeletons are buried in the vicinity. The spot is near a large monument erected in the park in memory of the revolutionary service men who died on the ships.

Most of the skeletons were those of men apparently between the ages of 40 and 50.

OBITUARY.

Judge Gustaf B. Carlson.

Middletown, Conn., March 24.—Judge Gustaf B. Carlson, one of the leading trial lawyers in the state, died here today. He was stricken upon his return from a business trip to New Britain late in the afternoon and died shortly after he was taken to his home. He had been in poor health since 1921, having suffered a breakdown at the finish of the Emil Schutte murder trial during which he was unusually active.

Born in Hammar, Sweden, July 10, 18770, Judge Carlson came to this country two years later with his parents who took up their residence in Higganum, near here. He was educated in the schools there and was graduated from Yale college in 1891, passing his bar examinations in Middlesex county the same year. In 1900 he was appointed United States referee in bankruptcy in Middletown and retained that office up to the time of his death. Judge Carlson was corporation counsel here since 1908 with the exception of from 1920 until this year when he was reappointed by Mayor John W. Rogers. He was a republican candidate for secretary of state in 1912.

A wife, Mrs. Masie Carlson, two daughters, Elizabeth, Ida and June Heater and one son survive. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Hiram D. Northrop.

Colebrook, Conn., March 24.—Hiram D. Northrop, for twenty years town clerk and town treasurer, died at his home last night. He was born in Philadelphia in 1843 and had been a member of the Masonic order since he was 21 years of age. He is survived by a wife and sister.

Mr. Northrop kept a general store here.

Mellon Income Tax Rate Fixed Into Bill

Senate Finance Committee Cuts Longworth Compromise From the Revenue Bill.

Washington, March 24.—The Mellon income tax rate schedule was voted into the revenue bill tonight by the senate finance committee in place of the Longworth compromise adopted by the house.

This schedule, the center of controversy in the tax bill, was adopted by a vote of 8 to 7.

Not all members of the committee were present but those absent were voted by proxy, except Senators McCormick of Illinois, and La Follette, of Wisconsin, republicans, whose proxies, Chairman Smoot said in response to questions after the meeting, had not been asked for.

The committee is composed of 10 republicans and seven democrats. Senators Gerry, of Rhode Island, and Reed, of Missouri, both democrats, were absent tonight but were voted by proxy against incorporating the Mellon rates in the bill, so that the seven committee members of that party stood as a unite in opposition to the proposal.

The republicans present were Senators Curtis, of Kansas, Reed, of Pennsylvania, Stanfield, of Oregon, and Smoot, of Utah. Those absent but voted by proxy were Senators Watson, of Indiana, Ernst, of Kentucky, McLean, of Connecticut, and Elkins of West Virginia, giving a total of eight for the Mellon plan.

The position of both Senator McCormick, who is out of the city, and of Senator La Follette, who is at home here ill, toward the Mellon rates has been represented by republican committee members recently as doubtful. Chairman Smoot, in saying that the proxies of these two senators had not been asked for, did not go into the reasons.

The Mellon rates provide for a maximum surtax of 25 per cent. applicable to incomes of $100,000 and more against the maximum of 37 1-3 per cent. on incomes in excess of $260,000 provided by the Longworth compromise, and a 50 per cent maximum in the present law. The rates proposed by the treasury secretary calls for normal rates of 3 per cent on incomes under $4,000 and 6 per cent above that amount against rates in the present law of 4 and 8 per cent. The Longworth normal rates are 2 per cent on incomes under $4,000, 5 percent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000, and 6 per cent above that amount.

Prior to taking up the rate schedule tonight the committee approved with some modifications the provision for a 25 per cent reduction on earned incomes. The maximum of $30,000 allowed by the house on which such reduction could be made was cut down by the committee to $10,000.

When the income tax rates were reached Senator Curtis moved substitution of the Mellon schedule for the Longworth compromise. Democrats did not offer a counter proposal and the republicans immediately voted the Mellon plan.

Democrats on the committee apparently were taken completely by surprise. Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, announced after the meeting that the democrats were working up a rate schedule of their own which they would offer later either in committee or on the floor of the senate. Chairman Smoot said if a proposal to reopen the income rates for committee discussion were made it would receive it.

Senator Jones remarked that Senator McCormick would probably be present when the democratic plan was advanced. No definite indication was given by democrats, however, that they would attempt to bring the matter before the committee again.

SCHOONER IN DISTRESS OFF NEW JERSEY COAST

Norfolk, Va., March 24.—The schooner Florence B. Phillips, commanded by Captain Weigandt, and with a crew of seven men, was reported today as in distress off the New Jersey coast.

The coast guard cutter Kickapoo has been ordered from New York to her assistance, and the cutter Manning, which left Norfolk today to destroy the derelict barge Francis O'Boyle off the Virginia coast, was instructed by wireless to render what assistance she could.

Reports received at coast guard headquarters here were to the effect that the schooner's starboard anchor had been lost; that her forward cabin was stove in, the lifeboats and davits carried away and that there was only a scant supply of provisions on board. The Phillips' home port is New York. She is registered 671 gross tons and was built at Camden, Maine, in 1917. She left Savannah, March 12, for New York.

CITY BLOCK IN BLOOMINGTON WAS THREATENED BY FIRE

Bloomington, Ind., March 24—An entire city block is doomed and the central business district is threatened by a fire which broke out in the J. F. Shaeffer grocery here shortly after 5 o'clock and already has destroyed buildings and property valued at more than $300,000.

Fire apparatus was summoned from Martinsville and Bedford but at 9 30 the blaze was still unchecked. In addition to the Shaffer grocery, buildings housing the Daily Telephone, Chamber of Commerce, Bowles Drug Store, Western Union Telegraph Office, American Express Office, Daine's Restaurant, Hendricks poolroom, Clark's barbershop and the Van Vales Printing company had been completely destroyed and the fire was spreading rapidly to surrounding property.

SIPPEKR USED LIQUOR FOR FUEL TO SAVE SHIP

Yarmouth, N. S., March 24.—How the skipper of the steamer Maria, liquor laden, converted his storm-tossed craft into a spirit burner during a gale that threatened to swamp the vessel was told today by members of the craw when the ship put into port after a 24-day voyage from Havana.

The decks of the Maria, which formerly was a Cuban gunboat, were littered with the remnants of 700 cases of alcohol the contents of which, the men said were burned in the furnaces after the coal supply had been exhausted. The liquor fuel was valued at $259 000.

Anderson Loses Fight To Keep Out of Jail

Former Head of New York State Anti-Saloon League Must Serve Term in Sing Sing.

New York, March 24.—William H. Anderson, dry leader and former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New York convicted last January of forgery, today lost his long fight to keep out of jail.

At noon tomorrow, his counsel said he will surrender himself to the sheriff in the Tombs. Within a few hours he will be held on his way "up the river" to Sing Sing prison, where he will be held pending a higher court decision on an appeal from his conviction.

The key that unlocked the prison gates to Anderson was a decision handed down by Supreme Court Justice Wagner who denied the former league head's motion for a certificate matically cancelled the $5,000 bond under which Anderson has been at liberty since his indictment by the grand jury last July. He was sentenced to a term of from one to two years in prison by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins February 3.

Justice Wagner submitted a review of the case which filled 23 typewritten pages, and quoted decisions in scores of cases to uphold his contention that Anderson had been fairly convicted and that the trial record held no grounds for an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court. He upheld the contention of Justice Tompkins, the trial judge, who charged the jury that to constitute the crime charged it was not necessary to show an intent to defraud, but that an intentional falsification, knowingly made or an unlawful or corrupt alteration of a book of accounts, was proof of the guilt of the defendants.

Anderson has not denied that he had directed in writing the account alteration upon which the forgery charge was based, but former Governor Whitman, his chief counsel, contended that he could not be convicted unless intent to defraud were shown.

Anderson had no comment to make on Justic Wagner's decision.

The forgery charged was based on the testimony of O. Bertsall Phillips, former fund solicitor for the league, that Anderson had ordered a falsification of the league books to conceal payment to him of $4400, half of Phillips' commissions for the year 120. Phillips charged that the league superintendent had compelled him to "split" all commissions in excess of $10,000 annually.

WAR VETERANS RELEASED FROM PENITENTIARY

Leavenworth, Kas., March 24.—Clemency for three more veterans of the World war has been granted as the result of the recent investigation by a special war department board, Warden W. I. Biddle, of the federal penitentiary here announced today.

Albert Rappmund and Emmet Bishop have been pardoned and James E. Skiles has received commutation of sentence from twenty years to fifteen, making him eligible for parole in May. Bishop was confined in the Atlanta penitentiary, the other two here.

Rappmund, who had served five years of a thirty-year sentence on a charge of manslaughter and mayhem, left today for his home in Texas where he will care for a widowed mother.

Records show that while abroad a transport going overseas, Rappmund shot and fatally wounded another soldier. Upon learning his comrade was dead, Rappmund attempted to take his own life.

At the court martial in France, Rappmund testified he was "tinkering" with the mechanism of his gun when it was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking the soldier sleeping in a bunk in the same cabin. Both were members of the 114th infantry.

Skiles, whose home is at Trenton, Tenn., was originally sentenced to serve life after he had been convicted by court martial in France of murder. Evidence at the trial showed he had become drunk and killed a comrade in a scuffle over a gun.

Sentiment in favor of clemency for Skiles was aroused recently when it was made known that Skiles had been made the butt for the jeers of I. W. W. inmates while acting as custodian of the prison flag.

Both Rappmund and Skiles had perfect prison records.

SOLDIER BONUS ESTIMATES DIFFER ABOUT $2,000,000,000

Washington, March 14.—Members of congress were confronted today with two sets of estimates, differing by nearly $2,000,000,000 on the cost of the soldier bonus bill passed by the house.

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee made public estimates prepared by Joseph McCoy, government actuary, showing the bill would cost the government $4,856,-760,087.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, who had said the bill would cost $2,119,000,000 on the basis of estimates of veterans' bureau actuaries, immediately characterized the treasury estimate as "absurd."

SAYS THAT BOBBED HAIR WILL CAUSE BALDNESS

New York, March 24—Bobbed hair is a sure means for causing baldness and so it won't be many years before the world is filled with bald headed women, said Joseph Byrne, editor of a beauty magazine in addressing the annual convention of the American Master Hairdressers' association, today.

Milliners, he explained, in order to conform to present day hair style, have been obliged to make head bands exceedingly tight to keep the hats on, resulting in the death of the hair. Mr. Byrne asserted that girls of the present generation would be bald before they reached maturity.

BAY STATE MAY VOTE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Boston, March 24.—The state senate by a vote of 20 to 7 today passed a reselve to permit the voters next November to express their opinion relative to daylight saving, the result to be advisory to the next legislature. The house has not yet acted on the measure.

HOUSE VOTES $10,000,000 FOR DESTITUTE IN GERMANY

Party Lines Were Risregarded as Resolution Was Adopted For Appropriation For Purchase of Food Supplies For Women and Children—Resolution, Passed 240 to 97, Stipulates That the Foodstuffs are to Be Bought in the United States and Transported to Germany in Shipping Board Vessels.

Washington, March 24.—Disregarding party lines the house tonight adopted a resolution to appropriate $10,000,000 for the purchase of food supplies for destitute women and children in Germany.

Senate to the senate by a vote of 240 to 97, the measure stipulates that the foodstuffs are to be bought in the United States and transported to Germany in shipping board vessels.

Three hours were devoted to debate after which a score of amendments were offered. Only one, by Representative Jones, democrat, Texas, which provided that the supplies should be purchased wherever possible through farmers' organizations, was adopted, 165 to 68.

An amendment by Representative Fitzgerald, republican, Ohio, would have sought to prevent expenditures of any of the appropriations until a soldier bonus bill is enacted into law. It was thrown out on a point of order, which an amendment by Representative Underhill, republican, Massachusetts, to withhold the appropriation until the German government spends an equal amount for the same purpose was rejected 103 to 34.

Amendments rejected by viva voce vote intcluded one by Representative Butrness, republican, North Dakota, to confine the supplies purchased to wheat, and another by Representative Wefald, farmer-labor, Minnesota, to increase the appropriation to $20,000,000.

Representative Fish, republican, New York, author of the resolution, and a former service man, led the fight for adoption, while Representative Connally, democrat, Texas, directed the attack against the measure.

Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, declared the resolution to be constitutional while an opposite view was taken by Representative Tucker, democrat, Virginia. The Ohio member said it afforded an opportunity for "charity" and neded relief. Mr. Tucker insisted it would tend to consolidate the German vote but would mean nothinf as a relief beasure because but 2 and 1-5 cents per day would be available for each of Germany's 2,500,000 children.

The resolution, Representative McKeown, democrat, Oklahoma said attempts to pursue the United States' "lack of a foreign policy," and instead of relief France should be made to adopt "a proper course" towards Germany or "pay her debt to the United States." On the contrary, Representative LaGuardia, republican insurgent, New York, declared the bill would do "more good in five minutes than the league of nations in five years."

Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, democratic leader, said he wished it were possible for him to support the resolution as he had "as much sympathy as most men." He added that he was "not unmindful of the bearing it might have on foreign relations" but that he "was unable to find authority for it in the Constitution."

A warm appeal for the resolution was made by Representative Cooper, Wisconsin, republican insurgent, who said that although Germany might have sufficient food it was destitute of money with which to purchase it. His views were indorsed by Representative Connery, democrt, Massachusetts, who sad he had fought the German army "but didn't make war on the German women and children."

Representative Andrew, republican, Massachusetts, declared good authorities reported there were no crop failures in Germany and statiscits also showed that the number of cattle and sheep had increased in that country. He said he himself had seen conditions there and that "food and music in the restaurants."

Germany has resources in other parts of the world, Mr. Andrews added, and it should use them. The operat houses and stores, he declared, are full of people and Germany is literally crowded with food."

In concluding Mr. Andrews said "if the wealthy classes of Germany can afford luxuries, if there is no crop failure or food shortage, then why in the name of common sense give them $10,000,000?"

Representative Wilson, democrat, Mississippi, said advocates had declared the resolution would bolster up the German republic and help check the advance of bolshevism. He added that "fidelity to the fundamentals" of the Constitution was the best safeguard he knew against bolshevism and that the gift would not be sanctioned under the Constitution.

TO SUBMIT TAX RETURNS OF "MELLON" INTERESTS

Washington, March 24—Internal revenue bureau files on tax returns of the Standard Steel Car company, the Gulf Oil Corporation and other concerns, in which Secretary Mellon of the treasury department is interested probably will be filed tomorrow with the special senate committee investigating the bureau. Bureau officials told the committee today that this would be done in answer to insinuations by committee witnesses that "Mellon companies," had received preferential treatment in tax matters.

The committee will also receive from the bureau by request of Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who is conducting the investigation, the bureau record of a tax abatement he received and which involved large figures. Senator Couzens explained that he would present this record to show the opportunity for graft that existed in the bureau.

Chief interest in today's hearing on the part of committee members went to the question of what the aggregate of tax rebates or abatements or other allowances might be. The officials present could not estimate this, which is in addition to the cash refunds made by the bureau and which ran last year at more than $125,000,000. Senator King, democrat, Utah, said he had heard things which made him believe that the rebates and credits might reach "hundreds of millions," and that in this way, under depletion allowances, oil concerns, coal miners and similar industries had virtually escaped taxation.

The committee got a lot of information from Gull Barber, former auditor in the special assessment section of the bureau but now a tax adviser and described by Senator Couzens as "the best tax fixer in Washington." Barber objected to the word "fixer" or "expert. He testified that his application to practice before the bureau had never been approved and said that bureau agents had gone to his clients trying to get them not to employ him. Barber thought this really was the work of "jealous competitors."

DERBY HAS UNKNOWN BUT GENEROUS BENEFACTOR

Derby, March 24. — A mysterious stranger, riding in his auto in Shelton this morning, inquired of a woman who was sweeping off the sidewalk in front of her home if there was a drive on in Shelton for the Griffin hospital of Derby. Being informed that there was he pulled from his pocket a $1,000 bill, asked her to turn it in and drove away. A short time later he appeared in Derby and making the same inquiry of a traffic officer on duty at Main and Elizabeth streets, gave him a $500 bill and disappeared with the admonition that he turn it over to some good lookinf canvasser.

FIRE IN NUNS' FOUNDLING HOSPITAL IN MONTREAL

Montreal, March 24—Fire broke out at 11.40 o'clock tonight in the Grey Nuns foundling hospital, where there are about 300 children. Two alarms were sounded.

The fire broke out in the laundry near the quarters of the nuns and novitiates and a considerable distance from the section occupied by the inmates.

GREEK ASSEMBLY VOTES CONFIDENCE IN THE GOV'T

Athens, March 24—The national assembly today gave a vote of confidence in the government by a majority of 19. The vote was 278 to 259.

STORY OF THE FALL OF HONDURAN CAPITAL

Washington, March 24—The following dispatch from Tegucigalpa, prepared by the Associated Press correspondent there and certified by Commander Causey, in charge of the naval landing force to be an "authentic report," was suppressed by the Honduran authorities and later transmitted to the navy department by radio from the cruiser Milwaukee:

Tegucigalpa, Honduras (undated-delayed)—After the death of President Gutierres, on March 10, dictatorial powers were assumed by a council composed of government ministers (cabinet officers) and they decided to carry on the war against the revolutionary leaders. All efforts on the part of the foreign diplomatic corps, headed by American Minister Franklin Morales to save the city from attack by the revolutionists were futile as the council could not be convinced of the advisability of a compromise with the revolutionists.

General Ferrera, on March 12, laid siege upon the city but was successfully resisted by the de facto government forces defending. Fights occurred daily in the suburbs and troops of the de facto government on hills within the city fired at the revolutionists with artillery, shooting over those sections of Tegucigalpa which lay between the guns and the enemy camps.

The de facto government proved unable to maintain order and on March 18 Tegucigalpa was in a state of anarchy, murder, looting, with the general disorders prevailing everywhere. In this situation Minister Morales requested the commanding officer of the Cruiser Milwaukee at Amapala to send a detachment of sailors. They arrived in Tegucigalpa last Wednesday and the situation immediately quieted down.

Members of the council of de facto government ministers protested against the landing of the force from the Milwaukee.

EIGHT PERSONS KILLED IN COLLISION OF STEAMERS.

Gravesend, England, March 24.—(By The A. P.)—Eight persons were killed and three seriously injured on board the British steamer Matatua during a collision early this morning in the Thames esquary with the American steamer American Merchant, a new freight vessel on her maiden voyage from New York to London. The American steamer was badly damaged and was towed into the Tilbury dock. There were no casualties aboard her.

The Matatua was outward bound when the collision occurred. The bow of the American ship cut through the forecastle of the Matatua, making a hole fifty feet by thirty feet. The men killed, two engineers and six greasers, were asleep in their bunks. Their bodies were badly mangled.

The American Merchant kept her nose in the hole in the side of the Matatua and succeeded in pushing her on a mudflat, where she was beached. The American boat has a hole in her side only six inches above the water line. As she was being towed to the dock at Tilbury the American steamer flew her flag at half mast.

THREE MEN INDICTED FOR MURDER OF ZOE WILKINS

Kansas City, Mo., March 24.—A joint charge of first degree murder was filed late today against B. P. Tarpley, Dillard Davies, negro, and Charles C. Wilkins, in connection with the slaying here of Dr Zoe Wilkins, osteopath.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church St. Telephone 1062

Miss Agnes Irene Burdick of South Windham and Charles L. Valleau of New London were married at 5.30 Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's church, Windham, by the rector, Rev. F. C. Williams. They were attended by Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Foss, with whom the bride has been making her home in South Windham. Mr. Valleau has been called away to Dallas, Texas on business and will be joined later by Mrs. Valleau.

Since its institution, thirty years ago, March 30, Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. E., has become one of the most most progressive fraternal organizations in this city and boasts a membership of over five hundred. To commemorate this remarkable growth and to celebrate the passing of another milestone of its existence the lodge will give its tenth banquet and entertainment next Monday evening at the state armory on Pleasant street. The banquet will be one of the most elaborate affairs ever attempted by the local lodge and promises to go over big in keeping with the established reputation of the local lodge.

Martin J. Cunningham of Danbury, who was district deputy at the time the lodge was instituted will deliver an address. Mr. Cunningham has been called the father of the local lodge. James R. Nicholson of Springfield, Mass., a past exalted ruler will be another speaker. James Hammond of New London, who has established a wide reputation as a Rotary orator will be present, as will also Edward J. Cotter of Hartford, candidate for grand trustee at the convention which will be held in Boston next July.

Representations from practically every lodge in the state will be guests of the evening. The roast turkey supper will be "tabled" at 7.30 o'clock and vaudeville entertainment will run continuously for five hours, leaving no dull moments during the entire session. The committee in charge of the banquet includes: Joseph M. Berard, chairman; Michael E. Sullivan, Charles A. Gates, Charles W. Alpaugh, J. Francis Keon, George A. Bartlett, R. Ernest Melody, P. D. Donohue, Valentine L. Murphy, Louis J. Flynn and Maurice S. Leonard.

Earl W. Green Post, No. 52, American Legion, of South Coventry, is to stage its second annual spring frolic at the town hall of that place in April. Posts from Putnam, Danielson, North Grosvenordale, Hebron, Stafford Springs Springs and Willimantic will be represented. An address will be delivered by District Commander Richard R. Murray of Stafford. The committee, with Adjutant Howard Daniels in charge of the frolic has secured an entertainment and arranged a program to please every taste.

Starting Thursday evening with a dinner at 6.30, high school principals from Connecticut will assemble in this city for a two-day conference. A fine program has been arranged to consider material for a state administrative manual. The conference held here last year was a decided success.

The session will be in the state normal school building and the program will be in charge of Walter B. Spencer, chairman of the committee. Friday evening the conference will come to a conclusion with a dinner and an address by Commissioner A. B. Meredith. The tentative program follows:

Thursday, March 27, 6.30 o'clock, dinner program in charge of Walter B. Spencer.

Friday, March 28, 9 a. m., general session, discussion of administrative manual; 10 a. m., group meeting, Making of the daily schedule, Principal James M. Moore of Bridgeport, leader; The Marking System, Records, etc, Principal Paul Miller of Meriden, leader; The School and the Community, Principal Henry E. Cottle of Bristol, leader; The Use of the Longer Class Period, Principal Louis B. Slade of New Britain leader; 12 m, luncheon; 2 p. m., discussion of guidance bulletin, Supt. S. B. Butler of Litchfield, leader; 3 p. m. group meetings, teachers' meetings; Large High School Group, leader, Robert P. Early of Wallingford; What Can the Small High School Do to Render Greater Service to the Pupils Who are Not Going to College, medium high school group, Harold P. Crosby, of Guilford, leader; Problems of the Junior High School, Principal Donald Swett of West Hartford, leader; The Six Year Secondary School for Small Towns, Jesse B. Davis, state supervisor of secondary education, leader; 6 p. m., dinner and address by Commissioner A. B. Meredith.

As happens every winter season, a number of the cottages along the shores of Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry have been burglarized since being vacated last fall. Considerable property was taken this year from half a dozen or more cottages, although just what has been stolen during the most recent outrage could not be determined until the owners had inventoried their holdings. Theodore Marrottee, of High street, and a party of friends motored to the lake this week and immediately saw evidence of the breaks. Mr. Marrotte found that the door of ahis cottage had been pried open and the bureau drawers ransacked. As far as he knew nothing had been stolen. Other cottages which had been ransacked were owned by Cyril A. Lamoureux, Frank P. Fenton, Mrs. John Boucher, John Hynakek and Dr. H. E. F. Tiesing. Mr. Fenton and Mr. Lamoureaux were at the lake Monday afternoon in an attempt to learn the amount of their loss.

Orders have been received by Captain Joseph R. Morrison, of Company C., 169th Connecticut Infantry, from regimental headquarters to make all necessary preparations for his company to take part in the celebration to be held in New Haven Saturday, April 12. Five years ago on that date, the 102nd Regiment of 2½th Division returned to the United States after serving in France during the World war. The coming event will witness the renaming of the 169th regiment in honor of the 102nd.

Captain Morrison has announced that the annual banquet of Company C is to be held at the state armory at a convenient date during the latter part of April. The following is the committee in charge of arrangements: Lieut. Ellison S. Smith, Sergeant John Lutton, Corporal Ernest LaFleur and Bugler Pierre Lachance.

The funeral services for Mrs. Martha Brunell Hurteau were held Monday morning and were largely attended. There were beautiful floral tributes. Delegations were present from Conseil St. Cecile, L'Union St. Baptiste d'Amerique and the St. Anne society. The funeral was held from her home, 219 Valley street at 8.30 o'clock. In St. Mary's church there was a solemn high mass of requiem, Rev. J. J. Papillon being the celebrant, Rev. H. C. Belief, deacon and Rev. A. A. Mathieu, sub deacon. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was master of ceremonies. A delegation from St. Anne's society met the body as it was borne into the church and acted as escort to the sanctuary rail. Joseph F. Gaudreau, director of the choir rendered Nearer My God to Thee. The banner bearers were Mrs. Gedeon Cote, Mrs. J. B. Pepin and Mrs. Godias Lamantagne. Mrs. George Lacigne, Mrs. Felix Lessard, Mrs. George Denault and Mrs. Charles LaPointe bore the canopy. Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau was at the organ. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, in the family plot. Rev. Fathers Papillon, Beleo and Mathieu conducted the committal service. The bearers were Roderick Dion, P. J. Laramee, Albert J. Fournier, C. A. Lamoureau, Prosper Vegiard and Wilfred Gagnon. Albert J. Piche was flower bearer. Arrangements for the funeral were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

The funeral of Elizabeth Popo was held Monday morning from her home 33 Temple street. At St. Joseph's church at 11 o'clock, Rev. John E. Clark sang the high mass of requiem. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

The bearers at the funeral of Arnold Hanna, held Sunday afternoon in Hebron were Alfred Beckwith, Walter Hughes, Arthur Ray and William Heether.

Here's a new one—a thrifty jitney driver in this city recently traded a phonograph and records for two cords of wood. He is a member of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Foss are in Dallas, Texas, on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Bentley.

Automobiles owned by Isaac Atterberg, 83 Atwood street, Hartford, and Dr. M. D. Riordan of Lewiston avenue, this city, collided at the junction of Main and Bridge streets early Monday afternoon. The damage was slight and the drivers agreed to settle, after reporting to the police department.

The local police have come to the conclusion that some local character is either short-sighted or as mean as they make them. Several woman have called at the police station and displayed sadly stained fur and cloth coats, evidenly damaged by some tobacco chewer.

The public schools in the town and the state normal school closed Friday for the spring recess and will open Tuesday, April 1.

Reverends F. F. Foshay, F. C. Williams and A. Stanley Muirhead, with General Secretary Albert B. Smith, motored to Norwich Monday, to attend a dinner at noon of the ministers of New London county.

RED PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Disfigured Very Much. Itched Terribly. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began by red pimples coming out all over my face. They disfigured my face very much, and itched terribly causing me to scratch the affected parts. The trouble lasted about six months. I used different remedies without any success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, together with the Cuticura Soap, I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Grace A. Somebody showed old Cluey Watson, the Cloud Digger's 71st semi-annual weather prediction in the Danielson column of Saturday's Bulletin, and he laughed. After that he read over a copy of the 70th semi-annual prediction, which touched up the "hummer" of a winter we were going to have with blizzards and mountains of snow and ice. Then he laughed again! Oh Cluey says he never was on a water-logged vessel for 23 days, off the Dutch Isle of Saba, W. I. as the Cloud Digger says he was, but he was "hide-bound" for three weeks in a Mattawamkeag logging camp, from eating salt pork and frozen potatoes, and that he can guess nearer to the weather than some folks can "figger."

Sunday morning's fire served well to illustrate the value of the new sort of arrangement for coupling on to the first hydrant for the first stream. Chief H. L. Stanton of Norwich, who has always been very friendly to Chief Wakely of Jewett City, explained sometime ago to the latter, its value in the few minutes saved, at a fire which has a good start like the Sunday blaze. Strapped to the hose, a few feet from the coupling that is to connect with the hydrant, is to be found the wrench, secure. A strap is over the hoseman's arm as the truck nears the hydrant, which the chief or his assistant selects. The truck only slows down as the hydrant is passed, the man drops off and has his coupling made and water ready, by the time the pipemen are at the first vantage point, to begin the fight

A flock of twelve shell-drakes is enjoying a few days in Tadpole pond, away over next to the cedar swamp, on the eastern border. Startled by every passing train, they rise and wheel off over the swamp, only to settle down again, after the seeming danger has gone. Shell-drakes are to be seen here all winter in the icy waters of the Quinebaug, but each is always alone. Now a flock of a dozen seems strange, especially as they are all males.

PLAINFIELD

The domestic science department at the high school plans to start a lunch counter. The project has been under consideration since the opening of school in the new building. The domestic science classes are to take charge of the cooking of the food, which will be sold to pupils during the noon period at a price necessary to cover the cost of the supplies. The plan is to make this innovation self-supporting, without charging more than is necessary for the food. For the present cocoa, and several different fruits will be sold, but after the Easter vacation the pupils will be able to get a warm luncheon at the counter.

AT THE PALACE

One of the best acrobatic acts seen on the local stage this season features the bill at the Palace for the first half of the week. This act is a whirlwind sensation with action standing out all over it. There are seven young men in the act all perfect specimens of physical development and their pyramid work and sensational tumbling are in a class by themselves.

Another act that stands out is Kurzene and Sonia in violin and piano selections. These two artists are very accomplished, Mr. Kurzene as a master of the violin and Miss Sonia as a pianist. Both have marked talent which they display to exceptional advantage in their numbers.

The Brightons have a unique act in their pictures in rags and make some extraordinary pictures with a few bits of cloth.

Other acts on the bill include Bob Ferns and Co., in "Hotel Life" and Harry Meehan, billed as an eccentric comedian.

The feature picture is "Chastity", a First National production featuring Katherine MacDonald. The picture is very interesting and the scenes and costumes add much to the production.

HOPKINTON

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church gave a successful oyster supper and sale of fancy articles in the former trimming room of the carriage shop of Roger W. Lewis on Wednesday evening. The room was attractively decorated and the articles on sale tastefully arranged.

Truly a Wonderful Show at the Strand Theatre

What can be easily termed as a truly wonderful show of vaudeville and pictures is that presented at the Strand theatre yesterday to a capacity audience who were unstinted in their praise.

The Keith vaudeville program opened with Mlle. Lyda and Louis Revelle who offered character singing, music and dancing that's different.

Gardner and Revere in Bits of Vaudeville offered a clever assortment of bright comedy patter and lyric songs.

Cards and Noel are vaudeville's foremost tenor and prima donna. These supreme singers appear in an artistic song cycle.

Mary Maxfield and Harry Goulson in presenting The Modern Romeo and Juliet present a barrage of fun such as you like.

Vaudeville's cleverest family act, The Robbins Family is a company, seven big and little funsters who have a decidedly wonderful act that will take you by storm.

Name the Man!, Sir Hall Caine's latest drama to be transferred to the screen, now being presented at the Strand theatre, takes rank with the best pictures of the year.

The story, adapted from The Master of Man, is replete with dramatic action. It carries one through the hearts of its people. It deals with both the lowly and the great—and the intermingling of the two. And though the observer is totally unconscious of the photography, it is surpassingly beautiful.

Although this is the first American picture to be made by Victor Seastrom, the Swedish director, he has delivered a master stroke. He deals with realities—with real people from everyone has met and known. His direction is sympathetic at all times. He has made the action spontaneous, and each character, when flashed upon the screen, carries the story forward with swift movement. Like the photography, one is totally unconscious of the director, and yet when this photodrama is analyzed, he is present at all times.

BREED THEATRE

There have been pictures heralded as possessing "all-star casts" but in The Palace of The King, the period spectacle which is the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today and Wednesday boasts as near an "all-star" list of players as any, according to Emmett Flynn, who directed the picture.

Blanche Sweet, one of the most popular and best-known actresses on the screen, is seen in the leading role, that of Dolores Mendoza. The part is the best since her recent return to the screen, according to critics.

Edmund Lowe, noted on both stage and screen, plays opposite Miss Sweet in the role of Don John, brother of the King, and idol of Spain.

Hobart Bosworth, a pioneer of the screen, and regarded by many critics as its most gifted actor, will be seen as Mendoza, of Dolores.

One of the most emotional and sympathetic roles of her brilliant screen career is accorded Pauline Starke, who plays Inez, beautiful blind sister of Dolores.

Sam de Grasse, whose work as Judge Stillman in The Spoilers, and whose marvelous interpretation of Prince John in Robin Hood won him national acclaim, plays the ruthless, tyrannical King Philip II.

Aileen Pringle, beautiful Goldwyn player whose rise to popularity has been so rapid, appears as the Princess of Eboli, a plotting member of the royal Spanish court.

Lucien Littlefield, character actor and make-up wizard, plays an eccentric role as Adonia, court jester. William V. Mong, another prominent player whose work as Merlin in A Connecticut Yankee is remembered by thousands, will be seen as the crafty Perez, secretary to the king.

Other members of the large cast are: Charles Clary as Gomez, husband of the Princess and adviser to the king, Harvey Clarke, as Cortez, aide to Don John, and Ena Gregory, as the queen of Spain.

The Pathe news and a Will Rogers comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Zne Grey Story Coming

The Irvin Willat Paramount production, The Heritage of The Desert, a picturization of the novel of the same name by Zane Grey, who personally supervised the screen version of his story, will be the feature at the Broadway theatre soon. Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beary and Lloyd Hughes are the featured players. James Mason, Richard R. Neill and Leonard Clapham are among the prominent players in the support.

MARCH'S CHANGEABLE WEATHER

One may expect many changes in March and should be prepared for coughs and colds. The slight cold, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. With the first sign of a cough or cold take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the old reliable family cough remedy, excellent for coughs, colds, hoarseness. John R. Lyons, Prescott, Arizona, states: "I had a bad cough, used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND and it relieved me in a little while."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

For the farmers and others who own land over which trout fishermen will begin their annual tramps, a week from this morning—the first of April—a bit of this column may be devoted this morning to an appeal to said fishermen to be decent in their regard for the property rights of the farmers.

Many of the "No Fishing," "No Trespassing Signs" stand where they do today because of the utter disregard of hunters and fishermen for the rights of people over whose property they stride like feudal lords. The average farmer is a mighty complacent, generous and kindly human being. He is numbered among the last of the groups of humanity that rise in anger against his fellowmen. He is not a radical. He is not given to freaks or to fantasies. If he puts up a No Fishing sign, or any other forbidding sign, the chances are 19 out of 20 that he has been driven to it—driven to it by the Lords of All Creation who ride about in a gas wagon and by that token assume they can go where they will, tear down walls, open up highways and leave them that way, and, not to be burdened with any restraint, throw down lighted matches, cigarette butts and glowing ashes and depend upon the goodness of God that their carelessness will not burn over woodland that may be the farm owners' nest egg in life or do him and his neighbors more damage in a few hours than is represented in the surplus of a life time of scores of fishermen.

There is a Rod and Gun club with headquarters in Danielson. Its membership of several hundred embraces representatives of all the towns hereabouts. These men are practically pledged on honor to be careful while fishing—careful to do no wrongs to property. By their example they can lend material aid in checking the growing aversion of farmers to fishermen and hunters. They can help the farmers, too, by reporting careless fishermen who think only of their own amusement.

The spring of 1924 is about the best time available for the trout fishermen to try and leave a good impression of themselves with people over whose land they roam while fishing. The returns in courtesies that will be extended will be well worth winning.

At his home on Broad street, Monday afternoon at 1.30, funeral services for Charles F. Cook were conducted by Rev. Walter E. Williams, of the Westfield Congregational church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Eugene Coon of Moosup, George Rawson and Irving Coon of Providence, Oscar Long and Charles Guild of New London of F. E. Bitgood of Danielson. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Albert Lyon Cole, 68, died Sunday night about 8 o'clock at his home in the Howard Hill section of the town of Foster. Mr. Cole, a native of Foster, had lived in Providence for about 35 years up to a year ago and had been engaged as a contractor, building homes, until his health failed. He returned to his native town then. Mr. Cole was a son of George and Thankful Hopkins Cole. He leaves his wife, but no other relatives nearer than nephews.

Those who in this Lenten period would like to do something for unfortunate humanity have their opportunity in giving to the canvass being conducted by the Killingly Woman's club, to the end of obtaining supplies for use at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Other things aside from surgeons and nurses and surgical instruments and all the great primary needs are required in conducting and maintaining a hospital. At this time the committee of the Killingly Woman's club is concerned with getting dish towels, glass towels, linen birdseye towels, cotton birdseye towels, red and white check linen towels, draw sheets, canton flannel blankets, tray cloths made of Indian Head cotton; Turkish towels, table cloths and napkins, sheets, pillow slips, pajamas, men's underwear, women's underwear, short nightgowns—Money.

One may be able to give something all along the list. Another may be able to help at only one place on the ticket. The combined effort is what will show the spirit of this town in its giving toward the adequate functioning of an institution on which all this section of eastern Connecticut depends in times of need.

Advice from the secretary of the guild of the hospital in Putnam is not buying of sheets, pillow slips and ready-made short nightgowns is practical and economical.

Contributions may be credited to the individual donating or to any organization specified by the donor. Anyone not wishing to make the articles may contribute the material, and others will do the work.

Another option is paying a dollar for membership on the hospital board.

The effort this spring is directed toward the objective of making Danielson's contribution the best ever sent out of this community to the hospital. A little help from everywhere and everyone in the territory will make this possible.

Mrs. Bertha I. Franklin, 38, following a long illness, died Sunday evening at her home in Dayville. Mrs. Franklin was a native of Dayville, daughter of George and Celestia Mycue Bellows, who survive her. She leaves her husband and six children. Her death is one of the particularly sad occurrences of the year in her home community, coming though it did at the end of a long illness.

Corner Arthur G. Bill was awaiting Monday notification from the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. company as to the day this week when the crew of the train that caused the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance at Plainfield a week ago last Friday evening will be able to appear here and testify at the inquest that is to be held.

A display of prizes that are to be offered by the Danielson Rod and Gun club for the best trout caught by members of the organization during the fishing season opening a week from today will be made this week in a show window at Meech's store. Also on display will be the fine trout, weighing two pounds and two ounces that was caught last year by Norman Ross, of Broad street, and which won first honors in the 1923 competition.

It has been suggested that it might be well to use a telephone any time between midnight and 3 a. m. to call up business house heads that flood the borough with hand bills, through boys who ring door bells, and inform them that you were glad to receive their circular this afternoon. Hauling a few business men out of bed in the wee sma' hours of the morning to tell them that might finally induce them to instruct their boys to stop ringing door bells and disturbing people who are busy with their household tasks. It would be a bit rough, but no more than poetic justice. Ringing a door bell isn't at all essential to get the good results from circular distribution.

The borough of Danielson is rounding out another year of exceptionally small fire losses, thanks be! This remarkable record that Danielson has been making for more than a decade is not all luck—far from it. An efficient and well equipped fire department is a big asset in keeping the losses down to a figure that cannot be outmatched in a community of the size of Danielson in all New England. And here's hoping someone calls the underwriters' attention to this.

If you miss seeing "Tall Man" at the Orpheum theater Wednesday and Thursday, you will miss one of the greatest, thrilling pictures in years.—adv.

In about two weeks, the operations incident to making ready the big plant of the Connecticut Mills company on Main street for occupancy by the Paco Manufacturing company will be underway. Final details relative to going at this work are expected to be made known here today.

Michael Head, Jr., is ill at his home on Academy street.

Almost any citizen will have little to complain about tomorrow (Wednesday) if he is not on hand this evening when the nominations for borough officers are made at the annual borough caucus. And as a kicker with what the caucus does he will have little standing. Tonight's the night!

This (Tuesday) evening reports of officers and committees will be made at a meeting at the Baptist church, these reports covering a year of activities.

This early in the season the need of parking regulations is making itself felt week ends in the business center of the borough. The problem of working out a set of regulations appears to be pressing, onerous as the job of fixing the arrangements undoubtedly is.

Numbers of the Members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., were at Putnam Sunday afternoon to witness a third degree exemplified, under the auspices of Cargill council of that city.

A large delegation of Danielson members and candidates in Putnam lodge of Elks will be in Putnam this (Tuesday) evening for the conferring of a degree on the largest class of candidates in the history of the lodge, the class numbering about 40.

Early enthusiasts who like to spear suckers at the first of the spring run were out on local rivers Monday evening.

PUTNAM

This fair warning should be given to owners and operators of motor trucks. Don't overload such machines and expect to operate them over the highways of Connecticut without taking the chance of being apprehended and penalized for disobedience of the motor vehicle laws.

State police officers are on their jobs weighing trucks, both in this city and at Plainfield. These weighing stations catch a heavy percentage of the truck traffic moving through this section of eastern Connecticut. Connecticut truck owners at least know what this state allows as to maximum loads for any given size of truck. Exceeding the maximum is a risky proposition—and expensive.

After all, what the state motor vehicle department is doing through the state police is in the interest of Connecticut truck owners. No competing truck owner from adjoining states, where the load limits are not so specifically set forth as under Connecticut law, is going to be allowed to operate in this state with any size load that occasion seems to warrant carrying. Back of all this is the matter of competition. Restricted as to capacity loads, Connecticut truck owners have to be governed by that fact in making a price for a long distance inter-state haul. Offered the same job a trucker from an adjoining state may pile onto one truck a load that would require two trucks in Connecticut. This is a great economic advantage for the out-of-the-state truck owner—if he can get away with it. The state police are trying to see that he doesn't. If, in the meantime, some over-anxious Connecticut truck owner decides to take a chance with an overload and gets caught at it, that's exclusively his fault, even if he is driven to it by out-of-the-state competition.

An illustration is the case of Ralph Lamoureaux of Willimantic, driving a big truck said to be owned by M. R. Fink of Hartford. Lamoureaux will be in the city court Wednesday morning to answer to operating a truck carrying, with its own weight, a total of over 32,000 pounds, thousands in excess of the limit allowed. The truck, held here since the week end by the state police, was loaded with a sort of compressed paper used in making shoe counters, and was en route from Andover to Hudson, Mass., when held up in this city.

There is an amusing tale connected with the apprehension of this truck that likely will be told to the court when the case comes up for a hearing. The truck came to a sudden and unexpected stop just before the scales while state police officers were waiting to weigh it. There was much ado about the vehicle for a time and much interest created in it, some or all of which may be reviewed when the driver presents himself for a hearing. In any event, the state police weighing record shows it to have been very heavily overloaded.

Instancing what happened to this truck, it may be stated that two trucks had to be hired here to take the load it was carrying on to Hudson, this expense heavy in itself, and there is the court yet to deal with in the matter, in addition to the loss involved in having the truck tied up here and out of service for several days.

Overloaded trucks are not profitable in Connecticut any more, all who have learned this lesson are fully agreed.

In the city court Monday morning Victor La Pointe, operator of a light motor truck owned by a local wholesale firm of fruit and vegetable dealers, was fined $25 and costs for operating a machine carrying an overload. LaPointe was on his way in from Webster with a load of fruit and vegetables when he was asked by the state police to weigh in, at the School street scales. The load proved to be excessive, and LaPointe was ordered into court. He explained that he had no intention of violating the law, but may have under-estimated the weight of his cargo. He pleaded not guilty, but on the evidence offered by the state was found guilty, and the fine imposed. Attorney Arthur S. Macdonald was counsel for LaPointe.

Of special interest in the city court proceedings Monday morning, was the case against Henry Potter of Pomfret, charged with peddling milk in this city after having been warned by the state department of health to desist from doing.

The death of a bull at the Potter place and his failure to remove the carcass from his barn for weeks after the death, though the dead bull was in the same building with the cows, brought about Monday's court action.

Back in 1921, certain conditions about the Potter barn and dairy were such as to bring a warning that better sanitary arrangements would have to be put into effect there. The state department of health was insistent at that time that dairying conditions about the Potter place must be improved.

The death of the bull this winter and failure to remove the carcass which was first noted March 4, brought things to a climax. The carcass had not been removed up to last Friday and Potter was ordered into court. He explained his failure to remove the carcass by saying that his horses were not sharp and that there was ice and snow about the barn, conditions that would operate against his getting rid of the dead bull without great difficulty.

Under his agreement to stop selling milk in Putnam, Mr. Potter was fined $5.00 and given a suspended sentence of 30 days. Mr. Potter represented to his counsel, Attorney Arthur S. Macdonald, that he has not been selling milk from his herd in this city, only milk being purchased from other producers.

Another case disposed of by Judge Geissler in the city court Monday morning was that of Jerome Andrews of this city, fined $25 for reckless driving. He was apprehended by a state police officer who followed him for several miles while he was driving in excess of the legal maximum of 30 miles an hour in Connecticut.

A class numbering about 40—one of the largest ever received into Putnam lodge of Elks at one time—will receive the degree here this (Tuesday) evening. The size of the class made it advisable to arrange for the holding of the degree work in St. Onge's Music hall, and the necessary furnishing and equipment from the lodge rooms were being installed there Monday. A degree team from Willimantic lodge of Elks will confer the degree and there will be attendance of Elks from all the territory hereabouts.

Joseph Riel, 75, resident in this city for forty years, died Sunday at his home on Battey street after a long illness. Mr. Riel came to Putnam from Plattsburg, N. Y., where his people were resident during his youth. He leaves his wife, a son, who is a resident in New York; two sons in Willimantic, two sons in St. John, N. B., and a daughter who lives in Maine.

Leaders here in the plans for the general convention in Putnam in June of representatives of the French societies of Connecticut were shocked Monday to learn of the sudden death of Dr. Arthur Baribeault of New Haven while en route from Detroit to his home city. Dr. Baribeault was one of the leaders of the Franco-American movement in Connecticut and had taken an active part in the preparations for the conventions to be held here in June.

Rev. J. J. Elty, pastor of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret and of the Sacred Heart mission at West Thompson, was critically ill at the Day Kimball hospital Monday and his recovery seemed to be very much in doubt. Fr. Elty is suffering from a recurrence of an ailment that obliged him to undergo a serious surgical operation a few years ago. He was reported Monday noon to be as comfortable as could be expected for anyone in such serious conditions as he was at the time.

Scores of members representing councils of the Knights of Columbus in eastern Connecticut and southern Massachusetts came here Sunday afternoon to witness the confering of the third degree on a class of candidates of Cargill council.

New poles have been set by the Putnam Light and Power company and old poles and cross arms removed in the business center of the city in carrying out a replacement program that has been under way for some time.

April 5 has been set as the date for the general Spring Opening day in Putnam, an event in which all of the business houses will participate. Feature window and interior decorations will be arranged for this event.

In Danielson this week members of the Killingly woman's club are engaged in a canvass for hospital supplies for the Day Kimball hospital of this city, and a special effort is being made to have it a great success.

Showing of the feature film—The White Sister—drew large audiences to the Bradley theatre at Monday's shows.

Motor traffic on some country highways is wholly suspended owing to the depth and tenaciousness of the mud as the frost is leaving the ground these early spring days.

Game officials are keeping a keen watch over trout brooks this week to see that advance fishing is not done. The season for legal taking of trout opens a week from this (Tuesday).

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Saunders were in Providence Sunday where Miss Saunders is ill with scarlet fever at city hospital.

Peter Comi of Westerly returned to his teaching duties in Providence Sunday night, after a week end visit at his home here.

Birdsey Palmer and daughter Amelia of Pendleton Hill, were in Westerly Monday.

John Sayeres has returned to his duties in Providence after a week end visit with relatives and friends in town.

A gang of men began the work of painting and cleaning the limestone clocks of the new Washington Trust building Monday morning, on the Main street side, where the staging is still in place. Later it will be necessary for the men to use swing seats slung from rings in the outer end of the roof rafters. The men came here from Washington, D. C., where they have been at work on the new Trinity college chapel.

Town Clerk Everett Whipple, Councilmen G. B. Utter and John Nicols of the assessors' plat committee of the Westerly Town council accompanied by Louis J. Rossi were in New London Monday where the plating system will be consulted.

A radio party was given Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hiscox, on Spruce street.

The marriage of Miss Lelia Wiggins of Danvers, Mass., and George H. Harper of Plympton, Mass., formerly of Westerly took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, Cottage court, Danvers, Mass.

Mr. Harper is now in the grocery business in Plympton, Mass. He is a former member of the Westerly town council and was in the grocery business in Westerly for several years, being a member of the firm of J. F. Haswell Son Company. Miss Wiggins was at one time a teacher in the public schools at Westerly.

The item was entirely without foundation Monday which announced the engagement of Mrs. Catherine J. Farrell to Charles H. Cushman, a superintendent for the Westerly Light and Power Company.

Congressman Clark Burdick, of Newport, representative from the Third Rhode Island Congressional district, will be one of the speakers at the seventh annual banquet of the South County Rod and Gun club, to be held Wednesday evening, April 2nd. A meeting of the committee of arrangements was held Monday evening to perfect plans.

An alarm from Box 71, corner of Canal and Pleasant streets, brought out the Westerly Fire department for a chimney fire at the home of Abraham Kaplan, 196 Canal street, at 8.30 o'clock Monday morning. The house is occupied by four families and in the cleaning of the chimney it caught fire with the result that the department was called. Their services were not needed as the fire was extinguished by the use of salt before their arrival.

One hundred and seventy five were present Monday evening at the banquet of the Westerly Women's community association held in the vestry of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church. The dinner consisted of beef loaf, escalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, rolls, coffee, apple pie and ice cream. The dinner was served by the S. D. B. and the Woman's Aid society of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church. Deaconess Frances Semele, of Providence, spoke on Joy and Happiness in the Christian service. Miss Beebe Perry of Westerly gave a talk on the work planned for the Community civics class which is to be formed. Miss Sally Coy presided and community songs were led by Mrs. Ralph Koelb and Mrs. Frank Ahearn.

Nineteen republican electors assembled at Westerly town hall Monday evening, at 7.30 after Chairman John M. O'Connell, of the town committee, had gathered in four more voters from the adjoining fire engine house. The meeting was called to order by Moderator Eugene B. Pendleton and Clerk Lewis Stanton read the call to choose delegates to the state and second congressional district convention to be held in Infantry hall, Providence, April 1, who will elect delegates to attend the national convention in Cleveland, O. June 10.

The delegates chosen by the Republican town committee to attend the state and second congressional convention are Senator A. P. Datson, Representatives Samuel A. Davis and Michael J. Turano, Mrs. Lewis Stanton, Mrs. C. Palmer Chapman and Dr. John M. O'Connell.

When nomination for delegates to the State Convention was called for Dr. John M. O'Connell named the town committee's slate, with the exception of his own name for which he substituted Morris W. Flynn, a former state senator from Westerly. The nominees were elected by acclamation.

Representative Samuel H. Davis moved that the delegates be made the same for the second district convention and it was so voted.

Dr. O'Connell moved that the committee be instructed to fill all vacancies and it was so voted. The caucus adjourned, after a 12-minute session.

MYSTIC

At the meeting of A. C. Latham Camp No. 19, Sons of Veterans, to be held this (Tuesday) evening a class of eight local candidates will be initiated as well as a number from New London who will be included with this class. The degree work will be in charge of State Commander Norman S. Buckingham, of Milford and staff. Guests will be present from John R. Avery Camp, Sons of Veterans, of New London. Ann Rogers Lyon Tent, Daughters of Veterans, New London, Amos G. Chapman Camp Sons of Veterans, Westerly, Williams Woman's Relief Corps and Phoebe Packer Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans, of this place. A collation will be served by Phoebe Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans.

Mrs. C. C. Dodd was in New London Saturday.

There was a large attendance at the Union Baptist church Sunday evening to hear Evangelist Currie and great interest is being shown in these meetings. As Monday was the anniversary of the birth of Fanny Crosby, the noted hymn writer, especial mention was made of this at the service Sunday evening and most of the hymns sung were those composed by her. Orville Lewis sang a number of her favorite hymns and was accompanied on the violin by William E. Ryon, of Stonington. Fanny Crosby was born in 1820 and died in 1915 at the age of 95 years, Monday was therefore the 104th anniversary of her birth. There is to be service this evening at 7.30 with preaching by Evangelist Currie. Rev. Frank S. Robbins of Preston City will be present and will bring an orchestra to assist with the music.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Butler, former resident here, who have been located in Pontiac, Michigan, for a number of years are expected back here this week to take up their residence again.

The funeral of Mrs. Gertrude C. Scharfhausen Baubanus was held Monday morning, with prayer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scharfhausen, 3 Broadway. Requiem high mass was sung at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock, by Rev. W. J. Fitzgerald. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

Rev. and Mrs. George P. Jones left this week for a visit in Maryland and Delaware. During their stay Mrs. Jones will attend the Methodist conference to be held in that district.

Charity Chapter No. 61, Order of Eastern Star, is to meet this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Denison were callers in Colchester Sunday.

Frank Gilliman of Hartford was a visitor here over the week-end.

Mrs. Nellie Crumb of Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Henry Kellogg.

Miss Kathryn Donohue of Stamford is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Donohue.

Miss Martha Jones of Central Falls, R. I., spent the week-end with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Jones in Quiambaug.

Miss Elwin Haley of Center Grove was a caller here Sunday.

William Noyes of New York has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Noyes.

Miss Marion Cooper was home from Willimantic Normal school over Sunday.

Miss Clara Frink was in New London Saturday.

Mrs. Jane D. Chapman and Mrs. Sarah Adamson were recent guests of Mrs. Calvin Wilcox in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clarke and Mrs. Enos Gray were in Norwich Saturday.

A flock of wild geese flew over the village Sunday afternoon about four thirty, on their way north, the first reported this season.

Let this Test Tell How

People get those whiter teeth

Do you admire the whiter teeth you see everywhere today? Do you realize that they signify cleaner teeth and safer?

Then make this free test, as millions have done, and learn how people get them.

By combating film

Those prettier teeth come from combating film—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods of tooth brushing, much of it clings and stays. It becomes discolored, forming dingy coats, then teeth lose their luster.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Pepsodent REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
The New-Day Dentifrice
Based on modern research. Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

Modern research has found two ways to effectively fight film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved themselves remarkably effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere, in late years, have advised it. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it every day.

Benefits you see

Pepsodent, in several ways, brings a new conception of what clean teeth mean. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth. These combined effects bring a revelation to new users.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . After adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

A TRAFFIC CONFERENCE.

During the second week in April a conference that should prove of inestimable value will be held in New Haven, under the joint auspices of the state of Connecticut and Yale university, on the subject of motor vehicle traffic, regarding which there is no danger of too much enlightenment.

The department of civil engineering at Yale having had the cooperation of the motor vehicles department of the state has made a study of the causes of more than 15,000 accidents in the state last year and is prepared to give the state and the public the benefit of its analysis with the end in view to bringing about a much needed decrease.

With an increase in improved roads and a yearly gain in the number of motor vehicles it can be expected that accidents and fatalities will increase unless there is a determined effort to check them. There is a great responsibility resting upon the users of the highways, the pedestrians as well as the drivers of vehicles, but there are also highway problems, traffic problems and means of enforcement of the laws governing the use of the highways that need to be emphasized for the purpose of bringing about greater safety.

In the three day conference much should be brought out by judges, professors, commissioners of public works, public safety and motor vehicles, city and school officials and corporation heads that will serve to concentrate greater thought upon the causes of accidents and the taking of the necessary state, community or individual steps to bring about greater safety.

There can be no toleration of the fact that accidents and deaths from motor vehicles are constantly increasing just because the number of such vehicles increases. It is well that Connecticut is to have such a conference, something that others might adopt with profit, and following the conference the views of the various speakers and their recommendations ought to be made available for public study. An aroused sentiment should serve to bring about greater respect for regulations and safer conditions.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

North Carolina is proud of the improvement that has been made within its borders in regard to child labor conditions, and well may it be. It indicates a departure from the practices that have prevailed too long in some of the states and progress toward a goal for which various movements have been undertaken.

Having a child welfare commission, that body has been engaged in a statewide investigation for the purpose of determining just what the conditions there are and it is able to report that in the 2,089 manufacturing and industrial plants visited it found only 4,891 children of tender years at work, and in all but 66 cases they found no violation or neglect of legal requirements. According to the last census this means a reduction of more than 7,000 children of tender years employed in that state in four years.

Whether this reduction is the result of a recognition within the state that North Carolina has not been giving its children a square deal or whether it is the result of the changes that were made necessary because of the federal child labor law that went into effect and was later declared unconstitutional and dropped is not revealed. Even if the state introduced reforms as the result of the unconstitutional law and refused to go back to former conditions it must be given due credit for its change of view.

The survey gives the impression, however, that North Carolina has not only altered its attitude toward child labor but has actually begun to better the conditions. The fact that there are nearly 4700 children of tender years at work in the industrial plants visited shows that conditions are not ideal, but the outstanding feature is that North Carolina is really engaged in efforts to get away from child labor conditions which have aroused so much opposition.

It is only because of the backwardness on the part of a few states in dealing with such problems within their borders that resort has been made to federal legislation. North Carolina is evidently setting an example for some of its neighbors.

TROUBLE IN IRELAND.

At the time the Irish Free State government was launched it was realized that it must expect to face numerous problems of greater or less gravity for the first several years. Not the least of these was the maintenance of peace within its own limits. What must be regarded as reasonable progress has been made up to a few weeks ago when it was made evident that there were those who intended to defy the Free State authority. It became manifest that there was mutiny within the ranks of the Free State forces. Minister of Defense Mulcahy was for strong arm suppression as the best means of displaying the government's authority. He was overruled and the result is that he resigned.

Coming closely after that the firing on a party of British soldiers landing at Queenstown for a shore leave, from a machine gun mounted in an automobile discloses a rather serious situation. Naturally it brought an instant apology from the Free State government, but it must have caused the question to be raised whether a mistake was not made in repudiating the plan of the minister of defense and losing his services to the government. Evidently leniency isn't going to accomplish the pacification of the opponents of the government. They have regarded it as evidence of weakness and seized their first opportunity to create trouble for the Free State government with Great Britain, and Mulcahy's loss is already being capitalized.

The shooting down of the British soldiers cannot be regarded as other than cold blooded assassination. There was no provocation, but it was apparently prearranged on the part of the murderers. Difficulty in suppressing such an element when defiance of the Free State government was alone involved may have been experienced but the government is now forced to take measures which it had been endeavoring to avoid. The demonstration makes clear that no half hearted steps will now suffice.

A DILATORY CONGRESS.

Only about eleven weeks remain in which congress can take action upon the large amount of business before it if it is to adjourn, as it probably will, before the national conventions in June. It is timely therefore that the attention of the leaders therein should be directed to the necessity of getting down to business and devoting their efforts to the accomplishment of much more than has been done since the opening of the session.

Obstruction and delay have featured the session thus far. From any manifestation on the part of that body there is no disposition to do otherwise. Twelve weeks do not represent a long period when legislation is involved and when there are those who are prepared to stand in the way of enactment for nothing better than political reasons. Matters before congress are of too great importance to have them ignored until the last minute and then undertake to push them through at record breaking speed and with little regard for what is being done. The effect of such half-baked legislation and the result of trying to attach riders to bills that must be passed are too well understood from past experience to get public sanction.

The dawdling policy disclosed by congress has already wearied the patience of the people who are represented. Tactics are being displayed which give slight heed to the welfare of the country, and it is to be hoped that the efforts which have been taken to spur it on to action will be productive of the desired results. A congress which cannot present a better record of accomplishment than is now indicated cannot make a very strong appeal to the country. It is making a big mistake if it doesn't realize that the blame will be placed where it belongs.

MEETING FOOD SHORTAGE.

Whenever the appeal is made for suffering humanity this country seldom turns the cold shoulder. Possibly that is why the proposition is to be presented to congress this week for the appropriation of ten million dollars for the purpose of supplying food to Germany.

This country has been giving much financial assistance to the movement for the provision of food for the children of Germany, but we have not helped as a government in this direction. There can of course be no objection to whatever contributions individuals may desire to make whether it is for food for children or adults. There have been times when congress has made substantial appropriations for relief work, but it has invariably been following some disaster or at a time of famine or pestilence.

Conditions in Germany are not what they should be but famine conditions have not been reported, and it is going to be pointed out that Germany would not be in the condition that it is but for its own short sightedness, by its determination not to meet the promises made and by the manner in which it staged the Ruhr fizzle.

Apparently this government is to be asked to help those who have refused to help themselves, who are not reduced to conditions that have been accepted as sufficient to give aid to others and who have been responsible for the prolongation of unsettled conditions in Europe. Congress may ask for the facts to show whether the existing food shortage cannot be met by organizations which are interested in just such work.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., March 25th—Has the Senate of the United States any right or authority to sit in judgment on matters not pertaining to the business of the senate, except as is specifically specified under the constitution?

It is a matter of grave doubt in the minds of many senators and men who have made a study of government, whether the senate has any authority to act as it is doing in the Teapot Dome, Daugherty and other pending investigations or even has a slender thread on which to hang its right to do so.

By custom and by inference, the senate of the United States has for many years secured and conducted special investigations on matter not directly pertaining to the duties of the senate; and this has gone on for so long a time that the country, and even some of the senators has not questioned its authority to act on matters over which they have no power to enforce their findings or decisions.

But the fact remains that neither the constitution, amendments to the constitution or acts passed by congress and signed by the president give the senate authority to act in a judicial capacity on matter not pertaining to that body, or as otherwise specified in the constitution. To none of these classes do the Teapot Dome, the Daugherty and certain other investigations belong, according to the opinion of men who have made a study of such matters.

This statement is made as a result of interviews with senators and others regarded as authority on federal laws. It is neither a defense of the men under investigation nor a defence or criticism of the senate. It is a simple statement of facts. It is a pity the names of the high authorities who expressed the opinions set forth below cannot be made public, for they are of nation wide interest. They represent different political affiliations and different sections of the country but in every instance a reluctance was shown to enter into a controversial debate so their names must be withheld.

Twelve men of prominence in the senate or in judicial circles were asked by the writer this question: "What authority has the senate to summon witnesses, or sit in judgment as a special committee in the cases known as the scandal cases, which embrace the Teapot Dome and Daugherty matters?"

Two replied: "I don't know, but assume the senate has the right or it wouldn't act."

Two replied: "The senate makes its own rules, and one is that it may call a special investigation on matters pertinent to its business and I believe these cases come under that rule."

The other eight replied practically along the same line, so to quote but one is sufficient. They all agreed that the senate had not authority to so act; that self constituted power under senate rules could not apply to matters outside the prescribed duties of the senate.

A senator who is regarded as one of the best informed most convincing and fairest men in the senate replied to the question as follows:

"Under the constitution each branch of congress has the right to make certain rules that govern its method of procedure and membership, the house may advise impeachment and the senate conduct impeachment proceedings; the administrative, the legislative and the judicial branches of the government have specified duties and powers assigned them. They cannot by self?imposed authority extend that power. In my opinion the senate has not the slightest authority to assume judicial authority or conduct investigations on matter outside those laid down in the constitution. Self-constituted authority by either branch of government cannot extend outside the jurisdiction of that branch; I believe we have no authority or right to act in the matter of Teapot Dome as we have done; that no witness can be summoned or compelled to answer questions and that the supreme court would so rule if the matter is brought to a test by any one of the witnesses. There is a dead line over which the authority of the senate does not extend, and the Daugherty and Teapot Dome and certain other investigations under way is beyond that line."

In substantiation of this opinion it may be well to add two things, the senator above quoted is not regarded as "a Daugherty man," and the senate acknowledges that it has no power to enforce its findings after the hearings; it can merely report them to the senate; and so far as the writer can ascertain no further action than a report has even been attempted after an investigation. Moreover reports are not always made, the result of the investigation being either incomplete or dying on committee. The expense of such hearings is tremendous. In the three months of the present session $225,000 has been appropriated and the end not in sight.

And yet the hearings go on. The committee on contingent expenses is asking for more money to carry them on. The newspapers are giving half their valuable reading space over to detailed accounts of the daily doings of the senate committee, the questions and answers of senators and witnesses assertion and denials, pop like the repeating guns of war; the country is on edge over the scandals in high political life; witnesses are summoned from near and from far; testimony is broadcasted, like that of the Vanderlip-Harding incident, that tears faith in the government and private citizens to tatters, only to be repudiated the next day.

And now the fact comes to the surface, that no matter what their findings, the committee can do nothing more than report them to the senate. And that it is a serious doubt in the mind of the senate whether or not the senate has the slightest right or authority to hold the hearings. Later Sinclair's counsel, Mr. Littleton advanced the same views as expressed above.

In view of the scandals, false testimony offered, and unseemly behavior of discredited witnesses in the various hearings going on before the senate and the fact that such matters are added to ten fold by certain senators on the floor of the senate, notably Caraway, Heflin and one or two others, some one this week suggested that the best constitutional amendment to be put before the people would be one retracting the exemption of senators and members of congress from immunity of legal action and responsibility for their words spoken on the floor of congress. As it now stands a senator or member can rise and make unproved and unsubstantiated statements of the most damaging character against any person or corporation, his words are published in the Congressional Record quoted broadcast in newspapers and yet the man uttering them cannot be required to prove the truth, or in any way be held accountable for his statements, insinuations or attacks on character. And in the present agitated condition of the political world, a few men are taking advantage of the immunity and making savage and unwarranted attacks on persons and organizations, taking care, however, not to utter such words or express such sentiments when off the floor of congress and so outside the pale of immunity.

The "murder squad" is the nickname given by senate officials and others whose daily duties compel attendance at the "scandal hearings" as applied to the crowd of men and women, mostly the latter, who flock to the hearings in great numbers, coming early, staying late and all eager to sniff the most unsavory gossip that is handed out as "evidence." Some bring knitting, sweet cakes and candy, and knit and nibble the hours away, passing whispered judgments with each other, on the testimony, frequently breaking the no applause rule, when the testimony of a witness is especially damning to the person under fire.

Congressman John Q. Tilson of New Haven has been asked by Chief of Ordnance Williams to enlist in the reserve corp to be assigned to the ordnance section. Col. Tilson has consented to do so and will qualify at an early date. This does not mean that Col. Tilson will enter active service at this time, but he would be ready and qualified should an emergency require. The suggestion, or rather request, was made by Col. Tilson as ordnance expert of the military committee of the house during the late war.

The Connecticut delegation has active committee assignments and is working over time doing their part in getting congress lined up for an adjournment before the national conventions in June.

Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham of Connecticut spent much of the week in Washington getting a close up view of the political situation as seen at the capital. While here he was in close touch with the Connecticut delegation and entertained by its members.

WIVES THAT FAILED

Garbed in style so new that she appeared old-fashioned to the uninformed, the young person dashed around the corner of the handkerchief counter and was able to act as though it just happened when she ran into the girl with the huge bead necklace that weighed five pounds.

"Why, Cinnamonia!" she beamed delightedly. "Fancy meeting you! It's been perfect ages since we had a talkfest! Can't we go somewhere?"

"I am," the young person with the large bead necklace told her smoothly. "How are you, Clovine?"

"Just wonderful!" the other continued to beam. "But I'd give the world if I could keep as fresh-looking as you do, dear! Just the other night when I saw you at the Dandelion Gardens I couldn't help noticing how lovely you looked!"

"I didn't see you at the gardens," the girl with the beads said rather absently, as she consulted her wristwatch.

"I should say not!" gurgled the girl in extreme fashion. "Nobody would expect you to see anything with such a devoted man as you had! He wasn't bad looking—somebody new?"

"Somewhat," admitted her friend. "I'm going upstairs to the sale of summer wash goods—"

"He looked a lot like that handsome cousin of Paprika's" pursued the girl of the fashions. "I had no idea he was in town."

"He isn't," said the other. "Are you—"

"Then he must be new!" declared her friend coquettishly. "What did you say his name is?"

"H'm?" murmured the girl with the beads, raising her brows inquiringly.

The fashionable girl swallowed hard and bit her lip. "I didn't catch the name of the man you said you were at the garden with the other night," she repeated somewhat indignantly.

"Oh—did you want to know?" hauntily inquired the other. "It must have been March Fortha you are interested in."

"Oh, my dear!" laughed the girl in the new fashions with a splendid touch of amusement. "How funny to think I was interested in him. I just mentioned him incidentally when I spoke of how well you looked that night—you wore the dearest gown! I just know he was from the east, because eastern men always show much more pains than the men out here. And he certainly can dance! Don't you like the way the corners of his mouth crinkle up when he laughs? Is he to be here long?"

"Who—Mr. Forthe?" murmured the girl with the beads, again consulting her watch. "Why, he lives here, Clovine! Are you going to the meeting of the Aid club tomorrow? It is at—"

"He does!" cried the girl of new fashion in considerable surprise. "Well, it's funny if you know him so well that I never saw him before! I go about every place you go, and—"

"Oh, his business keeps him our of town a great deal," explained her friend.

"I expect he is a friend of your brother's and you met him that way," suggested the girl in the fashionable gown. "That was the way of it; I see!"

"Oh, Ted doesn't know many people."

"Well, I never thought it of you!" declared her friend still more archly. "With all your friends and the good times we all have and—and everything, it certainly is surprising that you haven't beattired yourself to enlarge his acquaintance! It isn't just to yourself to let him get the idea that you are trying to keep him for yourself alone, you know! Of course any of the rest of us would understand you weren't dreaming of such a thing, but it naturally would look very different to one like Mr. Forthe, who doesn't know what a sweet nature you really have! I know! I'll get somebody and you bring Mr. Forthe and we'll have a party together somewhere! Why, I'm just as sorry for the poor man as I can be! Why don't you bring him over to my house and—"

"How thoughtful of you, Clovine!" murmured the girl with the beads, abstractedly glancing at her watch. "My goodness, I must go! I'll be dreadfully late! I had positively no idea of the time—bye! So glad to have had this visit with you!"

"Prune!" snapped the girl in fashionable attire who was left high and dry in the crowd. "I'll bet she's going to meet him now! Tightwad! As though she could make a hit with that face! I'll bet she even thought I was dying to meet him! Heck! Why I wouldn't turn around twice to speak to an ordinary man like that! The very idea!"—Chicago News.

COOLIDGE, THE DIFFIDENT BOY

Calvin Coolidge was born in little Plymouth, Vt., 12 miles from a railroad. His parents were farmers. As a boy, he was small, sandy-haired and shy. His mother died when he was 12 years old.

"When I was a little fellow, as long as I can remember," he told a friend, in after years, "I would go in a panic if I just heard stranger voices in the house. I felt I just couldn't meet the people and shake hands with them. Most of the visitors would sit with father and mother in the kitchen, and the hardest thing in the world was to have to go through the kitchen door and give them a greeting. I was almost ten before I realized I couldn't go on that way. I'm all right with old friends, but every time I meet a stranger I've got to go through the old kitchen door back home, and it's not easy."

He attracted little attention in the Plymouth public school or at Black River or St. Johnsbury academies. Few at Amherst knew "the farmer boy with the Yankee twang" who worked his way through, but was graduated with highest honors.

When in Northampton, Mass., to study law "No one, then, expected the slim, sandy-haired, cautious, uncommunicative young lawyer, struggling to make a living, ever to attain the distinction he now enjoys. Even his proud father thought the chip of the old block would settle 'right here in Plymouth!'" said a prominent Northampton man.

When he was nominated Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, friends trembled because they knew his poor oratorical delivery and diffidence. When he ran for Governor, they expected his defeat. When he defied the Boston police, he was told that would end his public career.

But he did the day's work.

Elected Lieutenant Governor, he ran ahead of his ticket. He was chosen Governor, and, after killing the strike, was overwhelmingly re-elected. A candidate 14 times, he always has been successful. Now he is President of the United States.

Tomorrow—Rockefeller Had to Hunt Work.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Selma Lagerlof, who is coming to America to attend the Women's Congress to be held in Washington in May, is regarded by many students of Swedish literature as the foremost living Swedish writer. She is certainly the most popular Swedish author; and some of her books have not only been ranked with Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tales, but have evoked the same kind of affectionate interest. Miss Lagerlof was born in the province of Varmland and spent her girlhood among rural scenes. At 24 she stepped into the real world and went to Stockholm to train for the teaching profession. Her first experience in this work was in a girls' school in a little town in the south of Sweden. It was while thus employed that she made her first essay in authorship and was the winner of a prize offered by a woman's magazine for the best short story. In a remarkable short time the genius of Miss Lagerlof as a novelist was widely recognized. In 1909 she was awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

NORWAY'S WINTER SPORTS

Dispatches telling of popularity of Norway's winter sports such as the famous ski Derby at Holmenkollen, and of the many Americans who now visit Scandinavia, emphasize the summer events of Norway which retain their distinctiveness and their quaintness because they attract much less attention.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society describes how the quick coming of spring is welcomed joyfully with a celebration that resembles our Christmas festivities.

"Nature seems to take a boisterous part in the occasion by throwing blankets of foliage across fields that were snow-covered only a few weeks before, and by bursting forth with gorgeous flowers in crannies where icicles held away for the past six months," the bulletin cotinues.

"All the excitement which marks our most generally observed holiday, Christmas, attends the Day of St. John, on June 24. While it bears a Christian name the holiday and its customs go back to pagan origin. In effect the day still is a festival of the sun. Green birch trees adorn every house and children carry evergreen branches through the streets. The analogy to Christmas breaks down, however, when younger folk crowd into boats on the fiords or hike to the mountain woods which, at twilight are flecked with bonfires. All night long these beacons burn, as ghostly figures of the merry makers dance and sing around them.

"Yearly more visitors are strapping on their knapsacks for walking trips through the rugged countryside of central Norway, where every rock-hewn road seems to lead to a fiord, and where the native customs defy the inroads of such driblets of trave as now sift through.

"The visitor goes to church, and the simple service seems stereotyped enough until a bit of statuary descends from the ceiling. The figure of an angel, supported by a rod, holds a bowl filled with water. The surprised visitor realizes this theatrical appurtenance is a baptismal font.

"The simplicity and innocence of the country folk in the remote and isolated sections is betokened by their promiscuous bathing. And by 'bathing' is meant just that: not the diversion of water splashing and sand sunning, but getting oneself clean. A log hut is the village bath house. A furnace of stones is heated and water poured over the red hot surface.

"Into this steam steps a family—men, women, children, visiting relatives and neighbors. The bathers switch each other with birch twigs to induce more perspiration and gleefully throw buckets of cold water over each other when the heat becomes too intense. All of this is nothing of an orgy—but as prosaic as our daily bath. The rural Norwegian would see nothing immoral, nor funny, in an American hotel which inadvertently advertised '1,000 rooms, and bath.'

"In a Vermont village each family once had its horse and buggy, a vehicle now supplanted by the automobile. In a Norway hamlet a boat is the principal family conveyance in summer. There fishing takes the place of farming and the houses are strung around a bend of a fiord instead of along a rambling main street. The villager rows to church and rows to the store, and rows to pay his evening calls.

"Grazing herds of goats is the principal land industry of Norway's hilly north country and these flocks give rise to the picturesque goat-girl. The mountain pastures usually are far removed from the villages and each spring sees the young farm women driving herds up the mountain paths to some lofty but sheltered valley among the glistening, snow-capped peaks. There they remain all summer long, camping in wooden huts, visited occasionally by their men folk to carry away the butter and cheese.

"These mountain pastures are known as saeters, a word known to music lovers of many lands because of Ole Bull's song 'The Saeter-Maiden's Sunday' in which he expresses the lonesomeness of the girl goat-tenders for their families.

"Goat's cheese, a delicatessen delicacy in the United States, is a principal article of Norwegian diet. It has the rich, brown color and something of the flavor, of peanut butter. It is not eaten on crackers as a supplementary course but, sliced and laid on large cross sections of brown bread, is a staple of the meal."

Stories That Recall Others

An Aristocrat

He sought to employ a girl for housework. He advertised, offered a good home and the best wages.

An answer written by a girl opened negotiations. She was employed and ordered to report at the home. She did, arriving in her own coupe and bringing her radio set with her.

"Agriculture is to agricult the ground."

Getting a Tax Reduction

John was all smiles and it wasn't necessary for his friends to ask the reason, for John was perfectly willing to tell the youngster's name and his weight all in the same breath.

"Well," remarked one of his friends, "you've increased your tax exemption haven't you?"

"Yes," replied John, "but by the time that becomes effective I'm afraid it will be more than offset by other expenses."

Eaton, before his death 20 years ago, was a prominent business man of Flanders. She was a member of the First Baptist church. Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. Harry More, of Flanders, and two grandchildren, Robert and Jane More.

NORWICH SOPRANO MAKES HIT IN PROVIDENCE

Miss Loretta Higgins, soprano, who has been receiving a tremendous ovation at the Victory Theatre this week is a Connecticut girl who, with several other promising talents, was sent to Paris to study by former Gov. Everett J. Lake of Connecticut, where her rapid promotion secured her the opportunity to sing with the Opera Comique at an international festival at Zurich in June, 1922. Miss Higgins created a sensation in Paris musical circles when she refused to change her name from Higgins to a French name, persisting that she was an Irish-American girl and an Irish-American girl she would remain. The French impesario, admiring her grit, pulled down his sails.

After her debut at Zurich, she gave concerts at Paris, in England and in Ireland, singing at the Royal Theatre in Dublin on St. Patrick's Day, 1923, and receiving well-deserved praise from the critical Dublin audience and from the super-critical Dublin musical critics. Since her return to America, after having studied abroad for almost three years at the Fountainbleau School of Music, she has given many concerts and men who knew music predict her rapid rise to be one of the finest of American-born and American-bred singers.

Miss Higgins is a lyric soprano, with a voice of compelling loveliness, a wide range of expression, a high and clear upper tone and full, rounded middle tones. Added to the beauty of her voice is a winning personality and a dramatic expressiveness that will carry her within a short time to the front ranks of great singers. Her concert at the Victory this week is in the nature of an American trial, and from the sincere and spontaneous tribute she is receiving, ultimate American success for this plain and simple Connecticut girl is assured.

Enjoyable Birthday Party

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FOR DEATH OF TWO IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

John Rydel of New London, driver of the Velle touring car which upset on the Norwich-Westerly highway near the city line Sunday evening, causing the deaths of Peter Stempnick, 32, of No. 9 Fifth street, and Eleanor Isbicki, 5, of No. 465 North Main street, was released by the state police Monday evening on bonds of $2,000 furnished by New London friends. Rydel, who has been locked up at Norwich police headquarters since his arrest after the accident was taken from there by State Police Officer Charles A. Myatt and presented before Justice of the Peace Appleton Main in Preston Monday evening at 7 o'clock on a charge of manslaughter and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The hearing was held at the home of Grand Juror William B. Mitchell. The case was continued until next Tuesday evening and bonds were fixed at $2,000.

Anthony Isbicki and his wife, Josie, and Anthony Poreda who were members of the party on the fatal ride and were arrested at the hospital on intoxication charges were discharged in the Norwich city court on order of Prosecuting Attorney Lee Roy Robbins.

Stempnick, who was killed in the accident, was employed in the plant of the United States Finishing Co. He was married, but his wife is still in Poland.

The car which Rydel was driving is one that had been sold to him by Mrs. Florence Abernethy, wife of Dr. E. G. Abernethy of New London. Her 1923 registration card, which showed a transfer, was found on the ground near the machine after the crash.

By order of the state police the wrecked car was not moved Monday, but remained in the road in the position in which it landed after the wreck, with all four wheels in the air. It is apparently little damaged, except for the crushed top. None of the wheels were broken nor were any tires punctured or torn off. Many people drove out to look at the upset car Monday.

Rydel was found guilty of violating the liquor law when arraigned before Judge S. Victor Prince in the New London police court on March 11. At that time Rydel was fined $200, and $50 of this fine was remitted. Judge Prince also tacked on a 10-day jail sentence which was suspended. Rydel was arrested on complaint of Rock Zekos, who testified that he had purchased a pint bottle of "white mule" from Rydel, and that the liquor had made him violently ill.

NEW LONDON COUNTY RESERVE OFFICERS ORGANIZE

Organization of the New London County Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States was effected Monday evening at a meeting of regular army reserve officers in New London. Officers were elected as follows:

President, Fred W. LaForge, Lt. Col. Eng., Ft. H. G. Wright; first vice president, Webster D. Copp, first lieutenant Inf., Norwich; second vice president, Charles A. Christie, capt. Q. M. C., Ft. H. G. Wright; third vice president, Capt. C. F. Small, New London; secretary and treasurer, Wallace L. Gallup, first lieutenant, chaplain, Connecticut College, New London.

A constitution was adopted, in accordance with the constitution of the state association, and matters relating to further organization were discussed. Much enthusiasm was shown by the officers present at the meeting.

The object of the association is to support and assist in the development and execution of a military policy for the United States which shall provide adequate national defense. Any person living within the state, holding a commission in the officers' reserve corps, is eligible to election to active membership in the association. Section 3 of the constitution provides that "There shall be a state convention of the entire membership of the association held annually during the month of September on such date and at such place as shall be determined by the preceding state convention.

W. Weller, Jr.; Onions Bring Memories of You, Harry Schwartz; A Kiss in the Dark, Peter Devito; Starvin' Change, "Bill" O'Brien; That's a Lot of Bunk, Tom Greenwood; Smiling Through Your Tears, Frank Steinke; Toreador Song (Carmen), At Dawning, Walter H. McNeeley. Closing chorus, Hugo—Home in Pasadena.

OLD STORY OF HENRY FORD TOLD WITH EMBELLISHMENTS

A story has been going the rounds in Norwich this week which would be very interesting, if it were true. However, it is merely a revival of a tale of last season.

Some romancer has been narrating, with emphasis, the fairy story that a stranger called at the antique shop of James P. McNally, at Norwich Town, near the week-end, selecting a number of curios, some of them quite high priced. It was said that the Unknown was greatly taken with a string of old-fashioned silver sleigh-bells, and smiled grimly when, in response to his inquiry as to their price, Mr. McNally remarked "Oh, it would be too high for your pocket-book!" Evidently this did not fease the stranger; for he bade the chauffeur take the bells to their car, as had been done with the other articles selected. When a check was drawn for the rather stiff sum total of the bill, the name at the foot of the handy slip was "Henry Ford." The curios were bought for his recent purchase, Sudbury Inn.

A good story except that Henry Ford's call was made at the antique shop last year, not last week, according to Mr. McNally's statement Monday evening.

WEDDING.

Goldstein-Lavine

A pretty wedding took place Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Goldstein, 123 Maple street, when their son Robert was married to Miss Sarah Belle Lavine of Putnam, the ceremony being performed by Rabbi Samuel Jacobson. The matron of honor was the groom's sister, Mrs. Esther Rothman, and the best man was Hyman Rothman. The bride was gowned in a vogue fashion suit and hat to match and furs of pointed fox and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and tea roses.

After an extended honeymoon trip to New York and Harrisburg, Pa., they will reside in their newly furnished home at 123 Maple street.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Goldstein and is one of the younger business men of this city. During the war he served with the naval aviation forces overseas. The bride was presented many beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass and money.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Lavine, of Putnam, Conn., antique dealers and is one of the popular young women of the younger set.

MORE THAN TWO TO ONE FOR MELLON TAX PLAN

With more than 2,000,000 votes already received in the Literary Digest poll of the country on the Mellon tax reduction plan those favoring the plan outnumber those opposed by more than two to one. Out of 2,093,982 votes cast up to March 12 there were 1,462,002 in favor of the Mellon plan and 641,980 opposed to it.

A single state, South Dakota, opposes the plan, the vote there being 9,114 "for" to 9,283 "against." Ratios in favor of the plan in other states run as high as seven to one. This is particularly noticeable in New England and the east generally. Connecticut stands 39,326 "for" to 4 580 "against." Massachusetts is seven to one in favor of the plan. Maine's margin is four to one, New Hampshire's five to one, Vermont's five to one, Vermont's five to one, and Rhode Island's more than six to one.

The New England states as a whole vote six to one for the plan. The Middle Atlantic states vote five to one for the plan. In the east North Central states the ratio is about two to one, in the west North Central states it is four o three, in east South Central two to one, in the South Atlantic states more than two to one. In the West South Central more than three to two, in the Mountain states less than two to one, and in Pacific states two to one.

The Digest poll in the New England states on March 12 stood as follows:

| | Favor Mellon Plan "Yes" | Oppose Mellon Plan "No" |
|---|---|---|
| Maine | 18,002 | 4,393 |
| New Hampshire | 9,600 | 1,359 |
| Vermont | 8,815 | 1,766 |
| Massachusetts | 64,086 | 9,232 |
| Rhode Island | 11,443 | 1,956 |
| Connecticut | 29,326 | 4,580 |
| Total votes | 141,272 | 23,776 |

HARTFORD JUDGE WILL ADDRESS CATHOLIC WOMEN

In the series of educational talks along citizenship lines, the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women will enjoy the third one this (Tuesday) evening in a talk by Judge Francis A. Palotti of Hartford.

The talk last week was by Dr. Roach of Connecticut college, who gave a very clear explanation of the World Court and also spoke of the League of Nations and the Bok peace plan.

She was introduced by Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, president of the council.

FUNERALS

Charles P. Olson.

Charles P. Olson, aged 54, died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs Frank Chapel of Montville. He had been ill for about two months. A native of Sweden, he came to Montville at an early age and had lived there most of his life. Surviving him are five daughters, Mrs. Bertrum Edmunds, Mrs. William A. Ritchie, Mrs. Frank Chapel, Miss Gertrude Olson, all of Montville, and a Mrs. Hicks of Hartford. He leaves also a son, John Olson of Waterbury. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at 48 Shapley street, New London. The Rev. John Hunter Stearns, pastor of the Montville Baptist church, officiated. The bearers were Edward Hicks, Bertram Edmunds, Frank and Charles Chapel. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Joseph N. Tomey.

Funeral services for Joseph N. Tomey, who died in Preston, were held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the funeral parlors of Cummings & Ring, relatives and friends attending. The service was conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of of the Greeneville Congregational church. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Ricketts. The bearers were four brothers.

John McWilliams.

Funeral services for John McWilliams were held Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at his late home, No. 173 Washington street, with a large number of relatives, business associates and personal friends in attendance. Attending in a body were the directors of the Maplewood Cemetery association, of which the deceased was president.

The service was conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, who spoke in praise of the work done for the church by Mr. McWilliams, who held a number of offices in that parish; also in praise of his life. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held by many friends.

Burial was in the family plot in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Ricketts. The bearers were Dwight L. Allen, Herbert B. Cary, Peter O'Neil, William E. Pitcher, Gilbert S. Raymond and Edward Reardon.

Arrangements were by Church & Allen.

THREE CALLS FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT MONDAY

CHRIST'S PRINCIPLES SHOULD SOLVE WORLD PROBLEMS

As Thou dost send Me into the world, even so send I them into the world; we read in St. John, 17th chapter, said Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York, speaking Monday night at the United Congregational church, in his second of a series of five addresses to be given in this city under the auspices of the Norwich Young Men's Christian association.

What are the needs of the world today? asked Dr. Speer. If one were to get afar off and view the world through accurate eyes he would see three great and vital needs. First he will see the intellectual confusion and bewilderment; men simply do not know the way out of the world problems of today. They do not lack good will, but lack the mean of understanding. People do not want to go to war any more, there is no hatred between folk, yet all fear war and they do not know the pathway of escape. We once thought he had solved the problem in democracy, but now it looks as though this is not a sure solution. We must cut loose from the past, or at least find to what use the parts of what we have learned from the past may put to solve the problems of the future. There are two voices today, both say this is the day and are confident they are right, yet, both lead in opposite directions.

Secondly, one sees in the world today moral inefficiency and incompetence. We do not need more truth than we already have. We need that moral power to put that truth into practice. We need that convention of purpose, the steadfastness and courage to do the things we see ought to be done. Nations today are adrift and China with her 400,000,000 people is only a tragic spectacle of what a nation adrift presents. Once in Persia I explained these principles to a group of young men, all leaders, and when I finished all agreed they saw the light but that they would never do this thing; they admitted they did not possess the moral courage to do the thing they knew was right and best for their country. Their plight only illustrates the plight of all nations in the world.

Third, there is that great national and racial schism and disunion. Perhaps there was a time in the world like today but then the world was smaller, the divisions were not as large as they are today, for now they are deep and tragic. The saddest of all is shown in the continual warfare among races, race hatred, the sense that the mighty should rule and that the weak should be crushed down. Turkey laughed at the world recently because of this belief and England trembled because of the feared Mohammedan and Indian agreement, but we know this to be only an empty menace.

In this world we are sent the Christian church members representing it. But yet do we not find the same faults within the church? Yes, far too much of it, for we are trying to save the world from that which we ourselves have fallen into.

Does not the Christian church carry the message, contain the four words needed in this world? The right principal for organizing, not that which teaches the right of the strong over the weak. There stands the Christian gospel against the creed of the world of today, the principle of not advancing at the disadvantage of another, the policy of unselfish interest and aid. This policy would rip the world asunder today.

The Christian church carries the message of unity; that we are all one human family. It teaches the brotherhood of man. This teaching against the teaching of separation taught by the world.

Christianity teaches the principle that Christ lived by; that man is more important than many sheep; that all the world is of less value than the soul of one little child. Modern times still follows the pagan and un-Christian set of values. It does not teach the principle that Christ came for the souls of His Father's children.

In the world today we look for difficult means of solving the economic and social problems confronting the world. If the world would only accept the teaching of the New Testament, that God is kindness, teach the principle of the loving contact of persons! Racial hatred is at its height in the south, but if this is to be solved it will never be by trying to solve the problem as a race problem. It is not a question of race and race but of man and man. We need a little Christian truth, a little fairness and courtesy to solve that problem.

The question with us is—does the gospel mean "power"? Does the gospel teach us to keep a civil tongue, be charitable and kind? The gospel must be and mean powre to the members of the church, each individual member first of all, before it can mean anything like power to the entire body. If the power of the gospel cannot save us from intellectual confusion and bewilderment, moral inefficiency and incompetence and national and racial schism and disunion, there is nothing in the world today that can solve the problem.

Christianity is that message. The head of every man is Christ, is in my mind the greatest statement ever made in the history of the world. Christianity makes this statement and none can deny it. One may deny it or be disloyal to it, but it never can alter the fact that the head of man is Christ. All the world needs to do is to accept that statement as a fact, for when once accepted, what becomes of your disunions?

The way to unify is to have a center and that center is the cross. As Thou has sent Me into the world, even so I send them into the world.

The song service was led by Shepard R. Palmer, director of the Y. M. C. A. and scripture reading from the 6th chapter of St. John was lead by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church.

"UP SHE GOES" SEEN AT BROADWAY THEATER

Before a well filled house that received much enjoyment from the clever dancing by the chorus and principals, the flashes of comedy, the music and the beautiful stage settings for the three acts, Up She Goes, a musical comedy by Frank Craven, was presented Monday night at the Broadway theater by William A. Brady, Ltd. In three months' run in Boston it has been called the greatest laughing musical show ever in the Massachusetts city. If that is the Boston verdict, candor compels the remark that Boston has something to anticipate if it should have the opportunity to see some other musical comedies that might be mentioned.

Teaspoonful of Powder From Italy Placed in Shoes Relieves Man of Rheumatic Pain Almost At Once

When he went into the store to get this marvelous powder, he was a cripple. Because of the terrible, torturing effects of rheumatism he was crawling about on two canes.

Later the same man, Mr. F— B— (name on request), of New York city, wrote the following letter: 'It gives me pleasure to inform you that one box of Your powder completely cured me in three days of rheumatism from which I have suffered for some time."

The discoverer of this powder is Alessandro Volta, the well known Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named. He discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients which he compounded into a fine powder. This powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to penetrate immediately through the myriad pores in the soles of the feet.

He has called the powder Volta. It has been so successful in the treatment of thousands of cases of rheumatism, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense the powder with an unqualified guarantee that the entire cost of the first box will be refunded if you are not wonderfully relieved.

If you suffer from Rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable and revolutionary scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as: The Lee & Osgood Co., George G. Engler, Frank Eggleston.

EATON CHASE CO.

129 Main Street, Norwich

Which is not meant to say that there is not many a good laugh in Up She Goes, as it was given Monday night by the cast headed by Nancy Welford in the role of the heroine and Richard (Skeets) Gallegher, the comedian.

The plot contains a suggestion of "Mary" and The Love Nest song, as it is built around the home that the lovers are building. The three acts are given a lovely setting, and at the end of the second there were curtain calls that brought all the principals out. Miss Welford sang sweetly and danced captivatingly and was well supported by John Barker who played opposite her and scored a hit with his solo, Lady Luck Smile on Me. Marguerite Farrell was delightful in her clever comedy and made her work one of the outstanding features of the evening, while Frederick Graham was well chosen in the character of the bachelor uncle.

The play made a pleasing number in the list of attractions furnished this season at the Broadway theater.

MANSFIELD CENTER

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning the sermon was delivered by Rev. T. W. H. Jones, whose subject was The Twentieth Century Religion or The Old Fashioned Gospel. Mrs. Jones preached at the First Baptist church, her theme being Reciprocal Faith. The Christian Endeavor service at the Center was led by Mrs. R. E. Stearns.

The Christian Endeavor baked bean supper was excellently served and netted about $9.

The Mansfield library has received from the Connecticut Public Library committee the loan of a collection of books on child training, also a collection of picture books. These added to those previously owned by the library and those recently purchased, form an excellent collection which any parent in town is privileged to use. The library has also received this week many new books both for adults and children.

MORIN BEATS DUGAS IN FIRST MATCH FOR E. C. BOWLING TITLE

Mike Morin of Taftville beat Chip Dugas, also of Taftville, Monday evening in the first match for the Eastern Connecticut bowling title at the Olympic alleys in Taftville. Morin won seven of the eleven strings rolled and also beat Dugas out in the total pinfall by 45 pins. Morin was in fine form and his bowling, while not spectacular, was steady and consistent. Dugas, on the other hand, was unsteady at times and although he had high single with 130 his other strings were far below his normal average.

The match created no little interest in this part of the county as there has been quite an argument as to the ability of Morin, who is generally believed to be a candlepin man rather than a duck-pin bowler. However, last night Morin demonstrated that he was equally as good on the ducks as he was on the candles. A large crowd witnessed the opening match. The scores were as follows:

Dugas—110, 96, 89, 107, 94, 84, 97, 130, 108, 95, 105—1,116.

Morin—121, 111, 106, 108, 108, 102, 113, 99, 105, 88, 100—1,161.

Morin won the first seven strings and dropped the last four when he started to weaken. Morin's average was 105-6 and Dugas' was 101-5.

The match between Fillmore of Norwich and McKenzie of Moosup, slated for the Aetna alleys last night was called off Monday morning as McKenzie was unable to roll. On Thursday evening Morin will roll Fillmore at the Aetna in the second match of the championship series.

W. M. I. QUINTET TO PLAY AGAINST GRADS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 24.—The Williams Memorial institute girls' basketball team will play its last game this season against the graduates of this institution that have since their graduation entered Connecticut college. This game will be played on the Second Congregational church's court Tuesday night.

The W. M. I. was originally scheduled to meet the Meriden high girls at New London some time this month but this game has been called off. The local girls have had a fairly successful season thus far, winning four out of five games. The only defeat registered to this team was by Meriden high at Meriden. The Windham girls were twice defeated by W. M. I. as was the Stonington sextet.

However, the W. M. I. girls will have to play hard in order to win the game against the C. C. girls. Some fine basketball material has been uncovered at the college and with this team continually improving each day, a victory for Williams Memorial institute seems almost impossible.

THREE GAMES SLATED FOR MILITARY LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 24. — Three games in the next two days are scheduled for the Military league. Two games are slated for Tuesday night, when the Headquarters Battery and the New London Ship and Engine will stack up against each other. The second game which will begin directly after the first contest is over will see the 55th Brigade Headquarters and the New London Independents opposing each other. These games will not begin until 8.30 for the 55th Brigade Headquarters have a drill on this night. On Wednesday night the Headquarters will be seen in action for the second time in two days when they will meet the J. N. Lapointe team. Tuesday night's contests should prove to be fast games, especially the New London Ship and Engine-Headquarters contest. The Ship workers loom up to be the only team that can possibly take a tumble out of the league leaders, who have yet to lose a single contest.

MRS. BARLOW TURNS IN LOW SCORE AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C. March 24. — Mrs. Ronald Barlow, of Philadelphia, was low medalist today in the qualifying round of the twenty-second annual renewal of the united north and south golf tournament. Mr. Barlow made the course in 41-44—85. Miss Dorothy Richards, Pinehurst, was second, with 42-44—87, while Miss Glenna Collett, present holder of the title, tied for third place with 89 strokes, with Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio, and Mrs. Joseph Bydolek, Buffalo. Match play will begin tomorrow.

GREB-KEISER BOUT IS STOPPED IN TWELFTH

Baltimore, Md., March 24. — Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, middleweight titleholder, scored a technical knockout over Fay Keiser of Cumberland, Md., in the twelfth round of their scheduled 15-round bout here tonight. Keiser was outclassed and took a bad beating in every round. The bout was stopped by the referee after Keiser had been floored heavily with a left hook to the jaw for a count of two and was helpless with Greb pummeling him unmercifully in a neutral corner.

YALE BASEBALL SQUAD OUT FOR FIRST TIME

New Haven, March 24.—The Yale baseball team took to out-of-doors practice for the first time this season when Coach Joe Wood brought out 35 candidates for a warming up today. The workout was a light one.

Lyle Richeson, Yale's star football quarterback, who reported as a catcher, has been working with the pitching squad and is said to be showing excellent form. Pond, of 1923 championship fame, Boss, Hue and Obnell of last year's squad, Rehberger, Scott and Ashburn, are the leading members of the pitching staff.

For the first time in several years Yale will have two full weeks of practice in New Haven before the first game of the season with Fordham on April 5.

GIBBONS MAKES SHORT WORK OF DOWNEY

Dayton, O., Mar. 24.—Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul, knocked out Joe Downey, of Columbus in the first round of a scheduled 12-round fight here tonight. Downey never struck a blow.

Gibbons, appeared to be in wonderful shape. He started out by hooking and jabbing Downey, with a series of lefts that opened a cut over the Columbus boy's left eye. The end came after one minute and 55 seconds of fighting, when Gibbons feinted with a left but suddenly shifted his attack and shot over a right hook to the jaw. Downey fell in a heap and was counted out. The weights of the two men were announced:

Gibbons 176; Downey 205.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE STARTS ON THURSDAY

New York, March 24.—Spring football will begin at Columbia university Thursday under direction of Head Coach Percy D. Haughton, assisted by Charles Crowley and William Murray of Harvard and Douglas Lawson, former coach at Williams. Three men who aided Haughton last fall, Dr. Paul C. Withington, Roscoe Fitts and Philip Philbin, will not officiate in spring training but probably will return in September.

WALKER AT BEDSIDE OF HIS MANAGER

Philadelphia, March 24. — Mickey Walker, welterweight boxing champion who was scheduled to appear here tonight in a ten round bout, was excused by the Pennsylvania state boxing commission in order that he might go to the bedside of his manager, Jack Bulger, seriously ill in a hospital at Newark, N. J.

Walker was scheduled to meet John Gill of York, Pa. Joe Libby of Philadelphia, substituted for Walker.

New London Sport Comment.

Congratulations Mr. Thomas E. Donohue for your selection to head the state boxing commission. We know that the board chose the right man when they selected you to this position.

It is reported that the Mebs and the New London Ship and Engine fives, winners of the Y. M. C. A. House league and the Industrial league, respectively, have already challenged each other to play a game, the first contest for the city championship. Old Dame Rumor has it that these teams will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night. Just how the winning teams of the three leagues in the city will go about deciding the championship is not known at present, but it is presumed that the winner of the Mebs-Ship and Engine game will issue a challenge to the Headquarters five. The Ranger soccer team did a good job in holding the New Bedford All-Stars to a 1-1 score. If the locals can hold a team of this calibre down to a tie score, it can be easily be rated as one of the best teams in the state.

'Babe" Foster and his partner "Barley" MacGrath are reported to be on the way to the Thousand Islands again this year to play ball with one of the leading semi-pro teams in that vicinity. Both Foster and MacGrath were formerly members of the New London Independents ball team.

Bulkeley high will hold its first baseball practice of the season at Morgan park this afternoon. Coach Robert Aldrich, who has succeeded J. Milton Phillips as baseball coach, will take charge of the squad that reports.

New London Y. M. C. A. basketball team will meet Stamford for the state championship at New Haven this Saturday. In the semi-finals, New London defeated Norwich and Stamford won over Torrington.

"Butch" MacGowan besides being a football player of note while at the Submarine Base, is one of the most valuable soccer players that the New London Rangers have in their line-up. "Butch" played a good game Sunday against New Bedford. It was his pass to Crawford that gave the local team a tie score.

Pittsburgh Hockey Champs.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 24. — Pittsburgh won the western group championship of the United States Amateur Hockey league by defeating Cleveland two to one in an overtime period game here tonight. The victory gives Pittsburgh the right to play the Boston A. A. for the league championship. Referee Steve Vair of Toronto, who is alleged to have made a questionable decision, was escorted off the ice by police.

American Yachts Win

Havana, Mar. 24.—The American yachting team, hailing from New York, has won the regatta for six-meter boats over the Cubans, scoring eighteen and a half points to eleven.

The American boat L'Esprit, today showed her heels to the three other contenders in the final race off the Havana water front. Thus she was winner in all three events, as manned by Sherman, Henry Hoyt and Joseph Dunbar, she captured both races yesterday.

Cards Win Slugging Match.

St. Louis, Mo., March 24. — Eleven runs in the eighth inning enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to beat the Philadelphia Nationals, 17 to 10, in a slugging match at Leesburg, Fla., today. A home run wallop by Rogers Hornsby with the bases full, duplicated by Jim Bottomly, brought the Cardinals into the lead.

YANKS WILL HAVE ALL VETERAN TEAM

By Stoney McLinn

New Orleans, March 24—A baseball team that has won three straight pennants, and topped this off with a world's championship, and which starts a fourth season with its forces intact, should rate a good bet to repeat its success of previous campaigns.

And as one watches the New York Yankees, three-time American League champions and last October the conquerors of the Giants in the b. b. classic, strutting their diamond stuff in the Mardi Gras municipality, the visitor is impressed. Their team is intact—and, furthermore:

Last March, in this same New Orleans camp, the Yanks exercised much as the small boy tramps his weary way to the schoolhouse on a bright spring morning when the weather is just right for a day of freedom and the fish are bitin' in the creek.

This year there is a real display of vim and vigor at the New Orleans conditioning base. Young men who are hoping to land on the payroll of hided by Colonel Jacob Ruppert are scampering around with all the joyous abandon of boys out for a lark.

There is no reason apparent why the Yanks should start the season with a changed lineup. The regular outfielders will be Ruth, Witt and Bob Meusel. The infielders will be Pipp on first, Ward on second, Scott at short and Dugan on third.

Schang and Hoffman will do the talk of the catching, with Bengough to fill in as required. The American League's "Big Five," sometimes referred to as the greatest pitching quartet of modern times, will chuck the apple, assisted, perhaps, by two or three less famous athletes.

That is the company of b. b. bullies which won the world's title. None has reached the ripe old diamond age of 35, which found such greats as Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander and others enjoying exceptionally successful seasons.

The old fellows who toil for Ruppert and Huggins are Bob Shawkey and Wally Schang—a famous battery of the 1914 A's, by the way—and they put the figures "34" under the age column. Joe Bush, Herb Pennock and Sam Jones, pitchers; Deacon Scott and Wally Pipp, infielders, and Babe Ruth himself are thirty or slightly beyond that age—if official statistics are correct.

From the standpoint of age, there is not one regular member of the world's champions of 1923 who should became excited about that reservation in the proposed home for ancient, honorable and somewhat decrepit ball players.

Huggins is mighty busy with active and promising youngsters for each of the nine positions on his ball club, but the wee wis is looking into the future, it is assumed. If he sees signs of cracked cylinders in his machine as constituted last season, he is carefully concealing his fears.

The bet of this writer is that barring accidents or any causes beyond the control of man, the start of the 1924 campaign will find the Yanks of 1923 intact—and the team will remain intact until misfortune visits it, either in the way of injuries or reverses on the field of battle.

ROPER WILL INSTRUCT IN FOOTBALL AT "Y" CAMP

Boston Mar. 24.—Elmer E. Berry, director of the Springfield Y. M. C. A., college summer school, announced here today that William Roper, football coach at Princeton, would conduct the football course at the Springfield institute from June 30, to July 16, Professor Berry, former head coach of football at Springfield, will conduct the baseball course and Paul Otto, graduate coach in track and basketball at Springfield, will handle the course in those branches of sport.

Lynch to Fight Welgast

New York, March 24.—Joe Lynch who lost his world's bantamweight title to Abe Goldstein at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, has been signed for a 10-round match with Bobby Welgast, of Philadelphia, at Toledo, O., next Monday, Eddie Mead, Lynch's manager, announced today.

New Haven Gets Pitcher.

New Haven, March 24.—Frank Wiginton, pitcher of the St. Louis National league club, has been obtained by the New Haven club of the Eastern league, it was announced by President George Weiss tonight. Wigington is expected to report here the latter part of the week.

WOMEN HOCKEY PLAYERS ARRIVE AFTER TOUR

New York, Mar. 24.—Members of the American Women's Hockey team which has been touring England and France, returned today on the President Harding. The team played 15 games, losing 13 of them. Their only victory was over the French girls at Paris.

"We probably would not have won that one if a black cat had not been watching us from the sidelines all through it," said Miss Anna B. Townsend of Philadelphia, captain of the team.

Olympic Polo Team Named.

New York, March 24.—The American team in the Olympic pony polo championships named tonight by the Olympic committee includes Thomas Hitchcock of New York, captain, Elmer J. Boeske of California, Frederick Roe of Texas and Rodman Wanamaker of Philadelphia, with George G. Moore of San Francisco as substitute.

College Wrestling Tourney.

New York, March 24.—The 1925 intercollegiate wrestling tourney will be held at Columbia university, it was announced today. The dates have not been selected. It was voted to compete under New England wrestling rules in the next meeting. Syracuse was admitted to the association which now has eight members.

Hunnefield to Waterbury

Waterbury, Mar. 24.—Owner John Sullivan, of the Waterbury club announced the purchase of Shortstop Frank Hunnefield from the Portland, Ore., club tonight. Hunnefield played with Montreal last season, hitting for 342.

Claims Record For Swim.

Munich, Bavaria, March 24.—What is claimed to be a world record for the one hundred metres breast stroke swim was made today by Herr Rademacher. The time was one minute fifteen seconds.

Bernstein Gets Decision.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 24. — Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, won a ten round decision over Teddy Meyers of Buffalo, here tonight. Bernstein weighed 130 and Meyers 133 1-2.

Moore Wins Verdict

Pittsburgh, Mar. 24.—Ted Moore, of England, was awarded a judges' decision over Lou Bogash, of Bridgeport, Conn., after a ten round bout here tonight.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Foorball is played practically all the year round in Switzerland.

The length of the course over which the great English Derby is run is one mile, four furlongs and twenty-nine yards.

Te metric system of measurements will be used by the Olympic committee for all distances in the games at Paris this summer.

The first of the great Marathon races of the Boston Athletic Association was run in 1897 and won by J. J. McDermott of New York.

A Baltimore club announces that it has concluded a match between Champion Harry Grebb and Fay Keiser, the Maryland middleweight.

At forty years of age, Leon Meredith, the English amateur champion cyclist, succeeded in lowering the record he had established ten years previously.

Probably the record wager on a horse race was the $500,000 lost by the Marquis of Hastings when his horse "Vauban," was beaten in the Epsom Derby in 1867.

Holland is preparing to send about 150 men and women athletes to the Olympic games in Paris. They will compete in all sports, except Rugby, gymnastics and polo.

The distinction of having the largest number of cyclists in proportion to its population belongs to the English city of Southampton, where 40,000 out of a population of 160,000 are devotees of the wheel.

The Philadelphia Nationals in a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers on March 13 made as many assists as they did putouts, 24.

Word was received at the Red Sox training camp that Bill Piercy, holdout pitcher, has accepted terms and is on his way from Los Angeles.

Pete Thompson, infielder obtained by Cleveland from the University of Southern California, is showing considerable skill in workouts at Lakeland.

Norman Peterson, a Pittsburg recruit, has been the sensation of the Pirate training camp thus far, his hitting featuring most of the practice games.

George Muehlebach, owner of the Kansas City Blues, spent a few hours with his athletes in Los Angeles, last week. He is on a coast pleasure trip.

In the renewal of the Olympic games at Athens in 1896, after in interval of more than 1,500 years, the jumping and running races were for the great part won by American competitors. The Germans won the gymnastics, the Greeks the shooting, and Hungary the swimming events.

George Sullivan, rookie catcher from New York City, with the Athletics, will be confined to his room for ten days or two weeks with an injured kneecap.

Lee Murphy, former University of Missouri player, who was a holdout on the Toledo Club last year has joined the Hens at their camp in Gainesville, Fla.

Jack Fournier, first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has joined his club at Clearwater, Fla., after delaying his departure because of his insurance business.

Joe Shaute, one of Tris Speaker's star young southpaws, was the first "Charley Horse" victim at the Lakeland, Fla., camp. Shaute hopes to hobble out of it in a few days.

Father Healey, a priest, who is head of the Dominican mission in New York, works out daily with the Red Sox at San Antonio. He was once a college pitcher and a good one.

The Cleveland yannigans made a triple and three singles in one inning, yet failed to score a run in a game with the regulars on March 14, at the Cleveland camp in Lakeland, Florida.

Harry "Bud" Weiser, former Philly, has signed to manage the Triple Cities team of the New York-Pennsylvania League. Weiser played the outfield for the Triplets last year and was one of the league's hitters.

At the opening game of the season in Boston which brings together the Braves and Phillies, Tony Boeckel's memory will be honored. A silent tribute will be paid the late infielder after the usual flag raising ceremonies.

Announcement of the engagement of Louis Fonseca, Red infielder, to Ruth Burr Doolittle, society belle of San Francisco, was made before the player left to join his club. The wedding will be held in the fall.

George L. Winters, a winning pitcher with the Boston Red Sox some years ago, has been made assistant to Bill Clarke, coach of the Princeton University baseball squad. He will look after the pitchers.

The first no-hit game of the season has been turned in by two Chicago Club pitchers. Meyers and O'Neil held the Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League hitless in a game between the two clubs on March 18.

Gabby Street, manager of the Muskogee Club of the Western Association, is working out with the Little Rock Travelers at Sherman, Tex. He will be back in Muskogee late this week to take charge of his players.

Zam! In his first time up in batting practice at New Orleans Babe Ruth smacked the ball over the fence. The Bambino has not fully recovered from his recent illness, but reports say he still has his eye.

Bob Dowie, catcher for Ned Orleans Pelicans, is on the hospital list. Bob suffered a broken thumb in the workout prior to Saturday's game with the New York Yankees. It will be some time before Dowie will be able to get back to action.

Sir G. A. Thomas, who for four years has won the British badminton championship, is compelled to wear spectacles when playing. That he should be able to overcome such a handicap is all the more remarkable when it is reflected that badminton is an even faster game than tennis.

Jim Delahanty, who will call plays in the American Association this year, made his debut as an umpire in a game between the regulars and yannigans of the Cleveland Club on March 15, by getting in the way of a batted ball. The accident cost Luke Sewell a hit, as Pitcher Shaute recovered in time to throw Luke out at first base.

President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg Pirates visited Los Angeles last week for a conference with William Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs. He declined to discuss the object of his visit, but it is hinted that a deal involving Charley Hollocher and Rabbit Maranville, shortstops of the Cubs and Pirates, may have been the purpose of the meeting.

Oscar Johnson, who is given credit for having pitched the Ladington Club into one Central League championship will be with Grand Rapids this year. He did not play ball in 1923 due to illness in his family.

The custom of appending nicknames to pugilists originated in England, where boxing in its earliest days, two hundred years ago, was essentially a sport of the people. The rough wit of the day generally coined a nickname from the fighting man's trade (he wasn't a professional fighter at first, or from his native place, or from some personal peculiarity of body or habit.

Japan is, perhaps, one of the last places in which one would expect golf to become popular, yet within recent years the pastime has made enormous strides. Formerly the leading players were members of the Anglo-American colonies in Yokohama and Kobe, but Japanese golfers have now taken up the game so keenly that for some years past the holder of the championship of Japan has been a Japanese.

Duncan's berth in the Oklahoma State League has been saved by Earle Halliburton, wealthy oil operator of that place, who took over the franchise and posted the $7,500 forfeit which the old owners were unable to raise.

Erudition is no bar to calling them as an umpire. Monroe Sweeney, new National League umpire, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Bethany College, W. Va. Ernie Quigley is a graduate of Arkansas Agricultural College.

Ty Cobb says Heine Manush will be his successor in center when he can no longer go and get them. The oracle has not told us when this would be. In the meantime Cobb expects to play Manush or Wingo in left, himself in center and Heilmann in right.

BARKHAMPSTEAD LIGHT SITE NOW PART OF PARK

Hartford, March 24.—The Barkhampstead lighthouse, famed in history and fables of Connecticut for more than 100 years, had become a part of the new People's Forest in that town, State Forester Austin F. Hawes announced today. The latest addition to this project which the women's clubs of the state are backing through the Connecticut Forestry association is a tract of 90 acres and makes the land already turned over to the state 400 acres.

At the present time there are no houses at the old lighthouse but there are the cellar holes of several dog huts and a well preserved Indian burial ground is extant.

DEMPSEY HAS CHANCE TO MAKE NEARLY MILLION AND HALF IN 1924

New York, March 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Jack Dempsey has a million-dollar motion picture offer and two championship fight bids from which to select in mapping out his 1924 program of action.

This was disclosed today by the heavyweight titleholder's manager, Jack Kearns, who said he would leave tomorrow for Los Angeles for a final conference with motion picture interests and also with James Coffroth, California promoter who has renewed his bid to Dempsey for a title bout with Harry Wills at Tia Juana, Mexico, in September. The motion picture offer came from Carl Laemmle, head of a large producing company, Kearns said.

The other fight bid was made by Tex Rickard for a title match in or near New York in September with the "best available contender." Rickard indicated he preferred to stage a return bout between Dempsey and Luis Firpo but if the Argentine held to his present intention to retire, the promoter would seek an opponent from other contenders, including Wills, Jack Renault, Quintin Romero Rojas, of Chile, and Ramino Spalla, European heavyweight champion. Rojas and Spalla both are on their way to the United States to fight under Rickard's direction.

Kearns declared he had given no definite answer to any of these propositions but expressed a hope that he could combine the screen offer with one of the fight proposals, adding that he would not sacrifice Dempsey's fistic activity this year for movie work if he could avoid it.

The offer of both Rickard and Coffroth, it was understood, involved in excess of $500,000 for Dempsey, so that by accepting one of these and a movie contract, the champion's 1924 earnings would approximate a million and a half, more than he has made from all of his ring engagements since becoming titleholder.

"There is no chance of the champion seeking any action now before September," Kearns declared, "But I am anxious to sign for a match then, preferably around Labor day. Coffroth and Rickard have made me definite propositions and I may accept one of them. I'm leaving tomorrow and expect to meet the movie people and Coffroth next Saturday in Los Angeles. If I accept a screen contract I'm going to insist that the champion be left free to accept a fight or fights. I'll have Rickard's offer with me and expect to make a definite decision soon after arriving in California."

NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL DECIDES ON A TAX RATE OF 26 1-2 MILLS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 25. — Edwin Fairbanks, a one-armed man about 45, was in the police court this morning on a charge of a breach of the peace which consisted of annoying a girl of 13, Harriet Thompson, who resides with her parents in Gardner lane, on the outskirts of the city. The girl told the court that she was walking along Montauk avenue and that Fairbanks followed her and sought to get into conversation with her. The girl was alarmed and hurried across the street. Fairbanks called to her and when she did not respond to him he declared that he would "get her yet." This information was imparted to the parents of Miss Thompson and they sought police aid to check Fairbanks. The latter denied all the facts as alleged by the girl, but he became mixed in accounting for his movements, leading the court to the conclusion that he was guilty as alleged. He was fined $25.

John L. Grills, an automobile dealer at Bridgeport, but whose home is in Fairfield, was charged with reckless operation of an automobile on Main street, this city. He was so careless that his car was in collision with a trolley car. Grills demurred to the complaint and his attorney explained that Grills was occupied with other things than the operation of the car and that the mishap came as a result. He was fined $25.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma L. Beebe, wife of William L. Beebe, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home in East Lyme. The services were conducted by Rev. George W. Potter. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Mrs. Jennie Comstock Eaton, widow of Luther C. Eaton, died this morning at her home on Flanders road, East Lyme. Mrs. Eaton had been in ill health many weeks. She is survived by a daughter.

The funeral of Charles E. Rice of 425 Montauk avenue, was held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at Brainard lodge, Masonic temple, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The full Masonic service was used with Eminent Commander George Paton and Prelate Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, officiating. Members of the Knights Templar acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Grass fires are giving the fire department plenty to do, for during the past week many still alarms were responded to because of fires in vacant tracts causing alarm, owing to the fires being close to buildings. Sunday four still alarms were answered for such fires, one being on Williams street, another on Mohegan avenue, a third on Jefferson avenue and a fourth on Cutler street.

This forenoon a still alarm summoned the Niagara Engine company to the Old Huguenot house, corner of Mempetsett and Truman streets, when a livelier blaze was discovered in burning soot in one of the chimneys. A quantity of chemical sufficed to extinguish the blaze, before serious damage resulted.

John Higgins, of 141 Park avenue, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Frank Howard charged with breach of the peace. In default of surety on his bond of $100 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning Higgins was locked up. Higgins was taken into custody upon complaint of his wife, who declared that for several days her husband has appeared at home in a semi-drunken condition and has abused her. This same conduct on the part of Higgins took place this noon, but instead of stopping at the abuse of his wife, Higgins is alleged to have started to beat his children and it was then that his wife sought relief from her husband's acts by requesting his arrest. When Sergeant Howard arrived at the Higgins house in the police automobile, Higgins jumped into his team and started to drive away, but the outfit was quickly overtaken and Higgins was placed under arrest.

The city will be compelled to expend a large sum of money in a few weeks in order to put the main thoroughfares in a condition for safe traffic. Three of the principal avenues are in extremely bad condition and as they are avenues where the greatest travel exists an early start is anticipated. None of the streets have received attention in two or three years other than to be given a treatment of tarred stone in places where depressions have resulted from winter wear.

Crap shooters have started the popular pastime out of doors. Sunday, a gang congregated in the rear of the plant of the Edward Bloom Silk company and remained there until nearby residents communicated with the police. When the police automobile with Sergeant Frank Howard and Patrolman John Courtney put in an appearance the dice throwers dispersed in all directions.

Mrs. Cyrus B. Fenger and daughter, Miss Elsie of Post Hill place, have returned home, having spent several weeks in the south.

Col. Lloyd McCrum of New York will be a summer visitor here this year. Colonel McCrum has leased the residence on Tyler avenue, Eastern Point, owned by Richard Cushman of Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. May, Jr., of New York, recently married, and who are on their wedding trip, spent Sunday in New London, with Mr. May's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William T. May, 217 Broad street. Mr. May is employed by the Robert Gair company at New York.

Miss Marion Thomas, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Thomas of the Hotel Mohican apartments, has enrolled as a student nurse at St. Luke's hospital, New York, and will begin her studies there next month.

Samuel Brenner, 16, Pearl street, was before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court this morning, charged with reckless driving and evasion of responsibility. Judge Costello ordered the evasion charge nolled as there was little likelihood of a conviction being established and imposed a fine of $25 on the reckless driving charge and then remitted $15. Brenner paid. The arrest of Brenner was made the 16th inst., by State Policeman William Burns of the Groton barracks. Brenner was operating a Hudson sedan in a northerly direction and sideswiped a car being operated in the same direction by Hershel Thompson, a carpenter's mate, first class, stationed at the submarine base. The left side of Thompson's machine was damaged, but Brenner's car escaped injury. It was alleged that Brenner operated his machine away without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage caused, but William Maynard, a painter, of Montville, witnessed the accident and provided State Policeman Burns with the registration of Brenner's car.

Mrs. Louise Millett of Westerly, Mrs. William Waterman, Glenwood park, Mrs. Belle Green, Willimantic, Mrs. Genie Brown, Bank street; Mrs. Vincent Lecowich and infant son, of Westerly, Mrs. Dolores Hillier, New York, Mrs. Michael Baldelli, Stuart avenue, and Mrs. Joseph McFarland of Westerly, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Funeral services for Charles P. Olson of Montville, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. Rev. John Hunter Stearns, pastor of the Baptist church of Montville, officiated. The bearers were Frank Chapel, Edward Hicks, Bertram Edwards and Charles Chapel, of Montville. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Uncasville.

The funeral of Russell J. Hain Jr., 7-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Hain, was held Saturday afternoon. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Eugene Thurber of Groton, Mrs. Philip Adel, 27 Denison avenue and Raffaele Abruzzese of Bradford, R. I., were patients dismissed today at Home Memorial hospital.

The police believe that they have obtained a clue to the youths who burglarized the stationery store of J. Solomon, 80 Main street, Saturday night. Two youths who were suspected of perpetrating the break and who were sought Sunday, have disappeared and information today from some of their companions reveals that they have left the city, having boarded a freight train yesterday afternoon and started for one of the larger cities of the state. The suspected boys have police records and their getting into the clutches of the law is usually the result of their petty burglaries.

Lieutenant of Police Benjamin Beebe resumed his duties at the police station tonight, having been indisposed Sunday.

Mrs. Josephine Woltysiek, a widow, residing with her family at 5 Clover court, complained to the police this evening because of an alleged attack made upon her little son by a woman neighbor. Mrs. Woltysiek came to the police station, accompanied by her son, and declared that the neighbor had attacked the boy with a metal rod and had dealt him a blow upon the neck, inflicting a painful wound. She claims that the attack upon the youngster was made while he was in the yard at his home. An officer was sent to the home of the woman complained of with instructions that further molestation of the boy would result in her prosecution.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Onuparik, 171 North Bank street, left home this afternoon about 2.30 o'clock and when they returned discovered that not only had their house been entered, but that much malicious damage had been done. Onuparik reported the break to the police and Patrolmen John Foley and Patrick Sheehan went to the Onuparik residence. Inspection revealed that entrance was gained by smashing a door with a hammer, the implement being found close to the door. The living rooms were in great disorder, some giving the appearance that a tornado had struck them for the furnishings were overturned and broken. As the officers approached a youth of 17, residing in the same house as the Onuparik family was seen to run from the place when he saw the officers. Later the youngster was apprehended, but he denied emphatically to Lieut. Benjamin Beebe and Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield that he was guilty of entering the Onuparik house or of anything wrong. The boy was not held.

There is no change in the condition of Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan, who has been ill many weeks at his home on Montauk avenue with asthma. The officer experiences great difficulty in breathing and never goes far from his home.

Whether patrons of barbershops are to be compelled to pay a higher fee for hair cuts, shampoos, etc., after April 1st will be known this week or early next week, it is expected. The committee appointed by the journeymen to confer with the bosses has submitted a report to the former union. A conference will probably take place within a few days in order to adjust the proposed new scale, which, if adopted, will mean that patrons will pay about 10 per cent more than they do now for attention and that the journeymen will get higher wages.

At the annual meeting Sunday of Local 285, American Federation of Musicians, Edgar C. Stoddard was elected president.

The annual joint banquet of the chamber of commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs was held at the Hotel Mohican this evening. The event was attended by about 300 members of the three organizations and proved very enjoyable. Clifford H. Belden, president of the chamber of commerce, was toastmaster. Congressman Dan Reed, of the 43rd district of New York, was the principal speaker and his remarks, which were of a general nature, proved most interesting. Another speaker was J. W. Griest, general manager of the Retail Merchants Institute, Chicago. During the speech making there were vocal and instrumental selections.

The New London police have been requested to maintain a watch for two more automobiles stolen from New Haven.

At the meeting of the city council this evening announcement was made in a proposed ordinance that the tax rate will be 26 1-2 mills, an increase of 1 1-2 mills over the rate of 1923. A sinking fund of $10,000 is to be established and that accounts for a portion of the increase.

The estimated expenses of the city for the year ending Sept. 30 next is $1,823,000.83. The widening and improvement of Tilley street from Bank street was decided upon at a cost of $7,500, the benefits derived by property only equalling the cost of the work.

An effort is to be made to determine just what of the back taxes due the city can be collected, and then the work of collection is to commence. J. Tracy and W. Kyle Sheffield protested against the assessment of any portion of the expense of extending the Parkway sewer, upon property owners using the sewer, the claim being made that the extension was wholly for the benefit of the Pequot Beach company's property.

Attorney Gerry J. Hollandersky appeared before the council and protested against the holding up of the petition of his brother to rebuild property damaged by fire, a month or six weeks ago.

FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Bradford Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Phoebus, Virginia. — "Having this opportunity I just cannot refrain from saying a word of praise for the Lydia E. Pinkham medicines. I have used them as occasion required for twenty years, and my three sisters have also used them, and always with the most gratifying results. During the Change of Life I had the usual distressing symptoms,—hot flashes, insomnia, etc., — and I am pleased to testify to the wonderful results I obtained from the Vegetable Compound. I heartily recommend it to any woman and I will be pleased to answer any inquiries that might be sent to me through the publication of my testimonial." — Mrs. H. L. BRADFORD, 109 Armstead St., Phoebus, Va.

Consider carefully Mrs. Bradford's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She mentions the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you are suffering from nervous troubles, irritability, or if other annoying symptoms appear and you are blue at times, you should give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For sale by druggists everywhere.

For Rheumatics

If tortured with rheumatism or sciatica get a bottle of Rheuma today. It will convince you that you can be rid of all rheumatic suffering or money refunded. Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere sell Rheuma on the no-cure-no-pay plan.

A Perfect Skin

No blackheads, no blemishes ever

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Mine is a perfect skin—a skin which young girls envy. After 40 years as a stage star, I look like a girl of 19.

I owe all this to a rich, ambitious mother. She searched the world for methods to multiply my beauty and to keep her youth. Those helps made me a famous beauty, and they keep me a beauty still.

Now I have arranged so every girl and woman may have those identical helps. Thus I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

My Facial Youth

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin.

It simply cleans the skin to the depths, penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

Clean the skin in the best other way you know. My Facial Youth will still remove much extra grime and refining. I cover my body with Facial Youth before bathing. Thus I remove much clogging matter which water fails to get.

Apply Facial Youth night and morning, and whenever else the face needs cleaning. You will never find another way to keep the skin so clear.

One-fourth price

The greatest beauty experts now employ this liquid cleanser. Some supply it to dainty women, but at four times what I charge. No cleansing formula in existence can compare with this. And a clean skin is essential.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is now supplied by all druggists and toilet counters at 75 cents per bottle. Also my Youth Cream—my fruity cold cream. Also my White Youth Clay—the utmost in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I urge you to try Facial Youth. Learn what a really clean skin means. Let it do for you what it does for me. You will be amazed. Then, if you want my other helps, they are at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

GALES FERRY

In the Methodist Episcopal church at Sunday morning worship, Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke on The Law of Liberty, James 1:25. Preceding his sermon he spoke to the young people from the topic, Power and The Knight. At the offertory the anthem, The Voice of Jesus was sung by a quartet, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main, C. E. Colver, with tenor solo by D. R. Povey.

There are no services in this church next Sunday, March 30, as it is Conference Sunday.

After the Sunday school session a meeting of the Sunday school board was held and the annual election followed. The officers were re-elected as follows: Superintendent, Courtland E. Colver; assistant superintendent, Dudley C. Perkins; secretary and treasurer, Miss Alice Satterlee; assistant secretary and treasurer, R. Irving Hurlbutt; pianist, Miss Jennie G. Perkins; Cradle Roll superintendent, Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett; assistant, Miss Ethel Woodward; home department, Mrs. Andrew P. Miller.

Mrs. Monett A. Lawson was the leader of the Epworth League evening service, with the topic, Christ Accepting His Father's Commission. A duet, Silently the Shades of Evening, was sung by Mrs. D. C. Perkins and Miss Gertrude Allen, at the offertory.

Nelson Parker returned Saturday from a business trip of one week, covering the cities in Connecticut, with Springfield and Holyoke, Mass.

Mrs. Peter Hoffman met with a serious accident, falling Nov. 23, and suffered a broken hip and entered the New London hospital that day. She was discharged from the hospital last week and brought to her home here, having been a patient there sixteen weeks. Mrs. Hoffman, with the use of crutches, can now walk.

Mrs. Emma S. Bennett was called to Norwich Thursday by the illness of her son, Orrin E. Bennett, who has been the guest of relatives, Frank Davis and his sisters, the Misses Davis of that city, for a few days. Mr. Bennett is said to be somewhat improved.

Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward are leaving the M. E. parsonage this (Tuesday) afternoon, with their son, Rev. Trueman H. Woodward of Wapping in his car, to motor to Providence, R. I., to attend the New England Southern Conference, Norwich district at the Mathewson Street M. E. church, opening Wednesday. Rev. and Mrs. Woodward will be the guests at the home of Miss Abbie A. Aldrich during conference.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Irwing Collins of Groton, with children Virginia, and Thomas, were guests at the home of Mrs. Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Allen at Long Cove, Sunday.

Paul Miller went to Boston, Saturday to spend a week's vacation with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Larson.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker and daughter, Margaret, were guests of Frank Anderson Sunday on a motor trip to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, in West Mystic.

Miss Ethel Woodward of Storrs Agricultural college, and her uncle, Amos P. Gray of New London, were guests at the M. E. parsonage for the week-end.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church was held on Friday afternoon, the president, Miss Alice Satterlee presiding. Plans for an Easter sale were discussed, arrangements to be made at the next meeting.

The Long Cove auxiliary of this society met at the home of Mrs. Monett A. Lawson Wednesday afternoon.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Frank L. Matheny of Indian Orchard, Mass., was fined $5 by Judge Heald in the borough court Monday morning, on a charge of operating an automobile without light and $8 for failure to have his car registration with him. The fines also carried costs, which made the total $19.06, which Matheny paid. The arrest was made by State Policeman Hulbert March 22nd.

At the same session of court Treffley Ducharme was sent to jail for four months, after pleading guilty to the charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. Ducharme is an old offender and for the past twenty years has spent more than half the time in jail. He told the judge that he had been drinking too much tonic Sunday and when he went to his boarding house in Stafford Hollow he kicked in the panel of the door. Hiram Comstock with whom he boarded reported the matter to the state police and Ducharme was locked up.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Curtis D. Wilbur took up his duties as secretary of the navy.

Navy advices from Honduras predicted early collapse of the de facto government.

The house shipping board investigating committee laid further plans for procedure.

Illness of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, caused a postponement of the Daugherty hearings.

The house ordered investigations of the aircraft industry and the bureau of engraving and printing.

The house adopted the fish resolution to appropriate $10,000,000 for the relief of German women and children.

The interstate commerce commission ordered a re-hearing on its order for installation of automatic train control devices.

A senate committee began investigating charges by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama of land frauds in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

The house immigration committee in a report on the Johnson bill declared immediate cancellation of the gentlemen's agreement with Japan would be justified.

The government's oil counsel announced that presentation of evidence in the criminal cases would be started before a district of Columbia grand jury about April 10.

The senate finance committee entered upon a program of night sessions in considering the revenue bill and rejected amendments proposed by both the treasury and the house.

Harry F. Sinclair was ordered certified to the district of Columbia courts by the senate for refusing to answer questions by the oil committee. C. C. Chase, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, also refused to answer questions.

Speaker Gillett's Boston speech in which he compared the senate to a "school for scandal," and the subsequent attack upon him by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, stirred a debate in the house which culminated in the speaker taking the floor to defend himself.

Cholera epidemics in Japan have been traced to infected fish commonly eaten raw in that country.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

At Squirrel Nutcracker's House

Dearest me! as dear Uncle Lucky says when he's excited—I was forced to write this story just after I spoke to all the dear little rabbit boys and girls at Turnip City. My, how my typewriter did spin. It went so fast that it often had to stop and ask.

The bungalow stands in a big hollow tree.

"Your brain works very slow today. Your hair will soon be growing gray. If you don't make your fingers wink A little faster than you think.

You needn't try because you spoke At Turnip City, it's a joke. To skip a story for the papers, No sir. You spin your bunny capers."

After that, what could I do? I just had to obey my typewriter. For just suppose it wouldn't put down what I think? What would I do. I should like to know, and so would the printer-man and may be a million little boys and girls who every night wait for father to bring home the paper. Oh, dear me, yes, and Oh yes, Hey diddle, diddle.

Now, when I come to think of it. You know what I did at Turnip City yesterday afternoon? Of course you do but you don't know what Little Jack Rabbit and I did afterwards.

Creep up a little closer and I'll whisper. We went for supper at Squirrel Nutcracker's house in the Shady Forest. Yes and I learned that the name of his little bungalow is Nutkin Lodge. Yes, sir and yes, mam! Nutkin Lodge as everybody from tree to tree called it.

His bungalow stands in a big hollow tree half hidden by leaves and not easy to see. The tiny front door had a nut for a knob, and he spends all his time at a nut-cracking job.

Goodness me. There goes my bobbed hair typewriter making up poetry, but forgetting to put it into pretty verse. Isn't that a shame. Good poets don't do that. No indeedy.

Well, before we were interrupted, I meant to tell you what a nice supper we had at Nutkin Lodge. Mrs. Nutcracker knows how to cook and bake and stew. And when the dessert was served, a nut-sundae, with a big piece of nut cake, Little Jack Rabbit almost shouted "Hip, hip, hurrah!" But he didn't, for just then, all of a sudden, a tiny sparrow who rented the top floor for himself and family, began to twitter:

"I have a pretty cousin
Who lives in Rabbitville,
She has a nest just out of reach,
Above the windswall,
A Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot
Has never charged her rent.
Instead, he gives her once a day
A bright new carrot pent.

And now tomorrow, dear boys and girls, if you will cross the River Sippi in the Billy Goat Ferryboat, you will hear David Cory tell a story at Lettucemere, Rabbitland.

Copyright by David Cory, 1924.

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation has taken its place among the genuinely patriotic movements of the country," it was declared by President Coolidge in a telegram to the chairman of the citizens' committee working to preserve Monticello.

POETRY

Trailing Arbutus

The trees are bare, the wind is chill,
When April beckons from the hill—
No tender harmonies of spring,
But flashing from the bluebirds' wing,
A silent signal to the sun—
The merry pageant is begun!

The last light blanket of snow
Was lifted but an hour ago,
Yet under dead leaves buried deep
The young arbutus wakes from sleep.
Her fragrant beauty, pink and white,
A trailing garland of delight!

What though the summer sun shall bring
A garden filled with everything!
(Ah, even in the roses' breath
There linger memories of death!)
My April day a treasure holds
More rare than thors of marigolds—
Upspringing buds beneath the frost
In life renewed, but never lost!

Then who would weep when April wakes?
The very earth of joy partakes.
And lavishly, in solitude,
Unfolds her wonders through the wood,
Revealing in each tiny flower
The essence of a living power!
—Anne Howard in Boston Transcript.

Moon Verde—A. D. 1000

Niagaras, arrested in full flight,
Cliffs, panic pale, plunge over the abyss,
O patient hand of God, that chiseled this
When time was younger and earth, a Sarcophyte.
Stark in baptismal waters! Tawny wide
Stone tidal waves curve out, whose shadow kiss
A multitudinous pearl office.
Now turning amber in the sunset light,

Women nurse babes and fires. Down the wall,
From mesa fields, men toil as children call
And laugh through canyon echoes. "It is he!"
Whisper upgazing girls; a lad pipes where
His captive eagles frets and solemnly,
In kiva depths, priests chant an ancient prayer.
—Lillian White Spencer in The Forum.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Housewife (to husband)—Ma, so you're on strike again, are you? Right-ho. Get your own meals. I'm on strike too.—London Mail.

"Well," said Tut as the sound of the excavators' shovels on the stone roof disturbed his slumbers, "this goes to show that you can't keep a good man down."—Border Cities Star (Windsor, Ontario.)

"What makes you think he is conceited?"

"He told me this evening that he thought I ought to congratulate his boss on the fact that he had such a wonder in his employ."—Exchange.

"Had you noticed it?"

"Had I noticed what?"

"The boy who you couldn't get to wash his neck to save your life will work like a beaver washing and polishing his new cut-down car!"—Florida Times-Union.

"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the wit, "indicates that America is, indeed, becoming the land of the free."

"Yes," replied his prosaic friend, "but the continued marriage rate suggests that it is still the home of the brave."—Los Angeles Times.

Wife (enthusiastically)—Oh, I saw the loveliest millinery display today, dear. I quite lost my head over it.

Hub—Well, having lost your head, you have no use for a new hat.—Boston Transcript.

"What became of that radio at the station agent had?"

"We made him take it out," answered Cactus Joe. "Anybody that wants to give Crimson Gulch the kind of a performance they handed out has got to come personally and face the consequences."—Washington Star.

A chap was arrested for assault and battery and brought before the judge.

Judge (to prisoner)—What is your name, your occupation and what are you charged with?

Prisoner—My name is Sparks and I am an electrician, and I am charged with battery.

Soapstone is a kind of rock ranging in color from bluish gray to green. Chemically it is composed of hydromagnesian mineral talc mixed with other minerals. Some soapstone is quite soft, being readily cut with a knife, but it is the harder kind which it used for griddles, sink lining and firebricks. Such soapstone usually comes from North Carolina or Virginia. A soapstone griddle may be used almost the same as any other kind of griddle.

The cultivation of cinchona, the tree whose bark is the substance from which quinine is derived, has been introduced into Burma. A plantation of 350 acres was started some two years ago and the trees are said to be thriving vigorously. The plant is native to the western slopes of the Andes in tropical South America and its products were first known as Peruvian bark, or Jesuits' bark, from the fact that knowledge of its medicinal properties was first disseminated throughout Europe by returned Jesuit missionaries. The cultivation of cinchona has now spread to many parts of the tropics.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS QUIET.

New York, March 24. — Irregular prime movements characterized today's relatively quiet session of the stock market. Renewal of selling pressure against the motor shares and a few speculative industrials, such as American Can and American Woolen, was counteracted by the strength of some of the railroad shares and high priced merchandising issues.

Publication of the annual report of the U. S. Steel corporation brought fresh buying into the common stock, which crossed par and then fell back to 99 1-3, a net gain of 3-4 on the day. The report showed the corporation to be in the strongest position in its history. Independent steel shares improved in sympathy but they, too, were unable to maintain their early gains.

Selling of the motor shares was predicted on additional reports of unfavorable conditions in the automobile industry. Studebaker was hammered down to 91 7-8, another new 1924 low, but rallied slightly later, on official denial of reports that the corporation intended going on a four-day-a-week basis. New low records in the motor group also were established by Pierce Arrow preferred, Timken Roller Bearing and Maxwell Motors "A."

Oil shares were in brisk demand in the early trading on reports of further improvement in the crude and refined oil situation, but they reacted somewhat later on the announcement that criminal proceedings would be instituted against certain principals in the naval oil lease cases. Tobacco stocks lost ground on rumors that operating conditions probably would result in smaller profits this year. American Sumatra and Tobacco Products "A," breaking through to new bottom prices.

Heavy selling of American Can just before the close was based on alleged inside information that no extra dividend would be authorized at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors. American Beet Sugar common registered an extreme gain of 2 1-4 points on the resumption of dividends, while the preferred broke six points to 70, a new low record.

Kresge recorded a sensational jump of 20 points to 360, a record high for all time, while Woolworth touched a new record top at 345, closing at 342 for a net gain of nearly ten points.

In the railroad group, new top prices for the year were established by Illinois Central, common and preferred, and Frisco preferred. Lackawanna, which has been heavily bought on speculative expectation of some sort of distribution to its stockholders, fell back more than two points on apparently reliable reports that such action was unlikely.

Erratic fluctuations of the French franc featured the foreign exchange market, demand bills opening 27 points higher at 5.63 cents and then cancelling most of their gain. Most of the other European rates held firm.

Call money held steady at 3 per cent.

Loans up to 90 days in the time money market were 4 1-4 bid, 4 1-2 asked, with borrowers indisposed to pay higher figure for the shorter maturities. Commercial paper showed a slightly firmer tone, the bulk of the business being done at 4 3-4 per cent. against 4 1-2 late last week.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 24.—Stock prices moved irregularly higher in today's curb market, with most of the active issues moving within a narrow area.

A gain of five points in Standard Oil of Nebraska and a break of four points in Prairie Oil & Gas were the principal developments in the oil group. Wilcox Oil & Gas was hammered down nearly a point but the rest of the list held relatively firm on reports of a further reduction in California oil production.

Strength of American Gas & Electric common which moved up five points to 65, although there were no new developments to account for the rise, was one of the features of the industrial list. Grand 5 and 10 cent stores established a new top at 43 and Kresge common and 8 per cent. preferred improved fractionally in sympathy with the sensational jump in the old stock on the "big board." Radio issues held firm. Durant Motors advanced two points and Jrodan 1.

In the bond list American Sumatra 7 1-2s of 1935 broke seven points to 78 and then recovered half of their loss.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 24. — Under the leadership of speculative issues, bond prices again moved forward today although the advance was checked to some extent by profit-taking tendencies and indications of a return to normal money market conditions.

Liberty bonds were the first to feel the readjustment of the money situation. Intermittent profit-taking characterized the early dealings, although the fourth 4 1-4s attained a new peak price for the year before reacting. Late liquidation carried all issues lower, the treasury 4 1-4s breaking 9-32 from their record high.

A wide range of low and medium priced railroad obligations benefited from the revisal of speculative interest in bond trading. Seaboard adjustment 5c and Southern Railway general 4s reached new highs on the movement and substantial gains were recorded by Missouri Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, Delaware and Hudson, St. Paul and New Haven issues.

Heavy buying of the local traction issues was based on expectations of favorable earnings and dividend announcements. Norfolk & Western convertible 6s resumed their upward march with a two point gain as profit-taking in both the stock and bonds appeared to have run its course.

Sale was reported of $10,000,000 San Francisco bonds, equally divided between 4 1-2 and 5 per cent. coupons, and running serially from one to forty years.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 24.—Wheat tumbled today to much under any previous price which the May delivery has registered this season. Dearth of buyers left the market without support and finally brought into play numerous orders to sell out and stop losses. Corn and oats were dragged down by the wheat collapse. Wheat closed heavy, 2 3-8 to 2 3-4c net lower, May $1.03 7-8 to 1.03 and July 1.04 1-4 to 1.04 7-8, with corn 1 3-8 to 2c off; oats at 5-8 @ 3-4 to 1c decline, and provisions varying from 55 setback to a rise of 2c.

Price downturns in the wheat market began at the start, but the descent of values was only moderate until the last hour of trading. It was then that liquidation became pronounced, and that the break in the market went well under what heretofore was the season's low record for May. There was no special incentive to buy. Saturday's wheat bulge was due primarily to strength borrowed from corn and oats, but today such a stimulus was lacking. On the other hand, weather conditions were ideal over most of the winter wheat belt. Besides, it was pointed out that United States wheat before the opening today was still 10c above an export basis.

Talk of congressional efforts to uphold wheat values were without any apparent effect in checking today's decline. Scattered reports of unfavorable crop conditions in states east of the Mississippi river failed also to stop the downward swing of the market, little or no power to react being evident at the finish.

Virtually all of last week's gain by corn and oats was wiped out in today's decline. Shipping call here for corn was slow, and the increase of the visible supply total today was somewhat larger than had been looked for.

Lower quotations on hogs eased the provision market.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Mild weather is now favoring the local contractors and there is a marked increase in building activities within the past few days. Last week ground was broken at the Norwich State Hospital for the new buildings which are to be erected by the H. Wales Lines Co. Excavation work is going on now and the concrete foundation will be started within a few weeks. At the Richmond Radiator Co., the new shed which is being erected is well along. The frame work for the entire structure is up and about one half of the building has been closed in and the roof on half the building has been completed. On Julian street, Hourigan and Tongren, contractors, have completed a six-room colonial Dutch house which is now ready for occupancy.

All over the city there has been notable progress made on building projects and it is expected that from now on there will be a steady increase. A large number of contractors report plenty of work ahead and look forward to a year that will exceed the record set in 1923.

An advance of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton seven building permits were granted, including one for a two apartment house on Main street and another for a two-story bungalow on Mechanic street. The other permits were for garages and alterations. The total value of the new buildings as placed by the owners is approximately $17,000.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton are as follows:

To Patrick Finnigan, to erect a garage, 12x14 feet at 58 Sherman St. The garage will be of frame construction with slate surfaced shingles.

To Bruno Pedace to build a two-apartment house at 541 Main street. The house will be of frame construction with concrete foundation. Each apartment will have six rooms and bath. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and the interior finish in hardwood and plaster.

To William H. Sweet to erect a garage, 20x30, on 12th street. The garage will be frame construction with concrete foundation and floor. The exterior will be shingled.

To Fowler and Rathbun, contractors, to erect a 2-story bungalow at 59 Mechanic street for Henry Frink. The foundation will be of cement and stone and the underpinning of brick. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles with composition shingles on the roof. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster. The building will be 26x28 feet.

To Joseph Cimochowsky to erect a frame barn, 10x25 feet feet, on Golden street.

To Joseph Tarnosky to make alterations to the present building at 528 North Main street. The alterations will include a dormer window and other minor changes.

To Joseph Connetta to build a one-room addition to the present house at No. 9 Lincoln court. The addition will be of frame construction with composition shingled roof and concrete foundation. The rooms will be 9-12 feet.

NEW LONDON

Plans for the proposed recreation building or casino to be built at Mago Point Beach for the Titus & Bishop Land Co., 108 State street, are being figured. The plans call for a frame building, one story high, 50x100 feet. It will contain a dancing floor, bathhouses, etc. Further developments are planned which include the erection of shooting galleries, a merry-go-round and other summer attractions.

The permit has been issued to Silas Maxson, Jr., for a dwelling to be built on Montauk avenue. The proposed house will be 26x36 feet, of frame construction, two stories high, and will cost about $4,000. The construction will be done by day work.

The contract has been awarded for the erection of the residence to be built for Antonio a Rispoli on Shore street. The owner will furnish the materials and will award the contracts for the plumbing, heating and electric wiring separately. As reported before the house will be 24x36 feet, and will be arranged for eight rooms.

Estimates are being received for a three-story garage building to be erected at 96 Green street for Joseph Birenbaum. The owner will receive the bids for the building.

Application for Building Permits

Elizabeth DeHotman, dwelling, Nameaug avenue $5,500.

Silas Maxson, Jr., dwelling, Montauk avenue $4,000.

Fitzgerald Bros. Realty Co., garage addition, 18 Truman street $1,200.

Henry Howard, addition, Malden avenue $150.

Robert W. Holmes, garage, 117 Williams avenue, $400.

Parker & Handel, addition, Steward court $300.

Byron E. Wilkenson, garage, Georgianna street $500.

Paul Gager, addition, 192 Bayonet street $700.

Number of permits issued for the week, 10; estimated cost of buildings, $13,000.

GROTON LONG POINT.

The contract has been awarded to Hewitt & Perry, Stonington, for the erection of the summer home at Groton Long Point, Conn., for Clayton W. Rowley treasurer of the Hartford Times, Hartford. The plans call for a frame dwelling, 28x31 feet, with a wing, 15x18 feet. There will be eight rooms and a two-car garage in the basement. There will be plumbing and wiring.

EAST LYME

Plans are being prepared for a Catholic church to be erected in East Lyme, Rev. Edwin A. Flynn, Niantic, pastor. The plans will be ready for figures not later than April 15, and it is expected that work will go ahead at once. They will call for a frame edifice, 35x70 feet, with a total seating capacity of about 400 persons. The foundation will be of cobblestones, and there will be a fireproof roof. A choir balcony will have a seating capacity of 100 and there will be seat room on the main floor for about 275 persons. The floors will be of maple, and there will be a steel truss roof. Provision is made in the plans for the sacristy, vestry, altar, etc. The building will be heated by steam.

MANSFIELD

Tracy Bros. Co., of Waterbury, submitted the lowest bid for the general contract for the erection of the new dormitory and hospital buildings to be erected at the Mansfield State Training School. The dormitory is to house 105 inmates and the hospital is to accommodate about 60 patients. The buildings will cost between $450,000 and $500,000. The board of trustees has also under consideration the construction of seven cottages for employees.

MONTVILLE

Figures are being received by Chagnon & Huggard for the erection of an addition to their mill in Montville.

RECORD BUILDING IN SIGHT

Reports from 329 cities and towns for February contained in the monthly survey of S. W. Straus & Co., indicate that building activities in the leading cities of the United States will this spring exceed the healthy volume of the same period in 1923. The survey says in part:

"The February exhibit herewith presented presages the most active spring building season in the history of the country, barring unexpected eventualities within the next few weeks. It is expected from the reports that the preponderance of building activities this spring and summer will be confined to the large cities. The 25 centers which led in building permits for the month reported $221,659,653, or 75 per cent. of the total permits issued in 329 cities and towns.

"New York City continued to reveal amazing figures, the month's total being $109,046,509, a gain of nearly $30,000,000, or 37 per cent. over February, 1922.

"Building material prices increased somewhat in practically all lines during February. In the east, especially New York City, the rise in starting materials was significant. Southern pine was somewhat scarcer than usual and as a result prices were higher, but still considerably below February of last year. Among building material experts the immediate expectations was for further increases in the spring months."

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 8 sales of real estate, one less than for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $23,700 and $31,600.

There were 13 sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to 7 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,250 and $23,890.

THE STATE SITUATION

The record of building permits granted in the leading Connecticut centers for the week according to the Commercial Record, indicate a material increase both in number and cost over the figures for the like week of the year 1923 and 1923. Permits issued in the week were 271, for buildings costing $993,019, against 277 permits in 1923, the buildings costing $632,882, and 192 permits in 1922, the buildings costing $696,484.

YOUTH DIES SUDDENLY WITH HEART ATTACK

Edmund Fidrych, 16 year old son of Anthony and Eva Fidrych of 59 Thirteenth street, was found lying in a state of collapse Monday morning about 10 o'clock on the lawn at 149 Boswell avenue, the home of D. J. Maher, by a district nurse. Nearby was his bicycle and at first it was believed he had fallen from the wheel and sustained injuries but he managed to tell the nurse and D. Paul F. Gadle, who was summoned, that he did not fall, but had suffered a pain in his chest. Dr. Gadle immediately had the boy rushed to the Backus hospital but he died before aid could be given.

Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Glidersleeve was at the hospital and with Coroner J. J. Desmond conducted an investigation. Death was evidently due to a heart attack.

The boy had been employed in the plant of the J. R. Martin company and had a wide circle of friends in Greeneville, and this city who will learn of his sudden death with sorrow.

LUNCHEON WAS GIVEN FOR DR. ROBT E. SPEER

Dr. Robert E. Speer, president of the Federal Council of Churches of America, and secretary of the Presbyterian Foreign Mission society, was entertained at a luncheon Monday noon at the Wauregan Hotel. Among those present were officials and members of the Young Men's Christian association of Norwich, under whose auspices Dr. Speer is conducting a series of five lectures in Norwich, ministers of New London county and other guests.

President James C. Macpherson of the Y. M. C. A. presided over the dinner which was preceded by a social hour. Following the dinner Dr. Speer spoke on facts regarding religious thoughts in America and Asia. This was followed by a discussion of the subject.

LEBANON JUNIORS HEAR DAIRY SUBJECTS DISCUSSED

The Lebanon Junior Dairy Club met in the Agi room at the Lyman Memorial High school last week. The twenty-six members were present and were visited by the County Agent W. T. Clark and five others. Mr. Clark brought the boys their record sheet and book giving a detailed account of how to use them. After the meeting there was a short social hour. The most likely crops for this years planting were discussed. The boys have shown extreme interest and the next meeting is on April 10th.

LEGAL NOTICES

Pursuant to a judgment of the Superior Court for Windham County dated February 15, 1924, in the case of Plina Albertstad vs August Alberstad, to me directed as a committee to sell the following real estate as a whole at public auction on the premises to the highest bidder on April 16, 1924, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, I will sell at said time and place by public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate situated in the Town of Canterbury, County of Windham, State of Connecticut.

One certain farm or two tracts of land with all the buildings thereon standing situated on the North Society road so-called, in said Canterbury, containing about 112 acres, more or less, bounded and described as follows:

First tract, bounded east by land of Anne E. Dawson and land of Horace G. Crawford, south by land of Edward Baker, Abel Larson, west by land of Anne E. Dawson, north by land of Horace G. Crawford, land of William Hill, land of Anne E. Dawson. This tract is divided by the above mentioned highway. Second Tract, the Woodlot containing about 13 acres located south from the North Society road, bounded and described as follows: Southerly by land of Horace G. Crawford and land of the Town of Canterbury, easterly by land of Edison and Carpenter, land of said Town of Canterbury and said Crawford, westerly by land of Hart W. Goff, land of Abbie Safford, northerly by stone wall abutting on land of said Crawford and said Edison and said Carpenter, said premises conveyed to the Plaintiff and Defendant by deed dated March 24, 1919, and recorded Canterbury Land Records Bk. 33, Page 383. Also another tract of land in said Canterbury bounded and described as follows: On the south side of the highway leading from the dwelling house of Frank E. Miller to North Society and known as the Pellet lot. Beginning at the northeast corner of land formerly owned by heirs of Hestus Hyde, and following said highway westerly about 25 rods to the northwest corner of said lot, thence southerly by fence or wall about 27 rods to the southwest corner, thence east by north by land formerly owned by Isaac Knight to land of said Hestus Hyde heirs, about 23 rods, thence north by east by said Hyde's land to place of beginning, containing three acres more or less, being the same premises conveyed to the Plaintiff and Defendant by deed dated July 10, 1919, and recorded Canterbury Land Records Bk. 36, Page 28.

Excepting from said three described tracts a tract of land containing about 1 3-4 acres deeded by the Plaintiff and Defendant to Horace C. Crawford October 30, 1919, recorded Canterbury Land Records, Bk 36, Page 30, said tract described as follows: One certain piece or parcel of land situated in Canterbury on the highway leading from Frank Miller's dwelling house to North Society School House, bounded and described as follows: North by land of Horace G. Crawford about 140 feet from northwest corner to stake and stones near gap in wall about 250 feet, abutting on the west by land of said Alberstads, thence east to stake and stones at said highway about 350 feet, bounded south by land of said Alberstads, thence north on the west side of said highway to land of said Crawford about 250 feet bounded eastery by said highway, containing about 1 3-4 acres more or less.

Terms to be stated at time of sale.

CLINTON E. FRINK,
Committee appointed by the Superior Court.

FIVE-POUND FISH JUMPS INTO W. T. OLCOTT'S BOAT

The Useppa Island correspondent of a Florida paper writes: Wm. Tyler Olcott of Norwich, Conn., had a novel experience the other day while fishing when a pecular looking fish jumped into his boat. It measured three feet and weighed five pounds, and is undoubtedly a rare fish in these waters, as no one seems to recognize the species to which it belongs.

CONTRACTS ARE LET TO BUILD HIGHWAY PAST GARDNER LAKE

Highway work for which the state department announces that contracts were awarded Saturday include the so-called Norwich-Hadlyme road running through the towns of Montville, Salem and East Haddam, a little over 10 miles long, part of which will provide a fine highway from this city to Gardner lake and beyond.

Two sections of the road, the parts through Montville and Salem, are to be built by the same contractor D. Arrigoni of Middletown. In Montville there will be 19,922 feet, about 3.8 miles of 8 inch native stone macadam on which the contractor's bid is $123,947.25. The Salem section is to be of the same construction, 15,720 feet long or a little less than 3 miles and will cost $83,233. From the westerly end of this stretch there will be 21,910 feet or about 4.1 miles, of 8 inch waterbound macadam. This will be partly in Salem and partly in East Haddam and will cost $147,900.80, according to the bid of L. Busico Construction Co., of Meriden, to which the contract has been awarded.

The contracts awarded Saturday cover about 35 miles of new road construction, costing approximately $1,500,000. Thirteen separate contracts are involved, including a bridge in the town of Westbrook.

In each case the contract has been awarded to the lowest bidder in a group of seventy-nine bids received from contractors from all over New England and New York. It is one of the largest awards of contracts the highway department has ever made.

Following are the successful bidders and the work called for under the contracts: except those already mentioned.

Town of Stafford: 18,040 feet of 7 inch native stone macadam on the Wales Road, to M. A. Gammio Construction Company, Inc., 738 Valley Street, Providence, R. I. $116,341.85.

Town of Groton: 7,745 feet of native stone waterbound macadam on the Noank-Groton Long Point Road to Joseph D'Aiola, 408 Willow Street, Woonsocket, R. I. $26,794.75.

Towns of Westbrook and Old Saybrook: 21,800 feet of 8 inch uniform depth reinforced cement concrete, Type B on the Boston Post Road to Frank Arrigoni and Sons, Middletown, Conn. $180,606.30.

Town of Stafford: 22,000 feet of 7-inch native stone macadam on the Monson Road to M. A. Gammino Construction Company, Inc., Providence, R. I. $92,816.75.

Town of Waterford: 14,835 feet of 8 inch uniform depth reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Boston Post Road to Waterbury Concrete Construction Company, Waterbury, Conn. $118,387.70.

Town of East Lyme: 11,098 feet of 8 inch uniform depth reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Boston Post Road to Immick Company, Meriden, Conn. $111,737.98.

Town of Union: 18,765 feet of 7-inch native stone macadam on the Stafford Union Road to Millet Bros. Construction Company, Hartford, Conn. $118,433.60.

Town of Old Lyme: 17,016 feet of 8 inch uniform depth reinforced cement concrete pavement to the Sperry Engineering Company, New Haven, Conn. $132,825.40.

Town of Westbrook: Steel superstructure and concrete deck for bridge over Patchogue River to the Holbrook Company, Westbrook, Conn. $20,580.

Town of Westbrook: Substructure, plain concrete for Patchogue River Bridge to the Holbrook Company, Westbrook, Conn. $18,593.40.

OBSERVED PURIM BY GIVING PROGRAMME

Ladies Auxiliary, I. O. B. B., No. 40, celebrated Purim, Sunday afternoon, at Venice hall by giving a delightful programme before an audience of about 300. Teachers and pupils of the Norwich Hebrew Institute were guests of the auxiliary for the afternoon. The programme, arranged by Mrs. Alexander H. Manes, assisted by Miss Dorothy Pasnik, was as follows: Shirley Manes, Salute to the Flag; Buster Sussman, What Is Purim; Henry Pasnik, Stay Home, Little Girl; Gertrude Schwartz, Sing a Song of Purim; Phyllis Curland, health exercises; Avery Zuckerman, Bo Peep; Evelyn Salomon, songs, Gang of Mine and Carolina in Morning; Sydney Novak, Jackie Frost; Misha Schwartz, recitation, That Old Gang of Mine; Sybil Zuckerman, In Winter; Ethel Schwartz, Yes, We Have No Bananas; Peggy Bruckner, Nine o'Clock; Mildred Breuner, Peggy O'Neil; Rose Alexander, Miss Muffitt.

Seniors: Phillip Manes, Arathusas brother; Rosalind Alexander and Helen Beckenstein, duet, piano, Suspiel overture; Sadie Schwartz, a scene at Ocean Beach; Dorothy Pasnik, song and dance, School Days.

The following characters appeared in the Purim Play: Dorothy Pasnik, Sadie Schwartz, Cecil Hendshel, Fred Schwartz, Anna Rabinovitch, Sydney Thune, Saul Sussman, Phillip Manes, Leo Lahn, Rosalind Alexander, Helen Sussman, Bennie Bruckner.

At the close of the programme refreshments were served and each child present received a box of candy. Mrs. Alexander Pasnik, chairman of the auxiliary, was assisted by a number of the members in the serving. Mrs. Abraham Levine had charge of the refreshments.

I. O. B. A. LODGE WILL FORM NATURALIZATION CLUB

Independent Norwich Lodge, No. 309, I. O. B. A., held its regular meeting Sunday, with Joseph Resnick in the chair. There was a full attendance. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, B. Cohen. The resolution that was presented by Meyer Blumenthal at the last meeting, pertaining to the organizing of a naturalization club, was passed.

Meyer Blumenthal, Simon Rosano, A. R. Alexander, Joseph Swatsburg and Jacob Grablefski were appointed on the committee to carry through all the necessary details.

Two new members were initiated, Max Gershon and Isadore Fishbone.

Simon Rosano will go to the national convention which is to be held at Saratoga Springs in the month of May.

GIVES THREE DECISIONS IN COMMON PLEAS

Three decisions were handed down by Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Monday. The plaintiff was directed to collect damages of $800 in an action brought by Nelson W. Wheeler of Norwich against John E. Ames, also of this city.

The sum of $150 was awarded Annie Pescatille in her case against Mary Devenurg. Both are residents of New London. The judgment of the court in the case of John Pflaum against Antonio Vito, both of New London, was in favor of the defendant.

SUES FOR $500 THAT WAS CABLED TO FRANCE

Suit against the Postal Telegraph & Cable Co., and the American Express Co., both of Hartford, has been brought in the superior court by John P. Huntington of this city to recover $500 which the plaintiff employed the Postal Telegraph Co., on Sept. 19, 1923 to transfer by telegraph to the credit of Mary H. Douglas at Fountainebleau, France. The Postal Telegraph Co., employed the express company to make the payment to Mary Douglas but neither of the defendants has paid the money to her and each has refused to pay it to her or to repay it to the plaintiff, although requested to do so.

Explains Postal Pay.

Why post office employes need an increase in pay is told in a statement issued by the Post Office Clerks' association, Inc. Referring to the action of the postal wage commission in fixing the maximum at $1,860 a year in 1920, the statement says:

"From this amount is deducted 2 1-2 per cent. from every salary to provide for superannuated employes, which means that a postal employe, after five years of service, receives the sum of $1,750, or about $33.60 per week, for the maintenance of himself and family. Based upon an annual salary of $1,800, skilled postal employes are receiving only 69 cents an hour, and by way of comparison are not receiving any better consideration than an unskilled laborer."

FLANDERS IS TO HAVE CATHOLIC CHURCH SOON

Steps toward the erection of a new church in Flanders were taken at a meeting of the Holy Name society of the St. Mathias church of Flanders recently.

The meeting was a public affair. It was decided that building operations were to begin early this summer and the following committee was named to carry on the work of securing funds to erect the building; the Rev. Edwin A. Flynn, pastor of the St. Agnes church of Niantic, chairman; George A. Wino, Joseph Waldo, Alec Antoniac, Joseph Flannery, Manuel Pauline, Jr.

A New London architect was commissioned by the Rev. Edwin A. Flynn to make plans for the church which is to be located opposite the Flanders schoolhouse on the New Haven turnpike in Flanders, East Lyme.

The building is to have a cobblestone basement and the upper structure will be of wood. The building is to be 35 feet wide and 70 feet long and will hold approximately 500 people. The church will have Gothic windows with cathedral glass. The choir balcony will be suspended from the roof so as to have the main floor free from columns. The building is to be heated by steam.

Mass was first celebrated in Flanders in an old school and at first, meetings were held once a month. The Rev. Francis Keough of Hartford, assistant chancellor of the diocese, came down from Hartford each time to take charge. It was soon apparent that more frequent services were needed so the Rev. Edwin A. Flynn, who is the pastor of the St. Agnes church of Niantic, was appointed to take the place of Father Keough. The Rev. Father Flynn at present resides in Niantic and is in attendance at the Flanders chapel every Sunday.

The people of the section have come to realize that a more suitable house of worship is needed, hence, with much financial sacrifice on their part, they have planned and propose to build the new church.

THREE NOTE ENDORSERS SUE OTHER SEVEN

Abraham Jaffe, Max Cohen and H. Gilman, all of Colchester, three of the ten endorsers on a note of $13,000 have brought suit in the superior court, returnable in April against the other seven endorsers for $6,000 damages in all or $600, interest and costs from each one. The defendants named are Samuel Gellert, Harris R. Minsk, Isaac Nelliber and Benjamin London, all of Colchester, and Morris Vilinsky and Jacob Levine, both of Lebanon.

It is claimed that plaintiffs and defendants were endorsers on a note of the Colchester Farm Produce Co., Inc., dated Oct. 15, 1918 to Moses Klingon of Colchester.

On Jan. 25, 1921 the Farm Produce Co., defaulted on the note, Klingon brought suit in March against all the endorsers and obtained a judgment for $8,312.17 with interest, a total of $4,140.02 against all the endorsers. Klingon filed a judgment lien against the three plaintiffs in the present suit who settled the judgment with him on Jan. 30, 1924 for $3,000, incurring $500 expenses in the settlement.

Subsequently these three endorsers demanded of the others that they pay their proportionate share in accordance with the agreement endorsed on the note, but the seven have refused to do so.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR HIS FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Saturday afternoon eight little friends of Richard C. Kyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Kyle, 72 Spring street, gave him a surprise party in honor of his fifth birthday.

During the afternoon games and music were enjoyed by the little tots. At 4.30 they were all invited into the dining room where a large birthday cake with five lighted candles and other dainties were awaiting them.

Mrs. Kyle was assisted by Mrs. Harry L. Clark in providing fun and amusement for the children.

Master Kyle was the recipient of many useful gifts.

The following were among those present: Loretta O'Neil, Mary McCarthy, Dorothy Clark, Lillian Kyle, Margaret Kyle, Lena Cooper, Mac Cooper and Russell Clark.

JUVENILE BURGLAR STOLE THREE AIR RIFLES

Jack's Sport Shop on Ferry street, which is about to be opened by John H. Wilson and John Hart, had a premature opening some time Sunday night when one or more small boys got in through a window and stole three air rifles. The stolen articles were all recovered Monday, but they had all been marked and marred while in the possession of the juvenile burglar or burglars who were about ten or twelve years old.

Entry into the store was made by taking off the putty from a pane of glass in a side door on the alleyway between Ferry street and Rose place. The glass was removed and the boy crawled through the hole and out the same way after picking out three air rifles from a number that were standing near the door. As the doorway is several feet above the street level, it looks as if the juvenile burglar who made the entry into the place might have had a confederate who boosted him up to the doorway, where he could get to work on the putty around the glass.

The trail of where the missing rifles went to was picked up when a small boy appeared at the sport shop Monday to buy B. B. shot which is used in the air rifles.

FINES AND JAIL SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

There were many cases awaiting Deputy Judge Henry H. Pettis when city court opened Monday morning but they were quickly disposed of, fines and sentences being imposed in several cases.

The continued cases of Andrew Zowacki and Leopold Liscovitch, proprietors of a bottling works on Sixth street, charged with violation of the liquor laws, were brought up. Zowacki was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to jail for 15 days. Liscovitch was also fined $200 and given a jail sentence of 20 days, sentence suspended for one year. Each paid Clerk Albert J. Bailey $214.07 and Zowacki was taken to jail to serve his sentence.

Five men charged with intoxication paid fines and costs and were freed.

Ephraim Dorous of 56 High street charged with conducting a disorderly house was given a suspended sentence of 10 days on his promise to get out of the house.

The case of Paul Waters, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace was continued for six months.

The case of Leonard McBroome of Jewett City, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor was continued until March 28th and the case of Harry A. Cohen, who figured in an accident at Norwich Town was again continued, this time until April 7th.

Harry Hicks, colored, proprietor of a restaurant at 108 Thames street was fined $200 and costs totalling $215.74 and given a jail sentence of 30 days, judgment suspended. Hicks did not have the money and was locked up pending payment of his fine and costs. He was charged with violation of the liquor laws in selling intoxicating liquor.

Joseph Loomis, charged with reckless driving and speeding, was discharged by Judge Pettis after considerable testimony had been presented.

LIQUOR WITHDRAWAL CASE BEFORE JUDGE WALLER

A judgment by default amounting to $271.24 was granted the Schwartz Furniture Co. against Louis Ramistella and wife, by Judge Charles B. Waller in the common pleas court on Monday at New London.

An action instituted by the Maryland Distributing company against the Moon pharmacy was tried before Judge Waller, with judgment awarded in favor of the defendant. The action arose out of liquor withdrawals that the pharmacy made from the Maryland company.

WOMAN IS INTERESTED IN SAYBROOK LAND DEAL

The fifty acres of land at Saybrook bordering the sound, known as Fenwick farm and woods, between The Hartlands and Fenwick borough property, have been purchased by a promoter who will stake it out in building lots. This takes in all shore land that is of any size, from the Connecticut river at Guilford, and probably beyond. Even the land bordering the creeks is being bought in near the sound. It is said a woman from New York is interested in the recent purchase.

SANATORIUM SEWER TO BE LAID TO THE RIVER

At the state tuberculosis commission meeting last week it was decided that under the supervision of a Hartford firm, the new sewer connection from the Norwich sanatorium to the Thames river, a distance of about a mile, will be laid. This will do away with the odor of chloride of lime which is used as disinfectant and proved unpleasant to the golfers at the Norwich Golf club, as the brook runs through the golf course.

Gompers Lauds Poppy Day.

The cordial endorsement by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, of the National Poppy Day movement of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to raise funds with which to help disabled ex-service men, was expressed in a letter made public by the organization at its headquarters, 32 Union square, New York. The 1924 sale was opened recently in Washington by President Coolidge.

"No more beautiful custom could become associated with Memorial day than to make the wearing of a poppy part of the ceremonial tribute to our soldier dead," wrote Mr. Gompers. "The movement has my most hearty endorsement. It is my earnest hope that Poppy Day not only will keep fresh our appreciation of those who served in the world war, but will make us more mindful of our responsibilities to our country."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

SENATOR WHEELER NOT FLAWLESS WHILE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY FOR MONTANA

Republican National Committee News Bureau Has Delved Into Wheeler's Career — For His Failure to Surpress Reign of Radicals, the State Counsel of Defense Decided Wheeler was Guilty and Condemned Him As An Unpatriotic Citizen—Democrats of the State at a Meeting Held in April, 1918, Resented the Continuance of Wheeler As United States District Attorney Because of His Sympathy With the Radical, Anarchistic and Seditious Elements of Montana.

Washington, March 25.—Under the caption "What everybody should know about Senator Wheeler and his Montana gang," the republican national committee news bureau tonight issued a detailed attack on the prosecutor of the Daugherty investigating committee.

The gist of many charges is that while Senator Wheeler was United States attorney for Montana, "the state became the hot bed of treason and sedition, the leaders in the treasonable and seditious movement being friends of Wheeler's," and that Mr. Wheeler refused to interfere.

"Finally," says the statement, "the decent patriotic Americans of Butte took the matter in hand, hanged one of the leaders ran the others out of Butte, and then called a meeting of the Montana state council of defense for the purpose of trying Wheeler for his actions."

"The Montana state council of defense consisted of the governor, eight other men and one woman. It was evenly divided politically being composed of five republicans and five democrats. The governor was a democrat. Wheeler was put on trial. During the trial 'Big Bill Dunne,' and a number of other radicals charged with treason were heard. The result of the trial was a unanimous verdict finding Wheeler was guilty and he was condemned as an unpatriotic citizen.

"A meeting of the democrats of the state of Montana was held in April 1918 and resolutions were passed condemning United States Senator T. J. Walsh for allowing Wheeler to longer fill the position of United States district attorney because of his failure to represent the government and his open sympathy with the radical, anarchistic and seditious elements of Montana."

The charges, contained in the weekly "news sheet," issued by the publicity bureau of the republican national committee, described Senator Wheeler, "Big Bill Dunne," and Timothy Nolan, an attorney for the I. W. W., as "treasonable," and "the three partisan radical outfit in Montana."

Coupled with the attack on Senator Wheeler, the news bureau statement reprints what purports to be a "statement to radical workers and sympathizers," by C. E. Ruthenberg, executive secretary of the National Workers' party, who is described as "friend and intimate of Dunne," and D. C. Dorman, "a notorious radical," one of the leaders in the Minot, N. D., I. W. W. riots and "an ardent supporter of Senator Wheeler."

It quotes Ruthenberg as saying:

"Our propaganda must make it clear that the Teapot Dome scandal is not a case of individual corruption, that it is inseparably bound with the essence of the capitalist government. We must explain that it is not a case of kept men in the government but that the United States has a kept government. * * * We shall arrange as soon as possible mass meetings in every big city and industrial center. We must prepare the mass meetings so carefully that they shall be real 'mass meetings.' We must show that what we did in the Lenine memorial meetings we can do also against the American government."

At the same time, the news bureau issues a blast at the proceedings of the Daugherty investigating committee, making an attack on the character of the witnesses.

"If the innovation of proving honest men and public officials guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors by introducing testimony of convicts and ex-convicts, crooks, forgers, bribe takers, murderers, train robbers and other criminals is to be followed," says the pronouncement, "then there is no end in sight of the present investigations, until all the inmates of our penitentiaries have been put on the stand."

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

Washington, March 25.—Impeachment of Clarence C. Chase, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, as collector of customs at El Paso, Texas, was proposed today by the senate as an offshoot of its oil inquiry.

A resolution presented by Senator Walsh, the oil committee prosecutor, and adopted by unanimous vote, charged that Chase had conspired with the former interior secretary to "mislead and deceive" the oil investigators and called upon the house, which was the sole power of initiating impeachments, to take such steps "as may be appropriate."

Later it was made known at the White House that Chase had submitted his resignation immediately after his refusal yesterday to answer any questions before the oil committee but it had not yet been accepted. Senators said the development would have no effect on the proposed impeachment proceedings.

When it reached the house, the senate resolution was referred without comment to the judiciary committee which meets tomorrow. Committee members indicated that there would be no undue haste but that some time in the near future a course of action would be recommended to the house.

While the senate was debating the Walsh resolution law officers of the government began preparations to press a charge of contempt against Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome who also had refused to testify before the oil committee, challenging the authority of congress to compel the attendance of witnesses before its committees.

District Attorney Gordon conferred with special oil counsel and Chairman Ladd and Senator Walsh and it was indicated that an indictment would be asked this week of a grand jury now sitting in the District of Columbia. The conference took place within a few hours after the formal order of the senate had been signed by Acting President Moses sent to the district attorney.

Should an indictment be returned there would be put squarely up to the federal courts the question of the authority of congress and Senator Walsh said that if this were sustained, Sinclair probably would be haled before the bar of the senate for contempt and placed in the custody of the sergeant at arms until he agreed to answer the questions put to him.

Today's open session of the committee itself was brief and devoid of sensation. M. D. Thatcher, president of the First National Bank of Pueblo, testified to loans of slightly more than $100,000 to Fall's cattle company by the M. D. Thatcher Estate Company, and Senator Walsh commented later that the evidence before the committee shows that Fall has received a total of $33,000 the source of which has not been disclosed.

Thatcher told the committee arrangements had been made for the estate this in the best manner the oil should be, wherever possible, retained in the ground. Where this is not possible, however, it should be retained in tankage above ground. This oil is an important part of the national insurance.

"At the present rate of production there is estimated to be but twenty years of oil supply within the limits of the United States. When this is exhausted we will be dependent upon foreign sources for our supply. In time of war such supply will certainly be jeopardized and possibly cut off. Unless, therefore, the navy has conserved in this country sufficient oil wherewith to fight a war, our national security is seriously endangered.

"The general board of the navy, which has made a careful study of the problem of national defense, has recommended a presidential commission to give more careful study to the fuel question. In view of present conditions, I have decided to appoint this commission now. This commission will have the same access to data and information contained within the governmental departments as was granted to the United States coal commission (H. R. 12377) 67th congress.

"This commission will have as its mission the general study of this problem, but specifically it will review the situation in each one of the navy's reserves, and endeavor to ascertain whether it will be possible by assignment of additional public land, transfers, trades, purchases, or otherwise, to create larger or better protected reserves than those existing at present. This not only pertains to the United States proper, but in addition to such oil lands as might exist in Alaska.

"I appoint as members of the commission, Dr. George Otis Smith, a director of the geological survey; Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, U. S. N., president of the general board, and former commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, and Mr. R. D. Bush, of the bureau of mineralogy of the state of California."

OPIUM WAS CONCEALED UNDER TURKISH PASTE

New York, March 25.—The hearty salutation of a federal agent who slapped danother on the back, thereby upsetting a can of alleged Turkish paste which was being examined in the appraiser's storehouse today revealed opium hidden under the paste and led to the seizure of between $60,000 and $100,000 of the drug hidden in other tins.

Abraham D. Lake, and his son, Daniel L., radio merchants, to whom the paste was consigned, were arrested in their office where treasury department agents said they found papers revealing the names of purchasers of large quantities of the drug. The seizure and arrest were said to be among the most important in recent years.

BITUMINOUS COAL MINERS RATIFY NEW WAGE SCALE

Indianapolis, March 25.—The rank and file of the United Mine Workers of America ratified the new wage scale agreement assuring peace in the bituminous industry for three years, by an overwhelming vote, it was announced here this afternoon. The vote was 164,558 to 26,253.

At the expiration of the last preceding wage agreements, the bituminous miners went on strike for a time.

The referendum vote was taken among the 5,000 locals of the international organization and the tabulation was completed in the union headquarters here. Almost half of the vote, 12,022, opposing ratification was polled in Illinois, District No 12, which also had the largest vote in favor of the agreement, 48,180.

GUARDING AGAINST THE FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

San Francisco, March 25.—Armed guards are to be placed at the stock yards in San Francisco and Los Angeles to prevent all but inspected cattle and swine shipments because of new outbreaks in the state of the foot and mouth disease, authorities announced today.

It is estimated there are 500 infected cattle and swine in the two stockyards.

Six counties and parts of two others are under close quarantine and provisional quarantine regulations prevail in eight others.

TO STUDY CONSERVATION OF NATION'S OIL SUPPLY

Washington, March 25.—Appointment of a commission to ascertain the best means of conserving the nation's oil supply was announced today by President Coolidge.

The commission will be entrusted with review of the situation in each of the naval oil reserves and with ascertaining whether it would be possible by assignment of additional public land, transfers, trades, purchases or otherwise to create larger or better protected reserves than the present ones.

Action was taken by the president in the appointment of the commission on the recommendation of the general board of the navy.

The commission will consist of George Otis Smith, director of the the geological survey; Rear Admiral Hillary P. Jones, U. S. N., president of the general board and former commander in chief of the United States fleet, and R. D. Bush, of the bureau of mineralogy of the state of California.

The president announced appointment of the commission in the following statement:

"The purpose for which the naval oil lands were set aside was to provide reserves for the future. In order to retain this in the best manner the oil should be, wherever possible, retained in the ground. Where this is not possible, however, it should be retained in tankage above ground. This oil is an important part of the national insurance.

BERGDOLL DEPARTS FOR UNKNOWN DESTINATION

Eberbach, Baden, March 25 (By the A. P.)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American draft evader, left here this morning for an unknown destination. As he carried considerable luggage, it is generally assumed that he is quitting Germany. He made other preparations prior to his departure, which seemingly indicated that he did not contemplate returning to Baden.

Friends of Bergdoll, who professed to be in his confidence, hinted today that he was "going home to face the music," since he had become persona non grata with the Badanese government, which it was stated had issued to him a certificate of American citizenship which will enable him to cross the German frontier.

YOUTH SURRENDERS FOR SLAYING SCHWARTZMAN

New York, March 25.—Charles Kutler, 19 years old, sought by the police since last August for the slaying of Louis Schwartzman, 23, on the steps of an East Side synagogue, today surrendered to the police.

Schwartzman was talking to Edna Schugeren, 16 years old, when he was shot. Miss Schugeren later committed suicide by drinking poison. She left a note to her family saying she was being "hounded because of what I could tell." She had been held for some time as a material witness in the case.

After surrendering to the police today, Kutler denied shooting Schwartzman. The police said the slaying resulted from a gang feud.

ATTEMPTING TO DEVELOP THE ZIEGLER COAL MINES

Chicago, March 25.—Levi E. Leiter, pioneer Chicago capitalist and merchant, had ambitious plans for the development of the Ziegler coal mines and his son, Joseph Leiter, a trustee of his estate, has been attempting to carry out his father's plans, counsel for the younger Leiter argued today. Leiter's attorney was opposing a motion to strike out part of his answer to the suit of his sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, of England, Lord Curon, her brother-in-law, and former foreign minister of Great Britain, who charged Leiter with mismanagement and asking an accounting. Leiter could not very well consult Lady Marguerite about various affairs of the estate since she is abroad, his counsel stated.

FORMER BRIDGEPORT MAN SUICIDES IN LOS ANGELES

Greek Nat'l Assembly Votes for Repubic

Would Overthrow Glucksburg Dynasty — Cabinet Votes General Amnesty, Including General Metaxas.

Athens, March 25—(By the A. P.)—The national assembly today passed a resolution in favor of the overthrow of the Glucksburg dynasty and the establishment of a Greek republic.

The vote was taken after the celebration of a Te Deum commemorating the anniversary of Greek independence, which was attended by the members of the cabinet, the official world, the diplomatic corps, and a dense crowd of citizens.

The parliament house where the assembly met was filled to its utmost capacity. There was no discordant note in the proceedings that was regarded as natural after yesterday's practically unanimous vote in favor of a republic.

In the course of the voting a white dove, as an emblem of peace, was let loose inside the house, and the speaker was crowned with a wreath of laurel.

Tonight the city is en fete, with streets and buildings brilliantly illuminated.

Before the meeting of the assembly the cabinet decreed general amnesty. This measure includes General Metaxas, former commander in chief on the Smyrna front, who headed the unsuccessful revolutionary movement in Greece last fall.

SOCIETY BOOTLEGGER ARRESTED IN HARTFORD

Hartford, March 25.—The capture of a man alleged to be Hartford's society bootlegger and his list of prominent patrons in this city was accomplished late yesterday afternoon by the co-operation of several state and federal officers, including County Detective Edward J. Hickey, County Investigator Gerald Risley, Federal Agent John J. Kelleher and Detective Sergeants Lawrence J. Lowe and Peter D. Gavin, of the Hartford police force.

The arrest of the man who is thought to have been supplying the demand for liquor from many wealthy persons in this city was preceded by the apprehension of another man on New Britain avenue at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This man is alleged to have been delivering liquor for the principal in the case who was at that time staying in a hotel in this city, awaiting a report from his agent.

The officers visited the hotel and arrested the alleged principal and at the same time discovered a book in which it is claimed are the names of his customers.

Thinking that the arrest might lead to still further disclosures the man was taken to Manchester and kept in the jail there last night.

CALL FOR MEETING OF REP. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Hartford, March 25.—Chairman J. Henry Roraback issued a call today for a meeting of the republican state central committee to be held at the Hotel Bond at 5 o'clock, April 3 "for the purpose of adopting a temporary roll of delegates from the several towns and senatorial districts to the republican state convention to be held at Hartford April 3 and 8, and also for the transaction of such other business as may properly be brought before said meeting for consideration."

Two lists of delegates have been received from the town of Madison, as a result of a contest between the Marsden and Stanton groups, and it will be incumbent on the state committee to decide which delegation to put on the temporary roll. The temporary roll is used only on the opening night of the convention, when there are usually no important votes. It is then referred to the credentials committee, upon whose recommendation one of the delegations will be seated. The Twelfth senatorial district convention, held at East Haven last Saturday to elect delegates-at-large to the state convention and the district members of the state central committee, seated the Stanton delegation.

MRS. CROKER WINS LEGAL BATTLE WITH STEP-CHILDREN

New York, March 25.—A letter in which Richard Croker denounced his eldest son as an ingrate, miser and cheat, helped Croker's widow, Bula Croker, win from her step-children today a skirmish in their long-drawn out battle over the late Tammany Hall leader's $2,000,000 estate.

Counsel for the children petitioned Supreme Court Justice Levy to direct immediate judgment against the estate for $157,605 which a jury last November awarded Richard Jr., the Tammany man's eldest son and administrator of a trust fund he created for his children.

Mrs. Croker's attorneys opposed the motion. They offered to produce letters indicating that Croker, Sr., never intended his estate to be divided according to the alleged agreement upon which the jury award was based. Justice Levy decided for the widow and ordered execution of the judgment withheld pending the introduction of new evidence.

THE STEAMER PRESIDENT MONROE STILL AGROUND

New Jersey Officials in Liquor Scandal

Testimony Involves Officials and Political Leaders in Bootleg Graft and Corruption.

New York, Mar. 25.—Testimony involving New Jersey officials and political leaders in bootleg graft and corruption today was given before federal Judge Mack by William E. Dunigan, Special Prohibition Agent, in the trial of J. Harry Foltz, New Jersey State Superintendant of weights and measures, once secretary to Governor Edwards, and Major Herbert I. Katz and the Paterson brewing and malting company of which Katz is an officer.

The defendants are charged with bribery and conspiracy to bribe Dunigan and Saul Grill, another agent, to permit brewing of beer and conversion of industrial alcohol into whiskey in New Jersey, and to prevent the entrance into New York or New Jersey of Pennsylvania brewed-beer.

Dunigan's story, alleed to have been told to him and Grill by Foley and Katz at various conferences in New York last June and July, quoted the States Senators Edwards and Edge, defendants as mentioning United former New Jersey Prohibition Director Chamberlain, a Mr. Johnson of Atlantic City, said to be the political leader of South New Jersey, and Sheriff Johnson of Union County.

According to Dunigan, Foley said Edwards was a "regular fellow" and that the agents could leave messages for Foley with the senator in case they could not reach him (Foley). Edwards also was quoted as having told Foley he should get some money out of his associations with the bootleggers. Dunigan said Foley told him Edwards "wouldn't hesitate to go to bat" for them if they got into any trouble in Washington.

Edge was mentioned by Katz as a particular friend of his according to Dunigan. Katz said he had contributed $50,000 to Edge's campaign fund.

Directors Chamberlain, Dunigan said Foley told him, was getting $6 a barrel for beer made in New Jersey.

Johnson was alleged to have been interested with the defendants in a deal to make the southern New Jersey brewers contribute to the graft. Johnson was represented as the man who "put Edge over."

Katz also was quoted as saying that Sheriff Johnson was collecting money from the brewers in his county. Dunigan said that at a conference in Trenton, Johnson promised to see that the brewers in the southern part of the state paid graft. When Foley returned from a tour aboad six weeks later, he in turn promised to see that Johnson kept his promise.

During Foley's absence, the agent continued, Katz said he didn't care if he did not see Foley again because "Foley was always talking '35 or 45 over the telephone."

In August Aents Roche and Barnard of the intelligence unit to the Treasury department were assigned to aid Dunigan and Grill. At several conferences between Katz and the four agents during the summer, Dunigan said, Katz gave Grill $2,000 on one occasion, $4,000 on another and many gifts at various times to the other three. He also showed them through breweries in Passaic and Elizabeth.

Late in September, Dunigan continued, Foley visited the agents in New York, told them a plot was afoot against Grill and proposed that he (Foley) collect the money from the brewers.

On a subsequent visit Foley said he had seen Johnson and Senator Edge in Atlantic City and that Johnson had told him, according to Dunigan, that Joss Salmon, political leader of Essex county, had reported that all the money he had collected had been spent in the campaign.

Salmon's statement was later discussed, Dunigan said, at a dinner attended by the agents, Foley, George Seber, of an Elizabeth brewer, and a Mr. Butler from another Elizabeth brewery. Foley insisted to Seber and Butler that they must tell Salmon he would have to give Foley two-thirds of the money. Saber and Butler said $800,000 had been collected by Salmon during the year.

It was finally decided, Dunigan continued, that Foley collect the money himself. At this meeting, the witness went on, there was some talk of "fixing" criminal cases in New Jersey where Grill was under indictment. Foley said he could "fix" a murder case but that he did not like to bother with petty cases, Dunigan continued.

The witness told of two other meetings, at one of which Grill was given $6,000 and at the other $3,000.

MONEY RATES RETURN TO NORMAL LEVELS

New York, March 25.—Money rates, after fluctuating within abnormally low areas for a week, returned to normal levels today. Opening at 3 1-2 per cent, call funds quickly advanced to 4 and finally to 5 per cent at the closing. Time funds also were firmer and Commercial Paper held steady.

Bankers attributed the change in the situation to a natural readjustment with callings of loans from the interior and other normal demands draining the local market of its plethora of excess cash.

The rise in rates today was reflected in the action of the bond market where Liberty bonds into which institutions had diverted their surplus funds when money was cheap, were under heavy liquidation.

CONGRESSIONAL DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans, La., March 25.—J. Zac Spearing, New Orleans attorney on the face of early returns from today's democratic primary to select a successor to the late Representative Dupre of the Second congressional district, was leading his two opponents, Genevieve Clark Thomson, and T. Semmes Walmsley by several hundred votes.

Twenty-five precincts out of 115 in New Orleans gave Spearing 1407; Thomson 1681 and Walmsley 883.

Scattered returns from the four parishes in the district were that Spearing was leading there.

IDAHO DELEGATION TO VOTE FOR COOLIDGE

Lewiston, Idaho, March 25—The republican state convention here today passed a resolution instructing the Idaho delegation to the national convention to vote for the nomination of President Coolidge as presidential candidate. Another resolution endorsed the administration of Governor Moore and the re-election of the entire present congressional delegation was demanded.

MAIL BANDITS GOT BETWEEN $135,000 AND $150,000 CASH

Snatched Registered Mail Pouches From the Hands of Lone Guardian at Harvey, Ill—The Four Bandits Escaped in An Automoblie After Wrecking a Truck and Exchanging Pistol Shots with Two Men Who Pursued Them on a Motorcycle—$4,000 in One Dollar Bills and All the Registered Mail Was Found by the Roadside on the Outskirts of West Hammond, Where the Robbers Had Ripped Open the Mail Pouches.

Chicago, March 2.—Cash totalling between $135,000 and $150,000 in registered mail pouches was snatched from the hands of a lone guardian at the Illinois Central station at Harvey, Ill., early today by four bandits who escaped in an automobile after wrecking a truck and exchanging pistol fire with two men who pursued them on a motorcycle.

The bandit car with a punctured tire was found late today on the outskirts of West Hammond, A few miles further west $4,000 in one-dollar bills, part of the shipment of money, and all the registered mail was found intact by the roadside where the robbers had ripped open the mail pouches.

The holdup apparently had been carefully planned and was faultlessly executed.

WILLIAM H. ANDERSON NO. 75,745 IN SING SING PRISON

Ossining, March 25.—William H. Anderson, former head of the State Anti-Saloon League, once a powerful figure in the political life of the Empire State, today became "Number 75,745" in Sing Sing prison.

Convicted of third degree forgery in altering the books of the league, his application for a certificate of reasonable daubt denied yesterday, the former dry crusader surrendered in New York this forenoon to Sheriff Dooling. He was brought here by train this afternoon to begin serving his term of from one to two years.

Anderson was far from downcast. "I am a prisoner of war in the hands of the enemy" he said in a statement handed to the sheriff.

"After the damage I have inflicted on the liquor traffic" said the statement, "I shall not begrudge the wets and their defacto allies any satisfaction they can extract kicking when he down the one they could not whip in a fair fight."

When the former dry leader arrived here in the custody of two deputy sheriffs, he was whisked away to the prison in a taxi cab. As he stepped from the cab and saw the prison walls, Anderson smiled grimly. He walked with a firm step, head erect, lips compressed, eyes flashing angrily. He was led to warden's room where his pedigree was taken and given a number. Then he was taken to another room where his fingerprints were taken and he was given a bath. Finally the regulation prison uniform of grey trousers and grey coat, hickory shirt and black shoes issued to him.

A few minutes later he was led to his cell and the iron-barred gate clanged behind him. Tomorrow morning he will be assigned to manual labor such as shoveling coal and washing floors. It is probable, prison officials said, that in ten days he will be given clerical work is there is a vacancy.

The deputy sheriffs said that Anderson, who was in the smoker, spent most of his time on the train from New York to Ossining in writing a letter to his wife. Earlier in the day, Mrs. Anderson, after bidding her husband farewell in the privacy of their home in Yonkers issued a statement to the press in which she said:

"Mr. Anderson has gone for a while. He has gone with head high and a firm step and a consciousness of his innocence."

$20,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO WINSTED PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

Winsted, Conn., March 25—Fire broke out in the top floor of St. Anthony's parochial school today an hour after 500 children had been dismissed. The roof of the building, a three story brick structure, was destroyed and the entire place was flooded. The damage was estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000 all of which is covered by insurance. Crossed electric wires are believed responsible for the blaze.

No decision was reached tonight as to when and where the sessions will be resumed. Today's blaze was Winsted's third school fire within a year.

SWEDEN TO RAISE DUTY ON FOREIGN MOTOR CARS

Stockholm, Sweden, March 25—Of great importance to the American automobile export trade is a bill just presented in the Swedish Riksdag which proposes raising the import duty on foreign motor cars and the imposition of a duty of about one and a half cent per litre on gasoline. These measures are aimed at steadying the importation of automobiles which recently has become excessive. It is also desired to stimulate the production of sulphite alcohol a home industry. Through a Swedish invention, this alcohol can be used efficiently as motor fuel.

ROW AT INQUIRY INTO TEXAS LAND SALES

Washington, March 25—The sessions of the senate committee inquiring into alleged land fraud in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas broke up in a row late today after Chairman Moses had questioned the advisability of reading into the record a Texas newspaper clipping which told of a lawyer being beaten up by land agents a few days ago.

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY FAVOR MIXED COMMISSIONS

Washington, March 25—The Austrian and Hungarian governments have approved "in principle" an agreement proposed by the United States for the creation of mixed commissions to settle claims with the United States arising out of the world war.

HOOVER'S COTTON FIGURES PRONOUNCED UNSATISFACTORY

New Orleans, La., March 25—Colonel H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans cotton exchange and international authority on cotton, telegraphed Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana, at Washington, today, that the report of Secretary Hoover's committee on census bureau cotton statistics is unsatisfactory.

TRYING TO SOLVE THE COST FOR SOLDIER BONUS

Washington, March 25—The dispute over the cost of the proposed soldier bonus bill involving a difference of more than $2,000,000,000 in estimates of veterans' bureau and treasury actuaries drew fire from all sides today as the senate finance committee temporarily laid aside the revenue bill and attempted to solve the estimates mystery.

Representative Green, republican, Iowa, chairman of the house ways and means committee which framed the bill, and Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, a democratic member of the finance committee, issued statements assailing the estimates of Joseph McCoy, treasury actuary.

Pointing out a series of "fundamental and glaring errors," Mr. Green declared, "the treasury estimates on the cost of the bonus are wrong as usual."

Senator Walsh said the theory on which Mr. McCoy based his estimates was "absurd," and asked if it was "another attempt to juggle figures on the cost of the adjusted compensation bill and to attempt to stampede the congress and the people of the United States."

Explaining the discrepancy which arrived at his estimate [illegible] told the finance committee that he had figured the government would have to pay interest on all money appropriated to pay the bonus claims under the bill, while the bureau actuaries figured the cost of the bonus [illegible] would amount to only $2,[illegible] and which figure was presented to the house, insisted the government would not have to pay this interest if it invested the appropriations in outstanding government bonds, thus, cutting off the interest which had to be paid on those securities.

Regardless of such a procedure, Mr. McCoy said, the government would have to be paying interest on the same amount of outstanding securities as long as no treasury surplus existed and there was a public debt which had to be cut down. The prospective surplus, he argued, would be eliminated by the proposed tax reduction and if taxes were not revised he predicted there, would be no surplus in five years.

The committee reached no conclusion on the probable cost and the hearings of the two government actuaries will be continued tomorrow. Upon completion of the hearings Chairman Smoot said the finance committee would proceed with consideration of the revenue bill.

G. A. WEEKS HELD FOR SLAYING HIS WIFE

Norwalk, March 25. — George H. Weeks, who killed his divorced wife Sunday, was in court today for a preliminary hearing and the procedure was the offering of a demurrer to the complaint by counsel for the accused which was overruled by Judge George H. Vosburgh. Weeks was then committed without bail for the May term of the superior criminal court. Weeks was represented by John T. Dwyer, who stated that his client was not to take the stand at this time.

The hearing took but a few minutes. Weeks has been seen by two physicians as the outcome of certain testimony taken at the coroner's inquest yesterday. Witnesses claimed that Weeks had showed signs of mental trouble. The coroner's inquest will be resumed next Monday in Bridgeport.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church St. Telephone 1662

A dense cloud of smoke which drifted over the American Thread Company plant here and sailed along in a westerly direction was visible from practically all sections of the city, about ten o'clock Tuesday morning, and led many to fear that a terrible conflagration had gotten under way. It appeared that some section of the American Thread company plant was going up in smoke from the business section of the city.

The "big smoke" was caused by a fire which started in a pile of creosoted railroad ties and which spread to a nearby string of freight cars, on the siding of the New Haven railroad property, near No. 4 mill. The Bank street engine company was summoned by telephone and within a few minutes members of the company had arrived and made two hose connections and the fight started against the stubborn blaze. The thread company brigade also turned out in full force. By a hard tussle, the firelads managed to confine the fire to the first two cars of the string. These cars were totally destroyed the loss approximating $500. The car numbers were 75723 and 91668. Some two hundred spectators witnessed the fire from the hill and the railroad tracks. According to Agent Harry A. Blanchette there were twenty-five cars in the string and they were to be returned to the shop within a day or two. The string had been on the siding about three days. The firefighting was under the direction of Chief James J. Tighe, the call having been sent in by a woman resident of that neighborhood.

The origin of the blaze remains a mystery, although it is believed that children must have been playing on the heap of ties and through some mishap set them afire. It took but a second for the creosote layer to become ablaze and spread the flames to the freight cars. It was said that the ties were of more value than the cars which were destroyed

In William A. Costello, Willimantic has a young man who has stepped in line with those who can accomplish big things, through sheer perseverance. Mr. Costello has leased the Chapman street mill of the H. K. & W. A. Washburn Silk company and this week will install the required machinery which he has purchased from the Washburn South Coventry mill. Mr. Costello is an expert in the manufacture of artificial silk and he plans to be ready within a short time to turn out a finished product. Artificial silk is made from vegetable fibre and the thread is used for embroidry, hosiery, lce and in kindred lines.

The business established by Mr. Costello is to be throwing the product being sold on a commission basis, for the most part to other manufacturing concerns. Backed by a vast amount of pluck and persistance Mr. Costello is handling the entire proposition alone. He has been guaranteed a market for his product in New York city and under the firm name of The William A. Costello Silk company he looks forward to success for the firm.

Mr. Costello has had some twenty years' experience in the silk business in general. He was employed by the old W. G. Turner Silk company, later with his brother, Walter J. Costello, general superintendent of the H. K. & W. A. Washburn Silk company plants and then as a foreman for the Washburn concern at their Chapman street mill. When the latter company leased the mill to the Burns Lace company, a silk fibre concern, Mr. Costello remained with that firm until they moved to Middletown, several weeks ago. At this time Mr. Costello decided to go into business for himself.

The legal voters of the Windham Center District, are to gather in the auditorium of the new school building Saturday evening for their annual meeting. A tax for the ensuing year will be laid.

It was made known that some of the residents of the district planned to have a clause inserted in the warning asking the voters to take action on the question of dissolving the district form of government. A petition was started, twenty signatures being necessary, but it is understood that the signers were few and the matter was finally given up. Those in favor of the movement believed that Windham Center has outgrown the laws and regulations of the charter granted by the General Assembly one hundre dand ten years ago.

Along with the changes brought on by the trend of time the regulations which were goo dencugh over a century ago have become obsolete. Penalties for violations of district laws in the way of fines and the manner in which prosedures were taken back in the old days would now appear ridiculous, according to the advocates of the change.

The majority of the electors however, are satisfied to allow matters to remain as they are although it does cost the property owners an extra mill or two together with the thirteen mill tax levied by the Town of Windham.

The Windham Center District was incorporated by the General Assembly on the second Thursday of May, 1814, on the petition of Samuel Gray and other inhabitants of the central part of Windham.

The property owners of the district are taxed on the assessed valuation of that part of the town within the boundaries of Windham Center, in addition to the Town of Windham tax. The grand list last year was $238,878, on which a two mill tax raised $447.75. The balance in the treasury last year was $313.83.

President Bert F. More of the American Thread Athletic association has selected a committee to supervise the baseball activities of the association in cooperation with the manager, John P. McQuillan. The committee consists of: Joseph Meikle, Eugene Moriarty, Florence McGillicuddy, George Mahue and John Moriarty.

Members of Willimantic Rotary club assembled Tuesday noon for the the regular weekly meeting and luncheon. Guests included Charles Taggart and J. H. Eilers of the Norwich club who were doing their bit in keeping that organization's attendance up so as to compare with that of the Meriden club with which club is engaged in a hot contest. President James P. Mustard presided over the session. Charles E. Champlin, head of a stock company was one of the speakers. Mr. Champlin is a member of the Red Bank, N. J., club and he told several stories which delighted his audience.

A report of the boys' work committee was made in connection with the plans fo rthe observance of boys' week in this city. Under more recent arrangements the event will be observed the latter part of April for three days.

A fine program was carried out in charge of Louis A. Ringsbury, of the Business methods committee. James F. Bath and John C. Tracy gave facts concerning the business enterprises with which they are connected. The former's subject was "Dry Goods and the Department Stores," and the latter's "Optometry."

When funeral services for Mrs. Matilla T. Scott were held Tuesday noon at the late home, 15 Town street, Norwich. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of Norwich Town officiated. Burial was in Plainville cemetery at 3:30 o'clock. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt of this city.

The investigation of the methods of Roscoe Conklin, master penman, of many aliases, who raised checks sent through the mail to business houses and which for the most part were stolen from mail boxes in business houses in large cities, has disclosed a long and interesting trail of activity.

Conklin was a fast worker. A check drawn by Benjamin Eisenberg of this city for $32.90 in favor of a Boston firm was cashed in favor of a Boston firm at the Willimantic Trust company within fifteen hours for $320 being raised $300. This incident happened the early part of January.

It was found that the check which came int othe hands of Conklin who had signed the alias "Morris A. Schwartz", had been mailed in this city at 5 p. m. and placed with other mail in a box in the corridor of the business house to which it had been addressed. The mail was delivered about 7:30 o'clock the following morning and a short time later the box was found broken open and the contents, consisting of fifteen pieces of mail were missing. With remarkable rapidity Conklin put the Eisenberg check through a course of "raising" and he then caught the 8:20 train for this city, arriving here shortly before 11 o'clock. It is understood that he cashed the check before noon. So far as known Conklin, or Schwartz was not identified at the bank. Those who have seen the check agree that the alteration of the figures was a neat piece of work.

A small barn at the Wood Terrace, Jackson street, was threatened with destruction, shortly after noon Tuesday, when a spark from a brush fire set the roof of the building afire. Arthur J. Dubreuil, owner of the property was in charge of the burning of the brush and when he discovered that the barn was afire he secured the assistance of neighbors and quickly emptied the barn of its contents. Eugine Company No. 1, was called by a still alarm and the fire was extinguished with small loss.

Nothing of real value was taken from the cottage owned by Frank P. Fenton and located on the shores of Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, by burglars who entered several of the cottages over the past week-end. Mr. Fenton found the jimmy with which the rear door had been pried open and the interior of the bungalow ransacked. The same condition was found at the Cyril A. Lamoureux cottage. At this place the intruders displayed a liking for fishing equipment, taking possession of Mr. Lamoureux's prize fishing rod and tackle and a pair of rubber boots. The thefts have been reported to the state police barracks at Stafford Springs and an officer has been assigned to investigate the case.

A Ford car driven by Willard C. Tew, of Eagleville, collided with a five ton Mack truck Monday night on West Main street near Columbia avenue. Mr. Tew reported the matter at police headquarters, Tuesday morning. The truck was undamaged but the two headlights and one fender on the Ford were smashed. The driver of the truck did not stop, but the number C-9861 was taken by Mr. Tew.

John Haley of Westerly, R. I., and Miss Marion T. Fitzgerald of North Brookfield, Mass., were married Monday evening at the local Methodist church by the pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead. Their ages were given as 29 years. The groom said that he was a farmer and the bride is a bookkeeper. They are to reside in Westerly.

Charles Hanson was arrested on a warrant by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur, Tuesday forenoon, on a charge of non-support of his wife and family. Hanson was locked up at the station house and will be presented before the police court this (Wednesday) morning.

Mrs. Norman Schaffer of Norwich has been a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Fiske, of Jackson street.

The largest submarine power cable in existence is in Japan. It is twenty-three miles long and weighs six tons a 1,000 feet.

THREE YOUNG MEN HELD FOR ABUSE OF COVENTRY GIRL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, March 24—Three local young men, Antonio Deiuda, 19, Amos Mercier, 19, both of Mansfield avenue, and Herbert Gill, 21, of Valley street, will answer to the serious charge of abuse of a female child, in the Coventry town court today (Wednesday). The girl in question is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Breault of Coventry. It is said that about seven more young men are implicated in the case and it is likely that further arrests will follow within a few days.

State Policeman Heinold, of the State Police barracks at Stafford Springs who has been investigating the case, arrested the three youths late Tuesday afternoon. The young men spent the night in the local police station. It is expected that Justice of the Peace Hawkins of Coventry will hold the court session. It was learned that the Breault girl recently gave birth to a child at St. Joseph's hospital, this city.

JEWETT CITY

Up She Goes, at the Broadway, on Monday evening, attracted several local parties to Norwich. Obviously the trips were made by automobile because there is no public conveyance whereby one can leave Norwich after 7.45 p. m., except Saturday and Sunday. Automobile trips to Norwich from the borough are generally accomplished without incident. Ready wit came to the rescue of a party of four in a newly purchased flivver. When near Paul Geist's, and in a hurry to get to the show, both headlights went bad.

The great machine was brought to a halt. Automobiles may not run in the night season without duly prescribed headlights. Impatiently the party discussed matters, while the minutes flew toward the time when the theater doors would be thrown open. Tickets were gotten out and theheavy costs of same were re-computed.

Soon down the road was heard the exhaust of an approaching machine. The captain of the first crew, he that has circumnavigated the globe, and faced dangers in all the seven seas, stepped into the highway, and, like a Columbus Circle traffic cop, held up his great palm, at the same time shouting, "Hey, there!"

The machine stopped. Friends in need talked in low whispers. Soon the wagon with the no head-lights, but with good tail lights, was strapped to the rear of the boat with good headlights. Presently, an automobile ((a little longer than the common sort) moved down the line in strict compliance with all traffic rules, and with perfectly good tail and headlights, brightly burning.

At a Greeneville garage all wants were supplied, and down close to the front row, no one enjoyed Up She Goes any more than the two automobile parties fro mthe sister-burg, up the line.

A fine audience at the Finn theatre were delighted with Johnnie Walker, Tuesday evening. The management of this popular theatre is arranging for some April bookings that are in the headline class. The many local admirers of Miss Gish are to have an opportunity to see her in The White Sister before long.

A local trout fisherman had a talk Tuesday with a farmer from the outlying districts, through whose farm one of the finest trout streams runs. Asked if he objected to fishing he said he didn't, if the fishermen were careful of his walls and used care with matches. Generally the fishermen of the sort that finds comfort in the fields and along the brooks, in the open air of a bright spring day, uses all possible caution. Then, as the farmer said he could prove, there is another sort.

A lively interest is developing in the borough, in anticipation of the public spring fashion show, with living models, to be conducted in the Finn opera house by The Porteous & Mitchell company of Norwich, Thursday evening, at 8. In connection with the display of coats, suits, frocks and gowns, one may enjoy music and solo dancing.

Rev. H. T. Wilber, for two years pastor of the Methodist church here, is moving this week back to his old home in South Middleboro, Mass. It has not been decided who will be assigned to Jewett City to fill the vacancy. Mr. Wilber owns a house in South Middleboro, which he built mostly with his own hands. He expresses himself as being pleased that he is going home, and says if he should be unassigned by the conference, there are a number of small churches in his vicinity, which it may be his pleasure to supply.

Mrs. Nellie M. Johnson, Miss S. Nettie Johnson and Miss Alice A. Brown, attended the funeral of Miss Mabel Scott's mother in Norwich on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Scott is one of the teachers in Riverside Grammar school here. Many friends here were saddened because of Mrs. Scott's bereavement.

John E. Eichelberg, 57, died at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, after an illness since last Thursday with pleurisy and pneumonia. His death came as a great shock to his family and friends, as his condition did not become serious until Monday.

Mr. Eichelberg was born in Germany, Nov. 11, 1866. He came to New York forty years ago and soon after to Taftville. Twenty-eight years ago he moved to Griswold, living first in Hopeville and then coming to Jewett City. He was a fancy baker. He gave up the business after an illness and was employed by J. B. LeClaire. He has since been in the color shop at Aspinook bleachery.

He belonged to the German Lutheran church, but was affiliated with the Jewett City Congregational church, where several of his children are members. He was always ready to help the church whenever solicited and gave regularly to its support. He was a member of the Sons of Hermann, of Norwich. In 1896 he married Margaret Russ, at Taftville. Mrs. Eichelberg died two and one-half years ago and a son, William, died three years ago. Mr. Eichelberg leaves nine children, Mrs. Christopher Dean of Plainfield, Mrs. Albert Dilworth and Mrs. Joseph Frazier, of Norwich, John, Albert, Bertha, Alvin, Frederick and Annie of Jewett City. There are four grandchildren. A sister and two brothers are in Germany.

Mr. Eichelberg was particularly devoted to his home and children. He had many close friends who enjoyed the hospitality of his pleasant home.

There is much interest in the public rifle shoot of the Jewett City Rifle club at the local range tonight (Wednesday). All are privileged to watch the game.

Thomas McCluggage has returned to his home in Ridgefield, N. J., after visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William McCluggage.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without nausing, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

NEW FOUR-DOOR SEDAN $1395 f. o. b. Cleveland

Luxuriously Smooth and Silent at Every Speed!

WHEN they set out to design this new 4-door model, Cleveland engineers knew that noise, vibration, and drumming were distinctly noticeable in most moderately priced closed cars.

They also knew that in such a car, scientific engineering could produce the luxuriously smooth and quiet operation that is characteristic of the heaviest and most expensive sedans.

In collaboration with Fisher, they produced a body that is a marvel of structural rigidity.

The framework is clear second-growth ash, carefully seasoned and solidly reinforced. The body proper is built up of heavy, securely anchored sheet steel panels. The soft ceiling has no acoustic properties.

Thus were drumming and rattling and squeaking eliminated.

Vibration was conquered at its source—in the power plant; conquered so completely and absolutely that even the driver is never conscious of it.

Nowhere between the traffic crawl and the full throttle gait is there a speed which is not luxuriously smooth and free from labor—particularly so on the hills.

Arrange for a demonstration. We promise you a ride which for sheer unblemished luxury, literally cannot be duplicated except in the heaviest and most expensive closed cars.

Genuine balloon tires (31x5¼) optional, $80 extra. Cleveland chassis design permits their use without affecting road, frame, or fender clearance.

The supper served by the L. A. S. of the Congregational church Friday was in charge of Mrs. A. W. Clifford who was assisted by Mrs. Wayland Jacobs, Mrs. Andrew Anthony, Mrs. F. G. Barber, Mrs. DeWitt Lathrop, Mrs. George Keeney, Mrs. Caselus Barstow and Miss Dorothy Brown. Mrs. Homer Wood and Miss Gertrude Arnold assisted in serving. St. Patrick's day decorations and favors were used, the napkins bearing a seasonable design, narrow strips of green paper were used as runners in the tables and there were potted plants and green carnations in the centre. Favors of candy shamrocks, and green frogs were at each plate and there were tiny pots of shamrock at the ends of each runner.

Following the supper a program of vocal and instrumental selections were given under the direction of Clarence Beckwith. This included vocal solos by Eden Cook and Clarence Beckwith, who also sang a duet. There were two quartette numbers by Messrs. Cook, Beckwith, Rev. A. W. Clifford and Carl Josephson. Banjo mandolin selections were given by Messrs Beckwith, Cook and Jack Thompson. Miss Gertrude Arnold was the accompanist. There were about 70 present, including Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Maine and son of Willimantic. The proceeds were about $27.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodworth of Westport were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lathrop, also visited their aunt, Miss Carrie Woodworth at the state hospital, in Norwich.

Rev. W. M. Brown preached in the Congregational church Sunday in the absence of Rev. A. W. Clifford and led the C. E. meeting in the evening.

Mrs. A. W. Clifford with her sons, Paul and Alan, is spending the week with her parents in Cambridge.

Miss Florence Truell, principal of the grammar school, is visiting her sister in Nashua, N. H., during the spring vacation.

Two hundred and fifty chairs have been ordered for the assembly hall in the new school building. Water is to be piped to the building from the Harvey spring, as soon as the frost is out of the ground and the trenches for the pipe can be dug.

The Woman's Missionary society meets with Miss Clara Johnson this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Mrs. E. J. Stalker has returned after several months' stay in New York.

Miss Elizabeth Clark, who has been visiting her sister, returned to Putnam Monday.

Mrs. F. F. Webb, Miss Emma Larrabee, Mrs. Ada Larrabee and Mrs. James Lathrop attended service at the Congregational church in Willimantic Sunday morning.

The meeting of the Centre district will be held in the new schoolhouse Saturday evening.

BOZRAH

There is to be a series of evening services at the Center Congregational church conducted by Rev. Mr. Stewart, commencing Sunday evening. Several from here have been attending the meetings at the United church this week.

John Browning and family of Norwich Town attended the Easton church Sunday.

The Woman's Missionary society is to meet with Mrs. S. H. Bishop in Yantic, Saturday, Miss Abby G. Willard of Colchester, president of the Eastern Connecticut branch, will be the speaker.

The local schools were closed on Tuesday afternoon as the teachers attended a teachers' meeting in Norwich, when Supervisor J. B. Stanton spoke on Language.

DANIELSON

In an unexpected contest that developed at the annual borough caucus, Tuesday evening, Frank E. Kennedy, a member of the board of burgesses, obtained the nomination for warden over W. A. Burrows, who has held the office for several years. It was a small caucus and the vote was 26 for Mr. Kennedy and 19 for Mr. Burrows. This is the only contest during the caucus. Frank T. Preston was renominated for clerk and treasurer. Several changes are noticed in the board of burgess nominees. Mr. Kennedy, through being nominated for warden leaves the board, as do Roland H. Gray and Irving W. Davis, both declining renomination. The nominees of the caucus are: Walter Anderson, D. E. Jette, Jeremiah Elliott, Richard D. Bannigan, Gaston A. Maindon and Pierre Boulaine. Thomas Bradford, J. N. Ravalles and William H. Young were nominees for assessors. John MacFarland was named for bailiff and Edward E. Carpenter for tax collector. For library directors, Frederick A. Jacob and Ernest R. Warren were the choice. Attorney E. L. Darbie was chairman of the caucus.

A curious means of checking up how people of these United States roam over its vast areas is the trolley token in use nowadays on lines in many parts of the United States.

A collection of these tokens was seen here Tuesday. They have been picked up from time to time by conductors on trolley lines in eastern Connecticut. They are interesting as showing how people get about and the variety of the tokens and the widespread use of them.

Lines as far west as Seattle were represented in the collection seen here. There were tokens from Cedar Rapids, Ia., from various sections of Michigan, from points in New York state and points in New Jersey. There were tokens from the Bay State lines, from the lines of the Rhode Island company. There were others from southern states. Sioux City was one distant point from which a token found its way into the collection seen here. Pennsylvania was one of the states represented in the collection, Ohio another. Some of the tokens were duplicated several times in the collection.

Danielson Methodist Episcopal church will be represented at the 84th annual session of the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, opening in Providence this (Wednesday) morning. The sessions will continue through the week.

Telephone line crews continue to be busy with the work of repairing damage done by the big storm of two weeks ago. Much of the repair work done to get subscribers back into service was of a temporary nature. Peamanent repairs are now going on. Much new material in the way of poles, crossarms and wire has been used.

There were two sessions of the town court Tuesday. In the morning Albert Proulx and John Donahue, both of Attawaugan, were presented to answer to charges of having been intoxicated. They were fined $5 each, and costs, a total of $16.94 in each case, which they paid.

At the afternoon session, Alexander Grozier, of Hartford, was presented to answer to a charge of reckless driving of a motor vehicle. He had been speeding through the business [illegible] at a rate in excess of 30 miles [illegible] was overhauled by State Officer Stremens on the Providence [illegible] Grozier paid a fine of $35 and [illegible] of $35.74.

It is indicated that a special town [illegible] be called, to get a decision of the electors as to whether an appropriation shall be made by the town for meeting the cost of having a public accountant go over the books of all town officers for a period of five years past. A resolution providing that such an appropriation for such a purpose be made was ruled as out of order when introduced by Charles D. Mowry of Danielson at the annual adjourned town meeting last week. The resolution referred to provided for the appropriation of $1,000 or more for such an audit as was suggested.

Announcement has been made of the purchase of the Everett Hyde property, on Broad street, by the Baptist church, for use as a parsonage. The Hyde property adjoins the church to the south and is one of the very best locations in the borough. There is an attractive cottage on the Hyde property, which has been occupied for a number of years by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Patterson. For nearly a decade the Baptist church has been without parsonage property—since disposing of the former parsonage, now the property of Samuel Bingras, corner of Broad and Reynolds streets.

Road repair crews of the town have commenced the work of scraping borough streets. The passing of the mud season has allowed these workers to undertake this job, which will continue for some time to come.

PUTNAM

Auction sales of the property of the Manhasset Manufacturing company were concluded Tuesday, with the bringing to an end at Taunton, Mass., of a two days' selling of the corporation's holdings in that city.

It has been previously pointed out that claims aggregating $6,000,000 and more have been filed against the concern. The auction sales have failed to produce bids totaling anywhere near that amount. It is expected that final figures showing the total offered for the company's properties at the sales will be made available today (Wednesday).

Of interest to local fishermen who will take out licenses to fish in Rhode Island this year is the fact that Keach's pond, a few miles east of here, has been stocked with rainbow trout by the Rhode Island commissioners of fish and game during the past year. Sand Dam pond in the town of Glocester, also just east of here, has been stocked with rainbow trout. Only four bodies of water in all Rhode Island were stocked the past year with this kind of fish.

Former Representative A. A. Brodeur of this city will be at New Haven today (Wednesday) attending the funeral of Dr. Arthur Baribeault, who died suddenly while en route from Detroit to his home city. Dr. Baribeault was one of the first residents of this state to interest himself in the Franco-American movement, with which he was actively identified as early as 1885. He would have been a visitor in this city next June, when the French-speaking societies of the state will hold a general convention here, were it not for his unexpected death.

"Putnam," says a bulletin from the Putnam chamber of commerce, "should have a permanent memorial to its sons served in the world war. No one realizes this more than the chamber of commerce. And no organization has given it more thought or made a more honest effort to secure action on the subject. The memorial is still before the directors. Several excellent ideas have been advanced. The latest is to make Oak hill into a park and dedicate it to those who served in the war. The suggestion has its proponents and opponents. What do you think? Tell one of the directors. What suggestions for a memorial have you to offer? Have you any plan whereby the suggestion can be made a reality? Speak to your officers or one of the directors about it. General interest and concerted action will bring the memorial into being. Do something yourself and thereby help stimulate interest and action."

Another subject of interest discussed in the chamber of commerce bulletin is the following:

"The value of the chamber of commerce is demonstrated almost every day. The encroachment of the cities of the state on the smaller cities and towns, spreading a propaganda of fivecent fares, that would result in the abandonment of non-paying suburban trolley lines, has been watched carefully by your officers and directors. They know that our own trolley line would be the first to be junked if the public utilities commission was influenced by this "city talk." Then, on Monday of last week, your officers and directors deemed that the time for action had arrived. And they acted with swiftness and decision. The assistance of the Rotary club was obtained and, cooperating, the two organizations secured an attendance of 40 local men at the hearing before the public utilities commission this week Tuesday. These men drove to Hartford in the meanest snowstorm of the winter. They appeared before the commission and registered, by their presence and by speeches by some of their number, their protest against any molestation of the local trolley line. They voiced powerful arguments and have facts and figures to uphold their contention.

"Another meeting and dinner at the Putnam inn is being planned. No announcement as to its probable date can be made at this time, for details have not been settled upon. But when it is held we will have the pleasure of hearing an address by A. P. Russell of Boston, who is vice president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad."

The circular is signed by A. F. Ralston, the secretary.

Elks from all the jurisdiction of Putnam lodge and from points beyond assembled here Tuesday evening to witness the conferring of a degree on a class of candidates so large that the work was put on in St. Onge's music hall in Livery street, instead of in the lodge rooms, as is usual. Numbers of the members of the class were from out of town, a considerable percentage of them from Danielson, which is represented in Putnam lodge by a large membership.

An epidemic of colds is running through Putnam and all the territory hereabouts. More people are complaining of such ailments than at any other time during the winter season. The extent to which people are afflicted just now is indicated at any gathering of considerable numbers, a general chorus of coughing and sneezing being noted. While there are some cases of pneumonia and grip, the average person is merely suffering from a cold or sore throat.

It has been made known through the chamber of commerce that twice during the past month representatives of textile concerns have been in Putnam, seeking locations for their industries. The visitors were shown about and the citys advantages for textile manufacturing and shipping facilities pointed out. Putnam has some available plants for manufacturing and the chamber of commerce is lending its aid at every opportunity to secure industries to place in them. One of the plants that is in the market is the Morse mill, which is being held for $40,000. This was one of the units of the Nightingale-Morse system in this city. The plant is a good one and water power is available for it, as well as steam.

Flocks of wild geese were reported Tuesday as having been heard flying northward over this territory during the early morning hours. This particular spring numerous lakes and ponds in this section of Eastern Connecticut where wild geese have been known to stop over night in the past to rest are frozen over, but there is open water in the rivers.

Councils of the Union St. John Baptist in this territory are taking part in the national drive of the organization to attain a membership of 50,000 by June 30. The latest report on membership showed more than 46,000 members. At North Grosvenordale recently 126 new members were received.

In carrying out a policy now general throughout the state, officers who find aliens possessing firearms, which is contrary to law in this state, are confiscating them. Many aliens resident in outlying sections of this corner of the state have shotguns, rifles and revolvers.

Preparations are being made by the senior class of Tourtellotte Memorial High school at North Grosvenordale, for the annual Easter time trip to Washington.

Auction sale of fine household goods at the storehouse of N. A. Ballard on the Houghton property, near Blanchette's store, Main street, Putnam, at 1 o'clock p. m., Friday, March 28. If stormy, next day. Witter Bros., auctioneers. Office 42 Main street, Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Arthur Riel, who has been visiting relatives in Putnam, where he formerly was a resident, has returned to Denver, Col., where he has been living for several years in the interest of his health.

There were large congregations at St. Mary's church for the masses of Tuesday morning, the feast of the Annunciation.

County Agent Frank L. Davis of this city will attend the meeting of Wolf Den grange of Abington this (Wednesday) evening.

Due to the reaching of an agreement in the case scheduled to be heard, there was no session of the superior court here Tuesday.

Rev. J. J. Eity, pastor of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret, remained seriously ill at the hospital here Tuesday.

Announcement has been made here relative to the coming to Putnam next month of the Brown Glee clubs.

Friends of F. O. Plummer were sorry to learn of his illness in Worcester, Mass. He contracted a cold while attending the automobile show in Boston. He is not able yet to return to his home here.

PHOENIXVILLE

Mrs. Lucid Hall George, 76, daughter of the late Joseph and Mary Holman Hall, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ida George Buell, Sunday, after a long illness. She was born Aug. 2, 1847 in the house now owned and occupied by Ariel Greene. Mrs. George was a teacher in her youth, afterward marrying Franklyn L. George. Two children were born to them—Linus T., who died in Readville, Mass., several years ago, and Mrs. Ida Buell. Her husband passed away several years ago. Mrs. Buell was highly respected by all, a member of the Congregational church of Eastford, and also a teacher in the Sunday school for several years. She was always interested in the work of the church and will be missed by the older parishioners as a fine friend and neighbor.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good, healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with a fishy taste, because the McCoy Laboratories, of New York, are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar-coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Lee & Osgood Co. and every druggist worthy the name sells them—60 tablets, 60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in thirty days, or the money paid for the tablets will be refunded.

One woman put on fifteen pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong.

LOST TWO TIRES AND CRASHES INTO POLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, March. 25.—Leo B. Roache, 21, of Worcester, Mass., a wool salesman, operated his brand new Ford sedan coach tonight while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Driving down Granite street hill he lost two of his automobile tires as he swerved from side to side in the road, endangering the lives of pedestrians and the vehicular traffic on the highway. At the junction of Newton and Granite street the automobile crashed into a telephone pole wrecking the side of the machine but the driver escaped with only a few scratches. In the machine was found a dozen bottles of beer. Sergeant of Police Donald Ferguson was called and placed the driver under arrest and lodged him in the Westerly police station. He will be brought to trial in the Third district court.

PLAINFIELD

The finals in the interclass games were played in the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon, between the junior and senior boys, and between the girls' teams representing the same two classes. The boys' game was a nip-and-tuck affair, the lead see-sawing between the two teams, and the outcome was in doubt until the final whistle. The seniors were represented by West and DeMoranville forwards, Dorrance center, and Williams and Butler guards and the Juniors put on the floor a team composed of West and Allard, forwards, Callup center, and Maggia and Tylerguards. The game was an excellent one to watch from the point of view of the disinterested spectator, excellent basketball, clean playing, and fast floorwork being the features. The score at half time was 11-10, the final score being 33-19. The final score of the girls' game was 14-14, but as no provision is made on girls' rules for an overtime period, the score was left a tie, and another game will be played at a later date.

One reason concrete is used so generally today in all types of construction from sidewalks to highways, from garages to enormous industrial plants, is the fact that Portland Cement actually costs less than it did thirty years ago.

The Atlas rotary kiln, daily producing as much as the old-time kiln did in one month, was the greatest single factor in assuring this cheapness.

And your building material dealer, the only distributing channel between Atlas and you, assures distribution economy. He knows building and building materials. He can help you.

Why Pay the Penalty of Lying Awake?

MANY people spend hours at night, restlessly tossing from side to side, waiting for sleep. All because they drink coffee with their evening meal.

If the caffeine in coffee irritates your nervous system and keeps you awake when you should be asleep, recuperating your energies, why not stop coffee and drink Postum?

Postum is a pure cereal beverage, absolutely free from caffeine or anything that can disturb health and comfort. Many prefer Postum for its delightful aroma and flavor.

If you want to know the truth, change to Postum for a month or so, and see how much better you will sleep and feel.

ANOTHER NAVAL CONFERENCE.

Limitation of armament under the terms of the naval agreement reached at Washington has made an excellent impression. There are those who would have it extended in scope to get even greater benefit. As to this there may be no great difference of opinion as to the desirability of doing whatever is possible in the way of an understanding that would limit extravagant expenditures and war preparations, but there is likely to be quite a division as to how far such a move ought to go and whether the time is ripe for obtaining additional limitations.

When the lower house of congress attached to the naval appropriation bill a request that the president call another conference of nations for the further limitation of competitive naval armament attention was directed to the fact that such a request should be provisional, the idea being that the president ought not to be urged to act until it was considered that conditions were favorable for the success of such a movement.

It is one thing to call a conference but it is another thing to call it at a time when the desired results can be obtained. The house was not favorable to a modification of the request, but the senate may look at it in a different light, especially since it is no secret that the president and the secretary of state do not believe that this is the proper time for such a move although they are both favorably disposed to such a conference at an opportune time. Appreciation can be felt for the judgment that is aimed at avoiding a fizzle.

It is remembered what opposition was manifested to certain features at the former naval conference, particularly as to submarines. The benefits of the existing agreement are being recognized. European countries will be even more favorably inclined after conditions there have been smoothed out a bit more. The second naval limitation conference is unquestionably going to be called and going to be a success, but the time for calling it should be left to the judgment of those who are in close touch with the international situation and can so time it as to get the desired results.

GREATER HIGHWAY SAFETY.

Impressed with the need of doing something different for the prevention of highway accidents and properly protecting the lives of highway users, the registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts has earnestly advocated the application of jail sentences in order to put a stop to the many cases of intoxicated automobile drivers. Not only has he urged it but he has drawn attention to the fact that the courts were not doing their duty and offered a record of cases to prove his assertions.

Not only does the Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles keep a record of highway accidents but he also follows the treatment of those involved through the courts. There have been twelve persons killed in that state since the first of March. During the past week there were 48 cases of operating under the influence of liquor and by the registrar's record there were but four instances in which such persons landed in jail though there were 32 convictions in the lower courts and eleven cases dealt with by the superior court to which appeals had been taken.

The hazard that is created by the auto driver who is under the influence of liquor ought not to be minimized. He constitutes a menace that ought not to receive encouragement. The driver who is reckless is bad enough, but those who have deprived themselves of the means of properly guiding a car are much worse and the quicker there is a concerted effort to give the public protection against such individuals the quicker will there be a reduction in the number of highway accidents.

It is far preferable to stand for the protection of the highway users by imposing jail sentences than it is to display leniency and thereby encourage the killing of those who not only entrust their lives in the hands of a driver under the influence of liquor but the many others in vehicles which may be struck by such wild and wobbling drivers. Jail for such individuals is better than funerals for others.

SMALL NATIONS' EXAMPLE.

Soon after the refunding of the British war debt to this country was accomplished Finland manifested a desire to follow a similar course. It was conscious of the fact that it had borrowed money from this country for the purpose of obtaining relief supplies during the period just after the armistice and it was anxious to arrange a settlement. The commission named by this government for the purpose of making such arrangement found no difficulty in coming to an understanding with the representatives of that country. The result is that Finland has delivered bonds to the amount of $9,000,000 to Uncle Sam instead of the promise to pay which he previously held. The adjustment has been made and each country knows how it stands in regard to this matter.

That the Jugoslav government proposes to get down to the business of paying what it owes is indicated by the presence of a financial mission from that country which has been received by the president and already has entered upon preliminary exchanges with the treasury. So far as known there has been no request for talk of cancellation. Jugoslavia hasn't any idea of repudiating the debt. It recognizes the obligation and it is desirous of meeting it under as favorable terms as it can get but of beginning rather than delaying payments.

There is much to be said in commendation of such a policy of debt adjustment. It is much better that such debts should be paid than that there should be a cancellation and the equivalent of the indebtedness turned toward the provision of materials for the prosecution of war which might sooner or later mean the return of borrow appeals to this country.

Those that borrow must expect to pay. That is the business way of dealing with such matters and it will be unfortunate if the business way is ever abandoned. There are other countries which have reason to be impressed by the manner in which the smaller nations are paying their bills.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL.

Reason for an investigation of a freight wreck in Indiana by the interstate commerce commission lay in the fact that two trainmen were killed. As the result of the finding the investigators are convinced that had the train been given the guidance that it was expected to get as the result of the signals there would have been no wreck and no deaths. It was another case where the human agent failed to function as was expected. It showed once more that there is not only danger in disregarding signals, relying upon personal judgment and taking chances but that the chances of causing the death of self or others are exceedingly good. Perhaps it is the occasional success along such lines that increases the temptation, but sooner or later the sad awakening comes that there is a frightful penalty involved.

Whether criminal negligence proceedings can be or have been instituted in connection with this particular wreck is not known, but the commission is forced to point out once more the wisdom of having the human agency in the engine cab reinforced by automatic signals for the greater protection of the traveling public and those who are employed on trains.

The wisdom of such a protection cannot be questioned. The only thing that stands in the way of a general resort to such a benefit is the efficiency of such automatic devices as are available. The outlay is only a matter of secondary consideration if effective train control can be obtained.

CUTTING DOWN WASTE.

Even though there is no benefit attached to waste, it is to be found on every hand. It gets to be a habit so firmly seated that it is hard to break, and yet it is only necessary to do a little searching to find how extensive it has become and what great need there is for discouraging rather than encouraging it.

Waste is a big factor in the cost of everything. It figures prominently in the cost of living. It is a burden for many an individual who fails to apply the brakes and correct a deplorable practice.

It of course applies to industry as well as to households, to organizations as well as individuals, and to all classes. The Federated American Engineering societies have had a committee on the elimination of waste in industry studying this problem and it has presented a report in which it finds that waste in American industry is 50 per cent due to management, 25 per cent to labor and 25 per cent to outside contracts.

There are big wastes and small ones. No one imagines that all waste is going to be eliminated in industry. That there can be big reductions in it is beyond question. Some establishments will show bigger wastes than others but the tendency is one that deserves to be halted. It will be never be possible to eliminate all waste but it can be reduced and the committee believes that big strides can be made by the prevention of accidents, by creating adequate machinery to reduce or prevent strikes, giving workers a reward based on work done, standardization of equipment and expansion of research facilities. Picking out the remedy and getting it applied are distinctly different. The desirability of cutting waste to the smallest amount is nevertheless worth encouraging.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The coal question isn't getting very much consideration in Washington these days.

The man on the corner says: There's not much use losing patience over the weather.

Possibly F. A. Vanderlip was called to Washington to train a class in his new method of handling gossipy rumors.

Out in the Fiji islands where they glut the market, the late song has been changed to, Yes, we have some bananas.

Massachusetts' legislative committee has reported adversely on a bill to elect their judges. Massachusetts hasn't gone daffy yet.

It looks as if Governor and Mrs. Pinchot of Pennsylvania were hoping they'd get a chance to talk to some investigating committee.

When President Coolidge tells a delegation of boys to work and behave it is sterling advice but not always regarded as popular.

Every fisherman must have been out looking over the prospects for an early and big catch. Spring is certainly offering great temptations.

When a senator tells of getting good liquor in Virginia, does it reflect upon the quality of the goods that the "wettest city in the country" provides?

If the straw vote on the Bok plan was the method of deciding whether Dr. Levermore should get his second $50,000 he would be entitled to collect by this time.

POWER OF SUGGESTION

"Yes," chuckled Mrs. Flint, "the power of suggestion is wonderful. My grandmother had a slave down south who didn't love to work, and when she was told to do things she didn't hear. At first my grandmother thought the girl really and truly deaf, so she was very patient with her, but after a while she had doubts. In order to find out she told a member of the family in a very low tone of voice that she feared she would have to take Louisa to a doctor. Louisa was in the room doing something and my grandmother went on to describe the terrible treatment that might be necessary for one so dreadfully afflicted. My grandmother said that from that day Louisa could hear a pin drop in the next room."

"Maybe that explains what has happened to my watch," laughed Mrs. Lewis. "This wrist watch ran very well for months and then about six weeks ago it began to refuse to observe even an eight-hour day and would run only four hours without winding."

"I can sympathize," said Mrs. Harris. "My own watch has a temperament. What did you do with yours, Mrs. Lewis?"

"I took it to a jeweler," replied Mrs. Lewis, "and left it there for an estimate on the cost of repairs."

"That's a very foolish way," said Mrs. Dunbar. "The best thing to do is to get an estimate at once before they have a chance to imagine all sorts of things the matter with it."

"They sent me a very pleasant little letter about it," Mrs. Lewis continued, "to the effect that there was a dent in the case, the rod was old and needed replacing and it had to be cleaned, so it would cost $6."

"Well, I had had the watch cleaned a year ago in Paris," sighed Mrs. Lewis, "so another cleaning seemed a little extravagant, especially as I have had it laid away in a box for several months on account of breaking my wrist. I went down and told the man I did not think I cared to pay the $6 and he was quite sad. I suggested that he had lain awake at night trying to find something wrong with it. He said that $5 of the charge was for cleaning."

"Dear me!" cried old Mrs. Clark, "I remember when I paid only a dollar and a half for cleaning!"

"Well, I took it to another jeweler," continued Mrs. Lewis, "and asked for an estimate, right on the spot, without any waiting."

"Very wise," put in Mrs. Dunbar. "Then they wouldn't notice dents and things like that."

"They noticed enough," said Mrs. Lewis. "Their estimate was $8.90."

"If you had only told me I could have given you the address of a repair man who is inexpensive," said the new member. "Though, after all, you might not have liked him, since my husband declares he ruined his watch. He certainly is nice and cheap, though."

"I took the watch to another man over on State street," Mrs. Lewis went on, "and he volunteered to give me an estimate at once. When he gave it I was so stunned, that I hadn't a word to say and just stretched out my hand for my property. He said everything under the sun was wrong with that poor watch, and it would cost me $11 to have it made right again."

"One night at dinner I was telling my husband about my trials, and I handed over the watch for him to examine. He said he thought the best thing to do was to send it to the factory and have them give it a thorough overhauling, taking it all to pieces and repairing everything."

"Factories are so satisfactory," said Mrs. Harris. "Oh that's a pun, did you notice it?"

"I was too busy to send it for a long time," said Mrs. Lewis, "and when I remembered to do so, I realized that I had worn that watch for more than two weeks, and it had kept perfect time. What's more, it still runs as well as ever. There's nothing like a threat for working a permanent cure." —Exchange.

ROCKEFELLER HAD TO HUNT WORK

While a lad of 16 in high school, John D. Rockefeller had to give up his studies there, banish all hope of attending college, and prepare to go to work.

From the time of his birth, in insignificant Richford, N. Y., a higher education for him was an inspiring expectation of the family, but after his parents moved to Cleveland's environs they could not afford it.

A few months in business college, and the boy had to walk the streets for days, hunting a job. No one wanted a boy and many were gruff about it. Finally, out at the end of the Cleveland docks, Hewitt & Tuttle made him a bookkeeper's assistant, and he was so glad to work that he feared to ask the wage. It was $50 for three months. The next year, he received $300, out of which he supported himself.

At seven, raising turkeys, and afterward, he denied himself to save. At 19, with $700 accumulated, he borrowed more and became one of Clarke & Rockefeller, commission merchants.

When he entered the oil business, many told him that he would be ruined, that the supply would cease, that the demand would decline. He was a member of a refining firm, when came the troublous time of 1865, and he bought out his partners. Later, the period of overproduction killed many concerns, but Rockefeller persisted, and built a success.

He formed the Standard Oil Company in 1870 and made it a world-wide concern. The trust was dissolved by the government in the panic-year of 1893, just when he had to loan his personal securities to protect his Mesaba range ore mines.

Rockefeller retired in 1911, and now is one of the world's richest men, possibly the wealthiest. He has given over $500,000,000 in benefactions. He is happy, proud of his family, and, although 84, the winner of many a game of golf.

Tomorrow—Edison Lost Many a Job.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Wesley L. Jones, who has just celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his becoming a member of the United States Congress, has been one of the representatives of the State of Washington in the Senate since 1909 and is now chairman of the important Senate Commerce Committee. Having had ten years' service in the House of Representatives, Mr. Jones came to his duties as Senator with accurate knowledge of conditions at the capitol that make for success or failure as a lawmaker. He was born and educated in Illinois, and, after graduating from college and gaining admission to the Illinois bar, migrated, in 1889, to the then Territory of Washington, to make his name and fortune. In the evolution of the region from a territory to a state he had a hand, and within nine years after he had settled at North Yakima he had become a positive factor in the Republican party in that section, and been sent to Congress.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This Jazz Razed Age

Mr. Editor: Of all the ignoble purposes bill boards are put to, the most ignoble is the advertising of cigars and cigarettes on the clouds.

While in Washington a certain kind of cigarettes was written on the clouds in letters half a mile in length.

We read in Psalms 104 "God maketh the clouds His chariots." David had no vision of the 20th century seizing God's chariots for bill boards.

It is disgraceful enough to allow bill boards to disfigure the beautiful landscape that God created for our special benefit—but to desecrate the heavens above only a greedy tobacco vender could think of it.

No community has advanced very far in the sense of propriety or of art that will tolerate a billboard of any kind to detract from the beauty of the landscape.

Let us have a law that will protect God's great and marvelously beautiful universe from being thus desecrated.

It would go a long way toward preventing our young people from becoming degraded men.

It is a well known fact that if the young begin to smoke before twenty they will continue to support liberally the tobacco trade. Anyone who understands the psychology of the boys mind knows that there is no better mode of angling for the boy than through the skillfully manager billboards which are thickly scattered all over our country. The boy's mind is as clay—waiting for the creative potter and we allow all sorts of billboards to do their creative work upon their plastic minds. These are crucial times the country faces great problems and so does every city and town. Waiting until adult life to teach responsibility in citizenship does not work and responsibility in one's own life and to the community is not breathed in as one goes about his or her daily tasks.

Billboards are not only a nuisance but a positive evil—let us begin our creative influence by sweeping away all billboards and so teach our young people to revere the sublime beauty of the world about them.

It seems to me that this is a work that our women's clubs should shoulder. We expect women to have a finer sense of fitness of things. They would not think of disfiguring their own premises with an unsightly billboard—then why God's? May God give our women a vision of their responsibility to the public welfare—and their duty to see that the highways and by-ways are made safe for our young people.

No greater service can be given to our country than to protect our youth. Does not our Christian civilization owe it to him?

That nicotine has injurious effects upon the human system has been recognized by three athletic associations, the Minnesota, Kansas and North Dakota High school athletic associations have proscribed the use by their members. Even far away Tibet has a greater paternal interest in her subjects in this respect than our western nations as she has such a horror of the injurious character of nicotine that she has resorted to very drastic means to prevent it getting a foothold in her country. Anyone found smoking is given one hundred lashes.

I fancy neither young or old will venture to invite such a punishment. It is fierce we will all admit—but not as injurious as the use of nicotine. They are wise to choose between the two evils.

At every meal I am made heartsick by the sight of a young bridal couple as fine specimens of young man and young woman hood as one can find—both smoking their cigarette at every meal. It is true it is no worse for a woman to smoke than for a man to—and yet—we are so accustomed to look to women to uphold high standards that it does shock us tremendously to see young women handling cigarettes as naturally as their male companions. I saw three very pretty young women sitting with as many men and all were smoking cigarettes. What is going on at this hotel is transpiring in every hotel where the fashionable and sporting world assembles.

We can no longer say it is only now and then that a woman has departed from the conservative paths of the past. It is honeycombing every corner of our social life.

I have heard doctors say that when women smoked the race was doomed. So is it not time to face the facts openly and find some means to stem the tide of degeneracy that has set in?

Have our women fallen so low in self-respect and self responsibility that there is no hope for the future? I believe not; that there still remains a majority of women who do not smoke and who do deeply lament the present social conditions.

In a mission conference a little woman from India said: "While we are grateful for all the gifts America has brought us, yet have wondered if our gift to you might not be to teach mighty America the beauty and power of quiet. If we might not put on her brakes a bit and slow you down a little and add to the joy of your service." May she not be right? I heard a woman last month at a D. A. R. meeting say: "The women are so rushed we don't have time to say our prayers."

Let us ponder these things in our hearts. God speaks to us in many ways. In the above remarks we can if we will hear His voice warning us to beware of this jazz razed age; to open our hearts to the song of the infinite; to ponder the great undying truths of the gospel teaching of love to humanity of service and of personal responsibility.

CHILD TRAINING

THE HABIT OF CONCENTRATION

By Edith Lochridge Reid

How long do your children keep at the things they are doing? Do they always finish what they start? Do they know how to concentrate?

Business men tell us that the one great trouble with the young folks they employ is their lack of the habit of concentration; they cannot get results because they have not learned to focus their attention.

Teachers find the same difficulty all through the grades. Of course, they do their best to combat and correct the fault, but this is not easy because the trouble started in the home during babyhood.

Take a baby a year old, for example. Mother puts him on the floor and empties a whole box of playthings before him. What happens? Why, the child is flustrated with the heap. He grabs a fuzzy dog and turns it about in his hands once or twice and throws it down. He picks up a bell, gives it a few rings, and away it goes. Perhaps he stacks up two or three blocks and gives them a kick. Soon his resources are exhausted, and mother wonders why he can't content himself with his playthings.

Well, the fact is, he is in the position of an adult who has been attending too many entertainments in succession; the program has proved too hectic for his nervous system. It is a case of too much happening at once and, as a result, nothing is enjoyed fully.

Give the baby one thing at a time to play with and make that thing interesting. If he has a dog, let him have a little blanket to wrap it in or a ring to slip on and off the dog's neck for a collar. There should be some association between the toys.

If he is playing with blocks, let him build a garage or the schoolhouse where brother goes to school or Daddy's office or even the cupboard where mother keeps the cookies.

In any case, if the central theme of playtime is to be "dog," insist that the child stick to the theme, or if "blocks," then keep his mind on that subject.

When Mary starts to color a picture in her drawing book, see that she finishes it before beginning another. If Bobbie decides to make a Noah's Ark menagerie with his modeling clay, encourage him to finish it before he makes furniture for sister's doll house.

Yet, while doing this, we need not force monotony into playtime. By merely keeping an eye open mothers may guide the children in such a way that without friction they will form habits of conceptration even in their playing. "Finish what you begin" is a slogan every child should learn and follow, for it is the haphazard young folks who were the scatter-brain children. Yet, they are not the ones at fault, but rather those who had their training in charge.

Watch a group of children outside. There is always the child who plays about five minutes and then spoils everything by saying, "Oh, let's not play this any more." Then, if the game is changed, in possibly another five minutes you will hear the same suggestion. This is the child who in babyhood had all his playthings emptied in a heap before him every morning and was not taught to enjoy any one of them distinctively.

Many mothers, who are conscientious in other phases of discipline, fail deplorably when it come to keeping children interested in "one thing at a time." It takes a great deal of patience to achieve success, but surely the reward comes in knowing that your child goes out into life equipped with that most excellent qualification, the power to concentrate.

Stories That Recall Others

Worn by Dairymen

Doris, two years old, likes to look over the illustrations in the catalogue that came into the home. The other day, daddy, pointing out some play suits for children told her about the "cowboy" suit. A few days later, on another trip through the book, he again pointed out the illustration, asking Doris what it was.

"A milk cow suit," was her reply.

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth . . ."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and

OBITUARY.

Miss Ellen Connor.

Miss Ellen Connor of South Windham died Monday morning at 11.45 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. James O'Connell of 44 Williams street, where she had been taken, following an attack of pneumonia. Miss Connor had been spending the winter at the home of Cyrus Woodman of Huntington place and was taken ill Friday night. Saturday she was removed to the home of her sister but her condition rapidly became worse until the end.

Born in South Windham about 52 years ago, the daughter of John and Ellen Casey Connor, she attended the schools in that village and spent nearly her whole life there. In the winter time she had been accustomed to come to Norwich to visit with relatives, returning home in the spring.

She was a woman of pleasing disposition and readily made friends. News of her death was received with sorrow by friends here and in South Windham where she was even better known.

Surviving her besides her sister, Mrs. James O'Connell is one brother, John Connor, formerly of Willimantic.

FUNERALS

Eleanor Izbicki

Funeral services for Eleanor Izbicki, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Izbicki of 467 North Main street, who died Sunday night of injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding overturned just beyond the city line on Fox hill, were held Tuesday morning at 8.15 o'clock from her late home.

The service at the house was followed by requiem mass at St. Joseph's church, many relatives and friends attending. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, friends acting as bearers.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

Surviving the child besides her parents are two brothers, also of this city.

Mrs. William Oddy

Funeral services for Mrs. William Oddy were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the parlors of Church & Allen, 15 Main street, relatives and friends attending. The numerous floral pieces were evidence of the esteem in which she was held by many friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. Richard R. Graham, rector of Christ Episcopal church who also read the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery. The bearers were Alexander Sharpe, William R. Clarke, James Jackson and Arthur F. Wyman.

Miss Alice E. Caryl

With a number of relatives and friends present the funeral of Miss Alice E. Caryl was held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from Christ Episcopal church, Rev. Richard R. Graham, rector of the church officiating. There was a large number of beautiful floral tributes.

Burial was in Yantic cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Graham. The bearers were John A. Caryl, Frederick Sears, Dwight C. Peck and James M. Sanford.

Arrangements were by Henry Allen & Son Company.

Miss Emma Greene Hilton

Funeral services for Miss Emma Greene Hilton were held Tuesday afternoon at two oclock at the undertaking rooms of Shea and Burke, Main street. The services were conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Abbott. Friends acted as bearers.

Mrs. Edwin R. Scott

Funeral services for Mrs. Edwin R. Scott were held Tuesday at 13 o'clock, at her home 15 Town street.

Included in the large attendance were relatives and friends from Preston, New Britain, Riverton, Ellington, Saybrook and Jewett City.

Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, conducted the services and spoke comforting words to the bereaved family, also read George Klingle's lines entitled, "Recompense." There were beautiful floral pieces. The bearers at the house were her son-in-law, Arthur Park, of Preston; a nephew, George Loomis, of New Britain and Frederic H. Wyant and Dr. Charles H. Lamb, of Norwich Town. Burial was in the family plot in Plainville, cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. H. J. Wyckoff, pastor of the Plainville Congregational church. The bearers at the cemetery were nephews: Edward Fairchild of Roverton; George Loomis, of New Britain; Edward Fairchild of Ellington and Harry Fairchild of Riverton. A large assemblage of friends of the family attended the service.

Avery and Van Zandt, of Willimantic, were in charge of funeral arrangements.

GRACE CHURCH AUXILIARY SEWED FOR MISSIONS

The Women's Auxiliary of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, met Tuesday evening in the parish house with an attendance of 13, Mrs. George Fraser, vice president, presiding. Following business, those present sewed on garments for mission work. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the committee, Mrs. Charles Bentley and Mrs. Margaret Hardenbrook. The auxiliary was entertained last week at the home of Mrs. Charles Kimball of Washington street and at the close of work Mrs. Kimball served refreshments. There were 12 present. The meeting next week is to be held in the parish house, Tuesday evening.

WEDDING

Johnson—Kumpf

Arthur Johnson of 35 Franklin street and Hortense Nichols Kumpf of the same address were married in this city March 17 by Rev. C. H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. The groom is a native of Sweden and is employed as a truck driver. The bride was born in this city, the daughter of William Nichols and Sally Osborn and this is her second marriage.

PRIZES PRESENTED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ARCANUM CLUB

DR. FRANKLIN S. WILCOX,
Re-elected President.

Over 160 members of the Arcanum club enjoyed the annual banquet served Tuesday night in the dining hall of the club. The hall had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, sprays and cut flowers being used for wall ornaments, while beautiful baskets of flowers decorated the center of each of the twelve tables. A special attraction was the fancy basket filled with a varied assortment of flowers gracing the tables of the officers and directors of the club.

Promptly at 6.30 o'clock the members were called to the dining hall where they enjoyed the following delightful menu, served by Mrs. Berry and her assistants:

Oyster Cocktail
Mashed Potatoes — Creamed Onions
Celery — Olives — Pickles
Rolls — Coffee
Apple Pie — Ice Cream
Cigars

During the banquet a pleasing musical programme was rendered by Swahn's orchestra and these numbers were greatly appreciated by the audience.

At the close of the banquet, the president, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox, announced that the annual meeting of the club would be held at 8 o'clock and at the appointed time the meeting was opened and Frank I. Royce, secretary, read the report of the last annual meeting, which was accepted.

On committee reports there was considerable of interest to members. Dr. Clarence A. Spear, for the house committee, outlined the work done during the past year in keeping the property in repair and recommended a number of repairs to be made during the coming months.

The report of the billiard and pool committee was made by Earl Mathewson and told of tournaments held during the year, the club championship being won by Lester Y. Hull, who received a suitable prize for his ability.

Arad R. Manning, reporting for the bowling committee, said that there had been considerable activity in this department during the year. Seven teams of three members each had played and prizes for best scoring and the winning team were awarded and presented at the annual meeting. The winning team comprised Harold P. Hull, Percival Chapman and George Phillips; high average went to Harold P. Hull with 106.9; high three to Elmer Hill with 343, and high single to Percival Harwood with 143.

The card committee, through its chairman, Harold P. Hull, reported four tournaments during the year, Albert E. Sturtevant winning two and Mr. Hull two.

For the literature committee Tyler B. Guy reported the magazines, papers and other periodicals had been used regularly by members.

Mr. Guy also reported for the entertainment committee speaking in particular of the club suppers held during the year and of the Saturday night lunches which had proven popular among the members. The trip of the Willimantic chamber of commerce members to this city on February 27th, when they were guests of the Norwich club, was also reviewed. In closing, Mr. Guy moved a vote of thanks to Frederick Blanchard, steward of the club, through whose kindness they were indebted for the beautiful flowers decorating the tables and walls. The vote was unanimously given.

Other important club business was transacted, among it a resolution empowering President Wilcox to make the necessary arrangements to have the club house painted and repaired both on the exterior and interior.

The annual report of Secretary Royce showed the membership for the beginning of the new year to be 218 active members and 19 non-resident members. The report of membership showed 18 lost through resignation, three transferred to the honorary list, two transferred to non-resident list, eight lost through death, nine new members, one reinstated and three put in the non-resident class, a total of 287 members in all.

The election of officers was then taken up and resulted as follows: President, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox, re-elected; vice president, Dr. Clarence A. Spear, reelected; secretary, Frank I Royce, reelected; treasurer, Frank B. Lathrop, reelected; auditor, Charles D. Greenman, reelected; director for two years, Edmund S. Smith; directors for 3 years, Arthur C. Brown, John Crowe and Charles E. Taylor. The complete board of directors for 1924 comprises Allen Latham, Earl Mathewson, Tyler D. Guy, Joseph N. Weymouth, Harold P. Hull, Edmund S. Smith, Arthur C. Brown and John Crowe.

Prior to the close of the meeting Mr. Guy, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that Mr. Blanchard, the popular steward of the club, who had donated the flowers used for decorating, had prepared a special basket for the directors' table. This basket was to become the property of President Wilcox at the close of the meeting, and it gave him pleasure to make the presentation.

In response President Wilcox thanked the donor of the beautiful gift and the members of the club, requesting cooperation during the coming year to make it the most successful in the history of the club.

The arrangements for the annual banquet were in the hands of the entertainment committee of the club and as usual nothing was left undone to make the banquet the success it proved to be. This committee composes Tyler D. Guy, Allen Latham and Edmund S. Smith.

LIFE SAVING EXPERT WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATIONS

Captain Carroll Bryant of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps, Washington, D. C., is scheduled for a program at the Y. M. C. A. [illegible] (Wednesday) and through the cooperation of Norwich Boy [illegible] the Y. M. C. A. will conduct a program that interest a large number of young men and boys of the city.

Captain Bryant will give a demonstration of swimming and life saving in the Y pool at 4.30 and will be assisted by the Y swimming team and boy scouts. This demonstration will be free for young men and boys of the city.

Following the demonstration, an opportunity will be given local swimmers to pass the Red Cross Life saving tests under the direction of Captain Bryant, and all those who feel qualified to take the tests will be welcome to enter.

At 8 p. m. a special session will be devoted to coaching and instructing swimmers in the art of life saving work in the water. The entire program of the day will be open to all young men and boys of the city, and it is to be expected that there will be a large attendance.

There will be no charge for any part of the program, this work being promoted by the American Red Cross, which is endeavoring to make this valuable work available to everyone.

STONE EMBANKMENT FOR SAFETY ON LAUREL HILL

Sure protection against the chance of skidding automobiles coming down Laurel hill avenue towards the bridge and taking a plunge into the Shetucket river is to be afforded by a stone embankment that is to be built along the Talman street sidewalk for about 20 feet at the point where cars out of control might make the jump into the river.

Street Commissioner A. E. Cruthers has employes of the street department at work there putting in a stone embankment which will be four feet high and two feet thick, laid in cement, so that it will be solid enough to stand any shock that may come against it.

Attention to this point as one of danger, especially since the concrete road was put in on Laurel Hill avenue, was directed at the last common council meeting where it was urged that something ought to be done before any serious accident happened there. The public works committee and the street commissioner took the matter up and decided that the embankment would be the best solution of the problem.

NO. STONINGTON GIRL SCOUTS GIVE AFTERNOON TEA

Mountain Laurel troop of Girl Scouts of North Stonington gave a public tea at Wheeler school dormitory Tuesday from 3 to 5. The Girl Scouts in North Stonington were recently reorganized, with Mrs. Thomas B. Hewitt, Miss Lila Thompson and Mrs. George Tryon officiating as troop committee. Mrs. Flood Reed is the captain and Miss Sarah Thompson the lieutenant of Mountain Laurel troop.

Storrs Co-eds Close Season

In a final game with Y. W. C. A. at Hartford Saturday Storrs closed basketball team closed its season with a 25-19 victory. The girls played eight games, winning six, being defeated twice by Rhode Island. Captain Florence Teeter, side center, and Mrs. Charlotte Wood, forward were the star members of the co-ed sextette.

ROUND TABLE REGRETS DEATH OF JOHN M'WILLIAMS

Members of the Norwich Round Table were hospitably entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Vaughn of Bliss place. There were 35 present. The president, Edwin A. Tracy, presided. Review of Business Conditions of the Last Decade was the paper of the evening by John E. Fanning. The roll call was a quotation from a successful business man.

William H. Collins and Ray. Allen Shaw Bush of Gales Ferry were a special committee appointed to frame resolutions on the death of John McWilliams, for many years an active member. Mr. Williams was chairman of the programme committee of the Round Table for this year and it was recalled how delightfully the members were entertained by him at his home, Feb. 26th. At this time a special program of music was arranged by Mr. McWilliams, he having sent out of town for those who provided the entertainment.

A feature of the program Tuesday evening was the violin selections by Stanley Vaughn, who beautifully interpreted Nordische Sage, by Bohm, and a part of a concerto by Rode, his mother, Mrs. Vaughn, accompanying at the piano. During intermission the hostess, assisted by her guest, Mrs. John B. Stanton, served light refreshments.

WOMEN SHOULD EXERCISE THEIR SUFFRAGE RIGHTS

Judge Francis A. Palotti of Hartford was the speaker Tuesday evening before the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women at a meeting in the Carroll building where he was introduced to the gathering by Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, the council president.

Judge Palotti interested his hearers with his instructive comment upon the part he considered women could play as voting citizens without necessarily neglecting home and family ties and duties. He gave the impression that not having been an advocate of woman suffrage, he believed the women ought to exercise their suffrage privileges, now that these were thrust upon them. Judge Palotti also discussed the Johnson immigration bill, which he thought put too narrow limits upon a class of immigrants that this country needs.

The meeting next Tuesday will be addressed by Rev. W. A. Keefe of this city.

DIAMOND BROTHERS' APPEAL WILL STAY EXECUTION

Appeals filed in New York in behalf of Morris and Joseph Diamond, convicted of the slaying of two West End bank messengers, will stay their execution, which was set for the week of April 7. The appeals were filed by their counsel, David Malbin, in the county clerk's office in Brooklyn, N. Y.

This action, it is said, will keep the convicts safe from the electric chair until fall at least, and a year may elapse before determination of the appeal.

The transfer of the trials from the county to the supreme court is one ground for the appeal. Malbin contends that this change should not have been permitted without the consent of the defendants.

One of the Diamond brothers served a sentence in Brooklyn, Conn., jail, for threatening to shoot a Woodstock farmer, whose orchard he was looting.

DR. SPEER SPEAKS ON PRINCIPLE OF PRAYER

With B. P. Bishop leading the service, the third in the series of five Y. M. C. A. Lenten services was held Tuesday evening at the United Congregational church. There was a large congregation, representative of the various churches of Norwich. Following the opening hymn, Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, read the scripture selection, taken from St. Luke, 18th chapter. The prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Graham.

After the singing of the hymn, He Leadeth Me, by the congregation, Mr. Bishop expressed regret at the absence of General Secretary Edwin Hill who is unable to attend the meetings owing to illness. We are indebted, he said, to Mr. Hill for the presence of Dr. Speer here tonight. It is seldom that we have one with us of such large experience to speak at meetings like this. Mr. Bishop announced that Dr. Speer is to speak in Taftville, early this (Wednesday) evening and that he will speak at the United church this evening at the usual hour, 7.45 o'clock. His topic for the United church service tonight will be Why Paul Believed and What He Believed about Christ.

Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York, the preacher, chose for his topic Tuesday evening, The Christian Principle of Prayer. In part he said, The world we have been living in for the past generation has made prayer a more difficult thing than in the past. The world is far greater to us than ever before. But it seems to be a more changeable, kindly and spiritual world than the world of half a century ago.

When we try honestly and earnestly to face the problem of prayer there are two things that give us confidence and reassure us. The first thing is that prayer is a universal instinct. With the great religions of the world that have tried to abolish prayer, instinct has taken its revenge. It requires only the least touch of experience or understanding to awaken the instinct of prayer. The instinct of prayer is more universal than faith in a personal god.

The second thing that gives us reassurance is the example of the most trustworthy spiritual experience we know, the life of Jesus Christ. If there was ever anyone who knew what there is in prayer it was Jesus. Jesus was ever encouraging and teaching His friends and followers to pray. He encouragd His disciples to believe in prayer. They watched Him and again and again they saw Christ feel His way through prayer.

They saw Him in the great crises of His life. Shining out before them always was His own luminous life of prayer. They watched Him in His solitudes. He feared only that the end might come before His work was completed. There is nothing more wonderful than the reality of our Lord's life of prayer.

Is isn't prayer that interferes with the order of the universe, it is prayerlessness. The living spirit is greater than all things made. Ruskin says, "We treat God with irreverence by banishing Him from our thoughts." We can test, find out if we want, the reality of prayer. Have we any doubt of the power of prayer to calm the storms of life? The test of prayer each one of us can make.

Have we ever made prayer sufficiently natural and simple? How did Christ begin His prayers? His prayers, invariably, began simply, Father, My Father or Holy Father. Prayer would be far more natural for us if we began our prayers, Our Father as He told us to do. If prayer is to be a reality men must be willing to receive what they ask for. A great many are not. We must be ready to give what we receive.

SMOKER BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR COMBAT TRAIN RECRUITS

The recruiting campaign of the Combat Train in this city was opened Tuesday evening with a smoker and entertainment at the State Armory on McKinley avenue, the Combat Train being represented at the meeting nearly 100 per cent strong.

There were speeches by Mayor Mitchell B. Waters, Captain H. F. Burdick and officers from the U. S. Submarine Base. Mayor Waters, a top-sergeant in '98, opened the programme after which other speakers were made along lines of recruiting.

In the recruiting talk points of interest were brought out by the various speakers, including Combat Trains and their work, instrument men including surveyors, radio work in the field and advances made along these lines; telephone systems and scouting. Work of the operators of motorcycles, trucks and other machinery was explained showing the fine field open for the service man willing to forge ahead. Pay for drill was also explained and an outline of Combat Train activities was touched upon. Announcement was made that the Combat Train was to go to Eustis, Va., for camp, this year and that the trip would include a stop at Washington. Programs of athletic games, including swimming at Yorktown, baseball, basketball, volley ball, etc., were outlined showing the advantages offered by the Train. Week end trips to the shore were pictured and other interesting offerings of the Combat Train were talked about.

Following the meeting several rounds of boxing were enjoyed with Irish Landes, referee. Regimental officers present at the meeting included Major Lord, Captains Burdick, Knight, Reed, Schoen and Lieutenants House, Day, Rich, Greene and Hill.

MONTVILLE MAN SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

Anthony Cauley, 84, a paper mill worker of Montville, was brought from there Tuesday evening by State Policeman Streaman of the Danielson barracks and was detained at police headquarters here until he had been examined by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy, who decided that the man ought to be taken to the Norwich state hospital. The Norwich police patrol took the man to Brewster's Neck.

Word that a crazy man was acting queerly at a house in Montville was telephoned to Capt. D. J. Twomey who dispatched Officer P. Murphy in the auto patrol wagon with state policeman Streaman who happened to be at police headquarters. They found the man standing in front of the priest's house in Montville, possessed with the idea that he was going to die and that the devil was after him.

At police headquarters Cauley admitted he had been drinking "hard stuff" lately, but Dr. Cassidy said there were signs of mental deterioration besides the effects of the liquor.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD BY MERCIER ASSEMBLY

The regular meeting of Mercier Assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, which was held Tuesday evening in their rooms in the T. A. B. building with the president, Miss Mary H. Maloney conducting the business session, was followed by an enjoyable programme for the monthly social of the society.

The social programme was in charge of Miss Rose Dennis and the refreshments, were furnished by the members whose names begin with D, E and F. The numbers were announced by Miss Irene Day. The programme opened with two well rendered duets by Miss Loretta Lasch and Miss Mary Corcoran, mandolin and piano, who gave "I Love You" and "Mother My Pal." A charming solo, Somewhere in the World, by Miss Rosanna Peloquin, was followed by a piano solo, La Regatta Venetigna, which was splendidly rendered by Miss Mary Weller.

A pleasant feature of the evening was a surprise visit from the chaplain, Rev. W. A. Keefe, who gave the members a greatly appreciated talk in which he congratulated the members upon the work they had done for the community and upon the growth of the organization and urged them to continue this very creditable work.

MRS. WASHBURN TAKES HIGH IN LADIES' PINOCHLE

In the play of the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club Tuesday night at the office of Dr. Marie Boynton on Main street, Mrs. Washburn took high score with 7,685, closely followed by Mrs. Kromer with 7,640. Scores for the evening were all of average size as follows:

Mrs. Washburn, 7685; Mrs. Kromer 7640; Miss Crumb 7535; Mrs. Higgins 7470; Dr. Boynton 7405; Mrs. Standish 7360; Mrs. Risley 7300; Mrs. Stevens 7195; Mrs. A. Maples 7060; Miss McNaught 6895; Mrs. L. Maples 6775; Mrs. Crowell 6110.

The standings to date follow: Mrs. Kromer 37,465; Mrs. Stevens 36,630; Dr. Boynton, 36,355; Mrs. Risley 35,295; Mrs. Standish 35,075; Mrs. L. Maples 34,830; Mrs. Washburn 34,165; Mrs. Higgins 33,690; Miss Crumb 32,570; Mrs. Crowell 32,550; Miss McNaught 32,180; Miss A. Maples 29,055.

GYM LEADERS CLUB WILL HAVE GUESTS

The Y. M. C. A. gym leaders club will have their monthly supper at the Y this (Wednesday) evening at 6.30, and will have as their guests, Willard E. Ball of New York City, who is a national figure in the promotion of athletics and sports, and Captain Carroll Bryant of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps, Washington, D. C. The leaders are becoming live Yers, and the club is developing rapidly this season.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE FAILS TO FIND EVIDENCE IN TICKET SCANDAL

New York, March 25.—Charges that wholesale ticket speculation existed in connection with important boxing matches have not been substantiated by an investigation by the state athletic commission.

This was revealed today when special investigators assigned to probe the sale of tickets for the Lynch-Goldstein bantamweight championship match last Friday, reported that they were able to obtain pasteboards in only two places outside of Madison Square Garden. In both instances the price asked was only fifty cents in excess of the box office scale, the limit prescribed by law.

As a future safeguard to the public the commission announced it would conduct similar investigations in connection with important ring engagements.

Investigation into alleged ticket speculation in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight championship match last fall has been completed and results of it will be announced at next week's meeting after Colonel J. J. Phelon, a member of the license commission, who returned from Europe on Monday, has studied the report.

A new ruling passed by the commission today compels all principals in important bouts to be within the state ten days prior to their match to complete training. This will be enforced in such contests as the commission designates to allow deputies and promoters to keep informed as to the weight and condition of the men.

Edward Roberts, Panama boxing promoter, appeared before the commission to file a formal complaint against James J. Johnston, manager of Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion. Roberts charged that Johnston failed to fulfill provisions of a contract to have Dundee box Jose Lombardo, Panama featherweight, at Panama City on February 22. Both Johnston and Dundee will be requested to answer these charges next week. At the time the match was called off by Johnston, the commission examined Dundee at the request of Panama boxing authorities, and pronounced him unfit for the match.

Jack Sherry, New York wrestler, was suspended indefinitely by the commission until he either proves or withdraws charges he made against Jack Curley, wrestling promoter, that Curley had "fixed" wrestling matches.

MISS COLLETT A WINNER IN FIRST DAY'S PLAY

Pinehurst, N. C., March 25. — The first day's match play in the twenty-second annual north and south woman's golf tournament ended this afternoon with Miss Glenna Collett, the titleholder, prominent among the successful entries. The play started this morning with ten divisions of eight and a championship flight of 16.

Miss Collett was matched with Mrs. Charles Daniels of Buffalo, N. Y., the champion went out in 38, three over par. She was three up on the turn and kept her lead to the finish. The match ended with Miss Collett making a four on the 14th hole. The score was five up and four to play.

Miss Collett's form was regarded as exceptionally good and she still is at odds-on favorite in defense of her title, although her most dangerous contenders yet remain to be met. Among them are Miss Dorothy Richards, of Pinehurst; Mrs. Ronald Barlow, the Philadelphia women's champion, and Miss Louise Fordyce, the Youngstown, Ohio, champion.

Mrs. Barlow and Miss Fordyce both won easily in their matches. Mrs. Barlow and Miss Fordyce both won easily in their matches. Mrs. Barlow won from Miss Margaret King, Toronto, 5 and 4, while Miss Fordyce defeated Mrs. C. M. Butterfield, Pinehurst, with equal ease.

A feature of the day was the playing of Marian Bennett, the 15-year-old golfer from New Britain, Conn. She defeated Mrs. J. W. Taylor of Evanston, Ill., one up.

The semi-finals in the lower division will be played tomorrow, but as there are 16 players in the championship flight the finals in this division will not be played until Friday.

PRINCETON BASEBALL SQUAD HARD AT WORK

Princeton, N. J. Mar. 25.—With the first game of the season just one week away, the Princeton baseball squad was given a brisk outdoor practice session today by Coach Clark.

Because of the loss of several veterans from last year's nine, a number of positions are vacant. The main losses are Berg, a shortstop and Carey, a pitcher. This years' pitching staff is being built around Charley Caldwell, hero of last year's game with Holy Cross. Charley Townsend, a veteran of two years, is also available.

The Tigers will cross bats with Bowdoin next Wednesday.

DELANEY AND CLARKE PENALIZED FOR STALLING

Trenton, N. J., Mar. 25.—Both Jack Delaney, and Jakie Clark have been penalized by Commissioner Newton A. K. Bugbee of the state athletic commission for alleged stalling in their bout in the Newark armory, March 17 last, which was stopped in the ninth round by Chief Inspector Platt Adams. From reports of the show presented to him, Mr. Bugbee concluded that Clark was the real offender. Had the exhibition gone the limit of the twelve rounds Delaney would have received $1,500 and Clark $650, but Commissioner Bugbee lopped off one third from Delaney and two-thirds from Clark which amounts will be donated to charity.

Beginning next Tuesday, Commissioner Bugbee also announced that Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., the welterweight champion, will be eligible to again box in New Jersey. On April 1, the six months suspension imposed on Walker for alleged stalling in a bout will expire.

From information which Mr. Bugbee has received from Inspector Adams, the commissioner says that Tex Rickard, is contemplating staging three big fights in New Jersey during the year.

This decision is due it is believed to the passage at the last session of the legislature of a law permitting a maximum admission fee of $25. It could not be learned who will be the participants but it is expected that Jack Dempsey, Firpo, Gibbons, Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker, together with other promising top notchers in their various classes will be included in the agreements.

BULKELEY BASEBALL TEAM HOLDS ITS FIRST PRACTICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 25—Bulkeley high school squad under the direction of Coach Robert Aldrich, held its first practice of the season at Morgan Park this afternoon. About 30 candidates went through a light work out, which consisted of batting and fielding.

Of the number of 30 that reported to Coach Aldrich, seven are letter men, George Sheflott c, Tillison Daniels and Joseph Parisi, p, Joe Barry 2b, Joe Gaetano ss, Captain Walter Rice lf and Edward Mansfield rf. Harold Hutchison, regular third baseman last year has yet to report.

Bulkeley's first scheduled game is with Morgan high of Clinton at New London on April 16. This gives Coach Aldrich almost a month to get the team into condition. The Bulkeley team should have an easy time with some of the high school teams in this section of the state. For almost the entire State Championship team of last season has reported to the Bulkeley mentor.

Of the pitchers that have reported, Tillison Daniels and Joseph Parisi are at the head of the list, although a youngster by the name of Gene Montall seems to have some stuff on the ball that may mean that he will be retained on the squad when the first cut is made. George Sheflott and a sophomore by the name of Collins are the only two out for the backstop berth. Sheflott is one of the hardest hitters on the squad. Coach Aldrich intends to hold regular workouts until the first game, that is if the weather conditions are favorable for baseball.

MORE ENTRIES FOR OLYMPICS ARE FILED

New York, Mar. 25.—Entries of the United States in three additional branches of Olympic competition were forwarded today by the American Olympic committee. They are for men's and women's tennis, soccer and rugby football.

No individual tennis entries have been filed but the United States lawn tennis association, which is mobilizing the best available talent for international competition, has arranged for the maximum number of participants in all five events on the Olympic program. The men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. This permits four entries in the singles and two teams in each of the doubles events.

Difficulty is being encountered by the U. S. L. T. A. is gathering a strong men's team, but the women's entries are expected to be selected from Helen Wills, national champion; Miss Eleanor Goss, Mrs. George W. Wightman, Miss Lillian Scharman and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup.

The Olympic tennis play is scheduled from July 13 to 20. Rugby, the next feature on the international program, is booked for May 3 to 19 and soccer from May 15 to June 9.

BULGER'S BODY REMOVED TO HOME AT HOLLIS, L. I.

Newark, N. J., March 25.—The body of Jack Bulger, late manager of Mickey Walker, welterweight boxing champion, today was removed to the home of his parents in Hollis, L. I., for burial Friday morning. Bulger died shortly after five o'clock this morning from peritonitis which set in following an operation for appendicitis.

Walker was at the bedside of his manager when the end came. Hearing of Bulger's conditions last night, the champion cancelled a scheduled fight in Philadelphia and offered his blood for his manager's life. Physicians, after tests, selected the manager's brother, William Bulger, for the blood transfusion.

W. M. I. REGULARS TRIM GRADS IN CLOSE GAME

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 25—The Williams Memorial Institute basketball team triumphed over the Graduates of this institution that are now at Connecticut College, this evening on the Second Congregational church's court by a 24 to 21 score.

It was a good game from the very start and the teams were evenly matched which increased the rivalry of the teams. Although the undergraduate team was minus two of their star performers, Miss Constance Purdy and Miss Arlene Peck, they were returned victorious because they combined team work and good shooting for the basket. The Connecticut College girls as a team were not as fast as the high school misses, though Miss K. Hamblet and Miss H. Ferguson showed bursts of speed that threatened to undermine the undergrads' defense. But the W. M. I. team weathered the storm pretty well and went ahead and kept the grads well under their thumb.

The first half was the best played and at the end of this period of playing time the score read all. The play of the second half increased in fury and it was nip and tuck all the way until the final few minutes of play when Miss N. Linsky for the under grads found the basket for three goals for the victory.

Instead of using six girls to a team, both teams agreed to enter but five each in the contest, the rest would be a much faster game was played.

Miss N. Linsky and Miss C. Pendleton for the winners played a consistent game.

For the Connecticut College girls, Miss H. Ferguson and Miss K. Hamblet in the forward line were always on the alert to intercept passes and turn them into scores. Miss L. Gallup at guard played a strong game.

The summary and lineup:

HEADQUARTERS FIVE TURN BACK SHIP WORKERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 25—Edwards' basket shooting was too much for the New London Ship and Engine and the Headquarters battery won in a fast and exciting game at the state armory tonight in a scheduled contest of the Military league. The final count was 42 to 32.

It was a game for blood and both teams roughed it up. The inability of the Ship and Engine guards to keep Edwards under cover really defeated that team. For all told Edwards accounted for 23 points. He was a slippery man on the floor and the guard that was set to watch him had a dog's life. Boyle, running mate to Edwards was also a good performer all evening.

For the New London Ship and Engine, Risch by dropping in several long distance baskets kept the team from across the river ever on the heels of the Headquarters team. Craig played a good game at forward.

GIBBONS IS MATCHED TO FIGHT CARPENTIER 10 ROUNDS ON JULY 4TH

Chicago, March 25.—(By The A. P.)—Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, and George Carpentier, ring idol of France, tonight were matched to meet in a ten round no-decision contest either at Michigan City, Ind., or Benton Harbor, Mich., on July 4.

Carpentier was guaranteed $70,000 with a privilege of 25 per cent. of the receipts, while Gibbons, waiving all claims of a guarantee, accepted a flat 30 per cent. Jack Curley, representing the French light heavyweight, received a certified check for $15,000 guaranteeing the match.

The match will be promoted by Floyd Fitzsimmons, who owns arenas at Michigan City and Benton Harbor.

Fitzsimmons reserves the right to wait until May 10 to name the scene of the contest, but it is probable that he will select Michigan City which is less than 50 miles from Chicago and very accessible.

In the event of the contest cannot be decided at either city, Fitzsimmons has arranged to transfer it to one of several local cities in the middle west, among these being St. Paul.

The Michigan City arena is a natural amphitheatre, dug out of the sand with a concrete flooring. It has a seating capacity of about 27,000, and Fitzsimmons plans on increasing this to 35,000 or 40,000 if necessary. With the price of seats ranging from $5 to $25, Fitzsimmons figures the gate receipts will run between $300,000 and $350,000.

Carpentier has arranged to reach this country on June 1, ready to start training in the city where the contest will be staged. Gibbons, through his manager, Eddie Kane, agreed to accept no more contests after filling two engagements against minor opponents. The St. Paul heavyweight will receive $5,000 for expenses, the same amount given Carpentier.

GIANTS WILL HAVE STRONGER PITCHING STAFF

By Stoney McLinn

Sarasota, Fla., March 25—Ever since the world's championship of 1923 was contested for and lost by the New York Giants, there has been much gnashing of molars over the ragged condition of the pitching staff directed by John Joseph McGraw. (Said gnashing was done principally by persons not so vitally interested in the success of the Giants as in J. J. McGraw, who spent much of the off season in Europe, gnashing little, if at all.)

Nevertheless, the visitor to the Florida spring training camp of the National League champions who expects to find unusual activity among the apple tossers is not disappointed. There were no less than 30 throwers in Sarasota—some of them are pitchers; others may prove to be pitchers.

It may be well at this time to explain that a pitcher is an athlete who combines brain and brawn to foil enemy batsmen. A thrower is one who employes brawn alone.

How many of McGraw's apple tossers will be pitchers once N. L. pennant chase is well underway nobody knows. If any human did know, he might predict with some assurance in which position the Giants would be located at the finish of the 1924 campaign.

With the abundance of superbrains (baseballically speaking) in the Giants' teaching corps, it is reasonable to suppose that five or eight pitchers will be developed. Indeed, this writer inclines to the opinion that there is needless alarm in New York among Polo Grounds habitues and premature joy in other National League municipalities over the McGraw chucking department.

First off, have a peek at the veterans. There are seven who were with the Giants during the last campaign —Hughey McQuillan, Virgil Barnes, Claude Jonnard, Rosey Ryan and Jack Watson, right-handers, and Artie Nehf and Jack Bentley, southpaws. Joe Oeschger, last year with the Braves, returns to New York.

Only two of the eight pitchers mentioned toiled in ten or more complete games in 1923. These were McQuillan and Bentley. It is safe to say this pair will be members of Mr. McGraw's regular corps in 1924.

However, we believe that McGraw looks to his recruits to deliver approximately half of the games necessary to win the pennant. If the newcomers in Giant livery do not produce, the fourth straight pennant will not be won.

First among the recruits this writer would place Dennis Gearin, a sawed-off left-hander. He was a member of the New York corps the latter part of the 1923 campaign, but did not labor much in games.

In the American Association last season, pitching for Milwaukee, Gearin won twelve games and lost five. He allowed 3.76 earned runs per game. Denny has a world of stuff and, best of all, a stout heart and heaps of confidence.

Next to Gearin we would place Wayland Dean, the lad who is supposed to have cost the Giants $50,000. Laboring for Louisville, he took part in thirty-six games, winning twenty-one and losing eight. He was second in effectiveness, permitting opponents an average of 3.27 earned runs per game. Dean is a right-hander.

Two throwers who may become big league pitchers this year are Howard Baldwin, who won twenty-one and lost fifteen as an apple tosser for the terrible Newark club of the International, and Ernie Maun, who led the the chuckers in the Western League, winning 26 and losing 11 for Wichita.

Earl Webb, who was recalled from Pittsfield; Stoner, brought back from Knoxville, of the Applachian League; Malone, who was a hard worker with Toledo, of the A. A., another terrible team, and Walter Huntzinger, former University of Pennsylvania star, who sat on the Giants' bench for a part of past season, are others who may develop.

Davy Bancroft may be missed more than the average person foresees. Danny is a cunning shortstop, a quick thinker, a rare fielder and a lead-off man on the attack who has few equals, or, at least, Dave measured up to the specifications given when he was with the New Yorks.

Travis Jackson is a flashy player. But he is by no means the finished performer that Danny was. The kid shortstop lacks the experience. And Frank Frisch, the second baseman who will play alongside Jackson, is shy the service stripes to carry Jackson and the remainder of the team—Fordham Frankie is the captain this year.

Double plays are important factors in modern baseball. The Giants executed 141 plays last season. Frisch and Bancroft worked together in double killings in a way that was pretty to look upon. Will Frisch and Jackson handle plays around the keystone sack in the same brilliant and effective manner?

If the answer is "no," and it may be, then the Giants will find the going rough on the defense, no matter how much the pitching staff is improved.

Long George Kelly on first and Heine Groh on third will be the same reliable workmen, if their pastiming at Sarasota is a criterion. Bill Terry, a former outfielder converted into a first-sacker in Toledo upon orders from McGraw, is a capable understudy for Kelly. He batted .377 in the American Association last season.

Heine Groh, now owning a pair of legs that get him around in first-class fashion, insists he will be good for an an entire season of hard labor, barring the unforseen. Lindstrom, a lad who did some fine infielding and fair batting for Toledo last year, and Maguire, former collegian, who did bench duty for the Giants last summer, probably will be substituting for Groh, Jackson and Frisch.

Ross Young and Irish Meusel are fixtures in the Giants' outfield. Who will be the third gardener, and fill the place vacated by the firm of Stengel and Cunningham, shipped to Boston, is problematical.

Jimmy O'Connell, who cost J. J. McGraw a pretty penny when he was purchased from San Francisco back in 1922, and who was somewhat of a fliv last season—his first in the big show—has plenty of pep this spring and the way he is hammering the ball places him high on the list of the centerfield candidates at this writing —maybe first.

Southworth, obtained from Boston, who batted .319 last season, is a performer of class and experience. He is a grand fly-chaser as well as a dangerous hitter. He was a star with the Braves; he should be a superstar with New York.

There are five catchers in the Sarasota camp. Snyder, Gowdy and Gastou, who were with the club last year, are expected to stick. Eddie Ainsmith, a veteran who has toiled with many clubs, may be kept around because of his experience. Florence, a youth from Georgetown University, has a chance if one of the four vets is sent away.

DEMPSEY TO SIGN $1,000,000 MOVIE CONTRACT

New York Mar. 25.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, left today for Los Angeles, where he expects to sign a million-dollar motion picture contract involving the champion's services for the next few months.

Kearns also has under consideration two offers for fights around Labor day, one from James J. Coffroth, California promoter, for a bout with Harry Wills, or the best available contender in the Metropolis area.

The champion's manager intimated he favored acceptance of Rickard's offer, which involves in excess of a half million dollars, but said he would make no definite decision until a conference the end of the week with California interests seeking Dempsey's services.

Kearns will join Dempsey in Los Angeles and expects to remain there indefinitely.

BOSTON TO GIVE UP HOCKEY TEAM

Boston Mar. 25:—Boston will not exercise its franchise in the national Hockey league of Canada next season, the director of the Boston arena announced today after a meeting. Recently Charles F. Adams, a director of the arena company, purchased controlling interest in a franchise of the Canadian professional league.

"It was the sense of the meeting that owing to the financial condition of the company it would not be expedient to try to put on professional hockey at least for the next season," the statement said. "If there is an opportunity to obtain a franchise in the national hockey league for the season following it would be seriously considered."

CLEMONS OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF SEASON

St. Louis, Mar. 25.—Vernon "Tubby" Clemons, star catcher of the St. Louis Nationals probably will be out of the game for the rest of the season, as a result of a dislocated cartilage in his left knee, suffered recently. The backstop was sent home by Manager Rickey and after an examination by Dr. R. Hyland, the Club's physician, was ordered to a hospital. Dr. Hyland added he probably would be there, "for a long time."

With Clemons at the hospital is Jack Wakefield, a Vanderbilt University athlete, who suffered a broken leg at Bradentown while working out with the Cardinals.

PLANS FOR BOUT BETWEEN MORAN AND VINCENTINI OFF

New York, Mar. 25.—Efforts to match Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight, with Pal Moran, of New Orleans, at Madison Square Garden, on May 3, were abandoned today when Moran's manager, Joe Golden, refused to accept terms offered him. As a result, Moran probably will not get into action again until the outdoor season, Golden said.

Vicentini now is on his way back to this country with Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, who has signed for a series of bouts under the direction of Tex Rickard. Vicentini made a favorable showing in several bouts here early in the winter.

ROCKNE SIGNS LONG TERM CONTRACT WITH NOTRE DAME

Southbend Ind. Mar. 25.—Knute Rockne coach at Notre Dame university, for whose services the University of Iowa was negotiating, today signed a contract to remain at Notre Dame for ten years.

Iowa sought Rochne as the successor to Howard Jones, who accepted a five year contract from Trinity college, Durham, N. C., at a reported salary of $10,000 a year.

Rochne's contract with Notre Dame did not expire until next year.

American Bowling Congress

Chicago, Mar. 25.—Eisel and Cohen, of Passaic, N. J., with a score of 1301 took third position and the Sunday-schefferli team, of Passaic with 1295 rolled into sixth place in the doubles of the American Bowling Congress today.

Yale Mermen Beat Columbia

New Haven, Mar. 25.—The Yale swimming team tonight defeated the Columbia team 50 to 12 points. The Eli team took six of the seven events and also finished second in all but one event.

Wesleyan Ball Squad Out

Middletown, Conn., Mar. 25.—The Wesleyan baseball team today went through a light workout under the direction of Coach F. C. Daugherty, preparatory to the first game of the season with Rhode Island state April 12. About 27 candidates reported, many of these letter men. The material, coach Daugherty states, is one of the best showing in years, especially in the pitching staff.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Zane Grey's Heritage of the Desert at the Broadway Today

Desert heat, thunder storms and roadless canyons confronted 200 members of a Paramount motion picture company as they left Flagstaff, Arizona, for Lee's Ferry, Southern Utah.

The caravan faced hardships of the pioneers they imitate to secure authentic locations and local color for Zane Grey's The Heritage of the Desert, which will be the feature at the Broadway theatre today, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Canyon roads obliterated by recent thunder storms were repaired as the party advanced. Motion picture players, road engineers, packers and a tribe of Navajo Indians were included in the train, the trip to location taking a week.

The Heritage of the Desert is a Paramount picture of pioneer life. It is the story of a fight for water rights of the Colorado river. Featured in the production are Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beery and Lloyd Hughes.

Short subjects will include a comedy and news weekly.

Passaic Wins Another.

Passaic, N. J., March 25.—Passaic high school's string of consecutive victories was increased to 146, the former state basketball champions defeating Don Bosco institute, of Ramsay, 50 to 13 and East Rutherford high school, 40 to 16.
